Mr. Heimbold has most recently served as vice president of marketing and development with University Health Services Inc. He previously served as president of Core Communications and Health, a patient education subsidiary of American Medicorp, and president of the U.S. subsidiary of Smith & Nephew, a United Kingdom-based consumer products manufacturer. He was also formerly affiliated with several large advertising agencies in New York City.

Mr. Heimbold will move to the Washington, D.C. area.

Princeton area residents are among 42 students at Mercer County Community College who have been inducted into Phi Theta Kappa, the national honor scholastic fraternity for community and junior colleges.

From Princeton, they are George W. Allen, a computer science major; Caroline G. Anderson, business administration; Susan Cutsogeorge, mathematics; Eva B. Gibson, business administration; Odia R. Glatt, nursing; Kenneth A. Mertz, advertising design; and Jennifer L. Peck, humanities and social science.

Jane G. Kucks of Rocky Hill, a data processing major, Michele L. Van Leeuwen of Pennington, dental assistant, and Carol M. Osterman of Lawrenceville, data processing, also received their certificates of membership in the MCCC chapter of Phi Theta Kappa.

Mike Marchand, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucien S. Marchand of 29 Montadale Drive, was selected as the most improved player on the boys varsity squash team at the Williston Northampton School in Easthampton, Mass., where he is a senior.

Monica M. Walsh of Princeton has been named account executive with The Marcus Group, Inc., a public affairs and public relations counseling firm in Newark.

Ms. Walsh joins the firm after more than a decade of experience in both the administrative and legislative branches of New Jersey State government. Before joining the Marcus Group, she was director of public relations for the New Jersey General Assembly. Prior to that, she had directed the Office of Public Information for the New Jersey State Department of Education and worked as an investigative reporter and feature writer for The Ocean County Times Observer.

Kenneth S. Gould, M.D., of 102 Philip Drive, has been elected president of the New Jersey Psychoanalytic Society. The Society, an affiliate group of the American Psychoanalytic Association, is comprised of physicians who are psychiatrists trained as classical psychoanalysts. All are engaged in private practice and many are on the teaching faculty of New Jersey and New York medical schools.

Dr. Gould is professor of clinical psychiatry at Rutgers Medical School and consultant in psychiatry to Middlesex General-University Hospital. He is chairman of the committee on child psychiatry of the New Jersey Psychiatric Association and a member of Governor Kean's committee on children's sevices planning.

Five Princeton University professors have been named to endowed chairs, and six assistant professors have been appointed to preceptorships.

The appointments to the endowed chairs, effective July 1, are Edward C. Cox, Edwin Grant Conklin Professorship of Biology; Michael N. Danielson, B.C. Forbes Professorship of Public Affairs; Charles L. Fefferman, Herbert E. Jones Jr. '43 University Professorship; James E. Peebles, Albert Einstein Professorship of Science; and Uwe E. Reinhardt, James Madison Professorship of Political Economy.

The young scholars who will hold preceptorships are Gene M. Grossman, the Richard Allen Lester Preceptorship in the Social Sciences; Martha Himmelfarb, the Robert Remsen Laidlaw '04 Preceptorship; Seth Lerer, the Elias Boudinot Bicentennial Preceptorship; Louis Menand, the John E. Annan Bicentennial Preceptorship; Glenn W. Most, the John Witherspoon Bicentennial Preceptorship; and Susan L. Sugarman, the Richard Stockton Bicentennial Preceptorship.

The endowed preceptorships are designed to encourage the development of teaching capacity and scholarship at the assistant professor level. They provide an annual fund for research expenses and a one-year leave of absence, during a three-year tenure, for the furtherance of the incumbent's scholarship.

Patricia M. Dinella, daughter of Mary and Roger Dinella of Terhune Road and a sophomore at Haverford College, was selected as Haverford's female Athlete of the Month for March.

A co-captain of the women's tennis team, she has an 8-1 record as the number one singles player. In October, she finished in first place in the Philadelphia A.I.A.W. Division III tennis tournament with an undefeated record. In 1983 she was the third place finisher in the Eastern A.I.A.W. Division III tourney, and was the Most Valuable Player and co-captain of the women's team.

Miss Dinella, an English major, recently received the Archibald MacIntosh Award given by a college alumni service society as the outstanding student-athlete in the freshman class during the 1982-83 school year. She is a graduate of Princeton High School, where she was a first team All-New Jersey Group II selection in girls tennis.

Alvin Schwartz, 505 Prospect Avenue, has had his fourth "I Can Read" book for early readers published by Harper Junior Books, a division of Harper & Row. It is called In a Dark, Dark Room and Other Scary Stories."

Mr. Schwarz has compiled many books on folklore for young people. This is a collection of seven funny-scary tales that are illustrated by Dick Zimmer in eerie-funny color.

Sue Danielson of Toth Lane, Rocky Hill, has been awarded her fourth varsity swim letter at Brown University for her performance with the 1983-84 team. She finished with one first place finish and two seconds for 11.00 points.

Miss Danielson completed her career at Brown with 68.50 points. One of the highlights of this year's season was her performance at the Eastern Championships where she swam the third leg for the victorious 200 freestyle relay team which set a new record. Her performance earned her first team All-Ivy honors.

Miss Danielson is the daughter of Lenore Danielson and a graduate of Peddie School where she won three letters in track and two in swimming. She was captain of the squad her senior year and twice High School All-American.

Four area residents have been awarded $1000 National Merit Scholarships.

The release of their names is the second of three announcements from the National Merit Scholarship Program which administers college scholarships in several different categories. A previous announcement listed recipients of four-year corporate sponsored awards; still to come is the listing of four-year college-sponsored scholarships.

The single-payment $1000 awards are also sponsored by corporations. Area recipients Sarah Bolton, 96 Moore Street and Aileen D. Tsui, 14 Forester Drive, both seniors at Princeton High School; Son-Lok Leung, 286 North Post Road, Princeton Junction, West Windsor-Plainsboro High School and Mary S. McPeek, 177 East Delaware Avenue, Pennington, Hopewell Valley Central High School.

Dr. and Mrs. Preston Tuttle of Stanworth Lane have donated a collection of materials related to the American philosopher Charles S. Peirce (pronounced "purse") and the house in which he did much of his scientific writing and book reviewing to Texas Tech University in Lubbock, Tex.

Dr. Tuttle, a former Princeton University theater professor, and his wife Helen, a Princeton University librarian, have had a longtime interest in Peirce and had attempted to get the Peirce home in Milford, Pa., established as a museum.

Born in 1839, Peirce is regarded as an original and versatile American thinker. He is honored by philosophers as founder of pragmatism, by logicians for his role in developing symbolic logic, mathematicians for his work in algebra, psychologists for his advances in perception theory, and linguists for his part in founding semiotics, the theory of signs.

William M. Spackman, 1016 Mercer Road, novelist and essayist, has received the $5,000 Harold D. Vursell Memorial Award. The award is one of eight special awards given by the American Academy and Institute of Arts and Letters at the same time that it named writers for work of distinction in each of eight categories.

The Vursell Award singles out recent writing in book form that "merits recognition for the quality of its prose style." A Difference of Design is Mr. Spackman's latest novel.

Several Princeton residents are among the 283 scholars, artists and scientists who have received Guggenheim fellowships for the coming year.

The recipients and the projects they will pursue are Dr. Sarah C. Brett-Smith, art historian, Princeton University, Bamana sculpture in West Africa and shifts in male gender identity; Dr. Alicia Ostriker, poet, professor of English, Rutgers University, poetry; Dr. Steven Shankman, assistant professor of English, Princeton University and visiting associate professor of English and comparative literature at Columbia University, the role of Pindar in English poetry through the 18th century;

Also, Dr. Elias M. Stein, Albert Baldwin Dod Professor of Mathematics, Princeton University, studies in mathematical analysis; Dr. John Terborgh, professor of biology, Princeton University, the ecology of North American migrant birds in the tropics; and Dr. Froma I. Zeitlin, professor of classics, Princeton University, the role of Thebes in Athenian drama.

A congregational meeting will be held after the worship service Sunday, May 6, at which recommendations will be made on the allocation of funds.

Some of the suggested projects are Interim House, Planned Parenthood, Princeton Community Housing, Thresholds of New Jersey, Princeton Resource Center, Department of Religious Ministries at Princeton Medical Center, Trenton Soup Kitchen, Community Crisis Ministry and Coalition for Nuclear Disarmment

TALK IS SCHEDULED

On Israeli Politics. The Central Jersey Chapter of New Jewish Agenda will present a talk by Ze'ev Sternhell, an Israeli political scientist, on Thursday, May 2, at 8 at the home of Claire and Daniel Fishman, 56 Marion Road East.

The talk will be on "Israeli Politics and the Prospects for Peace in the Middle East." It is open to the public without charge.

Dr. Sternhell is a professor of political science at Hebrew University where he is director of both the Centre for the Study of French Civilization and the Centre of European Studies. He is also a member of the executive council of the Israeli Labor Party and a leading figure in the Israeli peace movement. During the present year he is a member and visiting scholar at the Institute for Advanced Study.

New Jewish Agenda is a national organization of Jews who consider themselves to be politically "progressive." As described in a press release, members come from a variety of religious and secular backgrounds but are united in their commitment to Jewish "peoplehood" and to fostering a progressive voice within the Jewish community, American society, and among Jews in Israel and throughout the world.

Further information may be obtained from the co-chair of the Central New Jersey chapter, Paul Lehrer, (201) 297-5173, or by writing Agenda, PO Box 713, Franklin Park, 08823.

MISSION CONFERENCE

At Westerly Road Church. Westerly Road Church will hold its 15th annual Missionary Conference this week. The conference will begin with informal covered dish supper meetings in four homes and at the church. Missionaries will be at each location.

On Friday evening, a film, "Come By Here" on Missionary work in Papua, New Guinea, will be shown after a message by Tom Smoak, a pilot with JAARS in Columbia, South America, for 17 years.

Other speakers in the conference which ends Sunday will be Cliff Floyd of TransWorld Radio; Sam and Florence Goertz, who spent many years in Nigeria and Ghana with the Sudan Interior Mission; Roger and Gwen Stuber, with Regions Wings, the air arm of Regions Beyond Missionary Union; Tony and April D'Amico, serving in Italy with UFM; Howard Claycombe, Lynn Costa and John Kennedy, all with North Africa Mission.

For more information, call the church at 924-3816. All are invited to attend any of the meetings and talk with the missionaries.

NEW ASSOCIATE NAMED

By Nassau Church. Nassau Presbyterian Church has called Stephen Williams to be associate minister for Christian education.

Mr. Williams, who grew up in New Jersey, graduated from Yale in 1977 and from Princeton Theological Seminary in 1980. After receiving his M.Div. degree, he served as assistant minister of the Claremont Presbyterian Church in Claremont, Calif., where he was responsible for education ministry and was promoted to associate minister. He was active in the San Gabriel Presbytery as chairman of the Peace Concerns Task Force and member of the church and society committee.

He was chair of a legislative action group for the Synod of Southern California and Hawaii and a member of the Synod's criminal justice task force.

He will begin his work at Nassau Church on May 14 and will be joined later by his wife, Claire, who expects to graduate from Claremont School of Theology in June with an M.Div. degree.

HUNGER RUN SET

By Seminary. The third annual Princeton World Hunger Run, sponsored by Princeton Theological Seminary, will be held on Saturday. Proceeds raised will be used to support world hunger relief through Oxfam America World Famine Relief.

The 10 kilometer (6.2 mile) run will begin at 9 on the quadrangle of the Princeton Seminary campus at the corner of Mercer and Alexander Streets. Prior to the start of the race a one-mile fitness run will be held at 8:45 a.m. Registration for the 10K run is $6 until race day and $7 on April 28. The fee includes a T-shirt.

Over $2,000 was raised for Oxfam by last year's run. Oxfam is a non-profit international development agency which funds self-help hunger relief programs in Asia, Africa, and Latin America. It works with grass roots local community organizations such as farmers unions and village councils.

Recent grants have been made to develop child care in Nicaragua, rice cultivation in Cambodia and a self-help poultry raising association for rural women in India.

For race registration and information, write to Princeton World Hunger Run, Princeton Theological Seminary, CN 821, Princeton 08542 or call 921-8300.

CLERGY TO SPEAK

At Jewish Center. The Adult Education Committee of the Jewish Center will present a series of lectures entitled "From Another Point of View," by four Christian clergy. The series will take place on Thursday evenings, May 3, 10, 17 and 24 at 8 in the main synagogue building.

The speakers will be the Rev. Richard A. Bower, associate rector of Trinity Church, who will speak on "Christianity, Journey and Meal: Some Ways of Looking at the Christian Faith." The Rev. Louise Kingston, director of Religious Ministries, Princeton Medical Center, will speak on "Don't Just Do Something — Stand There."

Father Evasio De Marcellis, pastor, St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, will speak on "Christian Worship and Its Jewish Roots." Cynthia Ann Jarvis, associate pastor, Nassau Presbyterian Church, will speak on "Male-Female: God Created Them."

FELLOWSHIP LUNCH SET

By Church Women United. Church Women United will hold their May Fellowship Day on Thursday, May 4, at noon at All Saints' Church.

The event will have a Latin flavor and will celebrate Hispanic heritage and customs. The theme, written by Spanish-speaking women connected with Church Women United is entitled, "La Familia: Un Retrato Campiante," or "The Family: A Portrait of Change."

The program, arranged by Mary C. Schuller, will feature a catered luncheon at $4 per ticket. After lunch, the Rev. and Mrs. Raoul Mattei of St. Michael's Church in Trenton will enlarge on the theme of the family: a portrait of change. Pam Deveaux will be soloist, accompanied by Sarah Harris.

The offering will be used to

BULLETIN NOTES

The United Methodist Women of the United Methodist Church in Cranbury will hold their 14th annual Antiques Show and Sale Saturday from 10 to 4 at the church, 21 North Main Street, Cranbury.

Some 20 dealers will have displays of antiques and collectibles, including furniture, jewelry, silver, glass, pewter and woodenware. There will also be a wide selection of handmade gift items and seasonal decorations. Bake tables will offer an array of homemade pies, cakes, breads and other items.

There will be flowers, hanging baskets and garden plants for sale. The restaurant corner will sell a selection of breakfast and luncheon items, such as barbecue beef, clam chowder and quiche. Admission is $1.50.

The Teen Choir of the Princeton United Methodist Church will present the cantata, "Christ the Lamb," by Earl L. Cunningham on Sunday during the 11 a.m. worship service.

The Cantata, composed in 1968, portrays the passion and resurrection of Jesus Christ. It will be conducted by Yvonne E. Macdonald, director of Youth Choirs, and accompanied by Sandra D. Deiter, Organist. The service will also include two recent organ works by Mr. Cunningham. "Seven Brief Meditations for Lent" and "Quiet Piece," both played by Miss Deiter.

Mr. Cunningham is director of music at Princeton United Methodist Church.

The Hopewell Council of Churches is sponsoring a CROP Walk Sunday at 1:30. The Walk will begin at the Princeton Bank and Trust in Hopewell and proceed to Highfield, the home made famous by the Lindburg kidnapping in 1932. Proceeds will go towards a well-digging project in Senegal, with 25 percent earmarked for the Hopewell Food Pantry.

Area residents are invited to see an historic site and help "stomp on hunger". For more information or to sponsor a CROP walker call 466-1141.

Rabbi Melvin J. Glatt of the Jewish Center will preach at Trinity Episcopal Church this Sunday at the 11:15 a.m. service. His sermon topic will be "The Return of 'The Lion,'" taken from Psalm 27:4-10.

Rabbi Glatt will also speak at the Adult Forum at 10:15, where his topic will be Jewish Mysticism. He will describe the major concepts of Jewish mysticism, the God-human relationship from the perspective of "Kaballah," and the role that some Jewish mystics have played in the development of liturgy, synagogue and home practices.

The National Council of Jewish Women, will hold an open meeting Thursday, April 26, at 7:45 at Congregation Beth Chaim on Village Road in West Windsor.

NCJW, said to be the oldest major Jewish women's organizaiton in the United States, has formed a Section in this area. There are currently 100,000 women in 200 NCJW Sections across the country. The organization strives to improve the quality of life for children and youth, the aging for women through services and programs in their own communities.

All who are interested in learning about the organization and hearing a round-table discussion on "The Separation of Church and State," focusing on prayer in the schools, are welcome.

For further information call the NCJW Mercer Section at 448-0240 or Ellen Botwin at 924-3800.

Trinity Episcopal Church, Rocky Hill, will hold its annual Spring Smorgasbord Supper on Saturday, May 5, from 4:30 to 7:30 at the church on Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill.

Tickets may be obtained or reserved by calling Cordell Reinhardt at (202) 297-5938 evenings. Tickets are $6 for adults, and $3 for children.

Dr. Wallace Alston, senior minister of Nassau Presbyterian Church, will be honored Sunday at the coffee hour following the 10 a.m. worship service. The occasion marks the 10th anniversary of Dr. Alston's ministry at Nassau Church.

Dr. William Engler, professor at Mercer County Community College, will be guest speaker at the meeting of the Drop-In Group at the Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street, on Monday at 1 in the Bet Am Library.

Dr. Engler will review the book, "An Orphan in History" by Paul Cowan. Refreshments and a social time will begin at 12:30 p.m. Non-members are invited.

Friends may call this Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 9 at the funeral home. Recitation of the rosary by the Altar-Rosary Society will be at 8 p.m. and the Columbia-ettes at 8:15 Wednesday.

William C. Cranstoun, 63, of Route 518, Hopewell, died April 23 at his home following a long illness.

Born in Lawrenceville, Mr. Cranstoun was a lifelong area resident. He was director of the Division of Plant Industry of the New Jersey Department of Agriculture at his retirement in 1981.

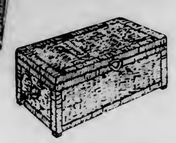
He joined the Department of Agriculture in 1946 as a seed inspector and rose to the rank of director in 1969. He was recognized as a leader in the field of integrated pest management and was founder and chairman of the National Gypsy Moth Council.

A 1943 graduate of Rutgers University, he was an Army Air Force veteran of World War II. Mr. Cranstoun was the recipient of numerous service awards, including the Superior Service Award from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. He was a member of the National Advisory Council; the Association of Official Seed Certifying Agencies; the American Society of Agronomy; and the N.J. Agricultural Society.

He was past president of the Hopewell Borough Board of Education and an elder at the Hopewell Presbyterian Church. He was active in Cub and Boy Scouts organizations and was a member of the Hopewell Valley Golf Club where he served on the Greens Committee for many years.

Son of the late Robert E. and Caroline A. Cranstoun, he is survived by his wife, Elizabeth K. Cranstoun; a daughter, Sarah C. Van Gulick of Hopewell; a son, Peter W. Cranstoun of Ewing; and five grandchildren.

The funeral and burial were private. A memorial service will be held this Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Hopewell Presbyterian Church, West Broad Street, Hopewell. The Rev. Robert Beringer and the Rev. Burton Parry will co-officiate.



Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 88 Lakedale Drive, Trenton 08648, or to the Hopewell Presbyterian Church, West Broad Street, Hopewell 08525.

MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE MLS

CHERRYBROOK ROAD

Just north of Princeton and with a Princeton address, this loop road has the seclusion of a cul-de-sac with the advantage of two outlets. Adjoining a horse farm and with a barn of its own, this attractive Colonial has much to offer a growing family. Hall, living room, dining room, laundry, lavatory, eat-in kitchen opening to large redwood deck and family room with fireplace on first floor. Five bedrooms and two baths on second. Basement. Two car garage. $185,000

TARQUIN FARMS

Magnificent estate in renowned hunt country just 14 miles from Princeton. This handsome 15 room stone Colonial is richly appointed with beautiful panelling, detailed woodwork, massive stone hearths, random width floors and high beamed ceilings. Two guest apartments and greenhouse. Beautiful rolling acres include pasture, woodland and residential lawns with pond. Call for details

CONSTITUTION HILL

Luxury condominium in Constitution Hill, on a well situated site with terraces and view of the pool. The house contains a gracious entrance hall with white quarry tile, separate study with built-in bookcases, large living/dining room, master bedroom and bath on first floor. Upstairs are two bedrooms, each with built-in vanity and basin in addition to large hall bath. $335,000

MARKHAM SQUARE

An address which means townhouses of brick construction, interesting contemporary design and a convenient location. This one is of special interest since it is one of two attached houses and so has the advantages of an end unit. Overlooking the historic McCosh house and its own walled courtyard, the light bright rooms include: living room with fireplace, dining room, modern kitchen, den opening to deck, three bedrooms, two baths. Basement and garage. $245,000

ROLLING HILL ROAD

A special house on a special road and at a special price! The rolling countryside and the nearby Bedens Brook Club are two of the attractions of this unusual contemporary. The important third attraction is that it is priced well below its handsome neighbors. With three plus acres of Greenacres behind it, it offers: gracious living areas with two fireplaces, four bedrooms and three baths. $325,000

ELM RIDGE PARK

Just west of Princeton - this group of attractive houses in nearby Hopewell Township has become one of the area's most desirable locations. Large lots and a picturesque lake add to the appeal. Two fine new colonials are under construction by one of our most respected builders and will be ready for Fall occupancy. Call for details while some modifications and selections can be made. Prices on request

RAINBOW HILL

John Garrison carefully built his home from local stone in 1740 locating it on a hillside with long vistas of the Amwell Valley, facing the Sourland Mountains, and the sun, to the south. "New" frame additions were made in 1790 and 1819, and today everything is still much as it was. The six fireplaces (two walk-in and three with Adams mantles), wainscoating, chairrails, wide pine floors, and surrounding countryside. There have been a few modern improvements such as three baths, a multi-fuel boiler, insulation, and roads that take you to Princeton in less than thirty minutes. The rooms are large and gracious with a front-to-back center hall, living room, dining room, kitchen, family room, and apartment with a separate entrance on the first floor, and four bedrooms, including a study or nursery and a laundry room in the master suite, on the second floor. The six acre parcel is further enhanced by a five stall stable built on the old barn foundation, whiteboard fencing, shade trees, gardens, lawns and pastures. It is a very special property and we are pleased to offer it for $318,500

RIVERSIDE

For the free and easy life, this one of a kind ranch house on quiet, tree shaded Mason Drive, is the answer. The open spacious floor plan includes an entry hall, large square living room 19 x 19 with fireplace, private study, kitchen with adjoining dining room with fireplace, light spacious family room 15 x 23 with fireplace, three bedrooms, two baths. Plus a lower level for more bedrooms, apartment, or what have you, consisting of sitting room, bedroom, bath, and small kitchen. Beautiful secluded flagstone patio overlooking lovely grounds. $295,000

Designed by the award-winning architectural firm of Chapman and Biber, these plans must be seen to understand how smart they really are/how smart you'll be to live in one!

Energy-efficiency is smart, too, and SUNRISE...East of Princeton homes are very smart. Like classic sculptures, each of the four distinctive models can be positioned differently on its own lot to make maximum use of southern exposures for solar-assisted energy savings. Each incorporates as standard features such items as electronic ignition furnaces and super insulation in walls, ceilings and floors. Each home is so smartly designed and tightly built that heating and cooling costs are reduced considerably.

Richard Dickson, President of Dickson Development Corporation, brings his years of experience both as a developer and builder of fine homes, to this imaginative project. Creator of RIVERSIDE TOWNHOUSES, RICHARD COURT in Princeton and the prestigious PROVINCE HILL, Mr. Dickson offers SUNRISE...East of Princeton to people seeking the ultimate in contemporary construction blended with the very latest in energy-saving technology. SUNRISE...East of Princeton is located in the heart of Central New Jersey, a few miles from Princeton with excellent commuting to New York and Philadelphia, the Jersey Shore and employment centers ... the magic of Princeton itself, are all yours at SUNRISE...East of Princeton. Children can walk to the excellent West Windsor schools.

No need to wait ... you can buy a piece of the future now! The Henderson staff will soon have an office on the site; construction is beginning this very week. But in the meantime, plans and prices are available at the Henderson Windsor office on the Princeton-Hightstown Road (426-0001). Ask for Mary Bruce Hikes, the project sales manager. She's smart, too.

A Proposal Is Offered to End "The Moran Avenue Shuffle;" One Man's Plan to Modify Borough's Overnight Parking Ban

Virtually every morning and every night, five or six days a week, every week of the year, a number of Moran Avenue residents in Princeton do something marginally obscene, totally disgusting, and certainly lacking in most – if not all — socially redeeming values.

The act they perform is legal. Indeed, the failure to perform it almost always results in swift and immediate legal reprisals. Moran Avenue residents are not the only ones who perform this particular activity. They are joined by other residents on a handful of small and densely populated streets in the Borough.

What they do is the Moran Avenue Shuffle.

THE SIGN SAYS IT ALL: Posted on all streets leading into the Borough and other locations, signs such as this notify motorists of an overnight parking restriction that has been on the books for 55 years. It's time for a change at least one Borough resident asserts.

Let me explain the Moran Avenue Shuffle. It begins under the cover of darkness, often in the bitter cold, when those residents not fortunate enough to have a parking place (not even a driveway) attached to their house start up their cars and move their vehicles to some off-street parking location for the night. For many Moran residents that has been the parking lot behind 230 Nassau Street, at the top of the street. For $10 a month these unfortunates have been able to park their cars and escape the nightly $5 fines that otherwise would be imposed.

In the morning the Shuffle continues. Some simply drive off to work. Others park in the street prior to moving again. A few move their cars onto the street and leave them there all day, not touching them until it is time to move the hundred feet or so back into the overnight sanctuary. Once in a while, of course, someone fails to move a car either in the morning or the night. That person then suffers from the Moran Avenue Shuffle Blues.

A Tougher Shuffle. Next week the Moran Avenue Shuffle will pick up its tempo. The first floor of 230 Nassau Street has been rented to a real estate firm which understandably does not want to have to compete with the Moran Avenue Shufflers for parking space. That lot will no longer be available for residents and so they will scout for different locations.

Some will try to sneak into the few remaining overnight spaces in the neigborhood. Others might try another ploy — carve up a few precious feet of open space and create an unsightly and illegal parking space in front of their house. A few will pay the Borough $5 a month to be able to park overnight — but not during the day — at the lot behind the Bellows building one block away. They will do the Moran Avenue Shuffle from that location. No one will pay to park at the Borough's only 24-hour parking lots, at Maclean Street and Harrison Street North — highly inconvenient locations for Moran Avenue.

Some will just give up and say it's time to move on.

For years I did the Moran Avenue Shuffle. Then I found a house on Park Place, appropriately enough, which had two spots for cars. I never looked back at Moran Avenue. But most people aren't that lucky. That's why I offer this modest proposal.

First, I do not advocate the abolition of the all-night parking ban in Princeton Borough. I am willing to concede that such a ban could result in the streets becoming clogged with abandoned cars, never being cleaned, never being clear for those people who live or work on the street.

Permits Only. What I propose would require only a slight change in wording to the signs already posted on the roads leading to the Borough: "Overnight parking prohibited between 2 a.m. and 6

BALLET TO GAIN

From Film on The Kirov. Armand Hammer's 1983 film, "Backstage at the Kirov," will be presented in an exclusive area showing at the Montgomery Theatre, Montgomery Shopping Center, Rocky Hill, April 27 - May 3, and the Princeton Ballet will benefit.

For each $4 movie ticket sold at the studios of the Princeton Ballet, the Princeton Ballet Society will receive $1. Tickets purchased at the Princeton Ballet will be good for any of the regularly scheduled showings of the film; no seats will be reserved. The Princeton Ballet will only benefit from tickets sold at the studios or by representatives of the ballet organization.

"Backstage at the Kirov" provides a unique look at ballet behind the scenes in the Soviet Union today. It focuses on the corps de ballet and its preparations for a performance of "Swan Lake" seen from the point of view of the dancers.

Armand Hammer Productions was the fist Western film crew allowed to observe the inner workings of the Kirov Theater, staying on location for six weeks.

The Kirov Theater also agreed to close its doors to the public for four days so that the filming of the second act of "Swan Lake" could be completed on its main stage.

Tickets will be on sale at the Princeton and New Brunswick Studios of the Princeton Ballet Society weekdays, 10-5. Call 921-8747 or 201-249-1112 for ticket information.

TOMFOOLERY AND FIRE

Comic Trio to Appear. McCarter Theatre will present the Princeton premiere of "Foolsfire" for a single performance on Friday, May 4, at 8 p.m. "Foolsfire" features three comic performers, Bob Berky, Fred Garbo and Michael Moschen, in a repertory that ranges from circus tomfoolery to twirling with fire. The trio are clowns, mimes, jugglers, and dancers, often at the same time.

Mr. Berky is the contemporary equivalent of a top banana burlesque clown. Mr. Garbo is a solo sketch artist, who first appears learning how to ride a unicycle with the aid of a manual. Mr. Moschen, a juggler of world renown, is one of the founders of New York's Big Apple Circus.

The New York Times critic Mel Gussow reviewed the play and called it "an evening of hilarity.... With no scenery, a few props, the trio soars through its program with foolproof virtuosity." The play won a 1983 Obie Award — the "Tony" awards of Off-Broadway theaters.

'CAN'T HEAR ...'

"If Water's Running," "An adult comedy," is the way Pennington Players is billing their production of Robert Anderson's "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," due at The Playbarn on West Franklin Avenue April 27-28 and May 4-5 at 8, with a matinee April 29 and May 6 at 3.

The Players say that Anderson "makes us relax and laugh at the shock of recognizing ourselves caught in the full glare of the dramatic spotlight."

'SHOWBOAT PARTY'

At Aparri. The dance studio at Aparri School of Dance becomes a showboat and the children are entertainers in "Showboat Party," Aparri's children's dance recital to be given Friday, May 4 at 6 p.m. in the studios at 217 Nassau. Invitations for reserved seats may be obtained by calling 924-1822.

The recorded voice of Paul Robeson singing "Old Man River" will be used and calliope music from the Alexander Clark collection. Children will dance "Scrub the Deck," "Ballet Polka," "Old Man River" and "Grand March," choreographed by Suzanne Baran.

THE BARD OF SUMMER

Shakespeare Studies. "A Shakespeare Summer '84," a four-week program for teenagers including acting and voice workshops, production experience, classes in verse and a full Shakespearean production outdoors, will be offered for the third summer by McCarter Theatre's Center for the Performing Arts.

The program begins June 25 and runs through July 20, culminating in performances on July 21 and 22 at Battlefield Park in Princeton. Veronica Brady will direct the project. McCarter actress Penelope Reed will serve as the acting coach and Nagle Jackson, artistic director of McCarter, will offer special instruction in Shakespearean verse.

Twenty-five young people between 13 and 18 years old will be admitted to the program for a fee of $250. Some scholarships are available and will be granted on the basis of financial need.

Auditions and interviews for the program will be held May 22, 23 and 24 from 4 to 7 p.m. No one will be seen without an appointment and no prepared piece is necessary for the audition. Anyone with music talent is also encouraged to audition.

For more information or to make an appointment to audition, please call the McCarter Theatre outreach office at 452-6619, between 10 and 6 Monday through Friday.

REP COMPANY CASTING

FILM & FILM MAKER

Documentary at Kresge. Werner Herzog's "Fitzcarraldo," and Les Blank's documentary "Burden of Dreams," which deals with the making of Herzog's epic spectacle, will be the double-feature attraction at Kresge Auditorium next Monday through Wednesday evenings. "Burden of Dreams" will be shown at 7 p.m. followed by "Fitzcarraldo" at 8:45.

Like his earlier film, "Aguirre," "Fitzcarraldo" is a tale of obsession in the jungle from the West German director. Klaus Kinski plays an opera-crazed Irishman who dreams of building an opera house in the upper Amazon so he can import Caruso to sing to the Indians. To finance his dream, he sets out to make a fortune by developing a rubber plantation on inaccessible land in the jungle, a barrier he plans to overcome by hauling a large river steamer over a mountain in one piece, and re-launching it on the other side. This sequence is the spectacular focus of "Fitzcarraldo," as the boat is slowly inched up and over the mountain by hundreds of Indians, and then slides into the water. In his project, Fitzcarraldo has the loving support of Claudia Cardinale, the madam of the most popular brothel in the town of Iquitos, who finances his mad scheme.

Herzog's five-year struggle to complete this film, as detailed in Les Bland's "Burden of Dreams," is an epic almost as fascinating as the finished movie itself. Blank's film is a chilling chronicle of an obsession that borders on lunacy. He and his co-director Maureen Gosling made several expeditions into the jungle to film Herzog at work. And as disaster after disaster befell "Fitzcarraldo," their documentary grew into a controversial record of an almost maniacal filmmaker and his battle to

MUSIC

QUARTET TO PLAY

In Chamber Series. The Chamber Masterworks series of the Princeton University Concerts will present The American String Quartet on Monday, April 30, at 8 p.m. at McCarter Theatre, the program will include works by Mozart, Janacek and Beethoven.

Founded at the Juilliard School in 1974, the American String Quartet won two awards in chamber music in its first year: the Coleman Chamber Music Competition and the Naumburg Chamber Music Award. At its New York debut in 1975, the quartet was praised as one of the most exciting young instrumental ensembles to come before the public in many years.

For its program here, the Quartet will play Mozart, Quartet in A Major, K. 464; Janacek, Quartet No. 1 ("Kreutzer Sonata") and Beethoven, Quartet in C Major, Opus 59, No. 3.

Tickets are available at the McCarter Theatre Box Office, open from noon until 6 p.m., telephone 452-5200. Student "rush" tickets will be sold on the day of the concert.

ILLUSIONIST: Neil Madsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar B. Madsen of 23 Laurel Road, will give a performance of Gospel music and magic at the Westerly Road Church Mother-Daughter Banquet on Friday, May 11, at 6:30. Using live doves and rabbit, and playing his trombone, Neil will illustrate Bible stories and perform Christian music from his debut stereo album, "Neil Madsen: Trombone." Tickets are $5 for adults and $2.50 for children age 5 and under and are available by phoning 924-3816 or 924-0102 by Sunday.

OPERA BENEFIT SET

By Choir College. Two French operas will be featured at the 1984 Westminster Benefit on Saturday, May 5 in the Playhouse at Westminster Choir College.

Ravel's "L'enfant et les sortileges" and Poulenc's "Les mamelles de Tiresias" will be sung in English and performed fully staged by the Westminster Opera Theatre. Invitations to the benefit performance and champagne reception with the opera company have been mailed to hundreds of area residents; more are available through the Westminster Foundation.

The Westminster Opera Theatre presents an opera production each spring under the direction of Glenn Parker. The opening night benefit performance will be followed by three more public performances on May 10, 11, and 13 at 8:30 p.m. in the Playhouse with general admission seating available at $5. Tickets for the regular performances will be available at the Westminster Bookstore and at the door.

"L'enfant et les sortileges" by Maurice Ravel was first performed in Monte Carlo in 1925. Described as a "fantasie lyrique," this impressionist opera is based on a fairy tale by Colette. "Les mamelles de Tiresias" by Poulenc premiered at Opera-Comique in Paris in 1947. Using text by Apollinaire, this is a comic opera that also makes a social statement.

Both operas will be performed by undergraduate and graduate students. For information call 921-3202.

SPRING CONCERT SET

At Hun School. The Hun School will present a spring concert on Sunday at 7 p.m. in Saks Auditorium.

Three vocal groups, the sixth grade, the middle school chorus and the upper school chorus, under the direction of Priscilla Treadwell, will offer a selection of Broadway songs and popular music.

Instrumental selections, under the direction of Bruce Dersch, will include a sixth grade rendition on recorders of "South American Suite," arranged by Mr. Dersch, and four works by the instrumental ensemble.

The concert is open to the public and free of charge.

RECITAL PLANNED

By Soprano. Soprano Michelle Disco with pianist Jeffrey Farrington will give a concert Sunday at 3 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, admission is free.

Ms. Disco's program will include works by Martino, Sessions, Kim, Berg and Ives.

A graduate of the Eastman School of Music and the New England Conservatory, Ms. Disco appeared as soloist with the Conservatory's Contemporary Ensemble, Chamber Singers and Chorus. Currently a resident of Princeton, she is pursuing a performing career that covers a wide spectrum of periods and styles, including the premiere performances of pieces written especially for her.

She has recently been soloist with the Baltimore Consort, Princeton's Musica Alta and the Black Squirrel Baroque Ensemble, with whom she performed J.S. Bach's "Jauchzet Gott."

Thomas Purviance

LISZT PROGRAM SET

By Choir College Pianist. The Westminster Conservatory Faculty Recital Series will continue this weekend with pianist Thomas Purviance in an all-Liszt recital.

The performance, which is open to the public free of charge, will take place Sunday at 4:30 in Bristol Chapel on the Choir College campus. The program will include Liszt's Sonata in B minor and the Hungarian Rhapsody No. 12.

Mr. Purviance has been involved exclusively with the works of Franz Liszt for the past year. In October he presented a series of Liszt recitals with soprano Sharon Alexander, which culminated in a performance for the American Liszt Society's 1983 Festival in Atlanta, Ga. Sunday's performance will be the first of several Liszt recitals leading to Mr. Purviance's second European recital tour and participation in the all-Liszt competition in Parma, Italy, in late September.

For more information call the Conservatory office at 921-7104 or 924-6359.

MUSIC OF TELEMANN

In Concert. The Princeton University Chapel Music Department will present a concert by the Trio Francesca Caccini on Saturday evening, April 28, at 8 in the Princeton University Chapel. Admission is free, and the public is invited.

The program, "Ten Years of Telemann," will feature works published by Georg Philipp Telemann between 1725 and 1735. Included are two unaccompanied duos, one for two recorders and the other for recorder and pardessus de viole; a trio sonata in the style of Corelli; and two quartets, one for two recorders and two bass viols, the other for recorder, oboe, pardessus de viole, and bass viol. Telemann's sacred side will be represented by the cantata "Schmeckt und sehet unsers Gottes Freundlichkeit," scored for soprano, obbligato oboe, and basso continuo.

MONTEVERDI WORK SET

For Concert at Trinity. The 17th annual spring and memorial concert of the Trinity-All Saints' series will be performed Sunday, May 6, at 8 in Trinity Church, Mercer Street.

The program will consist of the Preludio Al Vespro DiMonteverdi by Sir Michael Tippett who wrote this preludio to precede a performance of the Monteverdi's Vespers of 1610.

Following the Preludio, nine parts of the Vespers of 1610 will be sung by the choirs of Men, Boys and Girls, and Senior Girls of Trinity Church. The orchestra will be under the direction of Joseph Kovacs with John Bertalot and Irene Willis conducting the choirs. The main organ will be played by Christopher Brunt and the continuo organ by Christopher Titko.

Harpsichord accompaniment will be by Irene Willis and Christopher Brunt. Soloists for the evening performance are Taina Urrey and Michelle Disco, sopranos; Stephen Carraciolo, counter tenor; Frederic Urrey and Thomas Feracco, tenors; Rand Hix and Larry Speakman, basses.

Tickets are $5 and may be purchased from either church or at the door. For further information call 924-2277.

OPERA SUNDAY

At War Memorial. Rossini's "The Barber of Seville," will be presented by the Trenton Civic Opera Company in the War Memorial Auditorium on Sunday at 5.

The plot concerns a young girl, Rosina, whose guardian, Dr. Bartolo, employs a housekeeper, Berta, and an eccentric music master, Don Basilio. The barber, Figaro, tries with many disguises to get his friend, the Count, into Dr. Bartolo's house to see and woo Rosina. Add to this a motley group of musicians who help the count serenade his lady love and a troop of slightly tipsy guards.

Tickets are $5, $7.50, $10, and $12.50 and may be obtained by calling 392-2433. Children will be admitted for half-price.

Following the opera will be a drawing for several prizes. There will also be a dinner party with entertainment at the Capitol Plaza Hotel for which reservations must be made in advance.

WINNER ANNOUNCED

Of Orchestra Competition. Pianist Bonnie Huang of Lawrenceville has won the 1983-84 Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra soloist competition.

She will perform Liszt's "Hungarian Fantasy" with the orchestra at its Spring Concert scheduled for May 20 at 2 p.m. in the Kirby Arts Center at the Lawrenceville School. The program will also include Dvorak, "Carneval Overture," Sibelius, "The Swan of Tuonela," and Tchaikovsky Symphony No. 4. Admission is free.

ASSOCIATES ARE FORMED

To Support Choir College. Westminster Choir College has announced the formation of the Westminster Choir College Associates--a group interested in supporting and promoting the College.

Mrs. John Cullen is serving as president pro-tem of the committee, which invites the Princeton community to become members of the Association. Those who become founding and charter members in 1984 will be listed permanently in the by-laws/constitution and on the letterhead of the Association.

Westminster President Ray Robinson and Assistant to the President Natalee K. Rosenthal, are assisting Mrs. Cullen and her committee. Invitations to join the Associates have been sent to more than 2,000 area residents.

TO HELP IN WESTMINSTER FUND RAISING: Mrs. John Cullen, right, has agree to head the newly formed Westminster Associates which will enlist support for Westminster Choir College and spread the word about Choir College activities and successes. Assisting her in this role will be Ray Robinson, president of the Choir College, and Natalee K. Rosenthal, assistant to the president.

CHILDREN ARE FOCUS

Of Musical on Peace. Peace Child, a musical play about an American boy and a Soviet girl whose friendship leads to peace, will be performed Sunday at 5 at the Nassau Presbyterian Church. The performance was previously announced as taking place at the Lawrence High School, but the location has been changed.

Peace Child is based on a book by Bernard Berenson that has been made into a play by British playwright David Woollcombe, who will direct the performance. It will be presented by the Peace Child Players Company of Washington, D.C., joined by some 40 area children who will provide the chorus. The youngsters, who are from area schools and church choirs, have been rehearsing for several weeks.

Children are the stars of the show, in its concept and presentation, Mr. Woollcombe says. The play's hopeful message is an empowering one, designed to help children and their families address the nuclear threat.

Peace Child had its premiere at the Royal Albert Hall in London and was first performed in this country at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C. in December 1982. It is now on a coast-to-coast tour. Mr. Woollcombe hopes to use the financial and public support from the tour to create a Soviet sister company to perform Peace Child in that country.

Tickets are $3 for adults and $1 for children under 12. For more information call the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament at 924-5022. Reservations are recommended.

IT'S NEW TO US

NEW LANDSCAPING

Transforms Peterson's Nursery. Charles Peterson, owner of Peterson's Nursery on Lawrenceville Road, has a large competent staff, including his 15-month-old son, Charlie, who stands watch in his playpen next to the cash register. He will need all of the help he can get while implementing his ambitious plans for his nursery.

All of the nursery's eight acres have been redesigned and are in the process of being transformed into a Japanese garden, complete with two ponds and a bridge so customers can wander for as long as they please in a pleasant environment viewing plants, shrubs, and trees in their natural setting.

One of the reasons Mr. Peterson decided to re-landscape his property is because, in his words, "I have created my own prison here; it might as well be beautiful!" Working seven days a week has been his lifestyle ever since his boyhood, when he sold fruits and vegetables from the family garden in front of his home. He, his wife and young son live in that same house adjacent to the main nursery building which was constructed in the mid 1960s.

Despite the fact that Peterson's Nursery has been growing up to 18 percent yearly, the owner is not satisfied. With policy changes and a good deal of sacrifice he intends to double his thriving business this year by offering the "finest quality, better variety and excellent service at a lower cost."

FUTURE FLOWER LOVER: Charlie Peterson, owner of Peterson's Nursery on the Lawrenceville Road, has a young helper, Charlie, his 15-month old son who enjoys the marvelous variety of indoor and outdoor plants as much as his father. Peterson's is changing its price policy this spring, focusing on lower cost and more volume.

"I'm changing my price style this year because I want to sell twice as many plants as last year. I think people are ready for a better value and deserve to have it," he explains of his inventory, which ranges from beautiful large flowering trees to a fantastic selection of rhododendrons, roses, evergreens and other shrubs, and thousands of varieties of indoor plants.

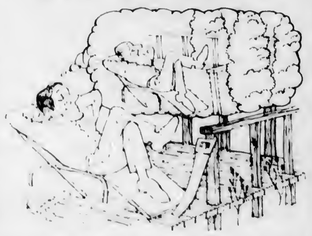
Prices do seem to be lower than last year. Gorgeous hanging 10-inch baskets of fuchsia which were $15 last year last year are only $7.95 now, a lovely gift for a friend or relative. Specials will take place each week, such as 4-inch primroses for $1.50. Tall and colorful gerber daisies, which Mr. Peteson has not seen until this year, are selling for only $10 in a two-gallon pot. A collection of miniature roses at $5.95 each will tempt the shopper. Hearty geraniums are $2.50.

Spring is the perfect time to succumb to beautiful planting, and Peterson's will have an incredible selection of annuals and perennials from which to choose. For example, 20 kinds of iris and day lilies, more than 700 varieties and species of the latter, ground covers and wild flowers will be placed in a 200 by 60 foot area. Woodchip paths have been laid throughout the nursery for easier strolling.

Start with Bulbs. The owner and his staff suggest bulbs as an inexpensive way to plan a garden. Indoors a veritable jungle of ferns, the largest in the area, exotic house plants, 300 species from all over the world, flowering plants such as begonias and geraniums, and herbs can be found. "Non-stop begonias, a huge crop which we have grown ourselves, will be in stock all spring. One of my favorite indoor plants is the calatheas which I found from a dealer in Florida this year. Its velvet leaves are just incredible," says Mr. Peterson, who enjoys the beauty his plants provide as much as his customers. Another favorite is the Bromelia which blooms three to seven months for $35.

Interior plant design and exterior landscape architecture planning and maintenance are a major thrust of Peterson's Nursery business. Three architects work with Mr. Peterson full time in planning energy-efficient landscapes with low maintenance programs. Expert horticulturists are in charge of maintaining the plants and keeping them in "specimen" condition. Peterson's has recently added a number of commercial clients to its list of customers.

"I really find a demand for quality in commercial work these days. Lots of companies won't even bother to bid the job. They'll just ask for us," says Mr. Peterson.



Fresh cut flowers are available at the nursery too. The florists there also service restaurants, lobbies, offices and any other areas with fresh, dried or silk flowers.

A marvelous array of containers for indoor and outdoor plants can be seen at Peterson's, including a vast selection of imported wicker baskets which are well-priced. Cypress water wood and redwood containers and ceramic pots of all sizes, shapes and colors will handsomely house plants purchased there.

SAFE TANNING

At Tropical Tan. Despite warnings from the medical profession and the abundance of literature on the harmful effects of the sun, most people continue to prefer a suntan to the pale look. There is an undeniable psychological lift for those who cannot work outside or relax in the sunshine when they look into a mirror and still see a healthy suntanned face! While outdoor activity may be preferable to sitting at a desk in an office all day, continuous exposure to the sun's strong ultraviolet rays is said to be dangerous, especially to sensitive skin.

Tropical Tan, a salon which uses a European tanning system to limit heat and light transmission, thereby allowing a minimum of ultraviolet B rays to reach the skin, is a busy place these days. Six weeks of storm and gloom have contributed to the continued success of the salon located in the Village Shopper in Rocky Hill. It is well-attended, even during the summer months. According to its young owners, Joe and Shelley Krauszer, a weekly visit to one of their three tanning salons provides the safe tan their customers desire with time on the weekend to pursue other pleasant activities. Appointments for 30 or 45 minute sessions for body or face tanning should be made in advance, as the schedule is tight. Hours are convenient for working people, 9 to 9 daily, but will change slightly during the warmer months.

A visit to Tropical Tan, which operates lounges with sunbrellas made by the C.P.C. Sontegra company, is a pleasant and peaceful experience. The lounges are placed in immaculately clean private rooms. Fresh towels, eye protectors, and a cassette recorder with five choices of music are provided. Lotions of any kind are not necessary. The sun worshipper simply lies on the warm lounge, pulls down the sunbrella, turns on a minute timer and listens to music in toasty comfort, a delightful respite!

The suntanning system was developed in Germany more than a decade ago. The machines have been refined and have now gained rapid acceptance across the country, according to Mr. Krauszer, whose own bronze color attests to the results. He and his wife rotate between their three salons (the others are in Greenbrook and East Brunswick) daily. He also sells the equipment for the company, having already franchised three other tanning establishments.

"I always worked for someone else and was interested in buying a health club, when I stumbled upon this business. It's fun, it makes everybody happy, but most important, it's safe. It will not damage the skin like natural sunlight does or cause cancer; in fact, it helps people with skin problems," he explains.

New members can purchase a series of six tanning sessions for $36. A special is in progress this week: 20 for $99.

"The Shuffle"

a.m except by permit issued at Borough Hall.

Okay, who gets the permit? The permit would be available only to residents of dwelling units which do not already have a parking space or garage attached to them. Such dwelling units would be allowed one permit only. On Moran Avenue, for example, 15 permits would be available. The two-family house at 47-45 Moran, which has no more than a few feet of space on either side, would get two on-street parking permits. The two-family house next door, at 49-51, which has a driveway on one side, would get only one permit. By my informal count, the first block of Chestnut Street would qualify for 21 permits; Green Street, 8 or 9; Bank Street, a mean street for residents with cars, 28.

On most Borough streets no permits at all would be available. No one on Hodge Road would need or get a permit and few cars would ever end up there overnight.

Palmer Square tenants wouldn't qualify because their landlord already has parking; the same for University students. Overnight parking by permit could be limited to certain streets. The total ban on parking might remain in the central business district. Residents there could use their permits in the municipal lots nearby.

What are the problems? Police chief Michael Carnevale points out that the current Borough ordinance has been on the books since 1929 and has served its purposes well. The streets are free of abandoned cars; the street cleaner and snow plow can operate efficiently; and because police record the license plate numbers of cars in violation of the parking ban they can use that information in investigating crimes that occur at night.

The chief argues further that such an amended ordinance applying only to certain residents — those living in dwelling units without a parking space — would be discriminatory.

Do The Shuffle. The street cleaning problem can be solved: On every permit a schedule of street cleaning nights is posted; on those nights cars must be moved or they will be ticketed. In other words, once every week or every two weeks, you have to dust off the old Moran Avenue Shuffle.

The snow plow problem usually isn't a problem. Moran Avenue residents have waited for days for a plow to come by, doing the Shuffle in the slush. In great snow emergencies, the ordinance could provide that residents must move their cars in accordance with special instructions broadcast on the radio, or get that inevitable ticket.

These two provisions would also solve the problem of abandoned cars: A car ticketed twice in a row, for example, could be towed — at the owner's expense. And remember, some stranger rolling into town in his beat-up van will not get a permit in the first place.

The surveillance problem mentioned by Chief Carnevale must already exist for police, since cars with stickers are permitted overnight in eight Borough parking lots. If the ordinance were changed, a few streets would also have cars parked overnight and police would have to take a few extra minutes to determine which were parked legally and which were not.

Would this ordinance be discriminatory? No more so than the existing zoning ordinance, which states that unless you have so many feet between your house and the side yard, you cannot install a driveway in that space. A more interesting question: What if someone has one of those unsightly parking spots carved into the front lawn? Could they become eligible for a permit if they turned the yard back into green space and agreed to park the car on the street?

How would this be administered? The police, the engineering office, and tenants' groups must be consulted. One simple scheme would call for the Zoning Officer to rule on the number of legal dwelling units and the availability of parking, and the Clerk to issue permits to homeowners on an annual basis. Tenants would get their permits through the landlord, thereby easing the crush of newcomers who might descend on Borough Hall and making landlords solve the problem of allocating the still scarce permits.

The permits should not be underpriced. What Borough officials may not have realized to date is the premium many residents already are paying to avoid the Moran Avenue Shuffle. Palmer Square residents are charged $42 a month for 24-hour parking in the Hulfish lot. Others pay that much and sometimes more for garage parking.

Suffer in Silence. Why haven't more people complained about the overnight parking ordinance? Chief Carnevale reports that they have. One reason these people aren't more vocal is that those who suffer most are often tenants and owners of small houses — eventually they leave town or find a better house.

When you look closely at the parking regulations in Princeton Borough, you have a hard time telling whether they favor the shopper or the worker. They certainly work against the residents without off-street parking. The 24-hour parking now available is poorly situated for those residents who need that kind of parking most acutely.

Several residential streets near the central business district have two-hour parking restrictions during the day, intended to prevent employees from hogging those free spaces all day long. That's great for shoppers but objectionable for the residents of those streets who have cars but no place to park them. Shoppers get one free day a year during the Christmas shopping season. Residents never get a break from the Moran Avenue Shuffle.

Borough Council in recent weeks has been wheezing about affordable housing, creative use of open space, enhancement of the residential nature of the central business district. A more imaginative overnight parking ordinance might, in some small way, make progress toward those objectives. Maybe some tenant or homeowner stuck without an off-street space will pick up the cause and petition Borough Council for a better ordinance. I promise moral support. In the meantime let me remind my old friends on Moran Avenue — don't forget to do the Shuffle tonight.

—Richard K. Rein

ART

CARRIER TO GAIN

From Art Festival. The Carrier Foundation Auxiliary will hold Arts Festival '84 on Friday and Saturday in the gymnasium of the Carrier Foundation, Belle Mead. More than 90 national artists will exhibit almost 300 works, including oils, watercolors, prints, lithographs and sculptures.

The Gala Opening will be held on Friday from 6 to 9. Reservations are required and refreshments will be served.

The theme of Arts Festival '84 is Springtime in Holland Cafe and will feature live music.

Four prizes will be awarded in each of the categories of oils, watercolors, prints and sculpture. Winners will be announced at the Gala Opening. Judges are Eli Dimeff, artist and art instructor; Jeanne Pasley, sculptor and painter, and Florence Wender, printmaker and co-founder of the Printmaking Council of New Jersey.

Arts Festival '84 will also be open on Saturday from noon to 4 p.m. The event marks the third art show sponsored by the Carrier Foundation Auxiliary. Proceeds will benefit Carrier's adolescent program.

For more information or to make reservations for the Gala Opening call Victoria Fishbein, 874-4000 ext. 329.

EVENTS ARE LISTED

For Peddie Arts Festival. The Peddie School in Hightstown will open its Spring Arts Festival on Saturday with "The Beaux Arts Ball," a costume party and dance for all students to be held in the Student Center.

An art exhibition by David Brown, a 1970 Peddie School graduate, will open on April 30 and end on May 12. Mr. Brown's recent sculpture and consturctions will be in the north gallery of the Annenberg Library.

"Bananas," an original production by the National Theatre Company, will be presented on Monday in Geiger-Reeves Auditorium. "Bananas" is a humorous, historical look at American Theatre, starting with vaudeville and progressing to musical comedy.

The Peddie School Concert Choir will perform on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in Ayer Memorial Chapel. The theme of this year's Spring Arts Festival concert is entitled "The Many Moods of Spring." The concert will include presentations by the Peddie Singers and the String Ensemble.

"Arts Night" will be held on Wednesday, May 2, from 8-10 in the Student Center. Displays from all visual art classes will be on view, and student artists will be giving demonstrations and workshops in pottery, drawing, painting and printmaking.

The public is invited to attend all events, free of charge.

BROOKLYN TOUR SET

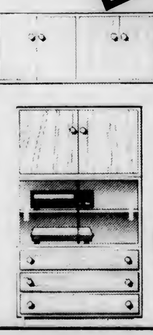
By Art Association. The Princeton Art Association has scheduled a bus trip to the Brookyn Museum and the Brooklyn Botanic Gardens on Wednesday, May 23. This trip had been scheduled to take place on May 15.

Cost is $16 for members and $19 for non-members. For information call 921-9173 or 921-9177.

EXHIBITS

"Color Etchings," an exhibit by printmaker and graphic artist Liz Roszel, will be on display in the Lobby Gallery at St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center in Lawrenceville from May 4 to June 1.

The etchings exhibit will be on view through Fridays from 8 to 8 and Saturdays and Sundays from 8 to 5.



An invitational exhibit of paintings by members of the Tri-County Art Association is on display at the East Windsor Township Municipal Building, at 16 Lanning Avenue, until the end of May. The Municipal Building is open from 8 to 6 Monday through Friday. Additional information may be obtained by calling 448-8967 or 443-4000.

DANCE FOR HEART

In Palmer Square. The Princeton Nautilus Exerdance will sponsor a Dance for Heart on Saturday, May 5, from 10-4 at Palmer Square.

More than 100 participants in the Nautilus' Exerdance Program have already signed up and more are expected. Suzanne Sweeney is coordinator of the event.

Each dancer will obtain sponsors for every minute danced. Money raised will benefit the American Heart Association, Central Jersey Chapter.

Each registrant will receive a Dance for Heart T-Shirt and a free dance class through Exerdance. The Nassau Inn will provide orange juice to all participants throughout the day.

Based on the amount of money raised, each participant will be eligible for prizes donated by Capezio. In case of rain, the Dance for Heart will be held a week later, on Saturday, May 12.

For further details, call 921-6985.

Leslie Davis Potter

Leslie Davis Potter has been named executive director of Planned Parenthood Association of the Mercer Area.

Ms. Davis Potter, a resident of Hopewell Township, graduated from Claremont College in California with a masters in counseling and the Univeristy of Southern California with a bachelors in public administration. She initiated her career as the founder and director of Womens' Health Services at State University of New York at Cortland.

She went on to become a consultant to the director of the Division of Family Planning in Cortland County and later became director of Planning at Central New York Health Systems Agency. She also served on the board of directors for the Holistic Health and Living Center and Planned Parenthood Association of Syracuse, N.Y.

The American Association of University Women, Princeton Branch, will meet on Wednesday, May 2 at 7:45 at the First National Bank of Central Jersey in Rocky Hill.

Nobuko Manabe of the Ohara School of Japanese Flower Arranging will give a talk and demonstration. Guests are welcome. Call 737-2469 for further information.

The Mercer County Stroke Club will celebrate its 10th anniversary on Wednesday, May 2 at 1 at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road.

The club held its first meeting on April 2, 1974 and met for some years in the Activities Room at Merwick. Members have met once a month except July and August since that date. There will be no luncheon meeting on May 2. Refreshments will be served following presentation of the program.

Stroke victims are the members and serve as president, vice president and program chairman as well as other committee chairmen. Families and friends are associate members and assist in many ways, including serving as secretary and treasurer.

The Central Jersey Computer Club will meet Friday at 8 in Armstrong Hall, Trenton State College. Jack Calton, a junior at Trenton State majoring in electronic engineering technology, will give a presentation on a new computer, the Heath/Zenith Z-100 and a number of software programs. There will also be a demonstration of a computer aided design program.

The public is welcome. For more information call 466-0909.

Overeaters Anonymous will hold an Open House Thursday from 8 to 10 in the nursing building, St. Peter's Medical Center, New Brunswick. The film, "One Day at a Time, One Pound at a Time," will be shown as part of a program that will include a panel of O.A. members. Admission is free and literature will be available.

Overeaters Anonymous is a self-help group made up of recovering compulsive overeaters who help each other with the problems that they have in common. For more information call (201) 388-8998.

Big Brothers/Sisters of Mercer County will hold an orientation session for all who are interested in learning more about becoming a Big Brother or Big Sister to a child in need of adult companionship. The session will be held Saturday at 11:30 at the Lawrence Library, Route 1 and Brunswick Pike.

For more information on how several hours each week of an adult's time can made a difference in the life of a child from a single-parent home, call Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Mercer County at 695-BIGS.

The Women's College Club will take a tour of the Brooklyn Botanical Gardens and the Brooklyn Museum on Thursday, May 3. A special bus will leave from the Acme side of the Princeton Shopping Center at 8:30 a.m.

The trip is open to Princeton guests and friends of the Club. For information and reservations, write Burr Kansas, 48 Bertrand Drive.

The New Jersey Daffodil Society will hold its annual Daffodil Show on Sunday from noon-5 at the Mall in Short Hills.

Exhibitors are expected from Pennsylvania, Delaware, Long Island and Connecticut. Mrs. R. Kenneth Fairman of Princeton will mount an educational exhibit at the show.

The Women's Coalition and the Princeton Research Forum will present Dr. Louise Duus, assistant dean, Douglass College at the Woodrow Wilson School of Princeton University, on Tuesday, May 1, at 8 p.m.

Her presentation is entitled, "These Things Will be Altered One Hundred Years Hence," and reviews the role of women in popular culture, image and action.

For further information, call Mimi Moore at 921-7646 or Anne Jacobson at 921-2436.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad will hold their annual Tricky Tray (Chinese Auction) on Monday, May 7, at the Squad House on North Harrison Street (next to the Acme). The doors will open at 7 p.m. and the Tricky Tray will begin promptly at 8:15 p.m. The public is invited and refreshments will be served.

HELPING HEART: Anne Knudson-Fitzpatrick (center) owner of Princeton Nautilus Fitness Center and Exer-Dance and her staff will sponsor A Dance for Heart at Palmer Square next Saturday May 5, for the benefit of the American Heart Association. Staff members from left with Mrs. Knudson-Fitzpatrick are Lorie Hones, Suzanne Baran, Diane Kanig and Lorna Whitney.

Danny Arendas of West Windsor May Be Best Baseball Player Ever at Princeton

Who taught that kid how to hit?

We're out at Clarke Field on a sunny Saturday afternoon with a couple of hundred other people who apparently have heard that Princeton baseball coach Tom O'Connell has brought in a few young kids who may be able to turn this once-dismal sport around. One of the kids, the left-hand hitting centerfielder, is at bat now against Navy in the first inning. The kid, Danny Arendas, is said to be hitting something over .400. He swings fluidly at a Midshipman fastball and laces a line drive into right field. A double and a run batted in. Princeton leads, 1-0.

The man who taught the kid how to hit is cracking open some peanuts in the bleachers above third base. Larry Arendas, Danny's father, points out his kid's open stance. "See how he keeps his right toe pointed toward third base? I taught him that when he was in Little League. It helps get the body into the ball; the hips can't hold back his upper body."

Schroeder a Brewer

While Princeton sophomore Dan Arendas contemplates the possibility of a major league career, another West Windsor-Plainsboro graduate has made it a reality.

Bill Schroeder, an all-state catcher at WW-P in 1976, has earned a place on the major league roster of the Milwaukee Brewers.

The kid, swinging with little apparent effort, strokes a fly ball into left center that lands near the outfield fence — another double, his third hit in three at-bats. "Danny still does the foot placement and hip turning that I taught him in Little League," says the father. "I used Ted Williams's book."

Danny Arendas is not the only talented young hitter to play for Princeton this year. Two switch-hitting freshmen, Drew Stratton and Todd Tuckner, bat behind him in the line-up. With sophomores Todd Leavitt and Marc Goldenberg providing a decent shortstop-second base combination, and with a flock of young pitchers gaining experience, the Tigers have compiled a winning record in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League (including a doubleheader win over Navy to break a seven-game losing streak to the Middies) and a 10-11-2 mark overall.

A home game with Rider this Wednesday and then two EIBL doubleheaders on Saturday and Sunday on Clarke Field may well determine whether or not Princeton firmly moves into the upper echelon of east coast college baseball.

The Coaching Question. Among all this talent O'Connell singles out Arendas as "potentially the best player ever to attend Princeton." The happy circumstance is that O'Connell arrived at Princeton just in time to convince Arendas — and his father — that the Princeton program could help him develop as a player.

A basketball standout ("As a junior, when he was only 5-9½, he could dunk with both hands," says Larry Arendas) as well as the ace pitcher at West Windsor-Plainsboro High School, Arendas remembers seeing a few Clarke Field games pre-O'Connell. "It was a shambles," he says.

The choice was between Brown and Princeton, with Brown the early favorite because Danny wanted to get away from home. The family made one trip to Brown and recognized the raw New England weather. "If you can imagine, it's worse than Princeton," says Larry, who — like his son — would love to see the Ivy League adopt a split season for baseball, starting later in the spring and finishing up in the early autumn.

The question mark at Princeton, coaching, was soon resolved by O'Connell. "The only reason I decided on Princeton was that I talked to Coach O'Connell first," says Danny.

His father, as you might expect of a man who uses Ted Williams as a textbook, gave the new Princeton coach an

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW
John Bernard
Jay Bernard
STURHAHN, DICKENSON & BERNARD

Here's a sports oddity that proves something about life in general ... It's about Eddie Arcaro, one of the most successful jockeys in racing history ... But, at the beginning of his career in 1931 and 1932, he rode 250 — that's right, 250 — consecutive losers before he won his first race! ... You'd think after going to the post that often, and losing EVERY time, Arcaro would have quit; but he practiced patience, perseverance and hard work and it finally paid off ... After that miserable start of 250 straight losing races, Arcaro became the greatest money winning jockey of his time ... He went on to win 4,779 races in his career and earned millions of dollars ...

But back in 1931 and 1932 no one would have predicted that.

When Dale Murphy won the Most Valuable Player Award in baseball's National League last season, he became only the fourth man in the history of the league to win the MVP two years in a row ... The only other players to do it were Ernie Banks in 1958-59, Joe Morgan in 1975-76 and Mike Schmidt in 1980-81 ... No one has EVER won the award 3 years in a row in either major league.

PICK-OFF ATTEMPT: Navy's John van Brabant survived two attempts to pick him off second in the sixth inning of the second game Saturday afternoon; Princeton second baseman Marc Goldenberg covered on the play. The Middies, however, did not survive a double defeat, losing, 9-4 and 6-4, marking the first time the Tigers had beaten them since 1980. (W.L. Bill Allen photo) even closer review. "Tom came to a couple of Danny's games during his senior year in high school when Danny was still pitching. He'd say Danny's not doing this, this, and this. O'Connell knows the fundamentals and the tactics. I've asked him to do a clinic for the coaches in our area."

Sports in Princeton

Laundry Missions. The other question was whether or not the family, living just a few miles away in the Princeton Manor section of West Windsor, would allow the kid to live the life of a normal collegian. "We try to get here for home games but other than that we purposely try to stay away," says Larry. "Danny tells us to call him as often as we call Laurie (his older sister, an all-county athlete at West Windsor, who now plays basketball for Carnegie-Mellon in Pittsburgh)."

Danny's mother, Carole, younger brother, David, a high school sophomore "who's ahead of Danny at this stage as a pitcher," according to Larry, and younger sister, Lisa, a ninth grader who is yet another promising Arendas athlete, all came by for the Navy doubleheader. Danny comes home to West Windsor, says his mother, "whenever he needs his laundry done" — a normal college kid.

What's not normal is the extent of his ability as a baseball player. The scouts are not coming around Clarke Field yet, but they almost certainly will be. "A couple of scouts called the high school after he graduated, but when they heard he was going to Princeton they backed off," says Larry.

Now Danny is not eligible for the baseball draft until after his junior year. "He hasn't rushed himself," says his father. "Last year he could have played in the collegiate league in New Jersey but he stuck around with the American Legion team. He had a lot of friends on that team."

This summer, however, Arendas has been invited to play in the powerhouse Cape Cod summer league, where his abilities can be showcased. Danny admits that the rigors of attending an Ivy League school and trying to excel in his sport sometimes strain his patience. "Sometimes I wonder if I made the right decision going to an Ivy school," he says. "They say that when you graduate you're really glad you went through it."

Leaving after his junior year, he says, "is a possibility," and one his father does not discourage.

Larry Arendas quit a job in the city to start his own business in West Windsor, a window replacement company, and to become pastor of a small nondenominational church, the New Jerusalem Christian Church. He sees life as something more than a straight-ahead dash to the credentials counter. As a one-time promising pitcher whose career was cut short by bursitis, he knows the frustration of unfulfilled major league aspirations.

"I tell Danny this window of opportunity is only open once. He can always come back and finish his education later." Down on the field Arendas is fighting off curve ball after curve ball from a new Navy pitcher. "He's lunging at the ball, which is all right when you're protecting the plate with two strikes," says Larry. His son is prepared for the next curve ball and drills a line drive right back at the pitcher. It's the hardest shot he has hit all day (he completes the day with five hits and six runs batted in) and it's also the first out he makes. The scouts will notice things like that.

—Richard K. Rein

LACROSSE STRUGGLES

Faces Cornell Saturday. The Princeton lacrosse team, which has had trouble finding the opponent's net and even more difficulty putting the ball in it, faces perennial power Cornell Saturday at Finney Field.

The Tigers played one of their best defensive games last week against Harvard, but also their worst offensive game, and they will need something more than that to make the encounter with Cornell interesting.

At Cambridge Princeton's Bill Donahue scored twice in the first quarter to keep the Orange and Black in a 2-2 tie. But his teammates could manage only one more goal the rest of the game. Harvard prevailed, 6-3. The Tigers' record fell to 2-6, and 1-3 in the Ivy League.

The tennis team lost any hope of competing in the NCAAs this year with a 5-4 loss to Columbia, which clinched the Eastern Association title. The next day Princeton lost to Penn, 6-3, for the first time in more than a decade.

Coach Dave Benjamin's racquet players host Navy this Sunday at 11 a.m.

Alumni Excel. Two Princeton track alumni turned in strong performances in the Rutgers Relays last weekend. August Wolf, the shot putter who exceeded 71 feet in a recent meet in Germany and who retains hopes of making this summer's Olympic team, heaved the shot 68 feet, 1 inch to win the event at Rutgers on his last throw.

Craig Masbach finished second in the 1500 meters with a 3:48.7 time. Princeton's 400-meter relay team took first in its event. The Tigers will join the large field in the Penn Relays this weekend.

The Princeton heavyweight crew will travel to the West Coast for a regatta with UCLA, Stanford, and Cornell. Last week, in the less mellow environs of Cambridge, Massachusetts, the heavies placed second to Harvard and ahead of MIT.

Preparing for this week's critical match with Harvard and Yale at Cambridge, the 150 crew defeated Penn by three-fourths of a length on Carnegie Lake.

ANOTHER EASY WIN

For PHS Boys Track Team. Led by Tom Haggerty's three firsts, the Princeton High School boys track team made it two wins in two tries last week, routing winless McCorristin, 84-42.

Haggerty, a tailback on the PHS football team, won the 100 meter in 12.1, the 400 meter in 53 seconds flat and the shot put with a toss of 40-3½. Graham Trelsted was a double winner for the Little Tigers, capturing the 800 meter in 2:15.9 and the 1600 metric mile in 4:54.5.

PHS won all the field events with the exception of the discus. Eric Rapp took the javelin with a toss of 131-8 and finished third in the discus; Freshman Mike Riddick leaped 17-1½ to claim the long jump and finished second to Haggerty in the 100; and Marshall Jensen won the high jump by two inches, clearing 5-4.

Ben Eiref of PHS won the 3200 and was second to Trelsted in the 1600. Bruce Ellerstein finished second behind Haggerty in the 400 and then combined with Trelsted, Haggerty and Spenz to capture the 1,600 relay in 3:48.5. McCorristin finished far back in 4:06.5.

McCorristin won the 200 and 110 high hurdles in addition to the discus.

PDS ROUTS STUART

In Girls Lacrosse. Not so long ago, Princeton Day and Stuart Country Day would battle on even terms in girls' lacrosse, often meeting in a climatic game for the state championship.

That will not be the case this season. The two schools squared off last Tuesday at PDS, and the Panthers' 21-6 victory does not even begin to indicate how one-sided the contest was.

Early on, coach Kim Bedesem attempted to keep a lid on the final score, by switching defensive and offensive players, and replacing her first stringers with jayvee substitutes. Because of her players' enthusiasm, she was only partially successful.

The scoring was fairly evenly distributed among several players, including two from the jayvee squad. Kelly Noonan scored twice and Tania Elmore, once.

Birgit Enstrom led the varsity regulars with four goals; Tania Schoenegal, Melinda Bowen, Robin Trend, Meredith Eppel and Lynne Faden each scored two; and Laura von Seldeneck, Anna Barrows, Karen Hamill and Myra Bermingham tallied once. Hilleary Thomas was called upon to make only two saves during the first half, her replacement in the second half, Leslie Vielbig, stopped one.

Katie Hughes and Heather Kahn led Stuart with two goals apiece, Kathy McCormick and Bonnie Berven scored once.

The victory was the fourth straight for PDS since the season began, and the only success it had last week. A contest against George set for last Wednesday was rained out, and has been tentatively rescheduled for this Monday. Beforehand, PDS should meet tougher competition this Wednesday when it meets Princeton High at home at 3:45. It will host Germantown Academy Friday at home at 3:30.

TOUGH WEEK AHEAD

For PDS Boys' Lacrosse. "By the end of this week, we'll have a realistic idea of what our expectations should be about this season."

PDS boys' lacrosse coach Bob Krueger gave that assessment earlier this week, with his team facing three tough opponents in four days: Peddie this Wednesday away, and home contests against Johnson Regional on Friday and Bridgewater East Saturday. All are strong "A" division teams.

The Panthers are coming off an easy week; their scheduled meeting with Lawrenceville last Wednesday was postponed by rain, and has been tentatively set for Monday, May 7. Saturday, they traveled to East Hanover, and had little trouble putting away a weak Hanover Park squad, 7-1.

Krueger was generally pleased with his players' performance, remarking that they showed definite improvement. However, the team still needs work on riding and clearing tactics, he commented. "We also could improve our man down play," he added. "Offensively, we have begun to move the ball around better."

Princeton Day pumped in its seven goals in the first three periods; goalie Chris McCabe lost his shutout in the final quarter, when the home team suddenly put together three fine passes and a good long shot. Bill Noonan, who is right up among the leaders in scoring in the state, led the Blue and White with two goals and three assists.

RAIN CURTAILS PLAY

For PDS Baseball Team. First it was the opposition, last week it was the weather, that left the Princeton Day baseball team still looking for its first victory of the season.

The 0-4 Panthers had scheduled games against Pennington on Wednesday and George on Thursday wiped out by rain, which fell both afternoons.

Another game against Pennington was scheduled to be played this past Tuesday afternoon, weather permitting. A road trip to Rutgers Prep is on the schedule for this Wednesday.

This Friday and Saturday Wardlaw and Neuman Prep will visit Princeton Day for afternoon contests, and somewhere along the way, if all goes well, PDS might win its first. Certainly, the players are well rested.

HUN GETS FIRST WIN

In Lacrosse. Off to a 0-4 start, the Hun School lacrosse team won its first outing last week, stopping visiting Edison High, 9-5.

In its previous game against Peddie, Hun coach Dave Faus commented that he felt his team, despite its loss to the Falcons, was starting to come around and the Raiders proved it by jumping to a 5-1 lead against Edison. Edison, which favors a hard-hitting, agressive style of play -- a little too aggressive in Faus's opinion — managed to cut its deficit to one goal at half time.

"There were a lot of late hits and unnecessary slashes," complained Faus. "We got ahead early and Edison tried to intimidate us."

Hun regrouped in the second half, began to play its style of lacrosse again and outscored the Eagles 4-1 in the second half for its satisfying win.

Cris Goodyear, who plays attack for Hun and was the team's leading scorer last year, once again led the Raiders' attack with three goals. The hat trick gave Goodyear, a Princeton resident, ten for the year — tops on the team. Chris Natale and Brint Dietrich each scored a pair of goals for Hun, while teammmates Lester Robbins and Jim Lemker added one each.

Hun will oppose Newark Academy away on Thursday and was scheduled to resume play this week after a holiday break against visiting Rutgers Prep.

PHS VS. PDS

In Girls Lacrosse. "It's been a pretty good rivalry; it's always been very competitive," commented Princeton High lacrosse coach Joyce Jones about this Wednesday's meeting with Princeton Day School.

The teams will square off at 2:30 at the PDS field.

"We beat them twice last year when they had a new coach and I think they beat us twice the year before," recalled Jones. "It's been back and forth each year. It's a crosstown rivalry and we're looking forward to it."

The Little Tigers, who outlasted Montclair, 8-6, in their only game last week, will oppose Morristown away on Thursday and will be at Chatham on Monday.

Ranked second in the state at the start of the season, the Little Tigers had to face Montclair with a number of players missing because of the Easter vaction. Noting that Princeton High has a well-travelled student body during vacations, Jones agreed that "certainly it is a challenge to have everyone together. We were just beginning to put things in place but the jayvee players did a fine job."

Jennings Breaks Tie. With the game against Montclair tied at 6, Pam Jennings scored the tie-breaking goal 17 minutes into the second half. It was her third goal of the game. Erika Gabrielsen then iced the game by scoring again for the Little Tigers three minutes later. For Gabrielsen, who leads the team in scoring with 11 goals, it was also her third goal in the contest.

Also scoring for PHS were Liz Keenan, senior attack, who scored the first goal of the game and veteran Cassie Vogt. PHS outshot the visitors, 24-19.

On defense, Jones cited junior Nadia Glucksberg, whom she described as a great one-on-one player. "Her greatest asset is regaining possession of the ball."

Also Abby Tate, who had three interceptions, and Myla Causing and Jenny Koepp. Goalie Liz O'Donoghue had 12 saves for PHS.

WEATHER SAYS NO

To Play Ball. It's been so bad for so many days that all they can do now is joke about it.

"Not bad for a swimming coach," remarked Hun baseball coach Bill McQuade. "I re-introduced myself to the team; I haven't seen them since last Saturday," said Princeton High coach Ed Beacham. It has indeed been a miserable spring for playing baseball.

"About the only thing going for you is you're not in this boat alone," continued Beacham. His Little Tigers are currently ranked fourth in the league standings behind Notre Dame, Hamilton and Ewing. PHS currently is 3-2 and, with the opening round of the Mercer County tournament only a few weeks away now, Beacham observed that "the rain is actually working in our favor if we can win a couple of makeup games."

Like all coaches, he is concerned with what the layoff will do to the timing and conditioning of his players. "We're running to try to get back in shape," said Beacham.

PHS will play McCorristin Thursday at home and will be at Steinert on Monday. It was scheduled to resume earlier in the week against Hightstown and Beacham reported that Saturday's scheduled makeup game with Trenton has been cancelled.

A Real Bottleneck. "Everything's been rained out — it's been a real bottleneck," agreed McQuade. "It's been the worst April I can imagine."

He echoed Beacham's concern about lack of playing time. "The tournaments are coming along and we've played only six games," observed McQuade.

Hun will resume action against three area prep school rivals. It will be at Pennington School this Wednesday, at Lawrenceville Friday at 3:45 and play host to Peddie on Saturday at 2.

HULIT'S IS VICTOR

In Princeton Soccer League. Hulit's Shoes defeated John Brandt, 3-2, last week in action in the Princeton Soccer Association's junior division. Harry Morton of Hulit's scored two goals and Jared Bilanin and Peter Hegener also scored in the contest.

Kopp's Cycle blanked Jay's Cycle, 1-0, on a goal by Jon Medlinsky and H. Gross & Company was a forfeit winner over Princeton Nautilus..

HUNTERDON NEXT FOE

For PHS Laxmen. The Princeton High boys lacrosse team played a solid second half against visiting Montclair Saturday, but it wasn't enough to prevent the highly-favored Mounties from returning home with a 14-4 victory -- its fifth in six games. Following its win over touted Lawrenceville last week, many followers of the sport are claiming that Montclair is the top high school team in the state.

The Little Tigers, for their part, are still looking for their first win after four starts. They will play three games next week, starting with visiting Hunterdon Central this Wednesday at 3:45. Friday, PHS will visit Summit, the defending state champion and on Monday it will oppose Columbia.

PHS coach Peter Larsen views Hunterdon as the weakest of the three.

"We played a good second half," said Larsen after the Montclair loss. "And it wasn't like Montclair wasn't putting their starters in.

"The kids are waking up. They're improving. It's coming, but I hope it comes soon. I don't want it to come at the end of the season like it did last year."

Montclair took control of its contest with PHS early, scoring four goals in the first period while blanking the Little Tigers. In the second period, the Mounties increased their margin to 7-1.

Led by the team's leading scorer, Chris Carrington, who had three of Princeton's four goals -- sophomore Jim Jones had the other -- PHS fought the visitors on more even terms in the second half. In the final period, PHS held Montclair to a 2-1 margin.

"I think we're starting to improve," said Larsen. It's taken some time but the kids are starting to play lacrosse."

Larsen declined to single out any PHS players, commenting. "When we start winning, I'll start mentioning names."

For the game, Larsen went with freshman Dan Brandt in goal. "He played very well for a freshman, but he's young and has a lot of things to work on," said Larsen.

Montclair was paced by Mark Woods and Jim Schmitt who combined for half of the victors' 14 goals.

REGISTRATION SET

For Youth Baseball Leagues. Registration for Babe Ruth Baseball and for the Princeton Youth Baseball leagues has been announced.

Babe Ruth registration will be held Thursday and Friday from 3 to 5 at the Valley Road School field. Players new to the league must bring a copy of their birth certificate. There is a $15 registration fee for all.

To be elgible, players must be 13 but not more than 15 on or after August 1. For further information, call Bob Rumer at 921-6521 or Spence Reynolds at 921-1920. Persons willing to assist in the program are also needed.

Registration for the Princeton Youth Baseball's minor league (8-10 year olds) and major league (11-12) will be held on Sunday, April 29, and Saturday, May 5, from noon to 2 at the Community Park fields. Candidates should bring a baseball glove, copy of their birth certificate and a $15 registration fee.

The regular 12-game season will begin May 21 and continue through July 2. All games will be played at Community Park on Monday and Thursday evenings, starting at 6.

For futher information, call Clark Lennon at 924-7242 or Doug Davis at 921-2362.

It's Been a Hectic Week for Brooke; Triangle, AAMH Draw Record Crowds

Dear Brooke,

What a week!

I stopped by McCarter Theater for the special press photo opportunity last Wednesday afternoon, got up early the next morning to catch your interview with Gene Shalit on the Today Show, and then went to the opening performance of the Triangle Show on Thursday night. Saturday evening I attended the fantasy auction for the Association for the Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped at ETS. (Thanks to you and Art Buchwald, incidentally, that auction was a rousing success, and raised more than $120,000.) By the time I finally got to say hello to you in person, as we were walking off to our cars at ETS, I didn't have the energy to ask how everything really has been — sorry about that — and you still had another show to perform, your second of the day.

And even if I had had the energy, I wouldn't have had the time to share some of my impressions with you from the week. So I'll jot them down now on paper.

First off, no matter what anyone says, you are doing better at Princeton than anyone could have imagined. The last time I wrote (TOWN TOPICS, August 31), I mentioned a few of the celebrities who have arrived on campus and never graduated. You're already getting As and Bs and your mom says she's not at all surprised. In fact, she says that the reason you chose Princeton over Vassar and Brown was that you "didn't feel the other schools were structured enough" and that you need to be "methodical." Maybe your mother's view would help all the reporters who can't believe you can do all the extracurricular activities and still get decent marks. I'm afraid most of the reporters don't know about how much Princeton kids manage to do outside of class.

Trash Separation Will Be Mandatory

If you're a Borough resident, it might be a good idea to spend this Saturday shopping for big trash cans.

Already have a trash can, you say?

Ah, but one will scarcely be enough, when mandatory separation begins, probably in July.

Mandatory separation refers, not to a messy divorce, but to the Borough's new ordinance requiring householders to keep glass, aluminum and newspapers-magazines separate from each other and out of the garbage.

It isn't exactly a new ordinance, having been passed last year, but enforcement hasn't yet begun and in fact, Borough Council has yet to set the date when enforcement will begin. Ju-

Proposal Introduced to Address Problem of Illegal Sump Pumps

To her earlier proposal for a no-connection ban zone on the Harry's Brook and parts of the Mountain Brook sewer lines, Township Committeewoman Gail Firestone has added a new proposal designed to address the problem of illegal sump pump connections.

In a letter sent to members of Township Committee and the press, Mrs. Firestone gives some "staggering" figures for the gallonage contributed by just one improper connection and proposes that the Township bear part or all of the cost for correcting household pumps that are discharging into the sanitary sewer. She further proposes a six-month moratorium, similar to the grace period on overdue book fines that the Public Library holds in order to persuade, rather than coerce, laggards into returning books.

In her letter, Mrs. Firestone says the top priority must be to correct manhole surcharges into backyards and streets during periods of heavy rain. "To this end," she says, "we need to eliminate as quickly as possible infiltration and inflow into the sewer lines." Although much of the problem "undoubtedly comes from years of neglect by previous Township Committee," two-thirds of the sewer problems in municipalities studied in a recent report by the Environmental Protection Agency were said to have been caused by private connections rather than the public sewer lines.

These private connections, she points out, include improper downspout connections and broken or cracked lateral pipes from the house to the public sewer lines, as well as improper sump pump connections. But it is the sump pump problem she wants to address, "convinced that much immediate relief from sewer surcharges can be gained" from eliminating them.

"I believe many pumps were hooked into the sewers years ago and still pump today. If people realized what a difference these improper connections can make, we might not have the amount of surcharge we have today. The figures are staggering."

Mrs. Firestone describes a single average sump pump observed (she does not say where) running intermittent-

Beginning Is Uncertain For Affordable Housing

Two meetings were held Monday night on a matter of increasing importance to both Borough and Township — affordable housing — but they were scheduled at the same time so that at least one Borough official had to miss parts of both, neither mayor was present at either, one meeting was so inconclusive that a second meeting had to be scheduled and the two bodies involved seemed, by the end of the evening, to be pulling and hauling in different directions.

Borough Council's Affordable Housing Subcommittee completed its draft report at Monday night's meeting and will present it to Council at this Thursday's agenda session.

The Planning Board met to discuss the affordable housing recommendations of consultants John Nolon and Alan Mallach; however, no firm decisions were reached after several hours of discussion and board members who were present, decided they needed one more meeting. It will be held next Wednesday at 7:30 in the Valley Road building.

ly for a two-day period during the recent rains. With a capacity of 60 gallons per minute this pump discharged 100 gallons every eight minutes or 22.5 gallons per minute. Running for three minutes and resting for five, this pump put 32,500 gallons into "an already burdened sewer system," she calculates.

Carrying her calculations one step further, she says that one improper sump pump equals the average sewer gallonage for 127 homes if it pumps intermittently, and 339 homes if it pumps all the time, as some do during heavy rains. "In fact," she concludes, citing Township Engineer Robert O. Kiser's calculations, "it would take only 60 improper sump pumps operating intermittently to equal the total capacity of the pipe in the Harry's Brook line."

Mrs. Firestone says the Township does not have the staff to undertake house-to-house inspection for improper sump pumps, as has been suggested by others on Township Committee. She also believes that even if an ordinance requiring inspection at the time of the sale of a house were to be enacted, it would take years to find the improper pumps.

She therefore proposes that Township Committee consider offering to pay or share the cost of correcting sump pumps in households that are discharging into the sanitary sewers and that householders make such improper connections known without "wasting public employees' time snooping into basements."

From what a local plumbing firm tells her, Mrs. Firestone believes that the average improper sump pump connection can be corrected for between $100-$200. This would mean, she says, a total bill of $5,900 to the community if there are 59 improperly connected pumps for which the Township shares the cost.

She suggests her proposal is "better than waiting to rebuild all the major trunklines to see some results" and "better than forcing our way into each household with use of police power."

ly it is one date they're talking about.

Here's what will happen:

You will be required to put all your glass — no need to separate by color — into one container, all your aluminum into another and tie up your newspapers-magazines or stuff them into a paper bag.

All of the above are to be placed at curb-side. The collector, probably Monarch Recycling, will pick everything up and sell it, making money thereby. The Borough won't pay Monarch anything. The regular garbage collector, National Waste, will continue to pick up garbage.

What will happen to you if you shrug and decide not to play?

Council is still squirming a little over that one. According to Robert McChesney, who is working with a citizens committee on this new ordinance, it's possible that Council may tell National Waste not to pick up your garbage if it contains aluminum, glass or newspapers-magazines.

"We hope and expect that people will want to comply," Mr. McChesney told Council at its work session last Thursday. "And it would be better to suggest to people that their garbage won't be collected, than to resort to fines."

The new ordinance applies to everyone whose garbage is collected by the municipal collector. "If you put it at the curb yourself," is the broad criterion.

What's in it for you? Or the Borough?

Money, Mr. McChesney says promptly.

"Chiefly, it's the savings in not having to take it to the landfill — what we call 'cost-avoidance.' It costs $17 to $18 a ton to get rid of garbage in a landfill, and because we must shift to the Pennsylvania landfill, the cost may rise to $28 or $29.

"Also, the state rewards municipalities if they re-cycle. They pay you $8 or $10 for every ton you can prove you remove. No, we don't know how many tons National Waste carts off, but the national average is 1½ to 2 tons per person, per year. It adds up."

It's a piece of cake — or a soda can — Mr. McChesney believes because the Borough doesn't have to invest any money in labor or capital costs and stands to save some, instead.

Once again: all glass, but you can mix colors and you don't have to remove metal rings ... aluminum like soda or beer cans or food you buy in aluminum containers but no non-aluminum cans ... newspapers and magazines tied up together.

—Katharine H. Bretnall

WILL GALLUP MOVE?

Montgomery Opposes. The Gallup Organization has not yet decided what to do about last week's rejection by the Montgomery Zoning Board of plans to construct two office buildings on 33 acres in a residential zone at Route 518 and Spring Hill Road in Montgomery.

The polling organization can appeal its case to the Montgomery Township Committee, alter the plans again — they have already been scaled down from four buildings to two — or drop the project altogether. The firm owns the building on Bank Street in Princeton from which it has been operating for many years. Officials said this week they did not know what would be done with the Princeton property.

Although Montgomery's Zoning Board voted 4-3 in favor of granting Gallup the required use variance, five "yes" votes were required under the law.

Neighbors at the hearings told the board they feared precedent and construction of office buildings by other companies, if Gallup were granted the variance.

The zone, which had been residential, was changed to Research-Engineering-Office when it was thought that I-95 would go through the area. When I-95 was de-designated, last year, Montgomery returned the zone to its previous residential status.

CANDIDATES FILE

For November Elections. Princeton's voters will not have to make their way through primary contests in either Borough or Township, Democratic or Republican parties. All slates were filled by last Thursday's deadline and there is only one candidate per slot. Incidentally, in the Township both the Republican and Democratic municipal chairs are running for office, and in the Borough, the Republican municipal chairman is also running.

In the Township, Republican incumbent Richard Schoch has decided not to run for a second term on Committee. He will be replaced on the ballot by Tom Poole, Republican municipal chairman and currently a member of the Planning Board. Mr. Poole lives at 52 Mason Drive. He is a self-employed marketing management consultant.

His running mate will be Gail Firestone, 747 Prospect, who had announced earlier that she would be a candidate for a second term. Mrs. Firestone is a real estate associate in her husband's firm.

Democratic opponents will be Joyce Usiskin, 105 Greenway Terrace, who is Democratic municipal chair for the Township, and Bernard Miller, 37 Wheatsheaf Lane, who is making his second try for a Committee seat.

A lawyer, Mrs. Usiskin maintains offices at One Palmer Square. Mr. Miller has his own consulting firm, Econ, with offices on State Road.

Borough contestants will be Democrats Mildred Trotman, 181 Witherspoon and Marvin Reed, 21 Maple, running for the two three-year terms on Borough Council and incumbent Jane Terpstra, 17 Maple, sworn in last week to replace Barbara Hill. She will run for the year remaining in Ms. Hill's term.

Mrs. Trotman is administrative manager for a Hillsborough condominium and Mr. Reed is director of public relations for the New Jersey Education Association. Mrs. Terpstra, an attorney, practices at 601 Ewing.

Republican opponents will be Fred Woodbridge, 155 Hodge Road, who is Republican municipal chairman for the Borough, and Archibald Reid, 26 Westcott Road, both of whom will run for the three-year terms. Robert Cook, 1 Hamilton Avenue, who ran for Council last year, is Republican candidate for the one-year seat.

Mr. Woodbridge is a stock broker in the Nassau Street office of Tucker, Anthony and R.L. Day, Inc. Mr. Reid is corporate counsel for Thompson Land and Mr. Cook is retired.

ABOUT CONSTRUCTION

Around the Borough. Are there or are there not construction delays in building Collins' Chambers Street garage, and attendant changes in personnel?

Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund called on Tuesday from North Carolina where she is attending a conference, to make sure newspapers told Borough readers that "reported delays in construction and changes in management personnel associated with construction of the Chambers Street parking garage are not the result of any action taken by Borough officials. The construction schedule and management control of that project are controlled entirely by Collins Development."

But Collins' construction manager, Bill Harley, says there have been no delays, he expects to dig the hole by the start of next week and he knows of no changes in management personnel.

On other construction matters, Borough engineer George Olexa explained that on Palmer Square East, Public Service is building a new underground transformer vault from which power can be supplied to the Nassau Inn.

Although this construction has almost been completed, he says, it will be followed by work on the foundations of the new east wing of the Nassau Inn. "We can expect construction activities at the garage and Inn sites throughout 1984."

On Park Place, Vandeventer and Spring, the Borough has U-Max Construction working on rebuilding the sanitary sewer system. Work should be finished "in two or three weeks."

During the summer, the Borough's schedule calls for street work on Harrison Street North, Maple north of Spruce, South Tulane, Moore and Witherspoon north of Wiggins, Lafayette from Cleveland to Hunter, and Hunter to Westcott.

HOSPITAL MAY APPEAL

Labor Decision. Officials of the Medical Center have not yet decided whether to appeal a ruling by the National Labor Relations Board that the hospital is guilty of unfair labor practices. The NLRB action upholds an earlier ruling.

Charges against the Center were filed by Guy Horner, a security guard at the hospital, in March, 1980. The following February, the NLRB found the Center guilty of refusing to bargain with the United Plant Guard Workers and of refusing wage increases for the security guards.

These findings were upheld April 12 by the NLRB's Washington offices. Originally, 16 security guards were involved in the complaint. Only four are still working at the Center, including Mr. Horner.

Open Thursday Nights

Thursday night hours have been restored to the schedule of the Public Library.

Beginning this week, the Library will be open Thursday nights until 9. Hours were reduced a year ago because of budget restrictions. The regular weekly hours are now Monday through Thursday, 9 to 9, Fridays and Saturdays, 9 to 5:30.

ARREST IS RESULT

Of Drug Sale, Assault. A Trenton man has been charged with assault and attempted robbery by Borough police, in the aftermath of an alleged drug sale Thursday afternoon on John Street.

William Lewis Howard, 30, was taken to Mercer County Jail to await possible action by a Mercer County Grand Jury, after he was arrested Saturday by Trenton police, accompanied by Borough Det. Randy Sutton, in Trenton.

Captain John J. Bellow reported that a 28-year-old John Street resident came to headquarters to tell the following story. As he was walking down John Street around 2 p.m., he was approached by a man who offered to sell him some cocaine or marijuana. A group of six men across the street watched the proceedings.

The victim said that the man, whom he later identified as Howard, gave him a waxed envelope containing a white powder. After he gave Howard $10, the victim continued, Howard then tried to pull and drag him between two buildings where he tried — without success — to strip off the victim's wristwatch.

The two struggled and Howard punched him in the face, the victim reported, knocking him to the ground. As he struggled to get up, Howard punched him again on the other side of his face. The victim told police that he then ran from the scene, got into his car and drove to his therapist in Rocky Hill.

According to Captain John J. Bellow, the therapist allegedly told the victim, "You don't want to be caught with this" and flushed the white powder down the toilet.

The victim was then shown photos at police headquarters, where the investigation was being continued by Det. Randy Sutton. The victim identified a man who had been in the group across the street that witnessed the transaction.

Det. Sutton interviewed the witness and from the information he obtained was able to determine, Captain Bellow said, that Howard was the man they were seeking.

Det. Sutton next took the victim back to John Street to show him where Howard was. "That's him!" said the victim. Police obtained a warrant for Howard's arrest, and he was picked up two days later.

BOOK ROOM ENTERED

In McCormick Hall. A locked rear book room in McCormick Hall was entered last week by an intruder who stole $430.

Police said that a bank bag containing $210 was taken and $220 from a locked cash box. The box and the bag were together on a shelf in the room, police said. Although the room and cash box were reported locked, police said there were no signs of forced entry into either. The room was entered between 5 Thursday evening and 9:30 Monday morning when the theft was discovered.

A 24-inch chain saw valued at $500 and a tool box containing assorted tools worth $400 were stolen last week from a pre-fab barn on Pretty Brook Road. A second, similar barn on the property also bore pry marks but was not entered.

Chief Anthony Pinelli commented that the barns sit way back. "They can't be seen from the road; somebody has to know the barns are there," he said. It marked the second time in three weeks that one of the barns has been broken into.

Police add that the barns, the only buildings on the property, are owned by a partnership. Det. David Cromwell is investigating.

A third-floor architect's office at 14½ Witherspoon Street was broken into during the weekend and lightly searched but apparently the only thing stolen, police report, was a bottle of beer from a refrigerator.

A window on the southwest side of the building was broken to gain access to the office. Police said the intruder first scaled a six-foot wall, then went across a roof and climbed up a fire escape to reach the window. He exited through the front door of the office.

Police placed the entry between 5:30 p.m. Friday and 12:15 the following afternoon.

Volvo Dealership Entered. A two and a half-foot side window was broken between 6:35 Friday evening and 8:20 the next morning to enter the Volvo of Princeton building at 255 Nassau Street. Police report that although typewriters and tools were moved about, nothing appears to have been taken.

While Ptl. David Dudeck was investigating the Volvo entry, Sgt. Ronald Holliday, who was assisting, found a typewriter in a case in front of the building. Inside, police found the name of the owner and his name listed among those who live in an apartment complex above the car agency.

Det. Holiday went up to the apartment, found the door wide open and a kitchen window broken. No one was inside. The officers discovered several drawers had been pulled out and the apartment appeared to have been lightly ransacked.

Police secured the apartment and left a note for the occupant to contact Borough headquarters.

MANY ACTIVITIES SET

At PDS Fair. The Princeton Day School Spring Fair will be held Saturday from 10 to 3. An activity of the Parent's Association, the PDS Fair is an annual event which has as its goal raising money for the faculty enrichment program.

As a side benefit, it provides an old-fashioned day-long festival for the whole community in and around the school skating rink off The Great Road. This year the Fair leadership has been provided by a steering committee of six: Mrs. Charles A. Gray, chairman, Mrs. Peter M. Grounds, Mrs. Michael J. Myers, Mrs. William Read III, Mrs. Vincent Peterson and Mrs. Richard F. Ober Jr.

The Fair will have a flea market of used and not-so-used household items and clothes; a bookstall of second-hand hardback books and paperbacks; a plant booth with bedding plants and garden vegetables as well as hanging baskets and planters; and a bake sale and gourmet tables.

Children will find a day's worth of entertainment in the midway — a spook house and a spin ball machine, games, rides, a treasure hunt and dunk tank. There will be continuous entertainment — a video tape of Michael Jackson, break dancing, fencing exhibition, chorus singing, and Jacobson's Jazz Band.

In addition to hot dogs and hamburgers, there will be dishes from area restaurants and caterers.

DISCLOSURE IS REQUIRED

Of Funeral Services. The Princeton Memorial Association is one of 175 similar consumer groups across the nation that urged the adoption of a new regulation for governing the funeral industry.

The new rule by the Federal Trade Commission went into effect Monday, the day after the PMA held its annual meeting at the Unitarian Church. It requires funeral directors to provide customers with an itemized price list of goods and services before arrangements are discussed. The information must be given over the telephone if so requested, giving family members the opportunity to compare prices with those at other funeral homes.

In addition the rule forbids funeral directors to misrepresent the legal, crematory or cemetery requirements or to embalm without the consent of the family, except where required by law. First proposed 12 years ago, the Federal regulation had long been sought by consumer groups such as the PMA and resisted by funeral homes. There were numerous challenges in the courts and in the Congress before the rule took effect.

Richard Middleton, a dean of the Rutgers Medical School and a member of the board of the Princeton Memorial Association, is president of the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies which has been in the forefront of the legal fight to defend the rule from being overturned in a suit brought by the National Funeral Directors Association. The PMA is a member of the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies and contributed financially to the legal defense of the rule.

New Jersey had already adopted similar rules, but, as Peter Putnam, president of the PMA points out, the impact of the federal regulation will be to enforce these rules in the state. Mr. Putnam was re-elected to the board and the presidency of the PMA at Sunday's meeting. Also returning to the board after a year's absence are Elize Goldman and Patricia McPherson.

New board members are Ann McKay, Henry Gallagher Esq. and Stanley Rosenberg, M.D. Continuing board members are Sallie Griffin, secretary, Graecian Goecke, treasurer, L. Leslie Vivian Jr., the Rev. Louise L. Kingston, Thomas Calcerano and Fran Friederman Walker.

PMA members heard a panel discussion on new outlooks in cancer care from Mrs. Walker, director of the Mercer County Unit of the American Cancer Society; Richard Barach, M.D., radiation oncologist who described the workings of the tumor board at Princeton Medical Center; John Sierocki, M.D., medical oncologist, and his nurse, Jan Wisor, R.N. who talked about coping with cancer; and Carol Kientz, R.N., of Christ Hospital, Jersey City, who described instances of successful cancer care by commmunity agencies.

FLASHER SOUGHT

By Township Police. A flasher in a hurry is being sought by Township police after he exposed himself last week to a woman in the Battle Park parking lot off Mercer Road.

According to police, the victim was walking her dog when a car drove in the lot at a fairly high rate of speed. The driver parked in an erratic manner and got out of the car. As the woman stood and watched, police continued, the driver turned his back on her and then turned to face her and dropped his pants. At no time did he make any gestures toward or try to speak to the victim, police said.

As the victim walked away, the flasher went back to his car, police said, removed its license plates and drove off on Mercer towards Princeton.

He is described as a white male, 28 to 35, 6-2 to 6-4, very thin, with sandy brown, medium-length hair hair and brown rim glasses. He possibly had a moustache. He was wearing a light-colored Levi-type jacket, white shirt and brown pants. His car is described a a light, mint-green two-door, four to six years old in good condition. Possibly N.J. tags. Det. David Wilbur is investigating.

THEFT REPORT

25 Lobsters to Go. It was all the ingredients for a spring lunch and then some.

Twenty-five lobster tails, two fresh hams, 15 pounds of bacon and seven and a half of minute steaks, two boxes of hamburgers and a box of coffee – all were stolen from an unlocked, walk-in refrigerator in Dial Lodge, 26 Prospect Avenue, between 3 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Sunday. The items are valued at $245.56.

If readers of this weekly theft report should learn anything it is not to leave wallets and purses unattended – even for a few minutes. There were four more such victims last week.

A Princeton University employee returned to her unlocked office on the second floor of Maclean House Monday afternoon to discover her purse lying open. Missing was her Pierre Cardin wallet containing $100 and credit cards. The victim told police that she had been attending a meeting and had left her purse unattended for an hour.

The same day, a Linden Lane resident reported the theft of her small leather maroon clutch purse from her fourth-floor office in the 32 Nassau Street building. She lost $19, a check book and her purse valued at $15. The victim told police that she had been in and out of the office several times between 1 and 5 and had not noticed anyone suspicious.

Joining the list of victims is a Princeton resident who reported her tan leather wallet stolen from her purse which she had left unattended under her desk in Room 224 in West College on the university campus. It was taken between 12:30 and 1:30 on Thursday. She lost $60 and credit cards.

A graduate student residing in Hibben Apartments had $165 removed last week from his wallet while he was attending a dance studio in Dillon gym. The wallet was recovered in the studio, police report, by a student in Foulke Hall who turned it over to University Security. Everything in the wallet was intact except for the money.

In another Dillon Gym theft, Township police reported the theft of a waist-length black leather jacket valued at $495 and a black wool, V-necked sweater valued at $190. The victim, a university student, told police that she had left the two items unattended in a corner of the gym while she was attending a party there between midnight and 2:24 Friday morning.

Iron Benches Taken. A Springdale Road resident returned home Thursday after being away since March 14 to discover that two antique wrought iron benches had been taken from his front porch. Police said the five-foot long benches had a leaf design and were painted white.

stolen last week in the Borough.

A red 10-speed model valued at $100 was taken overnight during the weekend from Pyne Hall on the university campus where the victim told police a locking cable had been placed through the wheels but not secured to anything.

A Princeton High School student told police that he had left his green, 10-speed Schwinn unlocked and unattended behind the Colonial Club, 40 Prospect Avenue, between 11 and 11:40 Saturday night. The bike, valued at $150, was gone when he went to get it.

Earlier in the week, an unlocked Raleigh 3-speed was stolen from the front porch of a Mercer Street residence. The owner told police the bicycle was rusty and in fair to poor condition. He valued it at $20.

Township police report that $60 was removed last week from deposit receipts hidden in a store in the Princeton Shopping Center. Chief Anthony Pinelli reported the location was known only to several employees, one of whom had just quit because of a conflict with another employee. The theft is being investigated by Det. David Cromwell.

TRAILERS ARE PALETTE

For Graffiti Artists. Two sides of two construction trailers parked off Franklin Avenue provided the palette for paint-spraying vandals last week.

Police said that an employee of the Princeton Medical Center had observed six teenagers spraying names and nicknames in red paint on the trailers late Friday evening. He called a hospital security officer who notified police at 11:15.

Police identified the victim as the Keystone Construction Company which is doing a job at the hospital complex. There was no estimate of the damage.

A small projectile was shot through a four by seven-foot plate glass window of Varsity Liquors, 234 Nassau Street, leaving behind a small hole.

Police report the vandalism took place about 8:30 Friday evening. Again, there was no damage estimate reported to police.

TWO ARE INJURED

In Three-Car Collision. Two drivers were injured Sunday afternoon in a three-car mishap at the intersection of Jefferson Road and Valley Road.

Kelly A. Brodbeck, 18, of Somerville, was issued a summons by Ptl. Mark Emann after she went through a stop sign on Jefferson. She told the office that she did not see the sign.

THE SOUNDS OF SPRING: The dancing sounds of spring swirled around Paul Robeson Place Saturday at the annual Art People Party, dedicated to music and Spring Sounds. Here is Alicia Diaz, a member of Princeton Ballet II, with a solemn line of watchers, right in the front row.

Edward A. McEwen, 60, 16 Greenbriar Row, saw the Brodbeck car go through the sign but was unable to stop in time. His car struck the right side of the Brodbeck car and then spun around, swerving into the left front of a car stopped at the stop sign on Jefferson operated by Howard E. Mitchell Jr., 37, of Philadelphia.

Ms. Brodbeck was treated at Princeton Medical Center for lacerations of the knee and leg. Mr. McEwen refused treatment after complaining of head pains. The Mitchell Brodbeck cars had to be towed from the scene.

SIX ARE FINED

For Speeding. Six Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough traffic court for speeding.

Fined $60 each are Nathan Slovronick, 29 Jefferson Road; David G. Evans of Rocky Hill; Tami Batterton, 25 Pine Street and Lorraine E. Grosdoff, 161 Franklin, Lawrenceville. Ina E. Mitchell, 1K Magie Apartment, Faculty Road, paid $70 and Sheldon R. Boyarsky, 134 Parker Road, Plainsboro, paid $80.

Failure to observe a flashing red signal cost Michael B. McGin, 36 Mountain Avenue, $60. Carol E. O'Connor, 86 Magnolia Lane, paid $20 for no license or registration in possession, while Mitchell R. Wilcox, R.D.4, Highway 27 paid two fines: $25 for unregistered vehicle and $25 for display of unclear, indistinct license plates.

BROTHERS ARRESTED

After Fight in Market. Two brothers were arrested and charged with criminal mischief, following a disturbance early Saturday morning in the Wawa Market on lower University Place.

Amos Gallagher, 23, of Logan Drive, and Frederick Gallagher, 25, of Nassau Place, Princeton Junction, were each issued complaint summonses and later released, pending their appearance May 16 in Borough Court.

Police had initially responded to a 2:19 call reporting a large fight in progress. Upon their arrival, police learned that a fight had taken place in the store between the Gallaghers and an estimated eight to nine black males. The fight is believed to have stemmed from an argument about waiting in line.

Police described the fight as "one-sided" and reported that both Gallagher brothers were assaulted. The store's night manager then signed a complaint against the two brothers when, after the fight, they allegedly pushed a cash register off the shelf, pulled a phone from the wall and knocked over bins filled with apples and oranges, causing an estimated $600 in damage.

Captain John J. Bellow reported that police are still attempting to locate the other suspects involved in the fight.

SEEDLING NURTURE: Sheila Stuart, left, and Jan Noonan are in charge of the Garden Tent for this year's Hospital Fete. Seedlings sown now will be nice sized bedding plants for flower and vegetable gardens by the time the Jazzy Fete '84 day rolls around on Saturday, June 9. (Robbie Griffith photo)

Motor vehicle violations led to the arrest and charges against two drivers in separate incidents last week in the Borough.

Robert O. Greene Jr., 32, of Willingboro was stopped at 2:28 Friday morning on Harrison Street near Ewing by Ptl. Michael Taylor. The officer had observed Greene's car, slowing, stopping and then speeding up on Harrison, causing the office to suspect he was lost or drunk.

While questioning the driver, Ptl. Taylor noticed marijuana seeds on the floor of Greene's car. He asked Greene to step out of the car and he searched him for weapons. In one of his pockets, the officer uncovered a plastic, zip-lock container containing a small quantity of caked powder belived to be methamphetamine.

Greene was taken to headquarters, charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance, driving without a license (he had produced an expired driver's license) and later released.

An inoperative tail light caused Ptl. Taylor and Ptl. David Dudeck to stop a car earlier in the week on Chestnut Street.

While interviewing the driver, 19-year old Steven Lundy of Roselle, Ptl. Dudeck observed a pair of num-chucks in the rear of the car. Lunday was asked to exit the car and police patted him down. They found a 6½-inch container and a smaller, legal container of tear gas in Lundy's possession.

Lunday told police that he was a former Guardian Angel and a martial arts instructor. He carried the tear gas, he said, for his own protection. He was taken to headquarters, charged with possession of weapons and later released, pending his appearance in court.

Two Juveniles Charged. Two 17-year-old Township juveniles were arrested and charged with several offenses last week by police.

Patrolmen Dennis McManimon and Taylor had responded to a 12:18 call Saturday morning, reporting someone trying to break into cars parked at the rear of 83 Prospect Avenue. When the officers arrived, they found the two youths in the custody of a Princeton University proctor.

One of the youths had a plastic cup of beer in his hand, police said. A search revealed a small, tie-tac container in his possession containing less than 25 grams of marijuana.

A search of the second juvenile uncovered a 9-inch folding pocket knife, two white pills and three plastic bags containing some type of mushrooms. In their car, police found a six-pack of beer.

They were processed at headquarters and later released.

DONATIONS WELCOME

To Fete Garden Tent. Planning, organizing and cultivating are under way for the "Boogie-Woogie Garden" tent, one of many features of a Jazzy Fete '84. Co-chairmen Sheila Stuart and Jan Noonan invite all to come enjoy the flower-filled New Orleans Courtyard with a background of jazzy music.

Since early June is prime planting time, a wide choice of summer flowering annuals, perennials, and vegetables will be available. This year's selection also includes specialties of miniature geraniums, bonsai plants, perennials from some of Princeton's loveliest gardens, and succulents for junior gardeners. There is a choice of metal and wooden primitive garden ornaments, and planters and hanging baskets will be available.

On hand from 9 to 11 a.m. to answer questions about garden problems will be garden expert Bill Flemmer, owner-operator of Princeton Nurseries. From 11 to 1 another garden expert, Gene Taylor, a retired agriculturist, formerly with the State of New Jersey, will be available with free advice and counseling.

Those who would like to donate small plants, perennials or potting materials may call the June Fete Garden Committee at 921-1768 or 466-2949. The committee will dig, divide, re-pot and transport as necessary. Staffing for this year's "Boogie-Woogie Gardens" will again be handled by Princeton area garden clubs.

Pssst! Want Leafmold?

Free — just come and haul it away.

Starting this Saturday and continuing for four Saturdays from 9 to noon, leafmold by the truckload will be at the firehouse-garage area on North Harrison, off Nassau, ready to be carted away by any gardener who wants it.

The Borough has been dumping autumn leaves on Princeton University property across Lake Carnegie and it is now being trucked back in a kind of spring-cleaning operation.

The Borough itself benefits because the state pays municipalities for recycled material and the Borough will document its public largesse when it reports to the state next year.

No guarantees about pH factor or such: it's just all the leaves that fall in Princeton united in one, big happy mold.

Clowns, the magic of The Great Bernini puppeteers from Trenton state College and a petting zoo, sponsored by the Mercer County 4-H Dairy Club Refreshments will be available.

The Fair will take place rain or shine. It is described as a learning experience for the one- to five-year-old, and fun for the whole family. The Family Resource Infant Center is a non-profit parent education, child development, and family support center.

For more information call 924-2167, Tuesday-Friday from 9 to noon.

BOOKS AND PLANTS

At Rocky Hill Sale. The Rocky Hill Community Group is sponsoring its annual Mother's Day Flower Sale this year with the addition of a Book Sale.

Dates and times are Thursday, May 10, 12:30-6; Friday, May 11, 10-6; and Saturday, May 12, 10-4. The sales will take place at The Rocky Hill Community Center and The Mary Jacobs Memorial Library, Route 518. Rocky Hill Proceeds will benefit the library, which serves Montgomery Township and Rocky Hill.

There will be more than 1,000 volumes from which to choose at the Book Sale. The Flower and Plant Sale will include some 75 varieties of annuals, 30 of perennials, 40 of vegetables, herbs, and fruits, as well as 12 different colors of azaleas, four of rhododendrons, and seven of geraniums. In addition, there will be dogwood trees, a large selection of hanging baskets and rose bushes and figures for the garden, both new this year.

Donations of paperback and hardback books are still welcome and may be dropped off at the library. Volunteers are needed to help at the Book Sale. Anyone interested may sign up at the library or can call Patricia Jones, 359-7111.

For further information on the Book Sale, call 924-7073, or for the Flower Sale, call 921-6356 or 921-1791.

PLANTS AND HANGING BASKETS have always been the mainstay of the Rocky Hill Community Group Mother's Day Flower Sale, as Lucy Molpetas and daughter Alexis can attest. This year books will be added to the sale, which will take place Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 10, 11 and 12 at the Community Center and the Mary Jacobs Library on Route 518, Rocky Hill.

GOAL IS REACHED

In Stuart Campaign. The $2.5 million goal set by Stuart Country Day School for its 20th Anniversary Challenge Campaign has been reached, L. Eric Solomon, chairman of the board of trustees, has announced that a large anonymous gift has capped the campaign.

James J. Schiro, chairman of Stuart's development committee, reports that 710 trustees, parents, alumnae, faculty, and friends of the school gave their support to the campaign, which was begun in 1981 with the primary objective of eliminating the school's building debt. The campaign was sparked by two challenge gifts: an individual gift of $250,000 to be matched by other contributions amounting to $500,000, and an offer by the Society of the Sacred Heart to forgive the School of a $1,268,000 mortgage, provided $750,000 was raised from other sources.

Both challenges were met within the first year and a

The Bank Street Bounce.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

A loud cheer for Richard K. Rein's article on the Moran Avenue Shuffle and the Borough's overnight parking problems in general.

Up at this end of Nassau Street we call it the Bank Street Bounce, but the steps of this ridiculous and harassing ballet are pretty much the same, and the price of non-participation is also the same.

Petitions have been circulated in Bank Street several times, I believe, in favor of overnight parking permits, so far to no avail.

Police Chief Carnevale's reasons for maintaining the status quo seem tenuous to say the least. "....the current Borough ordinance has been on the books since 1929..." I wonder how many residents of Moran Avenue, Bank Street, et al. were inconvenienced twice a day by this ordinance in 1929! I wonder how many owned automobiles?

"The streets are free of abandoned cars." True, but were there residential parking permits an abandoned car would be very quickly reported to the police, since the permit holders would want their money's worth out of their permits and would promptly notice any out-of-neighborhood vehicle usurping a precious space.

"The street cleaner and snow plow can operate efficiently." I'm sure they can, or could, but how many times a year do they come down Bank Street? I'm sure permit-holders would be willing to park elsewhere a few times a year to facilitate the passage of these services. It would be better than having to park elsewhere 365 nights a year.

"Police record the license plate numbers of cars in violation of the parking ban..." Perhaps having fore and aft permit stickers on residents' cars would speed up night patrol work; any unstickered car would be immediately visible.

"...ordinance applying only to certain residents — those living in dwelling units without a parking space — would be discriminatory." And maybe the present setup, on the books since 1929, is not discriminatory? Why does my house have two parking spaces, whereas many of my neighbors, who pay the same taxes to live in the same street, must also pay an arm and a leg for the dubious privilege of parking three blocks away and trudging home in heat, rain, or snow as the case may be, while the space smack in front of their house is empty all night because someone decided, back in 1929, that that was the way it was going to be? Is this not discrimination?

NOTICE

Letters to TOWN TOPICS "Mailbox" should be typed, double-spaced, signed and received for publication no later than Monday. No letter will be printed without a valid signature and address. Letters longer than 500 words—or letters on the same subject—may be edited or omitted entirely, at the discretion of the editor. Letters on subjects not specifically related to the Princeton area may also be rejected.

Residential parking permits have been used in Paris for the past 10 or 15 years now in certain neighborhoods, and everyone seems pleased with the arrangement. They are valid 24 hours a day, every day, even if the street of residence be forested with parking meters.

Better to pay for the privilege of parking in front of one's own house than to pay to park elsewhere. This is 1984, not 1929.

Parking Permits Suggested.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am one of the unfortunate homeowners without a driveway who is all too familiar with the "Moran Avenue Shuffle." I applaud TOWN TOPICS for taking notice of this issue and encourage Borough Council members to act on Richard K. Rein's suggestion.

Before I moved to Princeton last year I lived in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Cambridge's parking problem was similar to Princeton's, with tourists, Harvard University, shoppers and residents all competing for a short supply of on-street parking. Cambridge helped its taxpayers by issuing parking permits to residents which were color coded by neighborhood. Dates of street cleaning and rules for snow plowing were issued with the annual permit. Administrative expenses were covered by the nominal fee charged for permits.

I think that if permits work in a city the size of Cambridge, Princeton Borough can devise a solution to the overnight parking problem on a few streets.

A Vote for Collins.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following is the text of a letter I have written to Mayor Barbara Sigmund.

I am probably the only property owner on John Street to be in favor of Collins plans for Palmer Square. I would have spoken up at one of the meetings but my work schedule kept me away. This letter will have to suffice.

I bought my house in 1977. It was a major decision for me, a divorced woman with three children to support, but after living in Princeton for two years with two rent increases, I knew I had to buy or move.

John Street was never a desirable area to Princeton's middle class but it was most like the neighborhood I grew up in — integrated, friendly and convenient for those who live there. And it had another asset — housing I could afford on my nurse's salary.

Now Collins plans for Palmer Square threaten to turn a once undesirable neighborhood into prime property. What is the problem with that?

Higher property values mean higher taxes. That tax increase should be checked by the broader tax base Collins expensive housing will provide. Right now we're not getting much revenue from that huge parking lot, and it's far more aesthetically offensive than any architect's plans for the Square.

As far as the low and middle income housing Collins is providing I think they're doing more than their share. Palmer Square is our Park Avenue. Would you expect Helmsey to build a palace for the poor on Park Avenue? If Collins were into low cost housing they would have bought and rebuilt half of Jersey City by now.

I'm not saying we don't need housing for low and middle income people. Every town in New Jersey needs more. But if we're going to bring more people to Princeton, let's bring the high taxpayers first. Then we'll have some assets to draw upon.

All your delaying tactics add to Collins construction costs which will be passed on to the buyer. Delay long enough and low income housing will carry a middle income price. How self defeating can Mayor and Council be? I'm afraid we're going to find out.

Trees in Trouble.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I often wonder what a songbird thinks as he arrives in Princeton in the springtime. Peering down, deciding where to light, he doesn't have to worry about inflationary housing costs, ever-increasing taxes, and politically unpopular sewer systems.

Trees are what he seeks and it's the trees that have always attracted him to Princeton. But this year he finds that trees are fast disappearing in the Harrison Street-Terhune Road section of Princeton Township.

For over a month now, machines have been chewing, swallowing and digesting trees to make way for two office buildings close to where I live. A meteorite skipping along the earth's surface could not have done a better job.

Owned by 100 Thanet Road Associates, the property has been laid waste with the imprimatur of the Princeton Regional Planning Board. Just why did the Planning Board choose to ignore the disastrous effect of the deforestation?

The explanation, I've been told, is that the Planning Board gave up on the site after the Princeton Township Committee voted in favor of Bowers several years ago when Bowers objected to various development restrictions that had been recommended by the Planning Board.

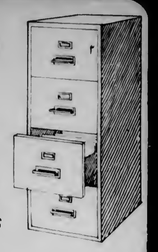
For reasons never publicly disclosed, Bowers failed to follow through with its plans. When another developer appeared on the scene, the Planning Board was evidently less demanding.

The reported rationale: assuming the developer would go to the Township Committee if it did not get what it wanted, the Planning Board acceded to its wishes.

Besides the devastating impact on the environment by the Thanet development, there are also the three new buildings at Princeton Professional Park on Ewing Street, and the recently completed 39,000 sq. ft. office structure at 457 Harrison Street, all with acre upon acre of shopping mart-style blacktop (this is intelligent planning?).

A thousand trees here, two thousand there, 300 parking spaces here, 500 parking spaces there, it soon adds up.

With such calculated destruction of the environment, it would appear that members of the Princeton Regional Planning Board appreciate neither trees nor birds except, perhaps, near their own homes.



At the rate things are going in the northeast part of Princeton Township, if we one day awaken to "a silent spring," it will not have been caused by pesticides, but our planning experts.

Apropos of experts, Ashley Montagu has said: "An expert is someone who should know." I agree.

ALEXANDER HAIG'S STARTLING ACCOUNT OF THE MACHINATIONS OF THE PRESIDENT'S MEN IN FOREIGN AFFAIRS

This is the first book ever written by a high-ranking former Cabinet member about an Administration still in office. Its headline-making revelations will change the course of the 1984 campaign.

In Caveat, Al Haig writes a candid, dramatically detailed account of his battles with the President's men and of the byzantine and, at times, dangerous influence they have on foreign affairs.

half, with the result that an outstanding commercial bank mortgage of $477,000 on Stuart's building was eliminated in 1982, and the mortgage held by the Society was satisfied in 1983. In April of that year Sister Joan Magnetti, headmistress, was able to announce, "For the first time in its history, Stuart is free of debt."

The 20th Anniversary Challenge Campaign is the largest fund raising effort ever undertaken by Stuart. In addition to the elimination of the school's debt, the success of the campaign has resulted in the building of four new tennis courts, plans for increasing existing library space, the establishment of endowment funds for faculty support and the library, and increased endowment for financial aid.

Dance for Heart

A Dance for Heart sponsored by the Princeton Nautilus ExerDance for the benefit of the Central Jersey Chapter of the American Heart Association will be held Saturday from 10 to 4 at Palmer Square.

More than 100 participants in the Nautilus/ExerDance Program have signed up to raise money for the AHA by obtaining sponsors for every minute they dance. Anyone is invited to participate. Each person who registers will receive a Dance for Heart T shirt and a free dance class of ExerDance. Call 921-6985 for details.

Rain date for the event is the following Saturday.

RESULTS ANNOUNCED

Of Math Contest. The Lawrenceville School was first among Mercer County schools participating in the 1984 Annual High School Mathematics Examination for the State of New Jersey sponsored by the Glassboro State College Mathematics and Computer Science Department and other professional organizations.

West Windsor-Plainsboro High School placed second among Mercer County schools and Princeton High School third. Awards for the highest individual scores went to Japheth Wood, Princeton High School, first; Neil Miller, West Windsor, second; Takao Kurihara, Lawrenceville, third; and Paul Schmidt, Princeton Day School fourth. Mr. Wood, Mr. Miller, Mr. Kurihara and Mr. Schmidt were named to an honor roll of students who earned a score of 100 or more.

In addition, Mr. Wood was named to a merit roll of students in grade 9 or 10 who earned a score of 80 or more. Also named to the merit roll were Blaine Johnston of Princeton Day School, and James Happer and Chris Chen of Princeton High School. Tim Steele of Montgomery High School achieved a bronze medal given to students earning the highest score in his school for two consecutive years.

Some 11,783 students from 177 high schools and academies in New Jersey participated. Dwight Morrow High School in Engelwood received the cup for the highest team score, and a youth from Tenafly High School was the highest scorer.

EAT ITALIAN

At Shopping Center Saturday. The Princeton Shopping Center will be transformed into an ethnic piazza for an Italian Festival this Saturday, featuring a varied selection of Italian food specialties on sale by the shopping center merchants. Musical entertainment by Bob Smith's Lamplighters will complement the Italian theme.

The Lamplighters, a 19-piece big band with male and female singers, will play Italian-American musical favorites.

The latest addition to the Shopping Center, Roberta's, a gourmet food establishment run by Roberta Churchill of Princeton's La Cuisine, will offer tortellini salad, strawberries with zabaglione sauce, Italian-style croissants filled with tomato sauce, zucchini and Italian cheese, and chicken a la Parma.

Bon Appetit will feature special demonstrations of pasta and sauces and Italian desserts. Samples of baba au rhum and creme de cacao petits will be available, and the Italian almond beverage Orzata Orgeate will be sold by the cup. An unusual selection of Italian cheeses and prepared foods such as pasta salads and pasta with pesto sauce will be offered by owner Virginia Anderson.

Pizza Star will prepare sausage rolls, zeppoles, and Italian sandwiches for the festival, in addition to the pizza and other Italian favorites on its menu. Dockside Fish Market will offer fish with an Italian twist in the form of Clams Casino, Mussels Marinara, Shrimp Scampi salad, and Braccoli and pasta salad.

To top off the festival meal, Princeton Bagels and Pastries will be selling delightful Italian treats. Cannolli, sfogiatelle, pastacioti, baba au rhum, zupp'n glaze, Italian napoleans, and Italian cookies are the specialty items available. The Lions Club will join the festivities to sell beer and birch beer.

HOUSE TOUR SUNDAY

In Hopewell Township. The 2nd Annual "House Tour in the Valley" sponsored by the Hopewell Valley Historical Society will be held on Sunday from noon to 6. Visitors may tour eight locations in Hopewell Valley, watch crafters at work and browse through antiques.

The focus of this year's tour is the past and present uses of buildings in the valley. The structures on view range from a contempoary passive solar designed home to the Kings smocked and custom made Grant Farm which dates to the early 1700s; from the Old School Baptist Church to the Pennington Railroad Station built of stone in 1880; and from the newly restored bank building at the corner of Main and Delaware in Pennington to single and double family homes that have had a rich history and have recently been restored by the present owners.

At each location there will be different crafts on display. These will include hand- children's items, country crafts, dried flowers, wreaths and potpourri, as well as hand carved birds and Bisque baby dolls.

Tickets may be purchased for $6 at the Country House, 47 West Broad Street, Hopewell, or at Gail's Gifts, 20 North Main Street, Pennington. Tickets will also be sold at each of the eight tour locations, and they will be marked with large pink tulip signs. Senior citizens who need transportation may make arrangements in advance by calling Pat O'Hara at 737-0063.

PICK UP THAT BOTTLE

Clean-up This Saturday. State legislators have been asked by the sponsoring Sierra Club and D&R Canal Commission to join a Bottle Bill Awareness Hike and Clean-up this Saturday at 9:30 a.m. at Washington Crossing Park, Titusville.

The idea is to make legislators aware of what the Sierra Club regards as the need to control the source of litter through a bottle bill "or whatever alternative the legislators prefer."

Those interested in collecting the trash and watching legislators do so as well, are invited to gather at the River Road parking lot between the canal and Delaware River at Titusville. Trash bags will be provided and the State Park Service will have a truck to carry away the collected trash.

Participants should wear a long-sleeved shirt and sturdy shoes and take gardening gloves.

PRINCETON GETS GRANT

For Junior Economics Faculty. Continental Group Insurance company has included Princeton University among the nine institutions to which it has made grants totaling $558,950. The grants were made under the company's newly instituted Excellence in Education Program.

Princeton's grant of $50,000 was made to support summer research work for junior faculty members in the Ecshoes and take gardening

HOUSE TOUR, ANTIQUES at Harlingen Event. The Van Harlingen Historical Society will mark 250 years of community growth when it holds a house tour on Saturday, May 12, as part of the annual "May in Montgomery" country fair.

The event will be held along a mile and one half stretch of the Dutchtown-Harlingen Road which will be closed for the day. Mini-vans will be provided for non-walkers.

The house tour is planned as a "slice of life," covering the period from the 1740s when the road itself existed before either of the hamlets in its name came into being to the present. The youngest house on the tour is under 20 years old–a nine room ranch at Harlingen which contains a collection of personally crafted furniture pieces including several clocks.

Three Dutchtown dwellings which were the homes of Montgomery Township's earliest settlers, will be open. They are the Direk Gulick House, which dates to 1752 and serves as headquarters of the Historical Society, the Peter Ditmars House, and the Hendrick Stryker House. Midway along the stroll is the Cossart-Kershaw House now owned by Theodore and Genevieve Ventrone. Mrs. Ventrone, known as television's "Tin Lady," plans to show her studio, which occupies the original kitchen and cooking shed where there will be a display of restored decorated tin and decorated chairs.

Still another house on view is the Christiana Hoagland House, built in 1875 by the widow of Peter Hoagland and her son after a railroad bought a right of way through their farm. It is an example of high-style Victorian taste and has been recently restored by the present owner. The final house is Sunnyside Farm where the present owner, English-born Brigette Meyer conducts a bread and cake-baking business. A home-catered lunch and an English Tea will be served on the terrace.

Admission to the house tour is included in the ticket for the day's events, which also include a parade, antiques show, arts and crafts exhibit and sales. Tickets at $4 for adults, $2 for children are available at Gasior's Furniture Store, Claudia's Salon, or Towne and Wine Liquor. They are also available in Harlingen on the day of the event.

Hours are 10 to 4. For additional information call 359-2560 or 359-6522.

PARENTS DAY, AUCTION At Peddie School. The Peddie School in Hightstown will hold its Spring Parents Day on Saturday. Parents are invited to visit all of their son's or daughter's teachers and advisor during the morning.

A luncheon for parents will then be held in the Robert O. Driver Dining Room. Remarks will be made by the headmaster F. Edward Potter Jr., and Dr. Joseph E. Nadeau, president of the Peddie Parents Association.

Athletic events that afternoon will include varsity and junior varsity baseball vs. Hightstown High School, and track vs. The HunSchool.

Later that afternoon the seventh annual Parents Association Auction will be held for parents and friends of the school. The auction will be open to the general public on Sunday

FRIDAY IS START Of Evening Tennis. Starting Friday, evening tennis will be available for all season ticket holders at the Community Park courts.

Courts can be reserved from 7:30 to 9:30 or 9 to 10:30. Reservation sheets are posted one and a half days in advance at 4:30 at the tennis courts.

TWO SCHOOLS TO MERGE Move to New Location. Asked to leave their present quarters, two of Princeton's longest running nursery schools will merge and move to a new location. In the process a new school will be formed which will have more flexible scheduling to suit today's working parents.

Trinity-All Saints' Nursery School, for many years at All Saints' Church on Van Dyke and All Saints' Roads, and Nassau Co-op Nursery School, which has been in existence for more than 30 years at three different locations, will become Nassau Nursery School. Come September 5, it will begin operation at the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, 454 Terhune Road.

The two schools will pool their resources and continue with most of the current staff. Jean McAndrew, the longtime director of All Saints' Nursery School is retiring, but Cynthia Chessler, director of Nassau Coop, will become director of the new entity. The teachers will be Nancy Matarese, Sharon Wright and Vicky Pehta of Nassau Coop and Jill Weatherall of Trinity.

The school will follow the schedule of the Princeton Regional School system. It will be open from 8:30 to 5:30 in a flexible, extended day program. In addition to the traditional morning nursery school from 9 to 12, children may come earlier or stay later on a regular basis or just on certain days.

BEATING THE DRUM FOR NEW SCHOOL: Michael Gibney, son of Tom and Pat Gibney of Kingston, attends Nassau Cooperative Nursery School. In the fall, his school will be merged with Trinity-All Saints' Nursery School to form Nassau Nursery School, located at the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club.

The new school will accept younger children than either of its predecessors did; children age 2½ may attend two or three days a week, and there will be four classes for 3- and 4-year-olds five days a week. Being a cooperating parent will be another option; formerly at Nassau Coop it was a requirement. Tuition rates will be scaled according to the length of day the child is there and how often the parent helps out.

According to Lyn Nosker, current president of the parents board at Nassau Coop, the school will have "a really nice large space" at the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club and a good sized outdoor area. Mrs. Nosker says the officers of the club are "delighted" to have a nursery school in its midst, and she hopes that by being located close to where the bulk of the Italian-American population of Princeton lives, the school will appeal to a segment of the population that traditionally has not taken advantage of pre-school opportunities for their children. A discount will be offered to children of club members, she says.

Although the name is new in the roster of Princeton nursery schools, Nassau Nursery School is not entirely a new school, Mrs. Nosker emphasizes. It will continue with the same experienced staff and well-rounded program of its predecessor schools and, like them, will be fully accredited.

For information call 924-0566 or 924-2793.

REPUBLICANS TO DINE On Roast Beef. The Republican Association of Princeton will hold a roast beef dinner this Sunday at 5 at The Elks Club, Route 518, Blawenburg.

The $20 ticket, which includes drinks, may be reserved by calling Nancy Henkel, 921-2527, or mailing a check to Mrs. Henkel at 277 Dodds Lane, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

NEXT FRIDAY DEADLINE To Register for Camp Program. A six-week day camp program for children in grades one through eight will be held this summer at the Valley Road School Field and Community Park.

The deadline to register for the Princeton Recreation sponsored program is next Friday, May 11. Registration forms are available at the Recreation Office.

The camps will begin in June and run through August 3. Activities include arts and crafts, sports and games, swimming and special events.

The fee for the Day Camp is $50 for the first child, $10 for each additional child. The camp runs from 9 to 3 Monday through Friday and after camp care is available until 5.

IT'S MAY, AT U-STORE For Kids, Authors. Children who like a party and anyone who likes to meet authors are invited on two days in May to the Princeton University Store, University Place.

An Authors' Party, to be held next Thursday, May 10 from 7 to 8:30 as part of the store's spring Book Festival, will present six authors from the area as guests of honor. They will autograph copies of their books if you should happen to buy a few in the U-Store's book department, and they will join you in refreshments.

Then, on Saturday, May 12, the store will hold Children's Day, presenting two shows — 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. — with Buddy the Clown and Garbanzo, and Marjorie's Musical Marionettes. There will be free cookies and cider, door prizes and, the U-Store promises, "more."

Among the six authors is Vincent Buranelli, co-author with his wife, Nan, of "Spy/Counterspy," an encyclopedia of espionage, and of "In the Long Run We Are All Dead," described as "a micro-economics murder mystery."

Keith Reid-Green, group head for manufacturing design techniques research at RCA, has written "Games Computers Play," a programming guide for people who want to design their own computer games. Programs in his book can be run on any computer, according to the author.

Patricia Carrington, former member of the psychology department at Princeton University, has written "Releasing," a behavioral-science method for dealing with pressure situations. She is also the author of "Freedom in Meditation."

Steven Schlosssteín's latest book is "Trade War: Greed, Power and Industrial Policy on Opposite Sides of the Pacific." A resident of Japan for over six years, he now lives in Princeton.

Alvin Schwartz, writer of children's books, has two new ones. They are "Fat Man in a Fur Coat and Other Bear Stories" and "In a Dark, Dark Room and Other Scary Stories."

ALUMNAE TO MEET At Stuart School. Alumnae of various schools conducted by the Religious of the Sacred Heart throughout the world meet annually in May at Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart in Princeton. They celebrate their common tradition and discuss its application to their lives today.

The fourth such gathering of the Associated Alumnae of the Sacred Heart of the Greater Princeton area will take place on Sunday at noon, at the school on Stuart Road. More

Housing

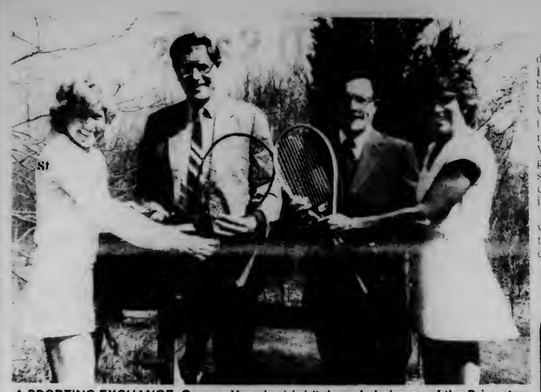
Both groups favor the idea of a Housing Trust Fund, to provide subsidies or incentives and even to develop housing on its own. The Borough group insists that it be a Borough Fund only, and not a community-wide one including the Township as well. The Planning Board never even got around to talking about such a Fund, although it is proposed by the consultants.

The question of funds for the Fund also seems to be an issue. The Borough group agreed that money should probably come from a variety of sources, including a percentage of the growth in tax revenues produced by additional housing; Federal and state sources; foundations and developers.

At the Planning Board level, the focus seems to be on developers as the chief source of money for the Fund.



The Planning Board has, in the past, emphasized giving developers a conditional density bonus, as a way of prodding them toward more lower-cost housing.

The Borough group proposed relaxing some zoning requirements, allowing more people to a house, additional units within a house or permitting elderly residents to add on a wing, thereby providing both income and additional housing.

Also, the Borough subcommittee declined to recommend mandatory set-asides, that is, requiring a builder to set aside a certain percentage of housing units for low or moderate housing.

In the past, Council has seemed to favor mandatory set-asides. But until the body has a chance to read and consider the report of its subcommittee, following the presentation this Thursday, the reactions of Council members cannot be known.

than 500 Sacred Heart alumnae have been invited.

The Rev. Thomas Bourque, TOR, will celebrate Mass in front of the "Mater" window. Sister Joan Magnetti, headmistress of Stuart Country Day School and an alumna of Manhattanville College, will give the welcome. Doris K. Donnelly, associate professor of Theology at St. John's University, New York, and visiting lecturer at Princeton Theological Seminary, will be guest speaker at the brunch which follows. Prof. Donnelly, a graduate of Manhattanville College and a trustee of Stuart, will discuss "Women Shaping the Church Today."

Any Sacred Heart alumna in the area who has not received an invitation should call Extension 25 at the school, 921-2330, for information.

BUSINESS AND TENNIS Will Mix in June. In the interest of supporting the Community Tennis Program here, Princeton's business executives and community leaders will have a chance to mix business with tennis on Thursday, June 14.

The tournament, the Princeton Tennis Classic, will be held from 12:30 to 4:30 on University, Community Park and Bedens Brook courts. Playoffs, prizes and cocktails will climax the event for all those participating.

Invitations have been sent to all area businesses, however any person interested in participating should contact Betty Cleveland at 924-4343.

The format will be competitive round robin play in flights based on ability level for both men's and mixed doubles teams. The entry fee is $250, $200 of which is tax deductible. Applications are available at the tennis office at 71 University Place.

GAS PUMP REVISION New Ordinance Introduced. Public hearing will be held next Tuesday (8 p.m., Borough Hall) on a new ordinance controlling the number of gasoline pumps at service stations in the Borough. Revisions suggested at last Thursday's Borough Council work session public hearing were sufficiently substantial to call for a new ordinance.

The measure states that a gasoline service station may have only three dispensing "towers," only six hoses with triggered nozzles and no more than two hoses per tower.

The Planning Board on Monday reviewed the ordinance, as required, and recommended passage.

Council also agreed to postpone discussion of Township Committee's request to share in the legal costs involved in the Mt. Laurel housing suit brought against the Township by Calton Homes.

TO DEDICATE TRAIL At Watersheds. Formal dedication of the Mary Lou Henschel Wildflower Trail will be held on Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Stony Brook - Millstone Watersheds Association. The trail is being established by members of the Hopewell Valley Garden Club with funds given in honor of Mrs. Henschel, who as conservation chair, helped start the project in 1982.

Native spring wildflowers will be on display Sunday, and the garden will be expanded over the next few years to include native woodland and openfield wildflower species.

The Rev. James Biggs of the First United Methodist Church of Pennington will conduct a brief ceremony at the site, during which a redwood sign honoring Mrs. Henschel will be placed at the beginning of the trail. After the ceremony all are invited to view the trail in progress, and enjoy a wildflower slide show and refreshments at the Headquarters Building on Titus Mill Road.

Further information is available from the Watersheds' office at 737-3735.

PROGRAMS LISTED

At Watersheds. Samples of bird behavior, bird songs and anecdotes from natural history will be presented in a special program at the Stony Brook - Millstone Watersheds Association.

Area birder and naturalist Dick Wood will lead participants in a two-session short course on May 9 at 8 p.m. and May 12 at 9 a.m. The evening class will feature a slide presentation and identification of bird songs. Mr. Wood will take participants on a walk at the Reserve on the following Saturday for observation of local birdlife.

The cost for members is $4, $5 for non members. Those interested should call the Watersheds Headquarters at 737-3735. Class size is limited to 12.

Additional Programs. The final two programs in the Thursday night film series will be offered on May 10 and May 24. The May 10th session will feature "The Garden of Eden," sponsored by the Nature Conservancy, and "Wild America: Who Needs It?" an Audubon film illustrating the interrelationship of city and country. On May 24, the program will take viewers on a slide hike through area geologic history.

Watersheds staff will now be available on Saturday mornings to show visitors through the facility and around the reserve, as well as answer questions. Hours are 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Titus Mill Road location near Pennington. Further information may be obtained by calling 737-3735.

Senior Resource Week Will Begin With Flea Market at Center Saturday

You don't have to be a senior citizen to spend time — and pennies — at "Englishtown in Princeton" this Saturday afternoon at the Senior Resource Center, Lloyd Terrace, North Harrison Street.

The flea market, art show, baked goods sale, awards ceremony has been planned for this Saturday from noon to 4 to launch Princeton Senior Resource Center Week, which will last from May 5 through 12.

The Week has been proclaimed by Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund and Township Mayor Winthrop Pike. Both will be present at 2 p.m. Saturday to present certificates to Princeton High School students who belong to the intergenerational program sponsored by the Youth Employment Service, the school and the Senior Resource Center. Students spend time with elderly friends, chatting with them, running errands or doing simple household tasks.

The snow-shoveling program will also be saluted. In this program, students from high school and Seminary shovel snow from the walks and driveways of elderly clients.

At "Englishtown in Princeton," visitors may buy in a flea market, praise (and perhaps buy) the work done in art and pottery classes by the 15 members of the Resource Center's Art Expressions group, sample baked goods from the ovens of cooks on Redding and Spruce Circles and nibble a free cookie.

"Vials of Life" for the elderly (plastic containers to be placed in a refrigerator with whatever medication is vital to the life of the owner) will also be distributed. They are available free from Mercer County.

The flea market could use donations, according to the Resource Center. Those with clothes or white-elephant items to donate are asked to call the Center at 924-7108 between 9 and 4:30 to arrange for appropriate delivery times.

Proceeds from all this will go toward support of Center activities. Cash donations are also welcome.

David C. Faus

NEW DEAN NAMED

At Hun School. David C. Faus, a longtime Princeton resident, has been appointed dean of students at the Hun School, a position he holds jointly with Dean Carol Arnold. Mr. Faus succeeds Peter Savidge, who was a member of the Hun School faculty for 17 years before joining Carnegie Center Associates in Princeton.

Mr. Faus is an alumnus of Hun in the Class of 1976. He is a graduate of Kenyon College where he majored in history and sociology and was president of the Kenyon Kokosingers, a male a capella singing group. Before joining the history department at Hun in 1981, Mr. Faus taught for a year at the Landon School in Bethesda, Md.

In addition to his duties as dean of students, he teaches economics and coaches wrestling and lacrosse. He was captain of the wrestling and lacrosse teams at Hun.

TALK IS SCHEDULED

On Special Children. The Princeton Child Development Institute will present a talk Thursday, May 10, at 3 by Dr. Todd R. Risley on the optimum residential and educational environments for children with developmental disorders.

Entitled "Living Environments for Special Children," the presentation will take place at the Campus Center of Princeton Theological Seminary and will be followed by a reception at Morven at 4:30. The public is invited to the talk, which will be of special interest to researchers, program administrators and service providers.

Dr. Risley is a behavioral scientists and a founder of the discipline of applied behavior analysis. In 1964 he and two others achieved the first effective and socially significant behavior intervention for an autistic child. Presently with the Universities of Alaska and Kansas, he is on the advisory board of the Princeton Child Development Institute, an educational and research center for autistic children.

Participate In National High Blood Pressure Month May, 1984

High blood pressure is recognized as a major public health problem. Currently, 60 million American adults face an increased risk of stroke, heart and kidney disease due to high blood pressure. In fact, over one-third of all employees in the U.S. have high blood pressure – and may not even know it!

The tragedy of premature death and disability from uncontrolled hypertension is avoidable. Poor fitness is America's number one health problem. The American Heart Association warns that "a sedentary life style may increase the risk of having a heart attack and regular exercise is considered an important influence in reducing that risk." The AHA also says that corporations lose $700 million every year just in recruiting people to replace executives who have died prematurely from heart attacks.

What Can You Do?

If you are overweight, shedding those extra pounds can do more than shrink your waistline; it might also lower your blood pressure. High blood pressure is twice as common among overweight people as those of desired weight. Hypertension? Cut back on salt intake, on smoking and get more exercise –particularly in a regular, controlled exercise program.

Princeton Nautilus Fitness Center and ExerDance, as a member of the American Heart Association, want the people of the Princeton area to guard against high blood pressure and hypertension. In recognizing May as National High Blood Pressure Month we invite you to exercise and to participate with us in ExerDance for Heart this Saturday from 10 to 4 on the Palmer Square green. Rain date is the following Saturday.

Nassau Inn will donate orange juice throughout the day, the Lawrenceville School will donate their mats, and the Princeton Rescue Squad their tables.

More than 100 participants in the Nautilus ExerDance Program have signed up to raise money for the benefit of the American Heart Association by obtaining sponsors for every minute they dance. More are invited. Each person that registers will receive a Dance For Heart T-Shirt and one FREE dance class from ExerDance.

Come and learn how to take your pulse, find your "target zone" and ExerDance for your heart.

PEOPLE In the News

Toby Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clark of Mercer Street, is one of seven teenagers from Mercer County selected to represent the state of New Jersey at a national conference for youth on drinking and driving sponsored by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. The conference is one component of a national initiative to prevent alcohol abuse among teenagers and to help reduce the number of teenage deaths and injuries caused each year by drinking and driving.

Toby is a student at Princeton High School. He was selected for this all-expense paid conference on the basis of demonstrated leadership qualities. Participants will learn how to develop programs for combatting drinking and driving.

Sonya B. Rost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manfred R. Rost, 644 Kingston Road, was named to the Dean's List with honor for the winter quarter at Northeastern University, Boston, Mass.

Tom Predhome, son of Mr. and Mrs. R.C. Predhome of 40 Bayberry Road, is one of four students whose work has been selected for the fourth annual New Play Festival at Carnegie-Mellon University where he is a senior majoring in playwrighting.

His three-act play is called "Comedy in Exile." It is set in Jamaica and is described by the author as "a farcicial look at government law in Central America, mixing humor with a serious issue."

Wayne Meisel Charts Crusade Involving Students

A young man who spent many of his formative years in this town and gown community came through here last week to promote his mission of bringing students and the community together for their mutual benefit.

Wayne Meisel, son of the former minister of First (now Nassau) Presbyterian Church Donald Meisel, made Princeton one of the stops on his Walk for Action, a crusade to channel the energies and resourcefulness of students into community projects. Wayne began his solo Walk in Orono, Maine, on January 6, and was planning to stop at more than 100 colleges and universities in some 80 communities before ending in Washington, D.C. in late May.

An alumnus of the Lawrenceville School who graduated from Harvard in 1982, Wayne stayed on at Harvard an extra year to initiate and implement a community action program of the kind he'd like to see taking place between campuses and communities everywhere. In that year, more than 300 students became involved on a weekly basis in a wide range of community activites, from coaching and tutoring to weatherizing low income homes.

He believes that the negative image of students as apathetic and concerned only with their own career advancement is a cover-up for the social consciousness, altruism and interest that is waiting to be tapped and put to use. He also believes firmly that community service helps students develop skills, self-confidence and a sense of purpose that will help them in their future educational and career choices.

However, there are often structural problems in the community and the college that make community service difficult, frustrating and often unrewarding. Wayne feels that given communication, cooperation and creative planning on the part of schools, the communities in which they are located, and the students, a climate can be created to engage young people in civic-minded activities and provide immediate and needed services to the community.

He recommends that schools hire a recent graduate to stay on the campus for an additional year in order to provide the leadership and energy to assist in putting community service efforts in place. He also urges college and university administrations to make community service a matter of priority and emphasis through "their example, rhetoric and authority."

Wayne has put his ideas into a pamphlet, which he has been distributing on campuses. He has been speaking to students, campus groups, college administrators and community leaders, acting as what he calls a "fly-by-night consultant" and collecting 14 notebooks of information from interviews. He plans to spend the summer organizing the results of his Walk for Action into some sort of written form.

W. Robert Moore, senior vice president at Chemical Bank and a resident of Skillman, has been elected chairman of S.W.I.F.T., the Society for Worldwide Interbank Financial Telecommunications. He is the first non-European to hold the post since the organization was formed 11 years ago.

Mr. Moore's connection with the organization began when he served as a Chemical Bank liaison during S.W.I.F.T.'s inception as a pilot project in the early 1970s. He has served as deputy chairman of S.W.I.F.T. for six years, and since 1975 has been a member of its board of directors and chairman of the S.W.I.F.T. U.S. National Group.

Dr. Michael J. Carr, 25 Moran Avenue, an associate professor of geological science at Rutgers University, has received a two-year grant of $79,100 from the National Science Foundation to pursue his studies of volcanoes in Central America.

Dr. Carr, who has been with Rutgers since 1974, has conducted research for 14 years on volcanoes in Guatemala, El Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica to determine why and how they erupt in certain areas.

He has determined that the chemistry of the lavas varies with the thickness of the earth's crust beneath the volcano, and with the size of the volcano itself. The current grant will be used to help analyze these findings.

A graduate of Dartmouth College with A.B. and Ph.D. degrees, Dr. Carr teaches petrology and geophysics at Rutgers.

Freshman attackman Ebe Metcalf, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Metcalf, 23 Toth Lane, Rocky Hill, is in the midst of an outstanding rookie season for the Colgate University lacrosse team. The 5-9, 150 pound Metcalf, a Princeton Day graduate, is second on the club in scoring with eleven goals and seven assists. His eleven goals leads the team.

Metcalf has already had a number of notable performances this spring. He had two goals against Rochester, three assists against Clarkson, two assists against R.P.E. and the hat trick against R.I.T.

Marine First Lt. J. David Donahue, son of John J. and Dorothy R. Donahue of 188 Herrontown Road, has returned from deployment to Fort Pickett, Va.

He is an officer assigned to Marine Light Helicopter Squadron 167, Second Marine Aircraft Wing, Marine corps Helicopter Air Station New River, Jacksonville, N.C.

Jogging? Who? Me?

You've finally given in. You've seen joggers ascending the steeps of The Great Road, lapping up the towpath by Lake Carnegie, even trying to cross Nassau Street.

They seem alive and well. Even happy. So you've decided to make a run for it. Here is some advice from the Federal Consumer Information Center, and if you want even more, you can write for a free copy of "Successful Jogging." Send postcard to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 575-J, Pueblo, Colorado, 81009.

First . . .

Get a check-up from your doctor. If you can, choose a doctor who is a jogger or runner. Maybe you can pick up some advice.

Second . . .

You need jogging shoes. Sneakers or tennis shoes won't do. Look for a thick, layered sole, running the full length of the shoe, with a soft inner layer for cushioning and a tough outer one to absorb shock. There should also be an elevated heel, to reduce strain on your Achilles tendon.

Ready?

Decide to jog four or five times a week.

Don't run right after eating.

Warm up first with stretching exercises.

Cool down afterwards with a walk.

It may take you some time to develop a good stride. Jogging isn't the same as – for example – sprinting to first base or running to catch a bus. Don't bounce on the balls of your feet. Roll your weight smoothly from heel to toe.

If you can, jog on smooth, flat surfaces. If you must run on pavement, blacktop (asphalt) is better than concrete because it has more resilience, more "give."

Mix long runs and short runs. Vary the route you take, and the distance you travel. A change of scenery will also keep you from being bored, and boredom is one of the things that makes joggers give up and shrug the whole thing off.

"Train, don't strain." If you find you're panting too hard to speak normally, slow down. You're going too fast.

Slow down – and enjoy.

Dear Brooke

Incidentally, the most critical comment I heard about you last week came from the friend of a friend of an undergraduate who asked you to be his date at a play in New York. The rumor is that you and he rode into the city in your car and that you did homework all the way up and back. Even if the story is true, it's not so bad. I've seen students studying in church. Besides, the guy might have been a total bore.

Now Triangle. Naturally some people couldn't understand all the fuss: "She's not so pretty. She's not such a hot dancer." Meanwhile, as I'm sure you would admit, you were performing with an awfully talented bunch of people. Anyone who saw Revel Without a Pause would conclude that the undergraduate women (more so than men because the women have had more training) are an extremely talented lot. And so some people kept asking, "Why does Brooke deserve so much attention?"

When I came backstage after opening night I thought I detected exactly that kind of jealousy. I already had heard a comment from one cast member, Margaret McGlynn, who told a reporter it was a "bummer" to be "grinding away" in Princeton while you were with Michael Jackson at the Grammy awards. Then, backstage, I saw another cast member, Suzanne Keith, throw you a look that might have killed you if your bodyguard wasn't standing right there.

I figured Suzanne would have every reason to be jealous: she has the same kind of good looks as you do; she has more lines in the show; and she even has a credit for lyrics and sketches. No review I saw even mentioned her name — and she's a junior and you're only a freshman. But when I talked with Suzanne I discovered a more complicated reaction. The media attention focussed on your part in the show, she felt, "took some of the Triangle camaraderie out of it." The fault wasn't yours or even the media's, she said. "There is no blame to be placed. We all felt she was one of us and then suddenly we realized the rest of the world didn't think that way." As her friend and fellow cast member Red Barrett said, "We had all forgotten that Brooke was world famous until the day before the show."

In other words, the Triangle kids didn't forget that you were down stuffing envelopes with them at the same time the videotaped American Music Awards with you and Michael were being aired. And the Triangle kids realize, too, that your kind of mega-celebrity status is not achieved by passing some rigorous, objective examination. I mean, how well would Andy Warhol do in Art 101?

Who's Dreaming?. The AAMH auction was a lot of fun. Sure, you flubbed a few lines and got a little flustered, but Art Buchwald isn't exactly a Senate orator. He had a good line when someone asked him if he had ever met you before: "No, but I dreamed about her a lot."

You had me worried when you said you had never even been to an auction before and you were afraid of making "a wrong move and buying a trip or something." But your mother says that she's the only spendthrift in the family. "Brooke's tight fisted," she said. "She's more clever than I about her money. If I had her money I'd be gone — that's why she gives me a weekly salary."

I thought the best part of the evening was when Sheldon Hackney (he's a former Princeton provost who's now president of the University of Pennsylvania) singled out the winner in the bidding for the five-minute photo session with you, Brooke. A lot of people thought a man would take that one but the high bid of $850 came from Louise Samaroo, a Palmer Square lawyer. She says she has three daughters who admire you and that she respects you, as well. "It's a woman supporting a woman for a good cause," she said.

As we were heading out of Conant Hall Buchwald quipped, "And now there's only one sex symbol left in the room." Not a bad line.

BEARS AND BROOKE: The T-shirt says "In Bears We Trust" and the bears delivered for Brooke Shields, whose stage debut at Princeton in the 95th Triangle Show was a commercial and critical success. Brooke's roles were modest, befitting a freshman, but "adroitly played," commented the student newspaper. (Photos by Michaela McMillan)

All in all you had a pretty good week, which I think accurately reflects your year. In your interview with Gene Shalit you admitted that it wasn't easy at first. You said other students were reluctant to come up and talk. "In essence no one was coming up to me ... The first two weeks were horrible. I cried every night. I called my mother every night." But, as you pointed out, you made the extra effort and now you're making friends, as well.

That initial difficulty brings up a concern that I still have, however. I worry that trying to be a typical student is an impossible goal, given your stature as a celebrity and the pervasiveness of the media. I think back to Bill Bradley's days as a student. Even though most people viewed him as totally unpretentious, crazy stories still circulated about him — that he found a bunch of homosexuals in the C Floor of Firestone Library and personally evicted them; that he told people at club parties that he, unlike them, didn't have to drink to have a good time, and so on.

I think you shouldn't hide from the reality that you are an unusual undergraduate, and then work from there to be accepted as a decent person and a serious student.

'Content and Cozy?' One of the persistent stories about you is that you no longer live on campus. Detractors use that to argue that you really aren't as big a part of the University community as people might think. Supporters say that points up how difficult it is for you to escape the glare of the public.

Your mom insists that you have no such place and don't need one. "The dorm has worked out well," she told me. "Brooke feels very content and cozy." I hope that's the case, despite what many other people say about seeing you at an in-town apartment, because you shouldn't have to apologize for the need to live off campus. After all, the kids at the student newspaper aren't expected to perform their extracurricular activities in their dorm rooms; they practically live at 48 University Place. And you, with all your activities, deserve a place of your own.

That's why I thought your first scene in the Triangle Show was so appropriate: Of course you're a typical undergraduate — you're taking 17 units. It noted your special status without putting you on an inaccessible pedestal. A little more of that and your days here might pass with not much more turmoil than the any other undergraduate's.

The best news I heard in the past week was the sentiment expressed by several Triangle members hoping you would return to do more shows in future years. And that dovetailed neatly with your mother's prediction that you would work straight through for your Princeton diploma. She says you're enjoying college immensely and that she would have no complaints if your college studies took you completely away from show business. Why not be open to the possibility?

Good luck in your summer activities. Your mom says that you're hoping to do a little traveling, get reacquainted with your three horses, and maybe produce an exercise tape for children. We and no doubt many fans of Triangle and supporters of the AAMH all hope you'll be back in the fall. Until then,

Be good,

Richard K. Rein

BUSINESS

ADR TO YEDLIN

Signs Lease. Applied Data Research has signed a lease with Yedlin Associates for the entire second floor of Herrontown 1000 North, built by Benedict and Charlie Yedlin on Herrontown Road. ADR will move in June 1.

Headquarters for the computer software firm are on a 40-acre site a few miles from Herrontown 1000 on Route 206. The second floor space just leased, comprises 10,188 square feet.

The office building, designed by Princeton architects Lovrek Associates, is now 75 percent leased, according to Charlie Yedlin. Other tenants are Helmsley Spear, Inc., Burke, O'Brien & Bishop Associates and John F. Harper.

SEMINAR FOR WOMEN

At Investment Firm. The Princeton office of Prudential-Bache Securities will hold a seminar for "Women Only" Thursday, May 10, from 10:30 to 2:30 at the Ramada Inn, Route 1 at Ridge Road. It is planned for women who are interested in investing as a means of protection and growth for their capital.

Speakers will be Elizabeth J. Thomas, assistant press secretary to Governor Kean, Denise Matejic, family resource management specialist, assistant extension professor, Rutgers University, Cook College, Joyce M. Usiskin, attorney, Jean Corradi, C.P.A., Withum, Smith & Brown, and Lyle Gary and Stephen Taksler, vice president, investments, Prudential Bache Securities.

Registration is $20, or $150 per table of 10 and is tax deductible. To register, call Kathleen Bankson at (800) 221-1492.

SALES, EARNINGS UP

At Gulton. Net earnings for Gulton Industries, Inc. for the year ended February 25, 1984 were $5,216,000 or $1.51 per share compared with $4,017,000 or $1.19 per share in fiscal 1983.

Fiscal 1983 earnings are after a loss of $640,000 or 19 cents per share, from discontinued operations. Sales in fiscal 1984 were $152,204,000 versus $156,769,000 last year.

Earnings for the fourth quarter ended February 25, 1984 were $2,216,000 or 65 cents per share compared with $1,620,000 or 49 cents per share in the fourth quarter of fiscal 1983. Sales for the fourth quarter in fiscal 1984 were $37,285,000 versus $37,209,000 in last year's final quarter.

According to Walter F. Gips Jr., chairman, continued improvement in earnings resulted from better gross margins and lower fixed costs. These, in turn, came about from more efficient operations and from long-term strategic planning which identified more profitable product-market combinations, he said. The decline in sales is due to divestiture of two divisions.

RESTAURANT LISTED

With Travel Guide. Good Time Charley's Restaurant, 40 Main Street, Kingston, has been listed in the 1984 edition of the Mobil Travel Guide. The announcement was made by owner Merrill Zinder.

More than 20,000 restaurants, motels and resorts are listed and rated in the seven volume Guide which has been compared by travel experts to the renowned Guide Michelin. To be listed, an establishment must be inspected by a trained inspector and meet the standards required by the completely-independent Mobil Travel Guide.

PUBLISHER TO SPEAK

At Chamber Lunch. Richard Bilotti, publisher of the Trenton Times, will discuss freedom of the press at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce to be held this Thursday at noon at Scanticon-Princeton.

Reservations may be made at 921-7676. Lunch is $8.50.

BULLETIN NOTES

The First Baptist Church, Joan Street and Paul Robeson Place, will present "A New Beginning," an indoor garden tea party Sunday from 4 to 6 as the Women's Day Benefit. The donation is $3.

Joyce L. Holland is chair and Willie Mae Tadlock co-chair of the event. The Rev. Edward Smith is pastor.

The Rev. Dr. Edmund A. Steimle of Union Theological Seminary in New York City will preach Sunday at 11 at the Princeton University Chapel. His sermon title is "The Stranger."

Princeton Hadassah will hold its second annual plant sale Sunday from 9:30 to 2 at the Jewish Center, 457 Nassau Street. Annuals, perennials, herbs and vegetables will be available. Large orders may be placed in advance by calling Fredrika Schwerin, 921-8008 or Lynn Liebling, 737-9297.

Christians Concerned for Life will hold a public meeting Thursday at 7:30 at the Nassau Christian Center, 26 Nassau Street. The film, "A Matter of Choice," a series of interviews on the abortion issue, will be shown.

The evening will also consist of a short business meeting and a shower for the newly formed Mount Hope Home for Unwed Mothers which is planned in West Amwell Township. The home plans to begin service in four to five months. It will be administered by a board under the direction of the Rev. Jesse Owens, pastor of Nassau Christian Center. Baby gifts, new and hand-me-down baby and maternity clothes and new and used baby furniture are welcome for the shower.

Refreshments will be served. For information call 586-0784, evenings, or Mr. Owens at the Nassau Christian Center, 921-0981.

The Women's Guild and the Men's Brotherhood of the Six Mile Run Reformed Church, Route 27, Franklin Park, will hold their "Spring Fish Fry" on Wednesday, May 9. Dinner will be served from 5 to 7 and will include batter fried fish, french fries, cole slaw, french bread, homemade pie and coffee, tea, or milk.

Mackie Csontos of North Brunswick is chair of the Fish Fry, with Marian Traver, Vera Wilson and Mrs. Bert Norton heading committees in charge of the kitchen. Walt Adams and Wesley Welch are in charge of the dining room.

Tickets are available to the public at $4.75 per adult and $2.25 for children under 12. For reservations, which are preferred, call Helen Maynard, 297-3734; tickets may also be purchased at the door.

The Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church will hold a post-Easter Revival on May 6-9. The theme, "I Believe," will be addressed each evening by the Rev. William Watley, assistant director of the Consultation on Church Union.

The opening service on Sunday will begin at 5. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 7-9, there will be a time for prayer, song and testimony at 7:30 before the regular service at 8. Each evening there will be visiting clergy and choirs participating in the service.

Refreshments will be served after each service in the Fellowship Hall. The public is invited.

The Lutheran Church of the Messiah, 407 Nassau Street, will continue its Easter celebration with the presentation of J.S. Bach's Easter Cantata No. 4, Christ Lay in Death's Dark Prison, Sunday at the 10:30 a.m. service.

Soloists are Vicki Pehta and Debbie Zak, sopranos; Nancy Lee, mezzo-soprano; Hans Lee, tenor; and Dr. Holly Mertel, bass. An instrumental ensemble will join organist John Peck in accompanying the soloists and choir directed by Jean Breza.

The community is invited.

Evangelist Darlene Sizemore will minister at a meeting of The Gospel Fellowship of Plainsboro Sunday morning at 10 at the Plainsboro Fire Hall, Plainsboro Road.

All are invited to come for a morning of singing, worship and teaching. There will also be a time of prayer and personal ministry led by Ms. Sizemore during the meeting. For further information call 921-0267 or 799-5385.

OBITUARIES

June Heald, 91 of Swarthmore, Pa., a former Princeton resident died April 16 at Riddle Memorial Hospital, Lima, Pa.

Mrs. Heald was born in Canton, Ill., and in 1914 married Mark M. Heald. They settled in Princeton in 1925, building a house on a new tract on north Moore Street. Mr. Heald, who was a professor of history at Rutgers University, died in 1971.

During World War I, while her husband served in the infantry in France, Mrs. Heald worked for the government in Washington, D.C. In the late 1930s, she prepared mural size charts with which economist Hans Heyman presented his plan for world government to President Roosevelt.

During World War II, she drove a civil defense emergency vehicle in Princeton. Mrs. Heald organized the cub scouting program in Princeton and was active in the League of Women Voters. She enjoyed activities at the YWCA and was a longtime member of the Present Day Club, the Music Club and the Saturday Night Discussion Group.

She and her husband were founding members of the Unitarian Church of Princeton. She moved to Swarthmore in 1979 and became active in the Swarthmore Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are her son, Mark A. Heald and three grandchildren, Kathryn, John and Charles.

A memorial service will be held Saturday, May 12, at 4:30 at the Unitarian Church of Princeton. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations in her memory to the National Support Center for Families of the Aging, P.O. Box 249, Swarthmore, Pa. 19081.

Elaine G. D. Allen, 69, of Pennington, died April 25 in the University of Pennsylvania Hospital, Philadelphia.

Born in Hightstown, Mrs. Allen had lived in the Pennington area for 26 years. She was a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Pennington Fire Company.

Surviving are her husband, Walter F. Allen; three daughters, Theresa Allen, Connie Miller and Nancy Allen, all of Pennington; a son, Norman Allen of Edgewater Park; a granddaughter, Stephanie Allen of Edgewater Park; her mother, Rebecca DiIorio of Hightstown; and two sisters, Beverly Dzurinko of Paoli, Pa., and Rosemary Byrne of Hightstown.

Requiem Liturgy was held in St. Mary of the Assumption Byzantine Catholic Church, Trenton, with burial in Highland Cemetery, Hopewell.

Grace L. Hunt, 79, of East Prospect Street, Hopewell, died April 25 at the Raritan Health and Extension Care Center after a long illness.

Born in Whitehouse, Mrs. Hunt was a longtime resident of Hopewell. She was a member of the Calvary Baptist Church of Hopewell and the Thirty-niners.

Wife of the late E. Elston Hunt, she is survived by three sisters, Lillie M. Dow of Branchburg Township, Myrtle C. Wharton of Hamilton Square and Fern Danberry of Lawrenceville; and a brother, Theodore Conover of Charlotte Harbor, Fla.

The service was held at a Hopewell memorial home, the Rev. Dr. Gary Staats, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in Pennington Cemetery.

Ruth G. M. McConnell, 85, died April 25 in Princeton Nursing Home.

Born in South Carolina, Mrs. McConnell had lived in Brooklyn, N.Y., and Philadelphia before moving to Princeton more than 20 years ago.

Wife of the late William McConnell, she is survived by a niece, Irby Davis of Princeton and two grand-nephews, Geoffrey M. and Charleton D. Houston, both of Princeton; and a half-sister, Maude Baker of Philadelphia.

Elizabeth Gauck, 57, of Pennington, died April 25 in Mercer Medical Center.

A lifelong area resident, Mrs. Gauck was the former manager of Carl Fisher Candies of Pennytown, Hopewell Township.

Wife of the late Walter Gauck, she is survived by two daughters, Janice E. Gauck at home and Diane M. Quinlan of Philadelphia; three brothers, George and William Johnston, both of Trenton and Walter Johnston of Somerville; and four sisters, Caroline Jones, Alma Johnston, Mary Jane Alvarado and Margaret Johnston, all of Trenton.

The service was held at a Pennington funeral home, the Rev. James H. Biggs, pastor of the First United Methodist Church, Pennington, officiating. Burial was in Harbourton Cemetery.

David Burks of Ziff Lane, Princeton Junction, died April 17 in Columbus, Ohio.

Dr. Burks was a profesor of history at Hunter College/CUNY, New York City. He was an executive officer of the Professional Staff Congress and a leader in the Association of American Professors.

He is survived by two daughters, Maria A. Burks of San Francisco and Ramona J. Burks of Washington, D.C., and a son, Stephen Burks of Cleveland, Ohio.

A memorial service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 2:15 at Hunter College. Memorial contributions may be made in his name to the Belle Zeller Scholarship Trust Fund, in care of Professional Staff Congress, 25 West 43rd Street, New York, N.Y. 10036.

Anna M. Pfister, 68, of Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill, died May 1 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Perth Amboy, Mrs. Pfister lived in Rocky Hill for 36 years. She retired in 1981 from the Rocky Hill Post Office, where she had been employed as a postal clerk for 22 years. She ws a member of the Montgomery Township Senior Citizens Club and the 76ers of Rocky Hill.

Survivors include her husband, Joseph A. Pfister; two sons, Donald J. of Hopewell and Robert G. Pfister of North Plainsfield, and six grandchildren.

The service will be held this Thursday at 10 at the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue, the Rev. Ruth W. Fries, pastor of the First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill, officiating. Burial will follow in Rocky Hill Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to either the Rocky Hill Fire Company or to the Rocky Hill First Aid Squad.

LET'S TALK ABOUT INVITING BIRDS TO YOUR HOME with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates
While it is not a good idea to put out bird food in summer, you can attract birds by using certain landscaping techniques and by planting some favorite foods. Trees like - Autumn Olive, Flowering Dogwood and Eastern Red Cedar can provide natural food while beautifying your property. With a little preplanning you can arrange to provide food all year round. Some plants provide food in fall, some in summer and some in w[illegible] Variety is important in order to attract the largest number of species. If you like Cardinals, Sparrows and Finches, you might try planting a small area with grasses like buckwheat, millet and sunflower. Warblers will gorge themselves on bayberries and Robins will feast on dogwood berries.
To keep your trees and shrubs healthy, give WOODWINDS a call for your annual feeding and maintenance. We are glad to be of service.

BALCORT DRIVE

So near - it's just a few minutes from town. So far - it enjoys the serenity of the countryside. This sparkling white colonial, big and beautiful, is perfect for a growing family. Inviting center hall with flagstone floor, powder room, gracious living room with fireplace, formal dining room, modern eat-in kitchen, den or office, family room with second fireplace opening to deck overlooking nature's landscaping of tall trees and boulders. Four bedrooms and two baths on second floor. Full basement and two car garage. $290,000

WEST BROAD STREET

Hopewell - a quaint historic village which has managed to retain its character in these modern times. Maintaining that tradition, this Colonial with its simple classic lines offers gracious living with its spacious rooms including four bedrooms and two and one-half baths. An office wing is an added bonus. $179,500

ROLLING HILL ROAD

A special house on a special road and at a special price! The rolling countryside and the nearby Bedens Brook Club are two of the attractions of this unusual contemporary. The important third attraction is that it is priced well below its handsome neighbors. With three plus acres of Greenacres behind it, it offers: gracious living areas with two fireplaces, four bedrooms and three baths. $325,000

ELM RIDGE PARK

Just west of Princeton - this group of attractive houses in nearby Hopewell Township has become one of the area's most desirable locations. Large lots and a picturesque lake add to the appeal. Two fine new colonials are under construction by one of our most respected builders and will be ready for Fall occupancy. Call for details while some modifications and selections can be made. Prices on request

MARKHAM SQUARE

An address which means townhouses of brick construction, interesting contemporary design and a convenient location. This one is of special interest since it is one of two attached houses and so has the advantages of an end unit. Overlooking the historic McCosh house and its own walled courtyard, the light bright rooms include: living room with fireplace, dining room, modern kitchen, den opening to deck, three bedrooms, two baths. Basement and garage. $245,000

PRETTY BROOK ROAD

Spring has officially arrived and soon will bring this delightful road in western Princeton to its full beauty. The natural woodland and rippling brook create a rural scene yet it is near town. Rarely is a house available here so this one is of special interest. Gracious living areas overlooking beautiful grounds, four bedrooms, two full baths and two half baths. $315,000

SURPRISE, SURPRISE!

That's what you'll have when you walk into this seemingly modest split-level! Four bedrooms, 2 tiled baths, a recreation room - all make for easy family living - but the really exciting feature is the stunning new Great Room added at the rear. Cathedral ceilinged, with Mexican tiled floor and second fireplace, it opens to a state of the arts gourmet kitchen and adjacent wet bar area - and then to a formal "parlor" or dining room. A most flexible plan to fit your needs or living style!

All set high on a hillside "in the Village" of Lawrenceville on a peaceful third acre - but within a block of New York and local buses. Absolutely heaven for a mother who's tired of car-pooling everywhere! $155,000 and a pretty one, too! Situated on about ¾ acres near the Province Hill area of Lawrence Township, it's just minutes from downtown Princeton. Attractive living room with fireplace, dining room with pine wainscotting, cozy panelled study or den. Four bedrooms, 1½ baths, screened porch overlooking flagstone terrace and pretty grounds. Solidly built by Houghton, with plaster walls, and of course, oak floors.

Asking $159,500

FIVE QUEENSTON PLACE, PRINCETON

SOLD before advertised! This adorable 3 bedroom, 1½ bath cape sited on a quiet private street is one of our many desirable current listings.

Call us now and list your housing needs and requirements with us so you can be "in the know first." The real estate market is very fast moving this spring — A word to the wise!

WHY BUY A TOWN HOUSE

when you can buy this pretty brick and frame ranch in Princeton Township. Living room with fireplace, formal dining room with bay window and built-in corner cupboard, newly remodeled kitchen, two large bedrooms and den or third bedroom - and a guaranteed to be dry, finished basement. Outside, there's a flagstone patio shaded by mature trees and lovely old rhododendrons. Perfect for the small family or retired couple.

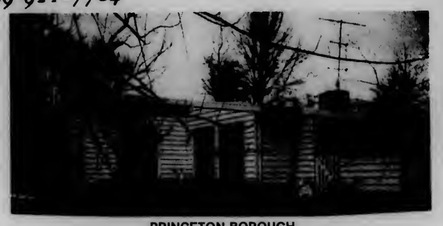
BEDENS BROOK

Stewardson-Dougherty is pleased to offer the most important property in the Bedens Brook area. Maintained and improved by a prominent owner this 18th Century New Jersey farmhouse retains much of the charm of yesteryear including wide pine floors, three fireplaces, beamed ceilings, panelling, and antique built-in corner cupboard, etc. Overall, it has a manageable twelve rooms and four and one half baths. Plus a most attractive garage apartment complex with a spacious and very rentable three bedroom apartment and eleven garage spaces. All of this is surrounded by fourteen beautiful acres traversed by Bedens Brook which is controlled and enhanced by handsome stone bridges and stone retaining walls. Meadows, flowering trees, and gardens complete the scene. More land available. $690,000



WINFIELD ROAD

This stunning brick and clapboard Colonial is located on two manicured acres in the heart of Princeton Township's estate area. Gracious entry hall leads to a well proportioned step down living room with bay window and fireplace; a spacious formal dining room; panelled library; very efficient kitchen with pass-through to a large family room. Upstairs there is a private master suite with dressing area and its own full bath, plus four other bedrooms and two baths. Full walk-up attic, full basement, two-car garage. Two other flagstone patios with access by French doors from the main house overlook a sparkling in-ground pool. $595,000

NORTHWEST PRINCETON

This triple award winning contemporary — architect J. Robert Hillier's own house — is a testament to architectural excellence. Its unusual mirrored and glass exterior blends with and reflects the dramatic three plus acre site - forrest trees, boulders, streams and beautifully shrubbed and landscaped garden areas. A brick circular drive-around and courtyard with fountain leads to the raised covered walkway surrounding the house. Inside, entry way with closets looks into a dramatic dining atrium with multiple skylights; a living room with a unique circular fireplace; an adjoining study; a family room or separate dining room adjoins a fully equipped center island kitchen with an enclosed inlaid wood breakfast nook plus a laundry corner; master bedroom suite with adjoining bath; two other bedrooms and bath. All rooms have sliding doors to the outside. Among the many features are marble floors, mahogany trim, oversized doors, extensive lighting system indoors and out, burglar alarm, and central air. IT MUST BE SEEN!!! $459,000

PRINCETON BOROUGH

A neat one story Contemporary with surprising space and privacy just a block from Nassau Street. Bright living room with dining area and raised hearth fireplace, spacious kitchen, comfortable master bedroom with its own bath and two walk-in closets, three other bedrooms, and a bath and a half. Lovely grounds overlooking Harry's Brook plus a new 40 foot fenced swimming pool. Flagstone terrace, redwood deck. Central air. $200,000

RAINBOW HILL

John Garrison carefully built his home from local stone in 1740 locating it on a hillside with long vistas of the Amwell Valley, facing the Sourland Mountains, and the sun, to the south. "New" frame additions were made in 1790 and 1819, and today everything is still much as it was. The six fireplaces (two walk-in and three with Adams mantles), wainscoating, chairrails, wide pine floors, and surrounding countryside. There have been a few modern improvements such as three baths, a multi-fuel boiler, insulation, and roads that take you to Princeton in less than thirty minutes. The rooms are large and gracious with a front-to-back center hall, living room, dining room, kitchen, family room, and apartment with a separate entrance on the first floor, and four bedrooms, including a study or nursery and a laundry room in the master suite, on the second floor. The six acre parcel is further enhanced by a five stall stable built on the old barn foundation, whiteboard fencing, shade trees, gardens, lawns and pastures. It is a very special property and we are pleased to offer it for $318,500

MEADOWBROOK

In this quiet neighborhood off Snowden Lane an expanded multi-level Colonial with loads of special features. Lovely living room with bay window, dining room, kitchen with breakfast space, new enclosed porch plus marvelous new studio room 19 x 21 with high ceilings, bookcases, etc. Upstairs on two levels, five spacious bedrooms and two baths. Lower level with large family room with fireplace. Mature shade trees and landscaping. Full size paddle tennis court. $265,000

COLFAX

CHIMACOFF, COLFAX AND YOU ... PERFECT TOGETHER!

Alan Chimacoff, famed Princeton architect, comes to COLFAX with just one of the splendid new designs specifically planned for one of the exquisite lots still available.

This particular plan represents an expansive country estate in the classic American tradition blending recognized building materials of wood, stone and stucco into a beautiful, imposing structure.

A 60 foot long gallery creates a handsome impression as one enters from the large circular foyer. There is a tremendous two story living room with French doors opening to a stone slab terrace. An oversized den or library with a powder room and corner stone fireplace complete the Western wing. A formal dining room with rotunda-like windows, a superlative, modern kitchen and two-story family/dining area face the South to take advantage of the sun to brighten and cheer the entire house. Upstairs there is a splendid master suite, and three other bedrooms with three baths. Garage and patios, of course.

Call your nearest Henderson office for the exclusive details on this Alan Chimacoff design or one of the many other outstanding plans available for COLFAX. Or bring in your own plans for review by our architectural committee. But please do it soon; there are only 13 sites remaining.

At COLFAX you'll find a lovely very private cul-de-sac lined with Norway Maples and Belgium Block Curbs winding its way upwards for perhaps the most spectacular views. Each building lot has been carefully delineated with rows of flowering dogwoods for beauty and privacy. Absolutely perfect to create your own private world.

The name is COLFAX. And COLFAX may well be the most beautiful place to live in the Princeton area. Yet COLFAX is only minutes from downtown Princeton. COLFAX is really part of the Princeton lifestyle.

Over 18 acres of rolling hillside have been dedicated as "Green Acres" to remain untouched in perpetuity for the exclusive use of the COLFAX community. If you're considering Princeton as a place to live and prosper, you really must pay a visit to COLFAX!

Seventh and Eighth Graders from Six Schools Get to Know Each Other on Intercity Council

What's the principal difference between a public school and a private school?

What's the most universal similarity? (You'll never guess.)

And which is regarded as the preppiest school in town and we KNOW you'll never guess that one.

"Seventh and eighth-graders felt that public and private school kids didn't know each other, although they would often meet at parties."

That's the way Bill Johnson, principal of the John Witherspoon Middle School (a public school, in case you didn't remember) explains the start of the Intercity Council.

So last June, Bill and headmasters of Princeton's private schools sat down and talked about it. In the end, six schools joined to form the Council: Princeton Day School, Hun, The Chapin School, St. Paul's, Stuart Country Day and John Witherspoon.

Visiting would be the answer — or at least, an answer — the headmasters agreed.

"We decided kids should experience another school for a whole day; one or two kids going into a classroom with a host student from the host school.

"They would have a whole day of learning — math, social studies — all the classes the host student goes to every day. They would note the differences, see the similarities and get to know each other."

This Friday, the 40-or-so representatives from all six Council schools will gather from 1 to 2 at Hun to share their opinions about those similarities and differences and make plans for next year.

"Most important," Mr. Johnson reports, "I'll have to tell them there won't be the eighth-grade 'happening' we'd been counting on — a 'happening' that would be their emancipation from elementary school.

"This had been our goal, but the scheduling problems of all six schools made it impossible. Maybe next year. The adults have to figure out how to do it ..."

Three full Council meetings have taken place this year: November, February and now in May. School visits come in between.

"The first time, they didn't talk at all on the bus," Mr. Johnson remembers. "The second time, in February, they did some talking; now, in May, they'll have a lot to say."

When one or two are visiting another school, the headmasters use their own cars and drive the students. (Principal Johnson uses the term "headmaster" even though it's a private school term, not usually applied to public or parochial schools.) When the whole group gathers, like this Friday, students are transported by public-private school bus.

'One Princeton.' "Personally," Bill Johnson continues, "I wanted to get networking, but this takes time. We already have athletic rivalry: we play PDS, Stuart, sometimes Hun. We reassured the private schools — 'we're not trying to steal your kids' — we told them we wanted a feeling of 'one Princeton' for all the kids."

So off they went, early in the school year.

From the ten "houses" and 734 students in the John Witherspoon Middle School, Bill Johnson chose a team of nine seventh and eighth graders. He conferred with teachers, counsellors and recruited some himself, trusting his own eye and experience.

"I asked for kids who weren't superstars, kids who had the potential for blossoming under this experience."

Deliberately, he structured his nine-member team for religious and ethnic balance: "We have Protestant and Catholic, Asian, black, white."

"For the private schools, our team brought a different perspective. I can see this, but the kids — they pay no attention to this kind of thing."

But they did pay attention to other things. and they did see the similarities and differences.

One difference right away: dress codes.

At John Witherspoon, the dress code, spelled out in the brochure given to all students, is "neatandclean." Period.

But other schools may require jacket and tie for boys, or a uniform, as St. Paul's does, for both boys and girls.

The John Witherspoon brochure, by the way, was presented to all student guests by JW host students. It's the big, shiny yellow folder with the royal blue band.

Another difference was size.

"'Wow! Not a lot of kids here,' our JW students would say. And Chapin thought PDS was big, but when they came here, we were BIG!"

At Stuart, of course, there are only girl students.

The greatest similarity?

This was a surprise. It was — the teachers. Public, private or parochial, teachers are pretty much all alike, visiting students found.

"High expectation for student achievement is a given in this community." Mr. Johnson knew that already.

"Hun kids would talk about having to study harder than our students, but ours would brag about teachers 'driving you crazy'."

And the Middle School — well, "headmaster," in this context — the Middle School headmaster grins.

Those Tough Teachers. All kids complain about tough teachers but they love it. They want fun in the classroom, but they expect teachers to live up to being 'teacher.' This is important at this seventh-eighth-grade age, and teachers here understand this."

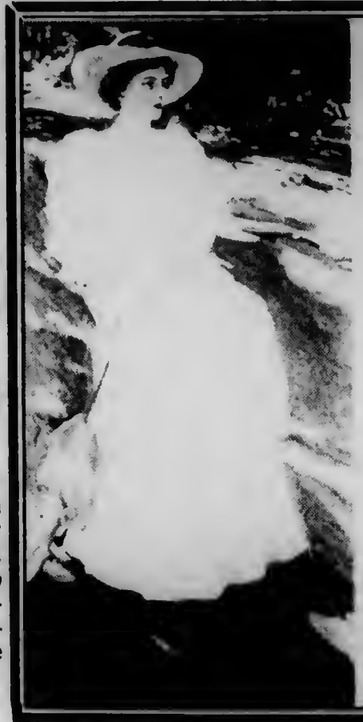
44 Students Picked for Intercity Council

Everybody wants to be on the team that visits other schools, says John Witherspoon's principal, Bill Johnson; however, to keep classrooms from being disrupted by invading hordes, the number of students is kept low.

At the John Witherspoon Middle School, the following students are on the Intercity Council: Charles Kirby, Bob Blankstein, Sarah Marchand, Douglas Gibson, Jenny Kim, Gail Hughes, Aiko Yoshikawa, Scott Blinder and Brandon Mathews.

Hun School students, working with staff member Roberta King, are Kenneth Kirschner, Kristin Holzer, Susan Kidder, Robert Kerr and Michele Sarino.

At St Paul's, under Sister Valerie, are Jeffrey Lynch, Joseph Heitzman, Alexis Butrym, Chris Cappucci and Colleen Campbell.



Chapin School students are Eric Hagen, Lincoln Kaji, Ivan Ferris, Julie Wachtel, David Beach, Vikki Hultquist, Scott Hirsch, David Beitchma and Anne Lehman. Faculty counselor is Linda Finkle

At Stuart Country Day, students under the guidance of Sister Ingles are Kristin Norkus, Asra Saleem, Tara Grabowsky and Sabrina Comizzoli.

Princeton Day School's faculty contact is Pete Jaques. Students are Jeffrey Zawadski, Rocky Mould, Scottie King, Sarah Ackley, Marc Collins, Andrea Hall, Phoebe Reed, Dorsey McCuaig, Jamie McIntyre, Josh Mezrich, Andrea Trippitelli, and Laine Alston.

MUSIC & MURDER

At Theater Intime, "Dead Give-Away," a student-produced, student-written musical murder mystery, will make its premiere appearance Thursday, May 3, at Theater Intime on the University campus.

Written by Princeton senior Michael Rosenfeld, who also counts the work as his senior thesis, the play will be directed by McCarter's Veronica Brady and will feature performances by several area residents including Celia Munro-Jones, Mary Martello, Jim Stevenson, Dane Cruz, Matthew Wright, Glenn Paul, and Brian Beeners.

The plot involves three writers hired to complete a murder mystery novel begun by another author, who has disappeared. As each writer takes a crack at the manuscript each becomes caught up, literally, in the action of the book. "It's a story in which fantasy becomes reality and vice versa," says Mr. Rosenfeld, a music major fron New Canaan, Connecticut.

The undergraduate producer says he has raised $10,000 for the production, about 10 times the normal amount for a play at Intime. "We're re-carpeting the theater and hoping to repaint it with red and black lacquer with lots of silver — kind of 1940s deco," he says.

The play will run Thursday through Sunday, May 3-6, and then again Wednesday through Saturday, May 9-12. All performances are at 8 p.m.

MOMIX

Out of Pilobolus. An offshoot of the Pilobolus dance company is Momix, a dance-theatre-film group which will come back to McCarter — Momix was here in last year's spring season of dance — to give a single performance Thursday, May 17 at 8.

Momix was founded by Moses Pendleton — who will be in the McCarter presentation — and Alison Chase, two members of Pilobolus. Others in the company are members of both the Pilobolus and Paul Taylor Dance Companies, joined on an ad hoc basis by various dancers, singers, filmmakers, writers and composers.

LAST OF SEASON

"The Draughtsman's Contract." It's the end of the season for Movies-from-McCarter, and the series will conclude with Peter Greenaway's "The Draughtsman's Contract," to be screened at Kresge Auditorium next Tuesday and Wednesday, May 8 and 9 at 7:30 and 9:30 each evening.

Set in a great English country house in 1694, "The Draughtsman's Contract" tells of a draftsman who enters into a contract with the

Triangle's "Revel" Merits Attention; Brooke Shields Is Not Its Only Asset

The Princeton University Triangle Club's 95th annual production, "Revel Without a Pause," has received quite a bit more national publicity — including a spot on the Today Show and an article in the New York Times — than is usually the case, and it is fortunate that, of all the Triangle Club's productions in recent years to be showered with such a media blitz, "Revel Without a Pause" should be the one.

All the hubbub started, of course, because one of the company's new members, a freshman, happens to be a certain well-known model and actress named Brooke Shields. And while in the past a select few Triangle troupers, including Jimmy Stewart and Joshua Logan, have gone on to fame and fortune, I don't believe it has ever happened the other way around before, with someone going from fame and fortune to Triangle.

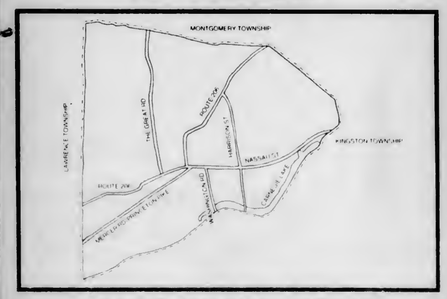
It would be untruthful to say that Brooke Shields doesn't add pizazz to the show. The fact is that she has tremendous stage presence — she moves and carries herself outstandingly in front of an audience — and that, combined with her fame (and height), can't help but make her stand out.

But fortunately, Director Miriam Fond has prevented Triangle from degenerating from an ensemble production into "The Brooke Shields Show." She was no doubt aided in this endeavor by a generally talented company and by the fact that Brooke Shields is not the only outstanding feature of "Revel Without a Pause"; the costumes, by Danny Morgan, the choreography, by Diana Baffa-Brill, the sets, by two Princeton University seniors, Bill Hudnut and Kim Wilson, and the sketches and lyrics, by University students of all four classes, are all particularly good this year.

A Loose Plot. Like most Triangle Club productions, "Revel" is a revue rather than a book show, but unlike those in many of its recent revues, the numbers in "Revel" are tied together with a loose plotting device that lends just enough structure to enable the show to hang together. This device is introduced in the clever number "Moscow Blues," created by Ron Coleman, Gregg Patruno, and Bill Wescott, all University juniors. In it, the Russians decide to send two spies over to "Prince-town, America" to discover the secret of American humor and leisure which Russia so desperately lacks. (While they are at it, their comrades also urge them to bring back the secret of stovetop stuffing and the cure for ring-around-the-collar.)

The first student the disoriented spies encounter in Princeton is Brooke Shields, whom they ask, "Are you a typical college student?" She replies, "Well, I take 17 credits." Thus Brooke is cleverly introduced, her special status acknowledged but also minimalized, and the show can go on — virtually without a pause (except one brief intermission) through some 20 numbers.

The show satirizes various aspects of American leisure, from the craze for Cabbage Patch Dolls to 25 years of Barbie dolls at an hilarious pageant em-ceed by "Ken," to dancercise and game shows and medical fees, to first dates (in a skit that owes much to Woody Allen's nuptial scene in "Bananas") and James Watt and Garden Club of America matrons.



Two of the most successful numbers are by University Juniors Ron Coleman and Bill Wescott. "I'm O.K. You're O.K. Corral" combines a western saloon scene with pop psycho-babble as meted out by Sheriff Sigmund Freud. This climaxes in a square dance in which Freud is the caller, urging everyone to dosey-do with their egos and ids. Unfortunately, it was impossible to catch all the wonderful lyrics; I wish they had repeated the refrain at least a few times.

Triangle

In "M. (Moscow) -TV," Michael Jackson's "Thriller" becomes a nightmarish visit to a restaurant where the waiter is a clumsy Spiller. Here Shields is allowed to be glamourous and shine and the result is sophisticated and funny.

There are so many things to enjoy in this Triangle show, from the Propaganda Panda and the Alligator with his tennis racquet in the zoo animals' lament, "Leisure for a Living," to the two sweet (if slightly incongruous) love duets, "If You Only Knew" and "Tables for One," to the fabulous black and white, two-dimensional all-American Happy Home created for "A Doll's House," the variant on the Russian flag created for "Moscow Blues" and the "Saloon Backwards" sign spelled out backwards in the O.K. Corral set.

As for criticism, the music is nice but hardly transcendent, the title song is more a stage-filler than a show-stopper, and the Russian Ninotchka stuff wears a bit thin at times. But all this is petty in light of a generally highly entertaining production. I could go on and on about its merits, but I don't want to be too much of a spiller myself, so instead I'll just encourage you to see "Revel" yourself when it plays again, June 1-2.

wife of the owner of the estate. He agrees to produce 12 architectural drawings in return for 12 sexual favors from the wife and her daughter.

The draftsman's sketches prove troublesome, because in them are visual hints of murder. His portraits of the estate draw him into a web of evil that seems to threaten life itself, and the film evolves into a mysterious investigation of illusion and reality.

In History Play. "Rousers and Roustabouts," Creative Theatre's play about things that happened in the history of Mercer County, will travel to three audiences in the county this month, courtesy of a grant from the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission and the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

Next Monday, children at the Ethel McKnight School, East Windsor, will join senior citizens to see the play in Hightstown. On May 15, actors will perform at Reed Center, a county special services school in Trenton and on May 22 at Trenton's Joyce Kilmer School.

SRO FOR TRIO'S CONCERT

At McCarter. A limited number of standing room and stage seats are still available from the McCarter Theatre box office for the concert by the Kalichstein-Laredo-Robinson Trio on Monday at 8 p.m.

The Trio, part of the Music-at-McCarter series, is comprised of pianist Joseph Kalichstein, violinist Jaime Laredo, and cellist Sharon Robinson. Their program will include Haydn's Trio in E-flat, the Ravel Trio, and the Brahms Trio No. 1 in B Major. In addition, the concert will offer the Princeton premier of Debussy's Trio in G Major, a new one-movement work, recently discovered and being presented by the KLR Trio for the first time in its current American tour.

Call the McCarter Theatre box office to charge your tickets, 452-5200. Tickets are also available at the box office window open noon to 6 Monday through Friday.

For additional information call McCarter Theatre Communications Office at 452-6615.

CELLIST, PIANIST

In Concert at University. Cellist Andre Emelianoff with pianist Bruce Brubaker will give a concert on Tuesday at 8:30 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the University campus. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, admission is free.

A graduate of the Juilliard School, Andre Emelianoff has long been a distinguished chamber musician, solo orchestral cellist and recitalist. A former member of the Cleveland Orchestra under George Szell, he is now principal cellist with the 92nd Street Y Chamber symphony and a member of the cello faculty and Artist-in-Residence with the Waterloo Music Festival.

He is also cellist with the Da Capo Chamber Players with whom he has performed and premiered many contemporary works. His festival appearances have included the Casals, Marlboro, Grand Teton, White Mountains and Monomoy Festivals. He has been associated with the Juilliard cello faculty, SUNY at Purchase, N.Y. and currently teaches cello at Princeton Universtiy.

Bruce Brubaker studied piano with Jacob Lateiner and chamber music with Felix Galimir at the Juilliard School where he was the recipient of the William Petschek Scholarship. A recent winner of the Edward Steuermann Memorial Prize, he has appeared at Alice Tully Hall, the Berkshire Music Center at Tanglewood and at the Waterloo Festival, among others. He currently teaches privately in New York City and the Juilliard School.

CELLIST Andre Emelianoff with pianist Bruce Brubaker will give a concert on Tuesday at 8:30 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the University campus. Admission is free.

For their program they will perform Hugh Aiken's, "For the Cello"; Louise Talma's "Lament"; Beethoven, Sonata in D Major, Opus 102, No. 2; Debussy, Sonate (1915); Granados: Intermezzo from "Goyescas"; Tchaikovsky: Variations on a Rococo Theme.

NEW MUSIC READY

For Concert at University. A concert of new music by Princeton University Graduate Students and a faculty member will be given on Friday at 8:30 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the University campus.

Evelyn Chan, soprano, with Dean Franke and John McGrosso, violinists, Susan Chan, violist and Kathe Jarka, cellist, will perform "Arboreal" by graduate student Mark Nelson. This is a work based on poems by Denis Levertov and William Carlos Williams.

Two compositions by Joseph Dubiel, a member of the music faculty, will be played by pianist Martin Butler. "Obligations," a work composed in 1984 by graduate student Brad Garton, will be performed by the string quartet, and former graduate student Frank Brickle's piece "Bete-Noire" will be played by Jeffrey Farrington, pianist, with electronic tape.

Sponsored by the Friends of Music and the Music Department, admission is free.

OPEN HOUSE SET

By Boychoir School. The American Boychoir School, Lambert Drive, will hold an open house Saturday morning from 10-12.

The Apprentice Choir will give a short musical program at 10:30 which will be followed by greetings from Robert Palmer, music director for The Apprentice Choir, who will discuss the music program at the school. The academic office and the admissions office will also be open.

The American Boychoir School is a non-sectarian boarding and day school with 52 students in grades 3-8. In addition to The Apprentice Choir, there is the touring or Concert Choir, currently on tour throughout the midwest and Manitoba, Canada.

The American Boychoir School, in its 47th year, offers a combination of music and academics.

Further information on the school and its coed summer music camp, Albemarle, can be obtained by calling the office at 924-5858.

Elizabeth DiFelice

Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the University campus.

A graduate of Oberlin College and the State University of New York at Stony Brook, Miss DeFelice has performed and recorded in New York City with various groups, including the New York Philharmonic and the American Composers Orchestra. She has presented solo and chamber music concerts throughout the United States, Canada and Japan under various auspices, including Young Concert Artists and Lincoln Center Institute, and has been heard on radio broadcasts in several cities.

Miss DeFelice was a piano fellow at the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood for two summers and was the recipient of the C.D. Jackson Master Award. She is currently a member of Musical Elements and has performed often in other contemporary music ensembles including the New Music Consort and the New York New Music Ensemble. She is also on the piano faculty at Princeton University.

Miss DeFelice will perform Beethoven, Sonata in E Flat Major, Opus 27, No. 1; Yehudi Wyner, Three Short Fantasies; Judith Shatin Allen, Widdershins (1983); Schubert, Allegretto in E Flat Major; Jay Anthony Gach, Sonatina (1974) and Debussy: "Etude pour les Sixtes" and "L'isle joyeuse."

Sponsored by the Friends of Music, admission is free.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT SET

In Holder Hall. The Princeton University Glee Club will sing a concert of light music on Thursday evening at 8 in the lounge of Rockefeller College, Holder Hall. The concert is open to the public, and there is no admission charge.

Three Renaissance motets will open the program: Hassler's Cantate Domino, Victoria's O magnum mysterium and Tus es Petrus by Palestrina. These will be followed by In Stiller Nacht by Brahms and Joshua, a work for chorus, piano and soloists by the Russian composer Mussorgsky.

English folksongs arranged by Ralph Vaughan Wiliams will be conducted by Assistant Conductor Clark Anderson and will be followed by two settings from Alice in Wonderland by the American composer Irving Fine. The Glee Club sopranos and altos will then sing the American folksong Lully lullay and the tenors and basses will respond with an arrangement of the classic ballad Casey Jones by the same composer, Edward B. Lawton.

The group concludes with Richard Winslow's arrangement of Joshua fit the battle for unaccompanied mixed chorus, followed by Princeton University songs.

PIANIST TO PLAY

At Choir College. Victoria Griswold, pianist, will present a solo recital Sunday at 3 as part of the continuing Westminster Conservatory Faculty Recital Series. The performance will take place in The Playhouse on the Westminster Choir College campus and is open to the public free of charge.

Miss Griswold earned her bachelor's and master's degrees at the Manhattan School of Music, where she studied with Zenon Fishbein. She also studied with Jeaneane Dowis at the Aspen Music Festival, and privately in New York. She has given numerous performances in solo recitals, musical theatre, and chamber concerts.

She appears with the Ars Musica Antiqua as harpsichordist, and with the Plainfield Chamber Ensemble. She has also performed as a soloist with the Plainfield Symphony Orchestra and made her New York debut last fall at Carnegie Recital Hall.

For more information call the Westminster Conservatory at 921-7104 or 924-6359.

SPECIAL CONCERT SET

For Friends of Music. A special concert for members only of the Friends of Music at Princeton will be given on Sunday, May 6, at 3 p.m. at Woolworth Center, on the University campus.

Each year a special event is arranged for the Friends in grateful thanks for their continuing support. This year's performers will be the Atlantic String Quartet with Bethany Beardslee, soprano. The program will include Beethoven, String Quartet in D Major, Opus 18, No. 3; Schoenberg, String Quartet No. 2 (with soprano); Godfrey Winham, "The Habit of Perfection" for soprano and string quartet; and the first performance of Edward Cone's composition "Capriccio" for string quartet.

Following the concert, a reception will be held in Prospect on the University campus. Both the concert and reception are by invitation only. For further informaton, call the Concert Office, 452-4239 or 453-5707.

FOUR CONCERTS SET

At Trenton State. The music of the Krummhorn, the hurdygurdy and many more modern instruments will fill the recital halls of Trenton State College in May. All concerts are free and open to the public.

The Trenton State College Chorus, under the direction of Albert Ludecke, and the TSC Choir, under the direction of Dr. Ruthann Harrison, will join in a performance of the German Requiem, Op. 45, by Johannes Brahms on Sunday at 4 in Kendall Hall. Evelyn Chan will be the soprano soloist. Ms. Chan has appeared at Lincoln Center and has given recitals at Princeton University as well as premiering numerous works by Princeton University composers.

Robert Parrish, a graduate of Trenton State College and TSC adjunct instructor, will appear as baritone soloist. Mr. Parrish has sung leading roles in more than 24 operas in the Delaware Valley and has appeared with the Trenton Civic Opera and Artists Showcase Theatre.

The TSC Percussion Ensemble, under the direction of Tony De Nicola, will perform works ranging from "Toccata" by Carlos Chavez to "Log Cabin Blues" by George Hamilton Green on Monday at 8, also in Kendall Hall. The concert will also feature a premiere performance of Concerto for B flat Clarinet and Percussion Ensemble by TSC faculty

We are pleased to announce

A NIGHT AT THE OPERA

Come with us to hear a rarely performed masterpiece from Stravinsky's neoclassical period, at the New York City Opera. The English libretto by W.H. Auden is based on the famous series of pictures by Hogarth. This new production is designed by David Hockney, and conducted by Christopher Keene.

THE RAKE'S PROGRESS

DATE: Sunday, September 30, 1984

We shall leave Princeton by special bus around 3:00 p.m., have dinner at the Ginger Man (opposite Lincoln Center), and be in our orchestra seats for the 7 o'clock curtain. Home again by midnight.

The price: only $80.00 per person. This includes round-trip transportation, dinner, a good orchestra seat for the opera and a $10.00 tax-deductible contribution to The Friends of Music.

A special bonus: Professor Claudio Spies, a well-known authority on Stravinsky, will talk to us about The Rake's Progress on Friday afternoon, September 28, 1984, in Woolworth Center.

SIGN UP NOW! There are only 40 places available, so return your reservation and deposit promptly (no later than April 25, 1984). Full payment is due by June 15, 1984.

member Dr. Eugene Copeland.

On Tuesday, May 8 at 8 p.m. the TSC Flute Choir, under the direction of Dent Williamson, TSC music faculty member, will offer a program of light music in Bray Recital Hall. Included in the program will be arrangements from the music of Richard Rodgers, Bruce Johnson and familiar works by Verdi and Shostakovich.

The Trenton State College Collegium Musicum, directed by Dr. Moshe Budmor, will present a concert Monday, May 14, at 8 in the Bisgrove Recital Hall. The group will perform Medieval, Renaissance and Baroque vocal and instrumental music in period costumes on replicas of ancient instruments.

For more informaton call 771-2551.

SPRING CONCERT SET

By Training Group. The Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra String Training Ensemble will present its Annual Spring Concert Sunday, May 6, at 2 at the Edith Memorial Chapel on the Lawrenceville School campus. Portia Sonnenfeld is conductor.

The concert will feature two guest soloists, harpist Heather Tamm, a seventh grade student at Princeton Day School, and Marilois Kierman, an organist and Lawrenceville School faculty member. Miss Tamm will perform Erik Satie's Gymnopedie No. 1, and Ms. Kierman will accompany the String Training Ensemble in Mozart's Church Sonata No. 12 in G. The program will also include Symphony No. 2 in G by Friedrich the Great and the Capriol Suite by Peter Warlock.

The String Training Ensemble offers professional guidance to young musicians in grades three and up. They rehearse weekly to learn the fundamentals of music, acquire the skills of ensemble playing and to broaden their orchestral repertoire. The Ensemble performs two concerts a year.

Members are from Mercer, Middlesex and Hunterdon counties as well as from nearby areas in Pennsylvania.

NIGHTCLUB ARTIST DUE

At McCarter Theatre. Bobby Short, who describes himself as a saloon pianist and singer, will appear in concert at McCarter Theatre on Sunday, May 20, at 8 p.m. His appearance is sponsored by Jordan and Phillips.

Mr. Short made his first professional appearance as a child of 12. Dressed in white tails, playing the piano and singing, he was known as "the miniature king of swing" and toured the vaudeville circuits with such personages as Fletcher Henderson, Bunny Berigan and The Three Stooges.

Bobby Short

More recently his career has been in nightclubs and recording the works of Cole Porter, Noel Coward, George Gershwin and Rodgers and Hart. He made his stage debut in 1956 in the City Center revival of Cole Porter's Kiss Me Kate, which starred Kitty Carlisle and David Atkinson. But he is best known for his repeated engagements at hotels in Dallas, San Francisco and New York, particularly the Cafe Carlyle at the Hotel Carlyle.

Tickets are $22 for front orchestra, $19 for rear orchestra, $20 for front balcony, and $17 for rear balcony. Tickets are available at the McCarter Theatre Box Office. For information and charge-by-phone call 452-5200.

MUSIC CAMP SET

For Young Children. A music camp, called June Joy, will be offered from June 11 to 22 to children ages 4 to 6 for 1½ hours daily in Princeton and nearby areas by Marjorie's Music, a program of musical instruction for young people.

"June Joy" will include musical activities such as games, action songs, keeping the beat with hands and feet, percussion and bar instruments, listening, learning about musical instruments and notation, hearing musical stories and creating musical plays.

Marjorie H. Herrington, the instructor, was trained at Westminster Choir College, the NYC Dalcroze School of Music and the Orff Institute in Salzburg, Austria. For further information on summer and fall programs, call Ms. Herrington at (201) 297-6151.

Engagements and Weddings

ENGAGED

Prigge-Cocuzzo. Allison M. Prigge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Prigge, to Joseph Cocuzzo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Cocuzzo of Needham, Mass.

Miss Prigge is a graduate of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School and Smith College in Northampton, Mass. She is employed as an accountant at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Mass. Her fiance attended Amherst College and is supervisor of a halfway house at McLean Hospital in Belmont, Mass.

After an August wedding, the couple will live in Somerville, Mass.

Miller-Volz. Holly Miller, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Allan Miller of Minot, S.D., to Roger E. Volz, son of Mrs. Jack Volz of Princeton and the late Mr. Volz.

Miss Miller is a 1977 graduate of Minot High School who graduated in 1981 from Lafayette College. She is employed by Dun & Bradstreet in New York City.

Mr. Volz, a 1975 graduate of Princeton High School and a 1979 graduate of Lafayette, is a broker for the International Trading Group at Somerset.

A summer wedding is planned.

Williams-Sickel. Deborah J. Williams of Princeton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren F. Young of Fairlawn, to Robert A. Sickel of Princeton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sickel.

Miss Williams is a graduate of Elmwood Park High School and is a licensed beautician. She is employed in the Foodtown bakery. Mr. Sickel, a Princeton High School graduate, served in the army for six years and is now employed by Nassau Conover Motors.

Amirault-Raymond. Brenda M. Amirault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Amirault of Beverly, Mass., to Robert F. Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Raymond of Skillman. A September wedding is planned.

Miss Amirault expects to graduate this year from Emerson College in Boston, Mass., where she is majoring in broadcast journalism. She is a 1980 graduate of Saratoga Springs High School, Saratoga Springs, N.Y.

Mr. Raymond is a 1982 graduate of Emerson College who graduated in 1978 from Montgomery High School. He is currently employed as director of public relations for Suffolk Downs Race Track in Boston, Mass., and also as a sportscaster for Sports Channel Cable Television.

WEDDINGS

QUALITY SKIN CARE

At Beauty Dreams, Fashioned after a European skin care clinic, in a brief 18 months Beauty Dreams at 812 State Road has become a haven for women and men who appreciate quality skin care and a bit of pampering. The clinic offers "total nail and skin care" only, it is not a hair salon. Its youthful owners, Nick and Elena Vassilev, who came to this country ten years ago after working and training in the health and beauty care field in Vienna for several years, believe in individualized and specialized service.

"We know we are very good at what we offer. If people like you, then they recommend you. They appreciate good work," says Mr. Vassilev, who is a partner with his wife. In addition to the business side of Beauty Dreams, he has spent a good deal of time researching the finest products from France and Austria which they use in the clinic.

LUXURY TREATMENT: Elena Vassilev, co-owner of Beauty Dreams at 812 State Road, with her husband Nick, has had great success with European-style skin and nail care. Manicures, nail protein treatment, nail art, pedicure, facials, and massage are among the services offered.

The Vassilevs, natives of Bulgaria, spent several weeks in France last summer at a clinic arranged by the Madame Delille company of Paris which sells the purest of products extracted from plants and vegetables. A small laboratory produces limited amounts of creams such as placenta, masks, moisturizers, hydrating ones, and regenerating lotions used for facials in the salon. For this reason whatever the Vassilevs import is fresh and of the finest quality.

"Our creams by Madame Delille are wonderful, but we don't push them on our customers; the results speak for themselves," says the attractive Mrs. Vassilev who gives wonderful facials, pedicures, and nail treatments. Manicures, problem skin care, body waxing and massage and electrolysis are also available here.

Mrs. Vassilev finds it helpful to keep records for her customers so that progress in nail treatment and skin care can be monitored. People with acne have had excellent results at Beauty Dreams which concentrates on skin cleansing, special creams to heal, and checks every other week at no charge.

Nailbiters have kicked their habit at Beauty Dreams, developing strong and lovely nails beginning with a protein collagen cream, no polish at first, and later clear protection gradually progressing into colored polishes.

"It makes one feel like a lady to have lovely nails," says Mrs. Vassilev whose treatment for facials, manicures and pedicures include several minutes with heated mittens and booties after an application of a deeply moisturizing cream. Each treatment takes approximately one hour.

Men are not shy about taking advantage of Beauty Dreams' services. Several men are regular customers for facials, nail treatment and pedicures.

"They work hard too and deserve to be pampered," insists the owner. Hours are convenient for working people: 9 to 5 Tuesday through Saturday, except on Thursday when the salon stays open until 9.

all of the important spring occasions — unusual works of art not found elsewhere in town. The Kalen family have been restoring, appraising, framing and dealing in art for their Princeton customers since 1886, so shoppers can count on excellent quality and authentic crafts.

While visiting their son in Arizona the Kalens became fascinated with the beautiful work of the Navajos and the great variety of crafts seen in the high desert areas. A very special collection of natural formations of alabasters, vases, boxes, and other artifacts designed by a husband and wife are on display in the shop. The Kalens travelled up into the remote wilderness of the high desert to see the couple this past winter. Their work is truly exquisite.

Lined in high desert juniper some of the boxes are unusual scenes — sculpted formations which bring the desert's beauty to mind. The colorations of the alabaster range from deep oranges to translucent white.

American Indian fetishes, beads of lapis, florite with lapis and jade and well-priced American Indian rugs in traditional patterns complete the western craft collection at Kalen's.

A Spanish craftsman who now works in the United States, de Morgrades, will make handsome firescreens and the colonial version of the captain's letter box, hand-painted with traditional hunting scenes, to order for the Kalens. Each beautifully designed piece is signed by the artist, beginning at $135 for a small box.

Gifts for Mother's and Father's Days, weddings and anniversaries are plentiful at the art shop. Authentic Williamsburg brasses in traditional colonial designs always make excellent gifts. Candlesticks, doorstops, heart-shaped trivets, ducks, and an impressive sailboat of brass are among the choices.

A gift to please Fathers will not be hard to find when shoping at Kalen's. Handsome desk sets of leather, all-leather-bound photo albums, address books — even a lovely book to record favorite wines in wine red — are good ideas.

Does your father serve his own punch on special occasions? A terrific value seen here is a silver plated punch bowl complete with cups and ladle for only $160. Bookends in striking black onyx, leather, brass, and petrified wood will enhance his office or study.

Eight by 10-inch frames made of shells are stunning gifts for a woman. Kalen's has a large selection of frames of all types from small ready-made ones to large ornate ones of gold leaf for a treasured painting. The framing department here is well known to Princetonians who have been shopping for art, old prints and engravings at Kalen's Fine Arts for years. The shop specializes in hunt prints and engravings but has a large collection of watercolors, oil paintings, and reproductions as well.

Chinese art is a specialty of the shop too. Two-hundred-year-old rose medallion cups and saucers and matching six-inch plates, vases, antique brass breast plates with rose quartz beads, and large screens are only a few of the items available here from China.

Enchanting Battersea boxes of porcelain by Bilston, a pair of Staffordshire dogs, tiny silver frames of sterling, pillboxes, or crystal eggs will please a mother this month. A small collection of French Faience by the Faienceries of the provinces of France surely make a visit to Kalen's worthwhile.

This is the season for sending all kinds of cards of congratulations and thanks. Kalen's has unique ones: Chinese cutouts, Danish pop-ups, three-dimensional French ones, doll houses of paper, and lovely floral ones from England. Most of them are blank inside so one can write one's own message.

Spring cleaning might include restorations this year. A fine reputation for restoring paintings, etchings, prints, sculpture, lamps, antiques, and porcelains stands behind Mr. Kalen, who is also a certified appraiser.

—Susan Trowbridge

KALEN'S FINE ARTS of Palmer Square has a fine collection of American Indian art and beautiful crafts from the high desert made of natural rock formations. The alabaster boxes and vases, along with the shop's fine selection of brasses, leather goods, porcelains, antique engravings and prints make excellent gifts for any occasion.

IN RETROSPECTIVE

Rosenborg Paintings. Last year, when the work of painter Ralph Rosenborg was exhibited at the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, it was described here as a marriage of the tranquil movements found in nature and the more strident rhythms and techniques characteristic of modern painterly forms. It turns out that not much has changed, that the current display — a retrospective marking a half century of exhibition for the noted artist — could be described using the very same phrases.

Although the paintings in this display are smaller and more varied in subject matter — this time there are almost as many portraits and florals as there are landscapes — Rosenborg's skill with his materials and his ability to use painterly gestures as a descriptive device combines to make these small works as moving and as powerful and equally rich in volume, color and content as the much larger, earlier paintings.

It is impossible to consider Rosenborg's work without the repeated use of the term "painterly." Richly applied oil based pigments that form surface effects approaching the voluptuous are the most conspicuous aspect of his work. Intense pieces of color, applied using vigor and judicious restraint at the same time, frequently makes us as conscious of the painter as the painting.

It almost seems that Rosenborg is revealing extremely personal, possibly intimate, artistic responses to his subjects and to nature forms in general. Despite the expressive, visually abstracted nature of each work, his genuine affection and concern for the structural integrity of each image is evident.

By means of a few varied, almost calligraphic strokes of brush or knife, a viewer is made conscious of the rhythms of the landscape and the clashes of color and jumble of forms that are translated into harmonies in nature. There is a near-poetic quality to many of the paintings in which the affect of moonlight, the rhythmic richness of a mountain landscape or the flamboyance of a showy blaze of flowers can be seen as expressing ideas about art and life at the same time.

At Art Masters. Paintings by Bruce and Robert Gherman approach similar subjects — portraits, still life and landscape — from the opposite end of the artistic spectrum: that of the classically trained painter. The collection mixes the vocabulary of various artistic "schools," the intense light of Flemish interiors, the softened landscapes of the Barbizon and even the voluptuous forms of Balthus. In between there are notable examples of individualistic expression.

Bruce's still life — formal yet painterly — captures an intensity of light and demonstrates a responsiveness to the richness of both content and form that is characteristic of the best of this genre. Robert's lithographs — disappointingly few in number — use black and white to develop strong and well balanced figurative works. And some of Bruce's pastel studies and Robert's small landscapes are especially deserving of at-

BIRDS AND FLOWERS of the Four Seasons, a series of nineteenth century woodblocks at The Eye for Art, are typical of the delicate, almost painterly prints produced by the Japanese during the last century.

News of Clubs and Organizations

Princeton Daughters of the American Revolution will have a guided tour of Waterloo Village, Stanhope, N.J. on Thursday, May 10.

Members should meet at the home of Mrs. Frederick English, 290 Prospect Avenue, Hill 924-5788 for reservations.

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) will hold its annual meeting and election of officers on Thursday, May 10, at 2 at the American Boychoir School, Humbert Drive. The meeting will be followed by a concert by the Boychoir. Refreshments will be served. Attendance will be restricted to members because of the limited capacity of the hall. Call 921-7372 or 924-5421 for reservations.

The Chapter will provide transportation for members who are without cars. A car or bus will depart from the main entrance of the YM-YWCA, Paul Robeson Place, at 1:30. Return transportation will also be provided.

The Princeton Branch of the English-Speaking Union will see the final in its film series on Sunday at 2 in the Saks Auditorium of the Hun School. "Murder at the Gallop" will be shown, a movie based on the book by Agatha Christie and starring Margaret Rutherford as Miss Marple. Robert Morley is also featured. Admission for non-subscribers is $2.75 for E-SU members and $4 for non-members.

The Friday Club will meet Friday at 12:30 at the YM-YWCA. Following lunch, a film will be shown about the workings of a newspaper. Regina Donnelly and Barbara Crawford of the Princeton Packet will discuss the technical side of putting out a newspaper; Gloria Halpern and Pam Hersh, also of the Packet, will describe the editorial department.

Those who need rides should call the YWCA, 924-5571, before Friday morning.

The Mercer Alliance for the Mentally Ill (Mercer AMI) will meet Monday at 7:30 at 145 Witherspoon Street.

Sheila Albert of the Association for the Advancement of Mental Health will speak. Mrs. Albert has been with AAMH for more than four years and is concerned with assisting recovering patients to become independent and part of the community. The meeting is open to the public and further information may be obtained by calling Virginia Anderson at 799-1399.

The Republican Association will hold a roast beef dinner Sunday at 5 at the Elks Club on Route 518, Blawenburg. The cost for this fund-raising affair is $20 per person, $30 per patron.

All members of the Association and non-member friends are urged to attend. For reservations, write or call Nancy Henkel, 277 Dodds Lane, 921-2527.

The Historical Society of West Windsor Township will meet Wednesday, May 9, at 7:30 at the West Windsor Public Library off Everett Drive, Princeton Junction.

Nancy Guilbault, former museum instructor at Old Sturbridge Village, Sturbridge, Mass., will be the speaker.

The Society has received a check from Prudential-Bache Securities in the Carnegie Center for the printing of an issue of its newsletter, Broadside. The Society seeks additional newsletter sponsors, and asks those who are interested in making such a contribution or in learning more about the Society to call Joan Parry at 452-8598.

The Central Jersey Group of the Sierra Club will meet Wednesday, May 9, at 8 in Guyot Hall Room 220 on the Princeton University campus.

Two films will be shown, "Wild America — Who Needs It," prepared by the National Audubon Society, and "The Garden of Eden," also an environmental film explaining the necessity of maintaining natural diversity for the healthiness of the earth's ecosystems. There will also be an discussion of environmental issues in the Central New Jersey area and upcoming outdoors trips sponsored by the Sierra Club.

The meeting is free and open to the public.

James A. Pindar, special representative of Governor Thomas H. Kean, will be the guest speaker at the 70th annual meeting of the Princeton area chapter, American Red Cross, on Friday at Scanticon. Cocktail music will be provided by Sanders Maxwell. Dinner is at 7 with the meeting to follow.

The annual meeting will mark the beginning of the chapter's celebration of its 70th anniversary. The chapter is the first Red Cross organized in New Jersey and was chartered in 1914.

A printed report of the chapter's activities for 1983 and the recognition of service volunteers will be followed by the election of officers. A special recognition will be extended to Almedia Pace, the retiring chairman of the board of directors.

All members of the Princeton area chapter and those who have supported the Red Cross financially through their partner organization, the United Way - Princeton Area Communities, are invited. For reservations contact the Princeton Red Cross.

Following Mr. Pindar's remarks at the close of the business meeting, there will be dancing with music provided by the Princeton High School Jazz Band.

"Advantages of Breastfeeding" will be the subject for discussion at the meeting of Princeton La Leche League on Wednesday, May 9, at 9:30 a.m. at the Family Resource Infant Center (corner of Nassau and Vandeventer).

The meeting will focus on the benefits of breastfeeding for both mother and baby, as well as advice to pregnant women planning to breastfeed. Babies are welcome. This will be the first of a four-part series on various aspects of breastfeeding; summer plans will be announced.

tention in this competent collection.

At the Eye for Art. Selections from Birds and Flowers of the Four Seasons, nineteenth-century color woodcuts made in Japan by Imo Keinen, are elegant examples of the Japanese printmaker's art. Nature studies — scientifically correct representations of birds in delicately rendered settings including flowers and trees — use the delicate, translucent colors and equally delicate, modulated line that is characteristic of the Japanese woodblock.

This form of print is often reminiscent of brush painting. The black lines that are used to form the basic structure are precisely cut in a manner that results the same variety of linear effects as those made by a brush. And the application of color to the block, using brush-applied water based paints, adds to the more painterly, less mechanical effect of this graphic form.

At Princeton Historical Society. Paintings and sketches by four Princeton painters who lived and worked here early in this century recreate the affect of an earlier era through subject and style. The work of John Potter Cuyler, Marie H. Spaethe, Howard Russell Butler and Marian T. Macintosh include such nearby memories as skaters on Lake Carnegie as well as more remote views ranging from Maine and Cape Cod to Ireland.

Much of the work is sentimental in character. Portraits, self-portraits, and interiors reflect the more romantic nature of earlier art. Paintings of families, studies of mothers with their children and an especially fine family series by Cuyler are a pleasant reminder of life as it used to be.

—Helen Schwartz

NINE ARTISTS CITED

In Hunterdon Exhibit. "Paintings and Pastels," the Hunterdon Art Center's 31st annual juried exhibition, will open with a wine and cheese reception on Sunday, May 6, from 2 to 5. Four awards for excellence and five honorable mention awards will be presented to the artists at this reception. Wolf Kahn of Brattleboro, Vt. served as the juror for this annual event in which more than 300 entries were received. Mr. Kahn is regarded as one of the leading landscape painters in contemporary art.

The public is invited to attend and meet the award winning artists. Regular gallery hours are Tuesday through Friday, 1 to 4, and weekends from 1 to 5. For further information call 201-735-8415.

CRAFTS ON VIEW

At Full House. More than 35 artisans from all over the United States will display their work — emphasis on clay and fiber — at the Full House Gallery, Main Street, Kingston, from this Sunday through July 15.

Sunday's opening will be from 2 to 5. Daily hours are Mondays through Saturdays, 10 to 5:30.

Many of the artists will be showing their work in New Jersey for the first time. Some artists concentrate on functional objects, others are concerned solely with aesthetics. Full House holds a crafts show twice a year, in spring and autumn.

EXHIBITS

From May 3 to 6, 25 members of the Tri-County Art Association will exhibit at Quakerbridge Mall, Lawrence Township. Tri-County members will give several painting demonstrations during the exhibit, and each evening a free painting will be given away.

The 17 artists known as The Group are holding their third exhibition at the Coryell Gallery, The Porkyard, Lambertville, through June 10. The artists, including Ada Bryant, Lois Godfrey, Nancy Kramer and Ingeburg Wurzler of Princeton, are all students of Elizabeth Ruggles.

"Folks Around Town," clay heads by Allan Shriver will be displayed at The Skillman Clay Mines from May 11 through 26 and the artist will be present Saturday, May 12. The exhibit consists of "ordinary folks" seen through a sculptor's eyes. Clay Mines, Camp Meeting Avenue off Route 601, Skillman, is open Mondays through Fridays from 8 to 4:30 and Saturdays from 10 to 2.

An exhibit of three-dimensional batik and hand-painted wall hangings by Hopewell artist Tamara Kencis will be on display from this Sunday through June 1 (reception Sunday, 2-5) in the office of architect Andrew M. Sheldon, 14 Nassau.

SPORTS

TIGERS SPOILERS?

In Eastern Baseball. Princeton University's baseball team, which lost an opportunity to advance in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League standings last week, still has an opportunity to play the role of spoiler.

The Tigers, after splitting doubleheaders with Cornell and Army, the latter the weakest team in the league, will play make-up games at Dartmouth and Harvard next Monday and Tuesday. Harvard leads the league with an 8-2 record, but must still play eight games, including two with Princeton, which is in sixth place in the league and five games behind in the lost column.

Last weekend the Orange and Black suffered from weak defense and a sudden slump in hitting. Only poised pitching enabled the team to earn the split. Princeton lost the opener to Cornell, 5-2, after a fourth inning error broke a 2-2 tie. In the second game sophomore Scott LaForest pitched a two-hitter and freshman Drew Stratton made an over-the-shoulder diving catch in the seventh inning to preserve a 1-0 victory — Princeton's only shutout of the season. Princeton managed only two hits itself: doubles by Todd Tuckner, another freshman.

The Tigers managed a slightly better offense in the first game against Army and utilized another strong pitching effort, a five-hitter by Bill Beard, winning 5-3. The weekend still could have been salvaged with a win in the second game. Freshman Joe Pape did his part, allowing no earned runs, and catcher Rick Edie cut down three Cadets attempting to steal. But three infield errors in the fifth inning handed the game to the Army, 3-1.

Princeton finished the weekend with a 13-14-2 record (8-7 in the league) and was scheduled to play Lafayette, Long Island University, and Fairleigh Dickinson the first three days of this week. A doubleheader at St. John's is scheduled for this Sunday.

Lightweights Take H-Y-P. Princeton's lightweight crew, still hoping to earn a return trip to Henley in June, took a step in that direction over the weekend by defeating Harvard and Yale on the Charles River. All three boats finished within one length. The Tigers must win the Eastern Sprints on May 13 in order to compete in England.

The Tiger heavyweight crew made the long trip to Long Beach, California, and then made an even longer trip back: Princeton finished behind Cornell and Stanford and ahead of only UCLA in that regatta. Coach Larry Gluckman's crew will row again this Saturday against Rutgers on the Raritan.

The Princeton lacrosse team lost to Cornell, 10-6, on Finney Field. No news there — that was the 18th straight loss by the Tigers to the Big Red. But the loss sent Princeton's record plummeting to 2-7, its worst in years, and its Ivy mark to 1-4, tied with Harvard and Yale for last place.

The Tigers will travel to Dartmouth this weekend and then host Delaware next Wednesday, May 9, in the final home game of the year.

Wolf Throwing Well. Princeton alumnus August Wolf continues to perform well in the shot put, and has emerged as not only a likely member of the United States Olympic team but also as the leading American candidate for a medal in the shot. Wolf threw 69-feet-7½-inches to win the Penn Relays, his second-best toss ever.

The only Princeton undergraduate to score points was Rob Quinn, who placed fourth in the steeplechase. The Tigers will compete in the Heptagonals this weekend at West Point and then prepare for the Princeton Invitational on Saturday, May 12.

TIGER NINE VICTORIOUS

Evens Record at 14-14-2. Freshman pitcher Art Peponis had a hard time against Seton Hall last week in his first varsity start, but he came back to win his first game of the season Monday, 5-4, against Lafayette in Easton, Pa.

The Tiger offense, led by Tom Urquhart, Todd Tuckner and Sean Welsh, staked Peponis to a 4-0 lead after five innings. The home team rallied for three in the seventh, but the Orange and Black scored what proved to be the winning run in the top of the eighth.

HUN NINE REBOUNDS

With Three Wins, 6-3 Mark. By any measure, it was a satisfying week for the Hun School baseball team.

The Raiders defeated Peddie and Lawrenceville in back to back games, coming from behind in both to win, and earlier stopped rival Pennington School. "It was a good week," allowed Hun coach Bill McQuade. "The kids played really well. I think they are starting to believe in themselves."

The victories over Peddie and Lawrenceville puts Hun in the driver's seat in the prep school state tournament which starts Monday and will continue the following two Mondays. "We should be seeded No. 1 and will probably get a bye in the first round," predicted McQuade. There are not eight teams in the A Division, he added.

Before that, Hun will remain busy, playing Rutgers Prep at home this Wednesday at 3:45 and West Windsor Saturday at 2. It will be at Wardlaw Hartridge on Friday.

Ted Bransfield limited Peddie, ranked seventh in the area, to three hits, en route to a 7-4 win – his first against two setbacks. Bransfield struck out 12, nine in the last five innings. "He pitched very well," said McQuade.

Hun scored three in the first on hits by Pete Stam, Bransfield, two of Peddie's five errors and a two-run single by Lorenzo Mendoza.

Peddie came back with four runs in the second when Bransfield lost his composure for the only time. He yielded all three Peddie hits in the frame, uncorked two wild pitches, hit two batters and walked one. Peddie might have scored more but Stam fielded a Steve Fox single to center, connected with a bullet to the cutoff man, Mendoza at short, who relayed to Owen Cane at third to cut down Todd Miller who had been hit by an errant Bransfield pitch to get on. Over the next five innings, Bransfield allowed only four Falcon baserunners.

Hun tied it at 4 in the third on singles by Cane and Joe Scandariato and went ahead in the next inning when Bransfield tripled and scored on a fielder's choice. It added two insurance runs in the sixth.

THE win for Hun was Friday's 3-2 extra inning squeaker over second-ranked Lawrenceville. The 5-2 Larries scored their only runs in the second, combining an error, a double by pitcher Pete Engels, a sacrifice fly and a wild pitch.

Engels, meanwhile, retired the firt nine Hun batters in order and allowed just one hit until the sixth. In the sixth, sophomore pinch-hitter Rick Brenner beat out an infield hit and Bransfield then tied the game with a home run.

On the mound for Hun, Stam was in the process of pitching his best game of the season. "He was in total control," said McQuade. "He retired 14 of the last 15 he faced. He kept them off stride.

The game went into extra innings. In the bottom of the eighth, Scandariato walked. He was picked off first by a throw by catcher Chris Kipert and was hung up between first and second but beat the throw to second for a stolen base. Scandariato then scored when Bransfield beat out a hit to short to score the winning run and his third RBI.

Stam got the win, his third against no losses, giving up three hits. Hun managed only five off Engels who suffered his first loss against no decisions.

Earlier in the week, in its first game in 10 days, Hun defeated Pennington School, 4-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Rich Stout. In winning his second against one loss, Stout had fashioned a one-hitter until the sixth when Pennington scored both its runs.

Stout, who fanned six, also aided his cause by driving in two runs in the first. Bransfield drove in a run with a double as he and Stout combined for four of Hun's five hits off losing pitcher Steve Thomas. Pennington's record dipped to 0-5 with the loss.

WEATHER TURNS HOT

And So Does PDS Nine. The weather and the fortunes of the Princeton Day baseball team both took a turn for the better last week.

The sun finally came out for an extended period, and the Panthers responded by winning their first three games of the spring, after four consecutive losses. They got started with an 8-3 triumph over Rutgers Prep last Wednesday, and followed that

Princeton basketball coach Pete Carril has succeeded in recruiting a name player from the high school ranks this spring, although the name's greatest glory — thus far — belongs to the player's father, not the player.

John Thompson III, whose father coaches the NCAA champion Georgetown Hoyas, has indicated he will enroll at Princeton in the fall. Thompson, a 6-foot-4 forward who averaged 20.8 points for Gonzaga in Washington, D. C., had considered the possibility of trying to win a place on his father's team before settling on Princeton. He is said to be slower and weaker than the players who powered Georgetown to the national title, but Carril was impressed by his passing.

Young John Thompson, in turn, was impressed by the campus tour he received from outgoing captain Bill Ryan and by the endorsement Princeton received from another Gonzaga graduate, defensive halfback Eric Robinson.

Carril also received positive news from three guards: two from New Jersey (Atlantic County and Kinnelon) and one from Denver, Colorado.

ONCE TOO OFTEN: Princeton Day's Scott Roberts already had three stolen bases to his credit in Saturday's game against Neumann Prep, but he was tagged out trying to steal for the fourth time in the bottom of the sixth. Second baseman Rich Buchann made the tag. The Panthers won the contest, 4-3. (W.L. Bill Allen photo) with 4-3 victories over Wardlaw and Neumann Prep Friday and Saturday.

This week, the Panthers will face Princeton High at home on Wednesday, and Newark Academy away on Friday. By virtue of its three victories, all over Prep "B" opponents, PDS seems assured of getting into the playoffs.

The Blue and White broke into the win column for the first time, when Scott Roberts tossed a five-hitter against Rutgers Prep, striking out nine along the way. Roberts spotted the visitors a run in the first, but a five-run second got PDS on its way. Andy Bing drove in three runs, and Peter Ross, two, to lead the victors' offense.

Victory number two came against an undefeated Wardlaw team, when Andy Bing scored in the bottom of the seventh and final inning to send the 4-0 Rams to their first defeat. Bing walked, stole second and rode home on a single by Jason Quick.

The visitors were coasting along on a 3-0 lead until the bottom of the sixth, when a long bases loaded single by Jon McConaughy drove in three runs and tied the score. Pitcher John Nicolai went all the way, gaining his first victory against two losses.

The following day, the Blue and White reversed the script, scored all four of its runs in the first inning, and then held off 6-3 Neumann Prep the rest of the way. Ross had the big blow in the first, slamming a two-run double. Bing evened his record at 1-1, giving up three runs in the third, but blanking the visitors in their other six at bats.

STEINERT OVER PHS

In Baseball, Softball, Monday turned out to be just as dreary for the Princeton High baseball teams as for the office worker.

The boys' nine was outslugged by Steinert, 9-6, while the girls were buried 21-0 by the Spartans.

"We finally got some runs but we gave up too many," observed PHS coach Ed Beacham. The Spartans collected just eight hits off PHS ace Gavin Hulsman but half of them dropped for doubles as Steinert scored five in the second and managed to hold off the Little Tigers the rest of the way.

Princeton's most telling hit was a bases-loaded double by Mickey Carnevale in the sixth. The Little Tigers managed only three in all in the loosely-played game which featured seven errors, four by the Spartans, who won their eighth against four setbacks. Princeton evened its record at 4-4.

Hulsman went the distance for PHS and took the loss, his second in five decisions. His biggest problem all day was Spartan sophomore Jerry Chmielewski who batted 3-for-3, including a double, scored three runs and stole two bases.

Three Hits for PHS. The PHS girls' softball team was shut out on a three-hitter by Spartan pitcher Carol Kokotajlo.

The home team decided things early by scoring nine runs in the first inning off losing pitcher Tracey Hemmingway and then coming back to score nine more in the second. Sylvia Scozzari wielded the biggest bat for the victors, clubbing three hits, including a grand slam, and driving in five runs.

Tennis Team Wins. If there was anything golden on this blue Monday it was the performance of the undefeated PHS tennis team. As expected, the 6-0 Little Tigers routed Steinert, 5-0, losing only five games all afternoon.

In singles play, Jacob Leschly defeated Lloyd Jacobs, 6-2, 6-0, and Mark Leschly and Bruce Ellis both won, 6-0, 6-0. Rob Dunham and Mike Elliot swept to a 6-1, 6-0 triumph in the number one doubles and Matthew Mack and Brett VandeHovenkamp followed with a 6-2, 6-0 win.

PHS, which also blanked McCorristin last week, will entertain Ewing Thursday in a CVC league match.

Clearly the class high school team in the area, the Little Tigers will get a chance to find out how good they are this weekend.

Coach Joe Diefenbach reported that PHS has been invited to participate in the Newark Invitational Tournament Friday and Saturday. It features, he said, the top eight teams in the state. PHS is ranked third in the state behind Montclair Kimberly and Westfield.

Girls Lax Team Wins. Erupting for 12 second-half goals, the Princeton High girls' lacrosse team overwhelmed Chatham Borough Monday, 18-5, for its fifth win in six contests.

Alison Fraker led the PHS scoring parade with five goals -- her high for the season. Erika Gabrielsen, Pam Jennings and Carol O'Donoghue each scored a hat trick and Booie Lockwood, Sue Perna and Sue Lofgren each added single goals.

"They put up a pretty strong fight in the first half," commented Fraker, one of the team's co-captains. (It was 6-4 at halftime.) "We came back very strong in the second half. We got rolling and I think they just lost heart. It was a great day for us."

Track: PHS 112, Hamilton 20. The Princeton High girls track team ran Hamilton into the ground Monday, breezing to a 112-20 win. The winless Hornets failed to take a single event.

Victors for PHS were Sally Flynn and Dawn Gray in the sprints, Diana Hunt in the 400, Susan Gray in the 800, Gail Woolston in the 1600 and Kiran Cummings in the 3200. Flynn won the 100 hurdles and Barbara Byrne the 400 hurdles. Sarah Doig, Michelle Maryk, Jenine Barnshaw and Hunt combined to win the 1600 relay.

Field events winners were Carine Toussaint, long jump and discus; Molly Rice, high jump; Barbara Halvorsen, shot put and javelin.

PDS SPLITS A PAIR

In Girls' Lacrosse. After an emotional, hard-fought game against Princeton High last Wednesday, that ended in an 8-6 loss, the Princeton Day girls lacrosse team could not get too excited about an 11-1 triumph over Germantown Friends.

PDS put the visitors away early in the first half with a barrage of goals, and it soon became evident that Germantown did not have the ability to make a contest out of it. Melinda Bowen led the Panthers' attack with four goals, Karen Callaway had three, Lynne Faden, two, and Maya Bermingham and Tania Schornagel, one each. Hilleary Thomas was called upon to make just five saves.

This victory did not do much to erase the thoughts of the tough loss, PDS's first of the season, to the Little Tigers. Coach Kim Bedesem thought her squad definitely could have played a better game, especially on offense. "Once we got behind, our attack panicked," Bedesem noted.

"We had to play catch-up, and tried to play their running game, instead of our own passing game. We did not play well, but managed to stay in the game through determination and hustle. Our defense looked good; it allowed PHS only two goals in the second half."

For all its problems, PDS did stick close, falling behind by 6-4 at the half. But it tied the score at 6-6 after the intermission, before giving up to unanswered goals that gave PHS its margin of victory. Callaway had a hat trick to lead PDS in scoring, Faden contributed two, and Birgit Enstrom, one.

The Panthers will get a quick shot at revenge; a return game at the high school is set for this Tuesday. In the meantime PDS will play Montclair Kimberly this Wednesday, and Chatham High on Friday, both at home.

PHS BOYS, GIRLS WIN

In Track. The Princeton High boys and girls track teams each posted victories last week, the boys stopping Steinert, 71-60, to remain undefeated at 3-0, and the girls also handling Steinert the same day, 72-50. Bigger tests await each team.

For the boys it will be a showdown dual meet Thursday with visiting Lawrence for first-place in the Colonial Valley Conference. Girls' coach Tom McMorrow is pointing to a good showing in the St. Bernards Invitational meet Saturday at Bernardsville. "It's one of the finest meets we go to. It has a fantastic track and the quality of the competition is such that it offers a good chance for the girls to lower their times," commented McMorrow. The boys will also compete in the same meet.

The girls will also oppose Lawrence on Thursday and are seeking to get George School to switch its Friday date with PHS in Newtown, Pa. to another day so the Little Tigers can concentrate on the St. Bernards Meet.

With the exception of the hurdle events, PHS dominated the racing events and performed well in the field events to hand Steinert its second dual meet setback.

First place winners for PHS were Ed Katz in the 100 meter (11.7), Bruce Ellerstein in the 200 (25.1), Katz again in the 400 (53.8), and Graham Trelstad in the 800 (2:07.9). Tom Perkins captured the 1600 with a clocking of 4:45.1 and teammate Nathaniel McVey-Finney won the other distance race, the 3200, in 10:45.5. Perkins, Ellerstein, Tom Haggerty and Katz combined to win the 1600 relay in 3:45.1. Steinert was timed in 3:54.5.

Haggerty came back to win the shot put, Tim O'Gorman won the discus, Mike Riddick the long jump and Eric Rapp the pole vault (9-6) to pile up points. Riddick finished second in the 100 and third in the 200 while Haggerty was second in the 400.

DiPerna Leads Sweeps. Teressa DiPerna paced the PHS girls to their second dual meet win in three outings, leading PHS sweeps in both the 100 and 200 sprints. She was clocked in 13.4 in the 100 followed by teammates Kim Johnson and Meg Parsons. In the 200, DiPerna finished first with 27.6, followed by Parsons and Johnson.

Another PHS sweep came in the 400 where veteran Gail Woolston was timed in 1:02.5, followed by Hillary Jones (1:03.2) and Diana Hunt (1:09.3). Barbara Byrne and Susan Gray finished 1-2 in the 800, Byrne's winning time: 2:34.5.

Barbara Halverson won the shot put by more than two feet with a toss of 30-8½, Carine Toussaint captured the long jump with a leap of 14-2 and Sarah Billington won the high jump with a top effort of 5-0.

The Spartans' Johanna Koneski won both distance races, besting Gray in the 1600 and edging PHS co-captain Kiran Cummings in the 3200, 11:49 to 12:01. Koneski's time in the 3200 was the fastest posted this year. Cummings' 12:01 is the second fastest.

Bryne, Heather Gray, Jones and Woolston combined to win the 1600 relay in 4:34.5 -- almost 14 seconds faster than Steinert's 4:48.3.

HUN WINS AGAIN

In Lacrosse. Idled for ten days by Easter vacation and a rainout, the Hun lacrosse team managed to shake off the rust and Newark Academy last week for a 6-4 victory. The win was Hun's second in a row after four opening losses.

Hun scored three times in the final period to pull the game out. "It was a nice come-from-behind win," said Hun coach Dave Faus. "I think our game is starting to come together.

For Hun, the scoring was spread among five players as Jim Lomker tallied twice and Peter Ricker, Brent Dietrich, Chris Natale and Chris Goodyear added single goals. "It's nice to know that more than one can score," observed Faus. Hun goalie Stephan Babin contributed 14 saves for his role in the win.

Hun will oppose a strong Dwight Englewood this Wednesday at 4 at home and Blair Academy away on Saturday. The first round of the NJISAA tournament is scheduled to begin on Monday.

PHS GIRLS WIN, 17-13

In Softball. A winner only once last year, the Princeton High girls softball team won its second game last week when it outslugged town rival Princeton Day School, 17-13.

The victors' 21-hit attack was keyed by Annie Heard's three-run homer and five runs batted in. Teammate Debbie Marchand batted 4-for-5 and drove in three runs. Carolyn Hubel, Suzanne Allen and Monica Greenland all connected for doubles for the 2-6 Little Tigers, Allen belting two.

PDS (2-2) collected 11 hits and scored 10 of its 13 runs in the sixth inning. PHS had matched that with 10 runs of its own in the second as Monica Greenland got the win.

The previous day, PHS had held undefeated McCorristin to a 1-0 lead after two innings. But the top-ranked Iron Mikes then reached PHS hurler Tracey Hemmingway for five runs in the third inning and ten more in the next two to win going away, 16-1. The game was halted after five innings when the 15-run rule was invoked.

Princeton managed only three hits off senior pitcher Joanne Zola who is 6-0. Alexa Millas and Donna Tummillo each drove in four runs for McCorristin which finished 23-2 last year. Hemmingway's loss was her fourth without a win.

The Little Tigers made it one out of three when they also dropped a shortened, five-inning contest to Hightstown, 18-3.

Heard drove in two runs with a triple and Marchand batted in Princeton's third run. But the Little Tigers played poorly in the field, committing seven errors. The Rams were led at the plate by homers off the bats of Pam White and Kathy Falk, as the win pushed the Rams over the .500 mark at 4-3. Hemmingway was charged with the loss.

PHS NINE READY

For Ewing, Notre Dame. "We have three conference games coming up this week against some of the better teams in the conference, and frankly the players are looking forward to it. We think we have a pretty good team — we've worked hard at it — so this is the week we'll see."

PHS baseball coach Ed Beacham sees this week as the one which will answer once and for all: How good are the Little Tigers?

Providing the test will be Ewing here on Thursday at 3:45 and Notre Dame here Saturday. Both are leading contenders for the Colonial Valley Conference title. PHS, despite a split last week with Hightstown and West Windsor, and a 4-3 record, is still 1-0 in the league.

The Little Tigers will also oppose Princeton Day School this Wednesday afternoon at 3:45 at the PHS field.

D'Angelo Victim. Dino D'Angelo was the victim of some poor fielding and impotent hitting Friday, as he pitched a four-hitter against West Windsor but still lost, 3-1. "It was just one of those days; the kids just didn't hit," said Beacham.

Mickey Carnevale singled in the fourth, for Princeton's only run, to stake D'Angelo to a short-lived one-run lead. Jason Petrone doubled and DH Derek Martin hit safely for Princeton's other two hits off Pirate hurler Colin Ford.

West Windsor, coming off a five-game losing streak, scored all three of its runs in the same inning. All were unearned. Beacham observed that 24 of the 31 runs the Little Tigers have yielded this season have been unearned. "That ratio's not so great," he added.

With two outs, Dave Arendas bounced back to the mound. The ball went off D'Angelo's glove and eluded shortstop Mike Petrone allowing two runs to score. Another run came across on Greg Costas' single.

"Ford did a nice job for them. He didn't walk anybody," said Beacham. PHS made it easier for West Windsor to find the win column again by committing four errors.

pitched PHS to a 4-3 win over Hightstown.

Hulsman was tough when he had to be, noted Beacham. After the Rams had climbed back to within one run of tying the game, Hulsman retired them in order in the last two innings on 13 pitches. "He pitched well under fire," said Beacham.

Again all three Hightstown runs were unearned, as were two of Princeton's. The Little Tigers plated three runs in the first, combining hits by Tom Foltiny, Mike Petrone, and Derk Martin, an error and a fielder's choice.

After Hightstown got one back in the third, PHS scored what was to be the winning run in the fourth. Martin opened with an infield hit — his second — was bunted to second by D'Angelo, advanced to third on a single by Jim Opperman, and came home when Hulsman's grounder was misplayed for an error.

The win was Hulsman's third against one loss. He limited the Rams to three hits while PHS was collecting eight. Martin and Foltiny combining for four.

PDS LOSES TWO OF THREE

In Boys' Lacrosse. The Princeton Day boys' lacrosse team lost two of three contests last week against superior opponents, but it's what they learned from those defeats that will count most.

"Neither loss was a great disappointment," commented coach Bob Krueger. "Playing those teams is the best thing that could happen to us in terms of preparing for this week's games."

After beating Peddie, 9-4, last Wednesday, the Panthers lost on successive days to Clark, 10-5; and Bridgewater East, 10-3. All three are in the "A" league, but not in PDS's division. This week the Blue and White will meet three division foes: Pingry on Wednesday at home, Hunterdon Central Saturday away, and Lawrenceville at home Monday. These three contests will help determine whether Princeton Day will stick around for the playoffs this season.

In both losses, the Panthers were able to battle on even terms for the first half, before the other team pulled away in the final two periods. "Both games were closer than the score indicates," Krueger commented.

Against Clark, the Panthers answered a goal in the first minute of play with one of their own mid-way through the first period, and the score remained that way until just a minute or so remained in the half. Then a poor clearing pass gave Clark an opportunity to make it 2-1, and soon after a PDS penalty, it was 3-1. "They really capitalized when we made mistakes," Krueger said. "And they didn't make many themselves."

The visitors extended their lead to 5-1, before PDS rallied to make it 6-3. PDS was able to apply pressure at times, but often Clark came up with the goal. It scored on five man-down situations, as PDS was hit with 12 penalties. The Panthers had trouble adjusting to Clark's tough, but legal style of play.

Tom Foster tallied twice for the home team, Eric Bylin, Bill Noonan and Peter Gallup, once each. Chris McCabe had 10 saves.

On Saturday, PDS hung in for a half against Bridgewater, trailing by just a goal, 2-1. With less than a minute to play in the half, PDS scored to cut the deficit to 5-3, but then gave up another just 10 seconds later, and never seemed to recover. The winners scored four more times after the intermission, while Princeton Day was held scoreless.

"We had plenty of opportunities, but too often we dropped the last pass," Krueger commented. "We need to practice with more intensity." Gallup had two of the three Panther goals, Bylin the other.

Peddie proved to be an easier match for the Blue and White, as Noonan with four goals and Gallup with three, led the way. Bylin and Eric Hovanec each scored once; Foster and Noonan had three assists apiece.

The Panthers are now 4-4.

VICTORY ELUDES PHS

In Lacrosse. Twice last week the Princeton High boys lacrosse team tried to win its first game of the season and for the fifth and sixth time the Little Tigers failed. "Things don't get any easier," sighed PHS coach Pete Larsen.

Saturday, PHS was outclassed, 16-4, by Summit the defending state champion, and earlier in the week, in its closest bid for a win this season, it lost an early lead and bowed to Hunterdon Central, 10-8.

"We didn't play well," agreed Larsen, after the lopsided loss to Summit. "They didn't make any mistakes and we made them all. Summit played well."

"Things didn't go our way," added Larsen. PHS goalie Dan Brandt was hit on the head early in the game and was replaced by Eric McCune who had five saves.

Increasing its record to 5-2, Summit took a 3-0 advantage in the first period and then command of the game by scoring five goals in each of the next two periods. For PHS, Chris Carrington, Jim Jones, Dominic Tracey and Jim Sharp each scored.

The loss to Hunterdon Central was more painful to the Little Tigers. "It really hurt because we played much better than they did," said Larsen.

"We made a couple of simple mistakes that cost us the game."

After PHS had jumped to a 3-0 lead over the 3-2 Red Devils, Princeton, Larsen said, threw the ball away twice near the end of the first period and both times the visitors capitalized to get back in the game.

"It changed the momentum," insisted Larsen. "We can't let any team like that catch up–not the way we've been playing. It's a shame because the kids played well. They hustled."

Senior attack Sam Chambers paced the Little Tiger attack with four goals. Keith Green added two and Ravi Babu and Jones once each. Senior Dave Buckley scored six goals for the Devils and teammate Jeff Sember added three more as the two outscored the entire PHS team.

PHS will host Peddie

Now, it is true that students from different schools experienced differences in teaching style. In some of the non-public schools, JW kids found what Mr. Johnson calls "a tighter classroom" than they were used to. They found some classes more 'teacher-dominated' than others, " ... and some schools are a little less interested in flexibility," the JW headmaster tactfully concedes.

"But the big shocker — do you know what that was? PDS kids say John Witherspoon is the most preppie school, because all of our kids live in Princeton. At PDS, so many of the students come from Trenton, Yardley — places like that.

"And we were calling THEM preppies!

"We are a public school, but we seem private to them. Why? We have rugs on the floors. No bells. Independence to make decisions on some things, like setting up dances or helping teachers decide about field trips.

"And if you've come to PDS from, say, Yardley or Trenton, you look back at the public schools in your own town, and compared to them, we are private!

"Our kids didn't understand this: 'what are you talking about?' they would ask."

Mr. Johnson also points to the number of students from Princeton University families, doctors' families, the families of corporate executives — "a clientele more like a private school."

"And," he grins again, "the kids we have from blue-collar families act just like everybody else — you can't tell the difference!"

No parents were involved in the Intercity Council. Headmasters, staff and students did it all, and will do it again in years to come.

"The kids all tell us we must do it year after year, so that it becomes a routine. It's important to keep the burners going; each headmaster must keep at it.

"So often, you're shut out of the different kinds of societies there are in the community. But understanding the schools, and seeing how they reflect those different kinds of societies can keep you from being shut out."

Saturday at 1:30 in its next outing. A contest with Bridgewater East, set for May 24, has tentatively been rescheduled for this Wednesday afternoon at PHS. Bridgewater, ranked fourth in the state, will probably be involved in playoffs and not be able to play PHS at the end of the season, Larsen explained. "They will be a test for us," he said.

PHS IS VICTOR

Over Rival in Lacrosse. "We're rolling along, but we're learning a lot as we roll."

The speaker, Princeton High girls lacrosse coach Joyce Jones and her team learned if you can control the ball and play good defense you can beat another good team. The Little Tigers did that last week — beating Princeton Day School to the ball — to register a 10-8 victory over the previously unbeaten Panthers. PHS climbed to 4-1.

The Little Tigers will try to keep rolling against another town rival when they entertain Stuart this Wednesday afternoon at 3:45. Friday they will host Summit at 4 and will face PDS in a return match on Tuesday at home.

For Jones, possession was nine-tenths of the victory over PDS. Possession of the ball contributed, she felt, to the victory which she described as a "super game overall.

"We beat PDS to the ball two to one. That made the difference," said Jones. "I really felt we had the momentum throughout the game."

After the Little Tigers had taken a 6-4 lead, the Panthers tied it at six on a pair of goals by Lynne Faden. Thirteen minutes into the second half, Erika Gabrielsen scored the tie-breaking goal — her second — and two minutes later Pam Jennings gave the Little Tigers a two-goal cushion with her second goal. Also netting goals for PHS were Carol O'Donoghue, Cassie Vogt, Alison Fraker and Jessica Fraker. For Jessica, the only freshman on the varsity squad, it was her first of the season. "She's the little sister of Alison but she plays like her big sister," commented Jones.

PHS outshot the 4-1 Panthers 23-16. PHS goalie Liz O'Donoghue was credited with 10 saves while her PDS counterpart had 15.

"The defense has been working on our transition game," commented Jones. "Everybody plays defense. I was pleased with our defense as far as having our attack players take their shots on goal and then turn around and deny the pass out. I think we played with a lot of mental alertness and aggressiveness."

The victory turned out to be the only one for the Little Tigers last week, after Thursday's scheduled contest at Morristown was cancelled because of a wet field. It has not as yet been rescheduled.

TWO TEAMS TIED

In Princeton Soccer League. Hulit's Shoes and Kopp's Cycle were tied for first place in the junior division of the Princeton Soccer Assocation after games last week. H. Gross and John Brandt were tied for second.

Hulit's topped Princeton Nautilus, 5-1, on goals by Richard Rossmassler, Ted Kinchla, Christian Batcha, Harry Morton and Courtney Batcha. Navroze Alphonse scored for the losers.

Jordan Crane scored five goals and Scott Anderson and Jared Bilanin two each to pace John Brandt to a 9-1 victory over Jay's Cycle. Jacob Hedberg scored for Jay's.

Kopp's Cycle registered its second shutout — a 5-0 blanking of H. Gross & Company — as defensemen Kari Rolph and William Georgantas teamed up with goalie Chris Craig for the goose egg. On offense, Jon Medlinsky, Steve Taber, Thomas Browning and Chandra Bhatnagar scored for Kopp's.

JR. OLYMPICS SET

For Saturday. The 13th annual Junior Olympic Track and Field Meet, sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Department, will be held Saturday at the Princeton High School track, starting at 9 a.m. Boys and girls nine and under and not having reached their 14th birthday are eligible to participate.

There are three age divisions and specific events include the 50 and 100 meter dashes, 440 relays, 800 meter, running long jump, high jump and shot put. Winners will advance to the Junior Olympics' regional championship meet to be held May 19 in Princeton University's Palmer Stadium.

Additional information may be obtained from Princeton schools or from the Recreation Department, 921-9480.

WINNERS NAMED

In Hilltop Road Race. William Gaston of New York City and Princeton's Fairfax Hunter were the overall winners in Sunday's second annual five-mile Hilltop Road Race.

Hutter, competing in the 30-39 bracket, was the top woman runner for the second year in a row. She was clocked in 30:50--five seconds off her pace last year. Gaston's winning time of 26:54 was nearly a minute slower than the time posted by last year's winner among the men, Dave Johnson. Gaston competed in the 19-29 group.

Second-place overall winners were Paul Leetsma of Titusville (27:08) and Barbara Brent of Hopewell (34:07). More than 250 runners competed in the race held in Sunday's sunshine and heat.

Karl Light, who is involved in the development of Hilltop Park, the beneficiary of the proceeds, handed out medals to the winners in seven age categories.

They were: 14 and under, Alden Thorndike of Pennington (30:32) and Kate McCormick of Ringoes (54:30); 15-18, Peter Donnelly of Princeton (30:20) and Julie Hall of North Brunswick (41:49); 19-29, Gaston and Meg Heffren of Lawrenceville (35:05); 30-39, Juan Ramirez of Princeton (27:52) and Hutter; 40-49, Steven Stovall of Princeton (29:44) and Cindy Bienkowski of Princeton (36:59); 50-59, Phil Collins of Hopewell (33:39) and 60 plus, Alan Poole of Princeton (42:07).

McCarter Announces Campaign To Raise Money for Renovation

To suffer not only the slings and arrows but the broken springs in the 55-year-old seat ... the voice, soft, gentle and low, an excellent thing in woman if you can hear it ... heigh-ho, the wind and the rain at 10:30 after final curtain ... God bless us, every one ...

McCarter Theatre is going after $4 million to renovate, remodel and rebuild.

"Something must be done," says a slick brochure released this week to announce the capital campaign.

Each year, says the brochure, more than 225,000 people from New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania come to McCarter. They come for classical music, great jazz pianists, Shakespeare, Alvin Ailey, Sam Shepard and Ibsen.

They sit on seats with rocks under the tearing vinyl in an auditorium breathless with lack of moving air, often straining for the lost word, the lost note, frequently shrugging off intermissions because the lobby is — well, crowded.

And yet the SRO sign is out, over and over again.

The problem: age.

Thomas McCarter gave money for the theatre, and it was completed in 1929. The original seats are the ones you sit on today.

Because the theatre was not built for concerts, a loosely constructed set of baffles has been used, but it is unwieldy and inadequate.

A good lobby, say theatre experts, should provide three to five square feet per patron. McCarter's offers one and a half.

Modifications to create new lighting positions have made the ventilation problem even worse.

And on and on.

Borough Housing Committee Report Emphasizes Need for Affordable Units

A report on affordable housing in the Borough, complete with minority report, has been presented to Borough Council for consideration. So far, there have been no statements from Council members on the content of either report.

Meanwhile, the Planning Board is scheduled to meet again — this Wednesday at 7:30 in the Valley Road Building — to ponder an affordable housing plan for the community. The one presented to Council is for the Borough only.

Highlights:

It is the "strong feeling" of the affordable housing committee, that any increase in density should be for affordable units only. The traditional "conditional density bonus" offered to developers is not acceptable.

Mandatory set-asides, requiring a developer to designate a certain percentage of units for lower-cost housing, would not yield enough low-cost units for the increased density involved.

The Zoning Board should be allowed to permit an apartment within any single-family home in the Borough, not just in certain neighborhoods.

Owners over 62 should be allowed to add on studio units to a single-family house.

Lot-coverage limits should be relaxed for lower-cost housing.

Off-street parking requirements should be relaxed also.

A Princeton Borough Housing Trust should be established. Funds would come from increased tax revenues brought by new development, renovation or conversion, a "very modest increase" in the tax rate, contributions from the community or governmental funding. Developers were not mentioned as a source.

The minority report,

Developers, Environmentalists Are Expected To Attend 'Sewer Summit' Meeting Thursday

Developers, environmentalists and sewer activists are expected to turn out in large numbers for Thursday night's "Sewer Summit" — a joint meeting of Borough and Township municipal officials to discuss various matters pertaining to Princeton's sewer system. The meeting, which the two mayors planned as a work session for Township Committee and Borough Council with limited public input, will begin at 8 in Conference Room B of the Valley Road Building, 369 Witherspoon Street.

Believing that the prime purpose of the meeting is to decide whether to reimpose a ban on the portions of Harry's Brook and Mountain Brook sewer trunk lines, the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association has sent out an "alert" to its Princeton members asking them to appear at the session. The Environmental Commission will cut short its own meeting that night so that all its members can attend.

Meanwhile there are these developments:

• A motion sponsored by Township Committeewoman Gail Firestone to impose a ban on the Mountain Brook sewer line up to manhole 24-F (located off Elm Road opposite Mountain Avenue) and all of Harry's Brook line was defeated 4-1 by Township Committee last Monday night, with Mrs. Firestone casting the single vote for her own proposal. Her resolution concerning detection and repair of improper sump pump connections was favorably received, however, and Committee

Library Trustees to Request $300,000 for Automation

They don't use a quill pen when you check out a book from the public library, but the equipment is almost that far back in time.

It dates from the opening of the present library building in 1965. It is no longer made. It has an average life-span of 20 years, 19 of which have already been lived. It no longer has replacement parts.

In short ...

Trustees would like to automate the library, replacing this and other antiquated equipment for an estimated $300,000. The amount, large enough to require municipal bonding, will be in the library's capital voted to set up a small subcommittee to work out the details.

Sewer Summit

• New regulations are in the process of being written by the N.J. Department of Environmental Protection that will take the responsibility for sewer bans and sewer connections from the DEP and place it with local municipalities and the developer's engineer. The regulations are due to go into effect on July 1.

Just how they will be interpreted in Princeton which is currently operating under an administrative consent order agreement entered into between the Sewer Operating Committee and the DEP is not yet clear. The consent order permits developers to tie into the sewer upon payment of a fee that is equal to the cost of removing four gallons of infiltration and inflow for every gallon of sewerage that will be put into the system by the development.

Along with municipal appropriations totalling more than $1 million, these contributions by developers have been a source of funds for the I and I removal work presently underway and are the reason why some municipal leaders — notably Mayor Winthrop S. Pike — oppose a sewer connection ban that would cut off this source of funds.

According to Township Engineer Robert O. Kiser, the new DEP regulations will require a number of forms that will have to be filled out by the developer and certified by local and county officials responsible for water quality management and sewage treatment. A key question to which the developer's engineer will have to answer "Yes" or "No" is this: "Do existing sewers and/or pump stations to which the proposed sewer will be connected have adequate capacity to carry this additional flow?"

"If I was an applicant, I'd have a difficult time saying 'yes' to that question," Mr. Kiser observed, "knowing that downstream there were all these overflowing manholes." Not far from this question is a sentence that says that any applicant who knowingly makes a false statement is punishable by a fine of not more than $10,000 or six months imprisonment.

Peggy McNeil, chairman of the Environmental Commission, points out that these are criminal penalties, not civil, and that engineers put their professional careers on the line in signing these forms. But, she adds, the question will be whether the DEP will stick by its own regulations and follow through on enforcement.

A DEP representative is expected to be at Thursday night's meeting to explain the regulations and their impact. Also on the agenda will be a report by the Sewer Operating Committee on the progress of repairs and current plans for further work and a discussion of inspection of private sewer laterals. Laterals are the pipes that take sewerage from the house to the trunk line.

In addition, the Board of Health will discuss health implications of the Princeton's sewer problems and may also call for a connection ban based on its own findings. Still another topic is the possible reorganization of the S.O.C. Mayor Pike has suggested that the structure of the S.O.C. which was created in the '30s may not be adequate for the '80s.

But it is the possible reimposition of a sewer connection ban in part or to the whole system that is of keenest interest. Benedict Yedlin, who plans 37 dwellings on the Foulet tract on Cherry Hill Road, has notified the Township of his intent to sue if a sewer ban is imposed. Eugene McPartland, vice president for planning, plant and properties at Princeton University, was in the Township Committee audience Monday night, paying close attention to the hour-long debate on Mrs. Firestone's proposal for a ban on new connections pending "verifiable, measurable improvements" to the Harry's Brook and Mountain Brook sewer lines.

In urging Princeton members of the Watersheds Association to attend Thursday's meeting, James T. Gaffney, executive director, says that "on the basis of the public health threat and water quality problems, the ban on both trunk lines should be reimposed by Borough and Township."

The two mayors, as agenda-setters for Thursday's sewer summit, are alloting 20 minutes to each of the five major topics, with 10 minutes for public questions and comment at the end of each topic. The meeting will be concluded no later than 11 p.m., says the agenda.

COUNCIL: NO

Developer: Yes. Borough Council last week decided not to join the Township in defending the Mt. Laurel housing suit brought by Calton Homes. But Toll Brothers, developing the property next to Calton's, said it would ask the court to allow it involvement in the suit on the Township's side.

Council unanimously agreed to turn down the Township's request to participate — and share in the costs. The consensus of Council was that the Borough had enough court battles of its own.

Last month, Calton made good on its threat to sue the Township — and the Planning Board — unless the municipality introduced ordinances favoring the kind of zoning Calton wanted for low-cost housing. The firm has plans to build homes on the Hunt Farm between Mercer and Stockton Streets.

Toll Brothers wants to develop the George Cook property next to the Hunt Farm, also between Mercer and Stockton.

Toll is expected to ask the court to be allowed to join as a defendant on the side of the Township and the Planning Board. The Township itself will probably agree, municipal attorney Edwin Schmierer said this week.

The case will be heard before Judge Eugene D. Serpentelli of Superior Court, one of three judges assigned by the New Jersey Supreme Court to hear Mt. Laurel housing and zoning cases in the central region of the state, which includes Princeton.

Judge Serpentelli sits in Toms River and Mr. Schmierer said the Calton Homes case will probably be heard there.

It is also expected that Princeton — at least Princeton Township — will not learn the exact number of lower-cost homes it is to provide under the Supreme Court's Mt. Laurel ruling until Judge Serpentelli states the number at the conclusion of the Calton case.

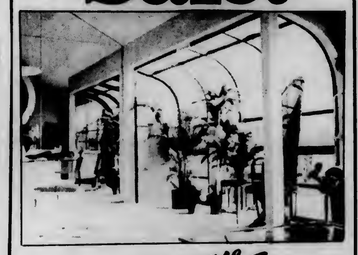
He did give specific numbers in his "Fair Share Report" in the case of the Urban League of New Brunswick versus Carteret and other communities.

Mr. Schmierer said this week it would be about six weeks before the legal "discovery" process begins in the Calton suit.

UNITED WAY AT WORK

Budget Committees. Volunteers — almost 90 of them — are examining the budget requests of the United Way's member agencies to decide how much of the pie each one will receive.

There are 13 budget panels, each reviewing two agencies. Members of the panels will hold evening meetings with agency staffs and will then recommend how much money they think an agency should receive.



In a two-evening session later this month, panels will join in a full committee and vote on the allocations of each panel. These recommendations will be presented to United Way trustees in June for a final vote.

Volunteers who live or work in Princeton are Anthony Baldino, Pete Peters, James Floyd, Quentin Lyle, Sherrill Lord Fraser, Muriel Lord, Marie DiMaggio, Kenneth Nieckoski, Janet Pearson, Anne Bolick, Edward Ozehoski.

Also Edward Stahl, Kevin Clancy, Judy Vogt, Jack Cooper, Raymond Kirschner, Alfred Pietrinferno Jr., Mary Applegate, Sally Inda, William Calves, Karen Gordon, D. Steven Gill, Daniel J. Lyons Jr., Joan Forscher, Christopher Tarr.

5 COMPUTERS STOLEN From Public Library. Five computers were stolen overnight last week from the Princeton Public Library. Police say a partial inventory of the value of the computers is $3,890 and may reach $6,000.

One was removed from a table in the lobby and the others from the technical services room. There were no signs of forced entry.

The theft was discovered Friday morning by a building custodian. Police report that the library had been closed at 10:45 the previous evening and the doors checked to make sure they were locked.

A third floor apartment on Lytle Street was entered without force between 6 a.m. Saturday and 12:15 the following morning. Taken, police said, were articles valued at $580, including four radios, jewelry and clothing.

A side window was broken to enter the Alchemist & Barrister Restaurant, 28 Witherspoon Street, between 3:15 and 7:30 Sunday morning.

The investigation by police revealed that the intruder had failed to open a cash register and had departed without taking anything. Police report the register was not damaged.

CAR, CYCLE COLLIDE On Terhune Road. A motorcycle and a car collided at noon Saturday on Terhune Road at the entrance to the Italian American Sportsmen Club.

James B. Heiry, 46, of Spotswood, told Ptl. Mark Emann that he was attempting to turn left into the IASC driveway and did not see the cyclist until after impact. The cyclist, 22-year-old Peter D. Nutter, 54 Van Dyke Road, told the officer that he saw the car's left turn signal but was unable to avoid a collision. He told Ptl. Emann that he was traveling 40 to 45 miles an hour at the time.

Mr. Nutter was taken to Princeton Medical Center for treatment of contusions and abrasions of the leg. He was issued a summons for speeding. Mr. Heiry was ticketed for failure to yield the right of way.

POLICE ARE IRRITATED By Shooting Rash. Who is shooting holes in expensive store windows around town? The police and a lot of merchants would like to find out.

Two four- by six-foot windows at Jay's Cycle on Nassau Street were punctured by BB pellets during the weekend, and another window the same size at Norman's, 102 Nassau Street, was hit earlier in the week. Police estimated the replacement costs of such windows at $600 to $800.

"There has been a rash of window shootings," Chief Michael Carnevale acknowledges, "but we have not as yet apprehended the individual who is responsible. It happens from time to time.

"We have made arrests in the past," Chief Carnevale continued, "but it seems every time we make an arrest there is another one ready to take up the destruction." In the past, he said, it has been juveniles who were responsible.

Rifle Is Confiscated. Township police early last week confiscated an air rifle of a 17-year- old Township youth. He was arrested shortly after a Longview Drive resident had called police reporting a youth walking in a back yard with a rifle in his possession. The youth later admitted to Ptl. Anthony Gaylord that he had been shooting at birds in trees.

Township Juvenile Officer Jerry Offredo noted that the advent of warm, spring weather seems to bring out as many pellet guns as flower blossoms.

'TIS THE SEASON OF PLANT SALES: It's hard to tell whether these two are conferring about which geranium to give Mother on Her Day or snapping up the lemon-yellow marigolds as edging for their own vegetable gardens. From Rocky Hill to Lawrenceville there will be plenty of opportunity this weekend for gardeners to stock up on potted plants and started seedlings as non-profit organizations take advantage of the season and the enticement of digging in the warming soil after the long winter. On Nassau Street it is called The Big Spring Thing, and it will take place from 9 to 4 in front of the Princeton United Methodist Church as a benefit for the church.

He then issued this caution to parents: it is against the law in New Jersey for an adult or a juvenile to be in possession of a air rifle or pellet gun unless he has first obtained a federal identification card to purchase a gun. Applicants are fingerprinted and then cleared by an investigation before being issued a purchase card.

A lot of parents of juveniles, observed Det. Offredo, are talked into traveling to Pennsylvania where a BB gun can be purchased without an ID card. Those caught here without an ID card, he warned, will have their guns confiscated until they meet the N.J. ID card requirements.

In New Jersey, a juvenile cannot apply for such an ID card, Det. Offredo reported. "They can't be in possession of a BB gun outside their home; they cannot be in possession of a BB gun. Period."

If they are caught in possession of such a gun they can be charged with possession of a weapon, Det. Offredo concluded. Police, he reported, are receiving a rash of BB gun complaints.

THEFT REPORT
Rings Worth $20,000
Missing. Two antique gold rings, one a diamond with sapphires, have allegedly been stolen from a patient at Princeton Medical Center. The two are valued at $20,000.

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that police are investigating the alleged theft. According to his report, the patient, a Hightstown resident, was admitted to the Medical Center on April 27. The patient's family told police that she was wearing the rings at the time of her admission. The rings were reported stolen on Sunday.

In one of two wallet thefts, a Princeton resident told police that she left her purse unattended Friday for ten minutes on an office desk at the Methodist Church, Nassau and Vandeventer Streets. When she returned, someone had removed her wallet containing $30.

An instructor at the Y left her wallet unattended on the gym floor while teaching a class last week. The wallet, containing $17, was taken during a 90-minute period, the victim reported.

Keg Is Captured. Eight teenagers, estimated to be 17 and 18, carried off a half-keg of beer valued at $38 from the Cap and Gown Club last week. A club member told police that he saw gang of youths carry the keg from the Prospect Avenue club and place it in a gray van and drive off. Police report that they have a possible license registration of the van.

A $50 hubcap was stolen overnight from the left rear of a 1982 Dodge parked during the weekend in a private lot in the rear of the 200 block of Nassau Street, and a front wheel was removed from a bicycle that had been locked to a rack at Princeton High School. The victim, a PHS student, valued the wheel at $40.

A tool box containg an assortment of plumbing tools valued at $200 was stolen last week from a truck while it was parked for 90 minutes in the 100 block of John Street. Police report that the truck was not locked. The victim is a Princeton resident.

Need A Passport?

Since it now takes six to eight weeks to get a passport from the Philadelphia Passport Agency — plus standing in long lines if you go to Philadelphia — the office of the Mercer County Clerk is suggesting that you can at least avoid standing in line if you go to the Clerk's office in Trenton to apply for your passport.

The office is Room 100, on the first floor of the Mercer County Courthouse, corner Broad and Market in Trenton. There are — at least now — no long lines. To hurry things up, you can pay $2.10 in addition to the $35 passport fee for special delivery.

"If time is of the essence," warns the Clerk's office, "even special delivery may take a month."

2 CARS CATCH FIRE

In Township. Two cars caught fire last week in the Township.

Martin Stone, 29, of Trenton, an employee of Electrolux, told police that he noticed a lot of smoke coming from his car Saturday morning as he turned into a driveway at 763 Princeton-Kingston Road to make a delivery. The engine compartment, hood, windshield and dashboard of his 1980 station wagon were damaged in the fire which police described as electrical.

The fire was extinguished by firemen who responded to a 10:29 call for aid.

While driving on Mountain Avenue early last week, Michael A. Strong, 232 Bayard Lane, heard a loud pop. He stopped his car, opened the hood and discovered his engine on fire.

Police said that Mr. Strong was able to extinguish the fire with his powder extinguisher. The engine wires and hood of his 1967 Volkswagen were damaged.

TWO LOSE LICENSES

For Drunken Driving. Two Princeton residents were fined $265 and had their licenses revoked for six months in Borough traffic court Monday for driving while intoxicated.

They are Luther A. Page, 7 Leigh Avenue, and Joseph W. Tadlock, 29 Green Street. Mr. Page was found not guilty on a second charge of careless driving and Mr. Tadlock on a second charge of traveling the wrong way on a one-way street.

Nathan Feldstein, 63 Hemlock Circle, paid two fines: $75 for speeding and $25 for no license or registration in possession.

Others fined for moving violations were Gunter H. Knaus, 32 N. Stanworth, $60, one way traffic; Peter D. Pizzuto, 202 Village Mill West, Lawrenceville, and William D. Hollister, 75 Linwood Circle, both $60, red light; Peter G. Croghan, 85 Sunset Road, Belle Mead, $60, speeding; Elizabeth A. Socolow, 64 Pine Street, $60, wrong way, one-way street, and Arthur Callandret, 1019 Quail Ridge Road, Plainsboro, $70, speeding.

Others: Holland E. Cole P.I.C., Princeton University, and Peter A. Triestman, 3 Princeton Avenue, Rocky Hill, both $20, unregistered vehicle; Doris M. Fox, 24 Deer Run Drive, Belle Mead, and Lynn H. Cline, 133 Mansgrove Road, $20 and $25, both failure to have inspection; and Briar Township Court. In Township court last week, three area residents were fined $65 each for motor vehicle violations.

They are Allison P. McGilvra, 521 Lake Drive, red light; Kathleen Jackson, 246 River Road, careless driving, and Diane L. Hollander, 24 Parker Road, Plainsboro, stop sign.

In criminal court, Robert Blackburn, formerly of 38½ Leigh Avenue, was fined a total of $495 on one criminal charge of malicious mischief and five motor vehicle violations. Included in the latter were no insurance, driving while suspended, unregistered vehicle and unlicensed driver.

RESTORED MILK TRUCK belonging to Doug Merritt of Belle Mead will be featured in the old-fashioned parade planned by the Van Harlingen Historical Society for its "May in Montgomery" country fair on Saturday. The truck starred briefly in the film, "Little Gloria, Happy at Last," delivering milk bottles to the Vanderbilt residence in New York in a 1920s setting. The parade will begin at noon in Harlingen.

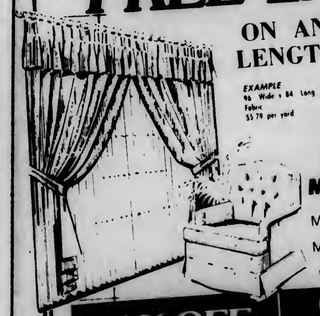
ANTIQUES AVAILABLE

At Montgomery Event. For the third year, an antiques show presented by the Van Harlingen Historical Society will be part of the May in Montgomery community event. The house tour, arts and craft exhibit and parade will take place Saturday along the Dutchtown-Harlingen Road off Route 206 in Montgomery Township.

According to Clara Kennedy, antiques show chairman, the dealers who will be exhibiting at the Harlingen Reformed Church on Route 206 have a strong area following. Among them are four Princeton dealers: Mrs. Kennedy's Calico Cat, with a collection of miniatures, dollhouse furniture, dolls and plant stands; Melange, specializing in American art pottery; Salmagundi, unusual porcelain and decor pieces; and Seraph Antiques, quality china, glass and souvenir spoons.

Rare English softpaste and Chinese export china will be shown by Bentley House Antiques of Hopewell. There will also be timepieces from tallcase clocks to watches, three dealers will have early American and country furniture, while still others will have display Victorian furniture or a medley of furniture, glass and pottery.

In addition to the displays in the church from 10 to 5, the Historical Society's headquarters in the colonial Dutch Gulick House will be furnished with antiques provided by Thornton Field of Princeton.



Admission to just the antiques show and an arts show featuring area artists costs $2. A $4 tickets will include a tour of six Harlingen homes and the Harlingen Church, an 1851 Greek Revival structure built from plans by Charles Steadman. Proceeds will aid the Van Harlingen Historical Society in its restoration of the Gulick House.

The antiques show may be previewed Friday from 7 to 10 at an evening musicale featuring pianist Billie Nastelin, violinist Harman Ward, and a string ensemble. Refreshments will include an array of desserts, fruits, canapes and punch. Tickets for the preview at $8.50, which includes admission to Saturday's events, may be reserved by phoning (201) 359-5595.

YOUTH, 14, CHARGED

With Extortion—Again. A 14-year-old eighth-grade student at John Witherspoon School has been charged for the second time by Township Juvenile Officer Jerry Offredo with extorting money from another 14-year-old student at the school.

The youth has been taken to the Mercer County Youth Detention Center pending further action by a juvenile court. Det. Offredo commented that he is going to try to get the youth tried as a juvenile constant offender, in view of his past records. "He definitely needs professional help," said Det. Offredo.

His investigation revealed, Det. Offredo said, that the youth has extorted several hundreds of dollars from his victim since August, 1983. The most recent incident was extorting $15 on Easter Sunday, threatening bodily injury if the the victim failed to comply.

According to Det. Offredo, the victim has sold his radio, stereo, sporting equipment and had stolen money from his parents' wallet and bank accounts to pay off the demands of the extortioner.

"He's a big boy. He picks out the boys he knows will back off from him," commented Det. Offredo. He added that the same youth had been charged by him in December, 1983, with extorting money from another student. Last month, he had been charged by Det. Offredo with aggressive assault and battery of another 14-year-old in the school playground.

Following both charges, the youth was sent to the County Youth House, Det. Offredo recalled. He was later released to his parents both times.

Det. Offredo said that he had been approached by the victim's parents on April 30 when they stated that money had been extorted from their son by another student for a year or so.

While his investigation is still continuing over this most recent revelation, Det. Offredo added that he believes there are more, unreported, extortion victims in the school. He urged parents or victims to come forth. He said that school officials had been very co-operative in his investigation.

MAN IS CHARGED With Burglary Attempt. A 27-year-old Trenton resident has been charged with the attempted burglary of La Shack, 173 Nassau Street.

Martin White was apprehended as he was walking across the street from the store by Det. William Clark and Patrolmen Victor Fasanella and Donald Dawson. Police had responded to a 5:43 call Sunday morning reporting a burglary in progress at the address.

White, who has been arrested for burglaries in both the Township and Borough in previous years, was taken to County Detention Center in lieu of bail. He is scheduled to appear in Brough court next Wednesday.

As the police officers arrived on the scene, two of them stopped White who was crossing the street. A third went to the rear of the building where he found a screen had been cut. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the witness who called police identified White as the person who was trying to enter the rear window.

White resisted arrest and had to be forcibly restrained before he could be handcuffed and taken to police headquarters.

Marijuana Charge. Percy Randall Jr., 23, 64 Redding Circle, and Barry C. Turner, 24, 224 John Street, were each charged by Township police with possession of more than 25 grams of marijuana and with intent to distribute.

Turner was later released in $1,000 bail; Randall was taken

New Fire Chief

Clinton W. Groover of Lawrence Township, volunteer fire-fighter in Mercer Engine Company Number 3, was sworn in as Princeton's fire chief April 30 replacing Terrance Davidson.

Mr. Davidson, who had been chief for only four months, said he was resigning because the job was "too time-consuming" and "I wanted to spend more time with my family."

He said the fact that he lives outside Princeton — in Hamilton Township — was not a factor. According to Fire Commissioner Richard Woodbridge, Mr. Davidson has also resigned as a fire company officer.

The change makes Thomas Hagadorn of Engine Company Number One, the first assistant chief and Peter Hodges of Hook and Ladder, the second assistant.

Chief Groover is an inspector on the staff of the Joint Sewer Operating Committee. He has been on the SOC for approximately 15 years.

to Mercer County Jail in lieu of bail. Police said he is also wanted on a warrant issued by Hopewell Township police.

The two were arrested at 12:25 Saturday in their car parked in a playground area near Community Park. Ptl. Robert Buchanan had responded to a call complaining of noise from a party breaking up at the corner of John Street and Leigh Avenue.

Police, patroling the area after the party subsided, came upon Randall and Turner in their car. Ptl. Buchanan recognized Randall and knew that a warrant had been issued by Township police for his arrest. In a subsequent investigation of the suspects and their car, police found envelopes containing a greenish-brown vegetation and a large quantity of money. Both were taken to headquarters and charged.

A Classic Case. In what Borough Chief Michael Carnevale described as "a classic case of an individual who falls between the cracks of society and is left to roam the streets without help," police last week arrested a 36-year-old drifter.

Joseph Statile, no known address, was charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of a hypodermic needle. He was later taken to the County Detention Center in lieu of $50 bail.

Statile was first observed Thursday afternoon by Det. Randy Sutton in the central business district. A short time later, he was observed again by Det. Sutton on Nassau Street near Murray Place carrying luggage. Since there had been some break-ins in that area, Det. Sutton requested some backup aid, stopped and questioned the suspect. He appeared to be nervous, police said.

"Greasy Tony's in New Brunswick was making him stick needles in his arm," said Statile. "Why didn't the police do something about them forcing drugs on him," he asked.

Det. Sutton and Ptl. Ronald Wohlschlegel searched the suspect for weapons. When they asked if he had any drugs, Statile said 'yes' and handed over a small purse containing, police said, methamphetamines.

Statile was then arrested, taken to headquarters and charged.

MORVEN IN MAY: Special flower arrangements and horticulture designed by members of the Garden Club of America will enhance early 19th century furniture in Morven next week. Mrs. A. Fleming Austin, left, and Mrs. Charles Ganoe are co-chairmen of the Artistic Division of the flower show which is open to the public on Wednesday, May 16, from 2 to 5 and on Thursday, May 17 from 10 to 2. (Pryde Brown photo)

MORVEN FLOWER SHOW

As Garden Clubs Meet. A special flower show will be held at Morven on Wednesday and Thursday, May 16 and 17, as part of a meeting of the 11 garden clubs belonging to Zone IV of the Garden Club of America.

The show will be open to the public Wednesday from 2 to 5 and Thursday from 10 to 2. One division will be devoted to flower arrangements designed to enhance the early 19th century furniture from Philadelphia and England at the historic mansion. Each arrangement will be required to complement the spirit of the furniture, the particular room and its decoration, and the period of the house.

The furniture includes a spinet-sized English pianoforte handcrafted in London by the Italian composer Muzio Clemente, a Chippendale lowboy with cabriole legs and ball-and-claw feet, and a Hepplewhite bowfront sideboard, among other notable pieces.

The horticulture division will include topiary trained by the exhibitor in three directions, flowering branches and scented leaf geraniums.

The Garden Club of Princeton and the Stony Brook Garden Club, both members of the Garden Club of America, are acting as hostess clubs for this meeting. Mrs. A. Austin Fleming is Zone IV director. Mrs. Michael S. Mathews of the Garden Club of Princeton and Mrs. Moore Gates Jr. of the Stony Brook Garden Club are co-chairmen for the Zone IV meeting.

Garden Club members will hold a business meeting Wednesday and hear Elric J. Endersby of the Princeton History Project and The Recollector speak at a session on historic preservation. Thursday morning they will have a walking tour of Princeton Nurseries.

POLICE WANT PROOF

Of Cycle Ownership. Township police want to know if a 15-year-old Township juvenile is indeed the rightful owner he claims to be of a motorcycle.

The cycle was stopped at 8:50 Sunday night for having no rear light by Sgt. David Potts on Henry Avenue. A computer check revealed that the cycle's license plate had been reported stolen in the Borough on April 19.

Police took the youth to headquarters and charged him with possession of stolen property and unlicensed driving. As for ownership of the cycle, Juvenile Officer Jerry Offredo commented, "He hasn't shown the police any identification yet."

PLANTS GET HEAVE

At 20 Nassau Street. Robert Frost once wrote that while good fences make good neighbors some people don't like them. Add corn plants to that list.

Borough police report that a number of corn plants were uprooted and thrown from their planters on the third and fifth floors of the 20 Nassau Street building. The limbs of a hanging fern in a first-floor hallway entrance had also been ripped off. The vandalism was discovered at 11:33 Sunday morning by an office worker.

Bus Windows Broken. Two antique buses are housed in storage in a garage located in the 200 block off Nassau Street.

The owner told police Sunday that someone had broken two rear windows of a 1946 Ford bus but did not place any value on them.

TWIN BOYS BORN

At Medical Center. Bernardo and Linda Szymczak of 43 Desbrowhill Road, Hightstown, became the parents of twin boys, born May 2 at Princeton Medical Center. The twins are among 20 boys and eight girls born during the week ending May 3.

Sons were also born to Thomas and Martha Taylor, 667 Paxson Avenue, Mercerville; Richard and Patricia Roth, 601 Park Street, Bordentown; William and Eileen Davis, 1012 Wood Mill Drive, Cranbury; Richard and Debbie Narvaez, 14 Marryott Street, Jamesburg, all on April 27;

Also to Mark and Eileen Balaban, 172 Canterbury Court, East Windsor; Loren and Joanne Southern, 194 Nassau Street; Michael and Beth Spooner, Agress Road, Clarksburg; William and Joanne Romano, 8 Beam Avenue, Jackson, all on April 28; Daniel and Patricia Walton, RD 1, Box 1335, Allentown; Michael and Susan Dunn, 16 Jefferson Road, Cranbury, both on April 29;

Also to Bruce and Patricia Fox, 646 Ridge Road, Monmouth Junction; Leroy and Angela Tucker, 420 Princeton-Forrestal apartments, both on April 30; Alan and Jessica Delahoy, R.D. 1, Washington Street, Rocky Hill; Allan and Deanna Ruth Eoff, 199 Reeves Avenue, Trenton, May 1;

Also to Michael and Lynn Wong, 1014 Wood Mill Drive, Cranbury, May 2; Franklin and Wardell Moore, 6 Cummings Road, Monmouth Junction; Richard and Cheryl Nasdeo, 6 Ohio Avenue, Monmouth Junction; and Marc and Robin Wiener, 1606 Birchwood Court, North Brunswick, all on May 3.

Daughters were born to Renn and Beverly A. Kaminski, RR 2, Box 567, Titusville; Robert and Catherine Travagline, Box 7075 Nursery Road, West Trenton; Eric and Lynne Suber, 16-05 Pheasant Hollow, Plainsboro, all on April 30; James and Ellen O'Neill, 174 Jarvie Drive, Hamilton Square; Norman and Jane Wainright, Millstone, May 1; hospital is guilty of unfair labor practices.

Also to Thomas and Virginia Kaufman, 39 Princeton Avenue; William and Carmen Dimas, 4 Winnepeg Lane, Lawrenceville, both on May 3, and Bong and Jaehyun Lee, 6 Rider Place, Princeton Junction, May 4.

The appeal will be to the Third United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The Center will be represented by the law firm of Jackson, Lewis, Schnitzler and Krupman, specialists in labor law, who have been retained by the hospital in previous labor situations.

The case goes back to 1980 when Guy Horner, a security guard still in the hospital's employ, filed charges against the Center. In February, 1981, the NLRB found the hospital guilty of refusing to bargain with the United Plant Guard Workers and refusing wage increases for the security guards.

These findings were upheld last month by the NLRB's Washington offices and the Center has now decided it will appeal.

FREE WORKSHOPS SET

For Teachers at Watersheds. Free workshops for area teachers on integrated environmental studies will be held this Wednesday, May 9 and Wednesday, May 16 at the Stony Brook Millstone Watersheds Association.

The first session will present an introduction to six environmental mini-courses developed by the Association's staff. Participants will have the opportunity to explore and discuss the unit most relevant to his or her classroom needs and interests.

The six titles are, "Asking Questions, Getting Answers: Investigative Journalism and Environmental Issues," grades 9-12, "Hazardous Waste: Our Gross National By-product", "Dynamic Decomposition: The Processing of Wastes by Man and Nature", "From Drops to Drips: A Consumer's Guide to Finding the Origin of Drinking Water", "To Spray or Not to Spray: Pesticides", and "Recycling."

Field experiences will be provided at the Watersheds Reserve on the May 16 session. Teachers may choose from field studies on pond life, water quality, and orienteering, and learn techniques for taking their classes outdoors.

Each teacher will receive a free unit, which provides background information and activities for environmental studies in grades 5-12. Workshops are scheduled from 1:30-4 at the Watersheds Headquarters on Titus Mill Road in Pennington. Further information is available from 737-3735. Enrollment is limited.

TOWNSHIP POLICE WEEK

May 13-19. Township Committee has declared the week beginning Sunday as Princeton Township Police Week, and has set aside Tuesday as Police Memorial Day in tribute to all deceased law enforcement officers.

All uniformed police personnel will drape their badges with black mourning bands as a tribute to their fallen brother officers for 24 hours beginning at midnight Monday. The police memorial flag will be flown at half-mast during the same period. All churches are asked to include in their program a special memorial prayer.

Colon Cancer Test Kits

The Health Department, in conjunction with the American Cancer Society and Princeton Medical Center, will distribute free hemocult screening kits and instructions for home use Saturday, between 9 and 11, at the Nassau Savings and Loan Association.

The hemocult test, one of the means of detecting colon rectal cancer, is a test for hidden blood in the stool. According to the American Cancer Society, those who are over 40 are in the age group most prone to this type of cancer, which, if detected early has a high rate of cure. The hemocult test is done without discomfort in the home.

The Department of Community Health Services of Princeton Medical Center will also administer blood pressure checks at the same time. May is High Blood Pressure Control Month.

Princeton residents are urged to be tested at this program.

That Parking Dilemma.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

In the April 25 issue of TOWN TOPICS, Richard K Rein wrote an article concerning the parking problems of Moran Avenue residents. Being long time residents of Moran Avenue we would like to thank Mr Rein for writing an accurate account of our dilemma.

Moran Avenue is occupied with all day non-resident parkers, from 8:30 to 5:30, so residents of Moran Avenue have a parking problem day and night. The "resident permit" is used in nearby communities for this very reason. It has proved to be a very successful program.

Also, we would like to take this opportunity to thank Mrs. Mary G. Reed for making her parking lot available all these years for Moran Avenue residents.

Extended Library Hours.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Let's all call out "thank you" to the Princeton Public Library who is responsible for the lovely fact of "Thursday Night Live." (Starting May 3, the Library will continue in its tradition of having its feast of Thursday hours to offer us — 5:30 till 9 p.m.)

As if surely that weren't enough bounty, we are also being given Saturday mornings from 9 till noon throughout the summer months, more specifically — July and August.

Vacation, privilege and blessing from the Taj Mahal of town libraries.

Art People Thank You.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

We would like to sing the praises of all the people who came on Saturday to our Art People Party and who made "Spring Sounds" with their song, dance, music, juggling, mime, food, crafts, smiles, giggles, painted faces, flowers, and sunny high spirits.

The party had sounds, it had art, and most of all it had the support and enthusiasm of some very creative people. We would especially like to thank Rip Pellaton, Tom Root, Kathy Clarkson, Karl Lessig, Claudia Dersch, Lonni Sue Johnson, Bob Cawley, Janet haring, pierre Coutin, Barbara Sigmund, Steve Farmer, Cheryl Sabetta-Moya, Martha Vaughn, Lawrence and Sharon Tarantino, Vicki Liberatori, Paula Chow, Susan Danoff, Marjorie Herrington, Karla Kiefer, Carlette Winslow, Anna Rosa Kohn, Grethe Lofberg, Charlene Gregory, Henry Powsner, Miranda Short, the sparkling team from Inter-Act, and our efficient and helpful Borough police.

And for helping to stimulate interest and enthusiasm for the Art People Party, our thanks go to Kay Bretnall, Rich Rein, Pam Hersh, Gloria Halpern, Andrea Kane, John Anastasio, and Rick Tramontana.

What a Roadrace!
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As racers gathered at the start of last Sunday's second annual Hilltop Race, officials paused for a moment to glance at a placard with the names of over 40 generous sponsors. More than 150 runners were gathered and ready to go thanks to the generosity of these organizations and individuals.

The mayor's whistle sent the runners off with a burst of speed, and it seemed that the idea for a much needed Township park in northern Princeton was reborn at that instant and took flight along with them.

Evidenced by the enthusiasm of the growing number of volunteers and contributors, the Hilltop Park project has taken hold. From the seven-year-old running his first race to the over 60-year-old racing for the second time that weekend, great spirit was shown by all. In their actions they repeated the statement: Hilltop Park belongs to us all!

Special thanks this year go to Harriet Bryan, who has been tireless in her support; Debbie Porter, Ron Pope and Donna Harris, the course managers; to Rita Wilson and Lucy James for administration; to Jane C. HANDICAPPED CHILD?
Parent Group to Meet. It's such a relief to know you're not alone, to find somebody you can talk with and listen to, somebody who knows about your problems.

SEAT — the Special Education Advisory Team in the Princeton schools — is a new organization open to all parents of handicapped children. The group will meet Thursday, May 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the library of the John Witherspoon Middle School.

Small groups, led by parents, will talk about what's available over the summer for handicapped children, how you start getting a child ready for the Middle School — or High School — and is it going to be hard, adjusting to a bigger school?

Dr. Charles Huchet, director of Student Services, says Princeton's schools have 168 students identified as "educationally handicapped".

But what is "handicapped?"

"It's too bad," Dr. Huchet says, "that the Federal symbol for handicapped is a wheelchair. I don't know what else they could use, but it feeds into the stereotype of what 'handicapped' means. Lots of our children don't need wheelchairs at all."

Among the 168, and they belong to all age groups, there are children with cerebral palsy or neurological problems that may stem from a severe, accidental bang on the head or a birth injury.

There are children who have trouble learning to read, some with dyslexia. Others have perceptual problems that make it hard for them to understand what it is they are seeing, hard to process the information in their minds, hard to get it out onto paper or into speech.

Some have severe social or emotional problems. Others may be partially deaf or blind.

Within these are wide variations: one child with cerebral palsy may have problems getting around, but no troubles at all, academically. Another with cerebral palsy may have a "severe" educational handicap.

In Princeton's public schools, the goal is to get these children into the main stream of regular classes. "There is heavy emphasis on mainstreaming in Princeton," Dr. Huchet says.

"We want them to become as independent as possible, to learn how to adjust to whatever problems they have, to compensate. Many go on to college and do very well after school years."

The law requires that schools involve parents of handicapped children at every step. Parents must agree to have the child evaluated by the Child Study Team; must agree on the child's classification after evaluation; must give signed approval before any special educational services are given; must approve the academic plan for each year.

For both parents and school, there is an elaborate appeal process to make sure the rights of both parent and child are protected. In Princeton, by the way, differences have never been appealed to the point of formal hearing, Dr. Huchet says.

Special Ed Meeting

There will be an open meeting of SEAT (Special Education advisory Team) on Thursday, May 17 at 7:30 in the library of John Witherspoon Middle School. All parents of special education students and professional staff in Princeton Regional Schools are welcome. Small group discussions will be held on the general theme of "Transitions."

For further information, call Bernie Johnson, 924-6465, or the Office of Student Services, 924-5600, extension 225.

"By law, parents are wired in," he points out. "But it's not just that the law says we have to; we WANT to work with parents in a strong, productive collaboration."

SEAT, therefore, has an Executive Committee of 22, including a school board liaison, teachers, other staff members, Dr. Huchet — and parents. The group meets monthly to plan various projects.

One of the most promising is a Parent Support Team now being formed. It will be small — a group of parents trained in the rules and processes of special education, who will be available to talk with mothers and fathers new and bewildered in this world of the handicapped child and the public school.

Also, SEAT plans to write a brochure which will explain state laws, local regulations, parents' rights, children's rights, the resources available to parents in the Princeton area.

This brochure will be on hand, not only for parents but for the real estate agents who call, once or twice a month, to ask Student Services what Princeton's schools can provide for the handicapped child of parents who are thinking of buying a Princeton house.

SEAT wants to explore the Princeton Public Library to find out what resources are on the shelves.

A few months ago, SEAT surveyed parents and from the 35 percent response, obtained "quite positive results," Dr. Huchet reports.

Mostly, parents wanted better communication between parents and the Child Study Team. They wanted to know more about mainstreaming, special transportation, the quality of special education, the quality of the staff.

For these parents, SEAT is the chance to talk with other parents who are there, too; the chance to talk with professionals on the school staff, the chance to feel closer to a handicapped child.

NEW PARKING RULES

For Birch and Race St. The Birch Street Shuffle — residents having to move their cars from one side of the street to the other to comply with alternate side of the street parking regulations — will be eliminated if Township Committee adopts an ordinance introduced last Monday night.

The proposed regulations prohibit parking permanently on the north side of the street and allow it on the south. Alternate side of the street parking will continue on Race Street, but under the amendment to the Township code, residents would have until 9 a.m. to make the move. The public hearing before final adoption is set for Monday, May 21.

Although Township Committee spent most of Monday night's meeting discussing sewer bans and sump pumps, other business was transacted. A fee schedule was established for photocopying Township Committee documents. A flat fee will be charged of 35 cents for up to 10 pages, 40 cents for 11-20 pages and 50 cents for 21 or more pages, plus five cents for each page, no matter what the number

Another fee schedule, this one for land developers, was introduced and will have a public hearing on May 21. It is a complicated ordinance that developers would do well to take a look at before the public hearing. Pro-forma public hearings were held on three capital appropriations ordinances totalling $804,000, but there being no one present who objected or even commented, they were adopted in short order.

The money will go for such things as the Township's share of equipment for the Sewer Operating Committee and the sewer capacity study presently underway; the computer and putting the Township's tax assessment records onto it in such a way that reassessment can take place more often and with less upset than previously; road resurfacing and equipment needs for fire, police, and public works departments.

In its work session, Committee learned that

Elizabethtown Water Company has plans for laying a 30-inch water main from Harrison Road at Bunn Drive, across Terhune Road to Route 206, along 206 to Mountain Avenue and then up Elm Road and into Rosedale Road for a distance of 900 feet. The whole length is 2½ miles and is expected to give better distribution of water. The work will be done this summer, adding to the torn-up street situation that Princeton has come to bear with a certain stoicism.

Mayor Winthrop S. Pike reported that the search for a town planner is well underway and that a field of 40 candidates has been narrowed down to five to eight who will be interviewed. It had been hoped that the planner would be "on board" by July 1, but Township Administrator James J. Pascale expressed scepticism that this would be the case.

DINNER DANCE PLANNED

Night Before the Fete. The Jazzy Fete has scheduled a dinner dance Friday, June 8, on the fete grounds off Washington Road. Sponsored by the Auxiliary as a benefit for Princeton Medical Center, it is planned as an evening of elegant dining and dancing under the rubric of "Puttin' on the Ritz."

The buffet dinner, catered by Jimmy Duffy and Sons, will begin at 8. Imported wines and a cash bar will be available in an atmosphere that is a recreation of the 30s and 40s. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvre will be served between 6 and 8 when there will also be a preview of the Lane of Shops offerings. Dancing until midnight will be to the sound of the big band era, and music will be provided by The Lamplighters, an area orchestra of 17 pieces and two vocalists.

Tickets are $25 per person. Reservations must be made by June 1. Make checks payable to "June Fete" and send them to Anne Kahn, 92 Littlebrook Road. For more information or reservations for groups, call 924-0632 or 924-8631.

OPEN SPACE — GONE?

Watersheds Conference. Towns in New Jersey can do more than they are now doing to protect streams, scenic vistas and recharge areas by using legal instruments available through the Municipal Land Use Act.

That is the conclusion of a Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association study to be presented Monday at a conference at the Woodrow Wilson School, Princeton University. The conference theme is "Open Space: Here Today, Gone Tomorrow, Unless .....".

The day-long event, from 9:30 to 4:30, is open to the public. Registration information is available from the Association at 737-3735.

The speaker will be Robert Healy whose topic is "Open Land for Every Man: Making the Most of our Built and Unbuilt Resources." In addition, conference speakers will present results of the study and will outline the acquisition programs of the state.

Preserving urban and suburban open space, allowing public access to private land and the nature of general preservation strategies for towns and individuals will all be explored.

In addition to Mr. Healy, speakers will be James T. Gaffney, executive director of the Association, several township administrators, representatives of state and county agencies, environmental specialists and heads of special projects. They are expected to cover not only problems of preserving open space, but also successful programs in open space preservation.

NEW ADMINISTRATOR

For Princeton House. The Medical Center at Princeton has announced the appointment of Gary K. Van Nostrand of Hamilton as assistant vice president of the Princeton House Unit. In his new position, Mr. Van Nostrand will be responsible for the administration of the 84 bed psychiatric and alcoholism recovery unit, as well as program development and marketing of services.

Gary K. VanNostrand

Mr. Van Nostrand comes to the Medical Center from the Summit Center for Human Development in West Virginia, where he was the director of Acute Care and Marketing Services. His previous positions at the center included director of Out-Patient Services, acting executive director, and coordinator of the Substance Abuse Service. Prior to joining the staff of the Summit Center, he was the director of the Chemical Dependency Unit at the Mental Health Institute of Cherokee, Iowa.

A licensed clinical psychologist, Mr. Van Nostrand holds a B.S. Degree from Tulane University, an M.S. Degree from the University of Florida, and completed an internship in clinical psychology at the Mayo Clinic.

Persons wishing information on any services or programs at Princeton House may call 921-7700.

SENIOR CITIZENS DAY

In West Windsor. May 15 has been proclaimed by the West Windsor Township committee as Senior Citizen Day. West Windsor seniors will be honored by a celebration at the Princeton Junction firehouse beginning at 10 and concluding at 2.

Seniors are invited to come early and have a cup of coffee and a pastry in the exhibit room where the West Windsor Historical Society will have a display and registered nurses will take blood pressure. There will be information on diabetes, on housing, on community education and on the new Carrier Alert Program of the Red Cross. Representatives from the Mercer County Outreach, the Commission on aging and Senior Citizen Services will answer questions about services and programs available to senior citizens.

There will be a turn-of-the-century fashion show at 11, and lunch will be served after an introduction to West Windsor Township officials. There will be music and an exhibition of paintings by West Windsor seniors and by Sara Crawford, in memoriam. The new West Windsor Senior Citizen card will be available and may be laminated.

There is no charge for the lunch or any part of the program. All West Windsor residents age 60 or older are invited. Call the West Windsor municipal building at 799-2400 for reservations or sign up at the West Windsor Senior Center in Maurice Hawk School. For further information call Fran Ruch at 799-2400.

NJ FOLK ARCHITECTURE

Topic of Talk. Peter O. Wacker, chairman of the geography department of Rutgers University, will deliver a lecture entitled "New Jersey Folk Architecture" on Thursday, May 10, at 8 in McCormick 101 on the Princeton University campus.

This is the last lecture in the series on folk art sponsored by the Historical Society of Princeton.

Prof. Wacker will examine the indigenous styles of architecture which evolved from the various cultures of early New Jersey settlers: English, Dutch, Swedish, Pennsylvania Dutch and Black. He is chairman of the State Review Board of Architectural Sites and the author of two books on vernacular architecture: "Land and People," and "Musconetcong Valley of New Jersey."

The lecture is free and open to the public.

FENCING AT ST. PAUL'S

Monday Night Classes. If you've ever wanted to learn how to fence, or if you are a fencer who is looking for a group to fence with, St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church on Monday nights is the place to be.

From 7 to 9 p.m. James Flint, assistant coach of Princeton University's fencing team, will teach footwork and drills to beginners. Group lessons will be phased out and become individual lessons as soon as the group gains proficiency, and bouts will take place as soon as possible. The cost is $70 for 10 weeks.

From 8:30 to 10:30 there will be advanced work with experienced fencers and advanced lessons and bouting by personal arrangement. The cost is a $5 floor fee to be used to purchase equipment. Special classes on such things as the history and rules of modern competitive fencing will take place on a night other than Monday at no charge.

For information, call Father Evasio DeMarcellis at the St. Paul's Rectory, 924-1743. It is Fr. De's keen interest — some call it a passion — in fencing that has led to these classes.

Father De learned fencing while in seminary and while serving as pastor of St. Paul's has managed to find area fencers to bout with. For a while a fencing group met at the YM-YWCA; after the death of Stanley Sieja, the well-known Princeton University fencing coach it moved to St. Paul's. At one point interest faded, but then it picked up again, Father De says, as young people in the church asked to learn.

Father De obliged by doing some teaching himself, but now he thinks it is time for a more professional approach — hence Jim Flint of the University — and he also wants to see what other fencing talent might show up. "I'd like to get a little club going," he says.

Babe Ruth Call

Registration for new members of the Princeton Babe Ruth League will be held Saturday at noon at the Valley Road School field. Those 13 to 15 are eligible.

For further information, call Bob Rumer, 921-6521, or Spence Reynolds, 924-1920.

GERALD FORD TO SPEAK

At Peddie Service. Former President Gerald R. Ford will give the Baccalaureate address at a special service Sunday at 11 at the Peddie School. Attendance is by invitation only.

The service is designed to pay tribute to Walter H. Annenberg for his $12 million gift to the school. The gift, said to be the largest ever reported to an American secondary school, was announced by the school last fall. Mr. Annenberg, founder of TV Guide and former U.S. Ambassador to Great Britain, is an alumnus of Peddie School, Class of 1927.

In addition to Mr. Ford's address, the United States Army Chorus will perform during the service.

FLOWER SALE SET

In Lawrenceville. The Women's Service Board of the St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center will hold its annual spring Flower Sale Thursday through Saturday from 9 to 7 on the grounds of the Center, 2381 Lawrenceville Road.

A large selection of potted plants and hanging baskets will be available, including geraniums, gloxinias, mums and African violets, among others. There will also be bedding plants, including a variety of annuals, perennials, vegetable and herb plants, as well as evergreen trees and some flowering shrubs.

Barbara McMahon and Joy Zumbrum are in charge of this year's sale, proceeds of which go to purchase equipment or services for patients at the Center.

TO GIVE CLANCY AWARD

For Volunteers. The annual Robert E. Clancy Award and the Clancy Youth Award will be presented by the Council of Community Services at ceremonies on Thursday, May 10.

The awards honor outstanding adult and youth volunteers in the community. Winners will be announced at a luncheon held in their honor at the Nassau Club.

BUSINESS

In and Around Princeton

FOR SMALL BUSINESS

Borough Awards Planned. "Success through creativity and innovation" will be rewarded through a new Princeton Borough Entrepreneurship Award created last week by Borough Council. The award will probably be a plaque or certificate.

"This award seeks to recognize the extraordinary efforts of small businesspersons to combine commercial success with community benefit," stated Council member John Huntoon in a prepared statement.

He said that Council believes the real success of businesses in Princeton is measured as much by "positive contributions" to the life of Princeton residents, as by net receipts.

Achieving these two objectives often takes the form of creative and innovative business practices, Mr. Huntoon continued, which are integral to the process of making money and dispensing goods and services.

An awards committee, consisting of two Council members named by the mayor, the president of the Chamber of Commerce and whoever they decide to appoint as helpers, will decide who should receive the award. It will be presented "no more than semi-annually."

But first, Mr. Huntoon adds, the awards committee will decide on "a less cumbersome and more appropriate name" than Princeton Borough Council Award for Entrepreneurship.

received awards. The corporations which nominated them and those area businesses which have supported the TWIN program were also recognized.

Joan E. Gerberding, vice president, sales, Nassau Broadcasting Company, was chosen by her fellow award winners to make the acceptance speech. "All of you who have supported this program have obviously learned a very important fact," she said, "and that is that words like 'performance' and 'ambition' and 'achievement' and 'drive' and 'confidence' and 'excellence' are words with no gender. You have acknowledged the fact that all of us, men and women, can do anything we want to do within the bounds of our own professional definitions...."

Before a gathering of almost 200 guests in the Institute for Advanced Study dining room, Jean Parsons, chairman of the Princeton YWCA TWIN Committee, and William A. Schreyer, chairman of the TWIN Honorary Board, presented the awards, giving a brief review of each winner's achievements.

Awards went to Janet S. Averill, director, Foundation Relations, Office of Development, Princeton University; Muriel Bell, assistant general counsel, Squibb Corporation; R. Miriam Brokaw, associate director and editor, Princeton University Press; M. Elaine Crocker, assistant vice president and manager, executive staffing, training and public relations, Commodities Corporation; Joan E. Berberding, vice president, sales, Nassau Broadcasting Company; Georgia Howell Hartnett, assistant vice president, New Jersey Business and Industry Association; C. Ellen Hodges, president, Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton area:

John C. Baker

Also, Anne Knudsen-Fitzpatrick, president Princeton Nautilus Fitness Center; Helene E. Kulsrud, member, research staff, Communications Research Division, Institute for Defense Analysis; R. Diane Mickle, director, administration, Gulton Industries, Inc.; Beverley Lynn Miller, chairman, vice-president and secretary, Directions, Inc; Christine A. Murphy, manager, sales, Eastern division, Johnson & Johnson Dental Products; Jean D. Myer, manager, agency marketing, Insurance Industry Marketing, National Accounts Division, IBM; Laura J. Turbini, manager, technical publications, AT&T Technologies; and Barbara Ulrichsen, partner, Mason, Griffin & Pearson, counsellors at law.

On May 15 the 1984 award winners will meet to plan the TWIN Management Forum, which will serve as a network for them and for future award winners.

The Princeton TWIN is the fourth program to be developed in New Jersey in conjunction with the national TWIN project established by the YWCA in 1975. Its purpose is two-fold: to honor outstanding women in executive managerial or professional roles in business and industry, and to recognize corporations for establishing progressive personnel policies which provide opportunities for the advancement of women.

TRAINING PLANNED

By Chamber. "How to Handle 'No' and Win More Sales in 84" is the topic of a training seminar for sales professionals co-sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the Tom Hopkins Sales Training Center. It will be held Tuesday, May 15 from 2:30 to 4:30 in the Carnegie Center Building 101, Route One.

Catherine Lombardo, director of schools for the Tom Hopkins Center, will present the program. The session is free, but registration should be made by calling the Chamber at 921-7676.

INVENTORS FETED

By RCA Labs. RCA has honored 163 inventors from the David Sarnoff Research Center for having received one or more U.S. patents in 1983.

Among these were 35 inventors who received special awards for reaching milestones of five, 10, 20 and 50 patents, and 30 who were especially recognized for their first U.S. patent. Among the inventors was Robert A. Dischert who was honored for receiving his 50th U.S. patent during 1983.

Being honored for 20 patents were Alvin R. Balaban, Television Research Laboratory in Somerville; Istvan Gorog, director, Manufacturing Technology Research Laboratory; and John L. Vossen, head, Thin Film Technology.

Those RCA inventors who received their 10th patent during 1983 were Leslie R. Avery, William E. Barnette, Pabitra Datta, Robert H. Dawson, Alvin M. Goodman, Lawrence A. Goodman, Kenneth W. Hang, John G.N. Henderson, Michael J. Lurie, Glenn A. Reitmeier, Franco N. Sechi, David L. Staebler, and Chung P. Wu.

Honored for their 5th patent were Rodney L. Angle, Ronald F. Bates, Bruce F. Bogner, Dan Botez, Robert W. Chambers, Charles B. Dieterich, Rudolph H. Hedel, Robert W. Jebens, Jerome B. Peter Savidge

Achievement Award in 1970 for improvements in electro-optic device technology. In 1980 he received a Special Recognition Award from the Society for Information Display (SID) "for significant contributions to video storage and display systems."

Peter Savidge of Dempsey Avenue has been named property manager for the Carnegie Center, the $500-million, mixed use complex at Alexander Road and Route 1. He will work with incoming tenants as well as tenants already in residence at the Center.

Mr. Savidge previously served as dean of students at the Hun School, where he also taught economics and coached football, wrestling and lacrosse. He has also recently worked as a real estate salesman for John T. Henderson real estate firm. He is a graduate of Rutgers University where he was captain of the varsity football and lacrosse teams and was a three-time All American in lacrosse.

Michael B. Kazin of Lawrenceville has been named president of BOCAMS Corporation, a construction auditing firm in Research Park, State Road. BOCAMS is also the New Jersey-New York-Connecticut distributor for computer-aided design systems produced by Cascade Graphics Development for use by architects, mechanical engineers and space planners.

Mr. Kazin assumes his new position after serving as general manager of Filley and Co. in Princeton.

Anthony J. Bianculli of Rocky Hill has been appointed manager, Engineering Information, at RCA's Technical Excellence Center on Rozel Road.

In his new post, Mr. Bianculli is responsible for those areas concerned with RCA's engineering communication programs, engineering publication, and technical information systems, as well as technical excellence programs, corporate technology symposia and the minorities in engineering program.

Mr. Bianculli began his RCA career in 1952 with Microwave Tube Operations in Harrison, N.J. He transferred to RCA Laboratories in Princeton in 1963. He was named manager, engineering standards, for the RCA Solid State Division (SSD) in Somerville in 1971.

In 1979 he assumed responsibilities for engineering publications and standards, managing SSD's engineering publications and office services and directing office automation throughout the division.

He served as Mayor of the Borough of Rocky Hill from 1970 to 1974 and since 1974 has been chairman of the Board of Adjustment in Rocky Hill.

PLAN, FINANCIALLY

Free Seminar Offered. A free seminar on "Total Financial Planning," sponsored by the Princeton branch of Prudential-Bache Securities, will be given Tuesday, May 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the Hyatt Regency, Route One.

Conducted by Tom Hayden and Lyle Gary of the Princeton office, the seminar will show participants how to make an assessment of their entire financial situation, develop a personal financial profile and work out a strategy for achieving financial objectives.

Although admission is free, reservations are required. They may be made by calling Nancy Cryer, 987-0100.

SITES STILL AVAILABLE

For Garden Enthusiasts. Garden sites measuring 10 by 15 feet are still available for vegetable or flower garden enthusiasts under a program sponsored by the Princeton Recreation Program.

Sites are located at the Tiger Garage or the Princeton Shopping Center. The fee is $5 at both locations. For more information, call 921-9480.

WRITERS INVITED

To Get-Together. Writers are invited to come and meet other writers at an informal get-together on Wednesday, May 16, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the YM-YWCA on Paul Robeson Place.

The event is sponsored by the Princeton Writers' Center in cooperation with the Adult Department of the YWCA. It's intended to give writers a chance to compare notes and exchange practical information on writing and publishing. Wine and cheese will be served. There will be a door charge of $4.

For further information call the YWCA at 924-5571.

FILM IS PLANNED

For Parents and Children. Princeton Area ASPO-Lamaze will offer a program for parents and children on Thursday at 10:30 at the Princeton Public Library.

Joan Cittadino, director of the Family Resource Infant Center, and Gail Vielbig, ASPO/Lamaze certified childbirth educator, will speak on how to prepare children for another baby in the family. The film, "Nicholas and the Baby," will also be shown.

The program is part of Princeton/ASPO's participation in National Lamaze Week this week. For information on this and other programs, as well as on Lamaze classes, call 924-2040.

TRIP FOR SENIORS

To See Perry Como. The Recreation Department is sponsoring a trip July 11 to the Garden State Arts Center for senior citizens to see Perry Como. Tickets are $22, which includes round trip transportation. The performance will begin at 8:30 p.m.

For additional information, call 921-9480 now, as space is limited. The deadline to register is May 25.

Affordable Housing

drafted by Sheila Cook and Ronald Nielsen, sees "an unlimited raid on the pockets of the Borough taxpayers" in recommendations of the committee.

This report also declares that the Borough must find ways to raise money from properties that are now tax-exempt.

Not enough emphasis was placed, says the minority report, on the quality of housing and the "potential blight" stemming from absentee ownership of rental properties, nor is there enough emphasis on allowing homeowners to increase rentable parking.

Urging that "the capriciously exercised restrictive powers of the Zoning Board be re-examined," the minority report suggests "it may be time for medium-rise housing" in the Borough.

At the presentation last Thursday, Zoning Board member Orren Jack Turner warned Council and audience that zoning laws "make up a very delicate fabric" of open space, housing, and the like, adding that some Zoning Board members "might say we need the grass more than we need the parking space."

Ron Fisk, of the affordable housing committee, told Council the group would accept more density, but it must be for lower-cost housing for people "born and raised here."

Committee members told Council the report is not to satisfy Mt. Laurel requirements or individual interests, but the community-wide desire to preserve a population mix.

McCarter Renovation

Incidentally, Princeton University does not own the McCarter Theatre Company; it does, however, hold title to the theatre building and its land. The University helps with maintenance of the building and does repair work when needed. But the operating and capital budgets are the responsibility of the Company, which was formed in 1973 as a non-profit New Jersey corporation.

This is what McCarter's trustees and their president, Edward E. Matthews, propose:

Phase I, to cost $2,390,000, is "the most critical and must be initiated as soon as possible."

It includes heating, ventilation and air-conditioning for the auditorium, renovation of the auditorium and the existing lobbies.

A FINE GEORGIAN MANOR HOME

2 Elm Road, Princeton

We are pleased to present for your personal consideration one of Princeton's finest Georgian Manor Homes situated on expansive, beautifully maintained grounds within walking distance of the Town and University.

Built of the finest materials, this elegant home features a spacious sunken living room with double French doors, a dramatic curved staircase, a library with hand-rubbed cherry cabinets and bookcases, and a graciously proportioned formal dining room with hand-carved marble fireplace from France. The floor plan is classic Georgian with spacious rooms off a central foyer, worthy of a statesman's penchant for formal entertaining.

The property includes a lovely circular swimming pool and a guest or pool house in the same Georgian style as the main house.

There are 3.50 beautifully landscaped acres with terraces and formal gardens, brick garden walls and iron gates. A 1.35 acre sub-divided building lot lies to the right of the main house.

All in all, a beautifully maintained, tastefully decorated estate in an incomparable Princeton location.

The entire auditorium will be reshaped, for improved acoustics. Two rows, now in the orchestra, will be removed to the balcony to form a Grand Tier of boxes. The balcony will be extended by one row, and side boxes added to form part of the Grand Tier.

The balcony lobby will be renovated, and a men's room added. The lobby at the orchestra level will also be renovated, and a second stair will be installed, leading down to the lower lobby. A large ladies room will be added on the west side of this lower lobby.

Phase II, to cost $1,570,000, will complete the job. In this phase, a new glass-enclosed lobby addition will be built on the east side, overlooking University Place. Its lower level will house offices of the McCarter Theatre Company, and there will be additional rehearsal space.

On the west side, there will be a new lobby with a concession stand, a stair up to the Grand Tier and a covered area for people waiting for cars after a performance.

A new concert shell, designed for easy set-up, removal and storage, is part of this phase.

McCarter already has pledges of more than $1 million toward Phase I, officials say.

James R. Grieves Associates Inc., of Baltimore, has been engaged to redesign and re-do the theatre. The firm designed Center Stage in Baltimore and renovated the Grant Opera House in Wilmington.

Library

budget request to Borough and Township for 1985.

Invited by Borough Council member John Huntoon to present their case, library trustees sent their president, Janice Stonaker, to Council last Thursday evening and she warned them about the $300,000.

Later that same night, burglars stole all the hardware and software on the library's main floor (but nothing on the second floor), including irreplaceable programming designed especially for the library by its staff. Details on page 4.

Explaining the $300,000, Mrs. Stonaker said later, "We could replace what we now have for half as much, but there are many advantages of an automated system."

She told of libraries that have a light pen which can be passed over the bars on your library card. It shows your overdue books, fines you haven't yet paid, perhaps a record of vandalism.

"The library can then refuse borrowing privileges to that person. This saves money on book replacements."

Computerized card files, eventually eliminating the familiar wooden drawer, are another automation feature. You can even find out whether a book is on the shelf and, if it is out, when it's due back. But not who has the book.

"Privacy is very important," Mrs. Stonaker emphasizes. "There would never, never be a list of all the books you'd borrowed."

An ad hoc committee, consisting of John Bales, Dennis Woodfield and assistant library director Sue Rock, have presented a 90-minute report to a special meeting of the trustees, detailing the library's needs for automation.

Princeton is now part of a study, with Trenton, Hamilton, Mercer County and the state, working with a consultant on automation. After figures are in and trustees have examined the information, they may incorporate it into a request for that $300,000 — or whatever the figure turns out to be.

Beyond all this in time, a long-range planning committee is thinking about where the library should be in five or ten years. Members — School Superintendent Paul Houston, former library trustee president Conrad Snowden, children's librarian Dudley Carlson, library director Robert Staples, Eugene Frank of the Friends of the Public Library and Mrs. Stonaker — are asking questions like these:

Who are the people who use the library? Who will they be in the future? What changes will there be in demands for services? (Could anyone have foreseen, ten years ago, today's computer demand?)

What, in fact, should be done about the building?

Plans for an expanded children's department and a third floor had been drafted and almost approved by Borough and Township when a double blow fell: state-imposed budget caps and the energy crisis.

Those plans, with such devices as solar panels, are still valid, Mrs. Stonaker says. But new needs occur with time; for example, there is almost no space for the audio-visual equipment in such demand by today's library users.

But some things will be done, because the library feels they must.

The leaky skylight will be replaced.

This summer, the library will probably be closed for about a week for installation of a $20,000 security system, paid for by the Friends. Ironically, it could not have prevented last week's theft; it's designed to keep you from removing books from the library without checking them out.

Each book will have a metal tab, to be inserted by library staff. If you try to leave the library without checking out the book, the metal tab will send off an alarm.

"It will pay for itself," Mrs. Stonaker and trustees believe. She points to the $12,000 annual loss in stolen or lost books.

The perennial plea, Mrs. Stonaker reminded Council, is for longer hours. As it is now, Thursday night hours have been restored under the Borough-Township municipal budget.

Through the Friends, there will be Saturdays in the summer. A compromise allows some Sunday afternoon hours: with Friends' money January through March, then public money starting sometime this fall.

"Whenever we have public trustee meetings," Mrs. Stonaker reports, "people always tell us to be more aggressive with the governing bodies to get more open hours.

"Our library board of trustees," Mrs. Stonaker told Council, "must be responsible both to Council — and the community."

ANNUAL TOUR SUNDAY

Of Princeton Cemetery. The annual cemetery tour through the older and historic portions of Princeton Cemetery will take place on Sunday, following the 10 a.m. worship service at Nassau Presbyterian Church.

Those who are interested in the tour may meet Elmer Chase, chairman of the Nassau Church Cemetery Committee, at the Greenview Avenue entrance. Mr. Chase will be assisted by Bill Evans in pointing out notable markers and plots.

Of particular interest is the President's plot near Wiggins Street, where all but four of the deceased presidents of Princeton College are buried — among them Aaron Burr Sr., Jonathan Edwards, John Witherspoon, James McCosh and John Grier Hibben. Aaron Burr, vice president of the United States, is also buried there, next to his father and grandfather.

Not far off is the grave of Grover Cleveland, who lived in Princeton from 1897 until his death in 1908 and who attended First (now Nassau) Presbyterian Church. Elsewhere in the older part of the cemetery are memorials to Paul Tulane, benefactor of Tulane University; Henry Van Dyke, preacher and author; Dean Andrew F. West, instrumental in the establishment of the Princeton University Graduate College; and the parents of Paul Robeson.

In case of rain, the tour will be held the following Sunday, May 20, also after the 10 a.m. service at Nassau Church.

BULLETIN NOTES

Trinity Episcopal Church, Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill, will hold its annual Rummage Sale Friday, May 18, from noon to 8 p.m.

The Princeton United Methodist Church will hold its "Big Spring Thing" Saturday from 9 to 4 in front of the church on the corner of Nassau Street and Vandeventer Avenue.

There will be a large selection of hanging baskets and bedding plants, including impatiens, petunias, marigolds, potted dahlias and geraniums. Hot dogs and lemonade will be available, and there will be baked goods for sale.

Barry Apperson and George Lee are co-chairmen of the event with professional gardening advice from John Vaccaro of Clarksville Sod Farm. Louise Apperson, Anita Beck and Evie Lee are in charge of baked goods.

Proceeds benefit the church.

The Consolata Missionaries will hold their 10th annual Benefit Ball on Saturday, May 19 at the Consolata Mission Center Hall on Route 27 in Somerset.

A cash bar from 7-8 will be followed by a "Steamship Round" Roast Beef Dinner at 8 for a donation of $17.50 per person. Music will be provided by Eddie Anthony and his orchestra between 9 and 1.

Proceeds will be used toward educational and missionary programs both here and abroad. For tickets and table reservations, call the Mission Center 297-9191.

The Jersey Federation of Temple Youth will hold its spring conclave May 18-19 at Congregation Beth Chaim, Village Road, West Windsor.

Some 200 youths in grades 9-12 from all over the state will take part, staying in homes of area residents. The activities of the Conclave, coordinated by the senior youth group of Beth Chaim, will consist of dialogues, sing-alongs, workshops, speakers, discussion groups, and role playing led by students. There will also be four services, including a Sabbath service led by the senior youth group, and a Sunday brunch provided by the Sisterhood of Beth Chaim.

The Trinity Choir of Men, Boys and Girls will sing the last choral Evensong of this season Sunday at 4:30 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street.

Music to be performed at this service will be by English composers Tertius Noble, S.S. Wesley and John Bertalot and by the American composer Richard Proulx. Mr. Bertalot, director of music at Trinity, will play Alexandre Guilmant's first organ sonata before the service, starting at 4:10. The choir will be accompanied by Irene Willis, associate director.

Based on the premise that "we have to be able to nurture ourselves before we can give most meaningfully to others," a workshop on Self-Nurturing will be presented at the Separated & Divorced Catholics Support Group meeting on Monday at 8 in St. Paul's School. All interested persons are invited. For further information call Pat Cleaves, 921-6863, evenings, or Marjorie Gilbert, D.R.E., 924-2681, daytime.

OBITUARIES

Laura Snowden Warren, 74, of Nassau Street, died May 3 in Dallas, Tex.

Born in New Hope, Mrs. Warren had lived in Princeton for 50 years. She was a registered nurse and had a long career in private nursing before retiring in 1979. She was a longtime member of Trinity Episcopal Church.

Widow of Frederick B. Warren, she is survived by a son, John F. Warren of Dallas; two granddaughters, Heather of Marblehead, Mass., and Lesley of Raleigh, N.C.; a sister, Mabel Murden of St. Louis, Mo., and an aunt, Katherine Baker of Princeton.

The service was held at Trinity Church, the Rev. Richard A. Bower, associate rector, officiating. Burial was in Holcombe-Riverview Cemetery, Lambertville. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society, 88 Lakedale Drive, Trenton, 08648.

Angela Comminetti Quaccia, 81, of Hopewell Township, died May 4 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Ivrea, Italy, Mrs. Quaccia came to this country in 1920 and was a dressmaker in New York City. She moved to Hopewell Township in 1924 where she and her husband operated a farm.

Wife of the late Michele Quaccia, she is survived by a daughter and son-in-law, Emma and Severino Gallo; a granddaughter, Laura Sciarrotta; and two great-grandchildren, Nina Marie and Michael Nicholas.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. James Roman Catholic Church, Pennington, with burial in Highland Cemetery, Hopewell.

Russell H. Shangle, 49, of Richboro, Pa., formerly of Princeton, died April 30 at his home.

Born in Princeton, Mr. Shangle also lived in Hainesport, N.J. He served on the Borough Police Force for 10 years before becoming a proctor at Princeton University in 1976. At the time of his death he was employed with student services at Council Rock High School in Newtown, Pa.

He is survived by his former wife, Rosemary Johnson; two daughters, Karen S. Coleman and Donna McClain of East Brunswick; two sons, Russell Jr. and Jeffery Shangle; his mother, Mrs. Florence Shangle of Trenton; a sister, Mrs. Ruth Gouch of Toms River; three brothers, Charles of Bordentown, Robert of Sayreville and William Shangle of Browns Mills, and two grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Bede the Venerable Church in Holland, Pa. Burial was in Resurrection Cemetery, Bensalem, Pa. Contributions may be made to the Russell H. Shangle Memorial Fund, c/o David Platt, Council Rock High School, Swamp Road, Newtown, Pa. 18940.

More and more New Jerseyans are driving to STS for all their car care needs. We're delighted but not surprised. We're an employee-owned company – so our managers and mechanics have a special stake in doing the job right. And as we've believed all along: If you give better service, charge fair prices and do great work, you're going to win over New Jersey.
Drive to STS for tune-ups and tires, batteries and brakes, wheel alignment, front-end work, shocks –whatever it takes to keep your car running smoothly.

JOSEPHINE WEBB, Executive Director of Consumer Bureau, broadcasting a Consumer Bureau announcement. Mrs. Webb personally investigates consumer complaints received by Consumer Bureau and in most cases she is able to resolve them to the satisfaction of all concerned. (For what happens to unresolved consumer complaints, see below.)

*OUR PROMISE TO PRINCETON CONSUMERS:

IF YOU HAVE A COMPLAINT against any local business firm just call 924-8223 and a Consumer Bureau representative will respond and investigate then.

IF CONSUMER BUREAU'S ALL-CONSUMER PANEL AGREES WITH YOU, the business firm involved has only two choices: either satisfy your complaint promptly or lose its Consumer Bureau Registration.

DON'T STAY MAD at any business firm - until you first give Consumer Bureau a chance to help straighten matters out. Call 924-8223 any time of any day or night and a Consumer Bureau representative will go into action. There is no charge.

BLENDED WITH TASTE

to make a happy mixture of contemporary and traditional in Princeton's lovely Edgerstoune! Wonderful new glass enclosed, Jerry Ford designed kitchen – breakfast room and deck overlooking private grounds made even more so by "The Mall." Modernized living room, large dining room, both with track lighting, opening to cozy sitting room. Master suite with dressing room-study, and state of the arts bath, 3 other bedrooms and 2½ baths, plus an oversized recreation room for all kinds of activities. Everywhere there is imaginative use of built-ins, fabulous closets and storage areas. In fact, too much to describe in a small ad - so come see for yourself! Priced at $305,000

ONE OF A KIND - Post modernist architect designed residence, 6 plus wooded acres. Light, airy, air conditioned and energy conserving. 4 bedrooms, 3 baths, separate office or guest house. $450,000

WONDERFUL PRINCETON AREA, beautifully landscaped and manicured grounds, attractive 3 bedroom, 2 bath contemporary split level. Cathedral ceilings in living and dining areas, family room, study. A find for someone! $174,500 on over 2½ acres in a rural section of Princeton Township, we present a beautifully kept ranch. Living room with energy efficient heatolator fireplace, large step-down dining room, excellent kitchen with Quaker Maid cabinets and pleasant breakfast area. Three bedrooms, den or fourth bedroom and 1½ baths. A real plus is the separate auxiliary building - with large studio, office or recreation room, kitchenette and its own heating system.

A pretty place to call home! Offered at $225,000

and all of downtown Princeton, we offer an expansive frame house with large living and entertaining areas and numerous bedrooms and baths. Set on almost an acre, this new listing on Bayard Lane has a location well worth exploring for its many future potentials and present possibilities. Call for further information.

A LOT OF HOUSE FOR YOUR MONEY

Come look - Make offer! $159,500

MULTIPLE LISTING SERVICE OF A.R.E.A. MLS

CONSTITUTION HILL

A way of life to which many of us would aspire. This handsome brick townhouse with its dramatic peaked roof is near the Morgan mansion with its formal gardens, the swimming pool and tennis court, yet overlooks a meadow with pond which will remain open space. Living room with fireplace and cathedral ceiling, dining area under the balcony, master bedroom with bath, powder room on first floor. Large bedroom, bath and study on second. $320,000

PRETTY BROOK ROAD

Spring has officially arrived and soon will bring this delightful road in western Princeton to its full beauty. The natural woodland and rippling brook create a rural scene yet it is near town. Rarely is a house available here so this one is of special interest. Gracious living areas overlooking beautiful grounds, four bedrooms, two full baths and two half baths. $315,000

RIDGEVIEW ROAD

Spring, Summer, Fall and Winter - all seasons are beautiful when viewed from every room of this dramatic contemporary house. On four plus acres in northwestern Princeton Township, it seems to offer the seclusion of much more acreage. Spacious living room with fireplace and two walls of glass, dining room, bright kitchen, screened porch, two bedrooms and bath on main level. Family room, two bedrooms and bath on lower level. New Price $305,000

CHERRYBROOK ROAD

Just north of Princeton and with a Princeton address, this loop road has the seclusion of a cul-de-sac with the advantage of two outlets. Adjoining a horse farm and with a barn of its own, this attractive Colonial has much to offer a growing family. Hall, living room, dining room, laundry, lavatory, eat-in kitchen opening to large redwood deck and family room with fireplace on first floor. Five bedrooms and two baths on second. Basement. Two car garage. New Price $174,900

MAGNOLIA LANE

This attractive house cannot promise the fragrance of magnolia blossoms but it can promise a charming rose garden as part of a large garden of unusual beauty. A delightful deck joins the sliding doors from the dining room to the oversized pool - all of which is surrounded by beautiful landscaping and evergreens which give complete seclusion. Spacious living areas, four bedrooms, two baths, guest room and bath. $195,000

EWING STREET

Behind the pleasant ambiance of this well-loved and well-cared for home are the desirable features of a Pearson-built house. The sound construction with quality materials has been up-dated so maintenance is at a minimum. Hall, gracious living room with fireplace and picture window overlooking a wooded area, formal dining room, delightful glassed and screened porch for growing plants and summer dining, efficient kitchen, four bedrooms, two baths, family room and laundry-utility room. $152,000

RELO: World Leader In Relocation

A Henderson Landmark...

MARCEL BREUER ... IN PRINCETON NEED WE SAY MORE?

Yes, we must because while the master architect put his very special stamp on the basic house, it took two very special people, new to our area, but totally involved in the Breuer philosophy, to take this MOMA house a step beyond! Given the totally secluded spot of almost five acres, they added on, they enlarged, they enlivened -- and to this discerning eye, they even improved!

The outdoors come in! The artwork is nature itself, in every season, extremely brilliant while at the same time, very restful.

The house must be seen. It is really splendid.

Do call Peggy Hughes for the particulars!

Madame Alice Archer Bids Adieu to 34 Years As French Teacher at Princeton Adult School

MADAME: She is called "Madame Archer" by so many people that "madame" almost seems like her first name. Her real first name is "Alice" and she has been the premiere danseuse of Princeton's French teachers for something like 60 years. But of course!

"Of course I am 85! I have lived a very full life, and I would have to be 85 years old to have fitted it all in."

Madame Alice Archer has retired as French teacher in the Princeton Adult School. This means she will not start over again this fall with a class of French I, taking her students through all four years to the end of French IV.

"You see, for the 33 years I was at the Adult School, I always followed that pattern — taking students through from French I. To have started again in the fall, would have meant four more years. I have the patience for it, but not the energy.

"So this is a good time to say 'Good-bye! I enjoyed it!"

And you can tell that she really did; in fact, this lovely woman of animation and charm clearly has enjoyed — or at least, relishes the telling of — everything that has happened to her during the years since her birth on November 22, 1899.

You know Mme. Archer, of course. She has lived in Princeton 64 years, "off and on," arriving first in 1920 from her home in the village of Chalandry, where she was "born in a feudal castle." She came for one year as "au pair" girl — the term was not used then — for the family of Dr. Herbert Adams Gibbons, whom she had met in France.

"All those kids learned French from me."

The "kids" are Mila Gibbons, the dancer who runs the Aparri School and her sister, Mrs. Alpheus Mason. Lloyd and Hope, the other two Gibbons children, are no longer living, but were members of Mme. Archer's "family" for many years.

"I met my husband at the Gibbons' residence, and I never went back to France — to live, that is."

They courted in English, vivacious Alice Walbaum and Herman Neville Archer, but she didn't know much English and he didn't know French at all.

The year she went up to Orange to teach at Miss Beard's school, young Archer gave her some linguistic advice.

"He told me — but I'm not really sure you should print this!" and she laughs at the 60-year-old memory. "He told me that when I was at the dinner table and wanted some milk, I should say 'Shoot the sugar and pass the cow!'"

She had never studied English in France — and might never have encountered that one, in any case. All her fluency in English she acquired, mostly in Princeton, simply by speaking the language.

She and Herman Archer were married in 1927 and the wonderful and exciting thing for his bride was Army Warrant Officer Archer's responsibility for the Field Artillery horses at Princeton University's ROTC.

"Horses! I was born on a horse. I've been riding since I was five — although not much, since the war.

"Hundreds of horses there were! I rode with him every day."

From the first, she had been a teacher. As Mlle. Walbaum, she taught in France when she was "oh, 16 or 17." After her year with the Gibbons and the year at Miss Beard's, she taught at the Princeton girls' school called Miss Fine's, at the old Princeton Country Day and, when the two were merged to form Princeton Day School, at PDS as well. She retired from PDS in 1971.

It was the Rev. Robert N. Smythe, head of the language department at Princeton Country Day, who asked her "in 1950, probably," to take his place as Adult School French teacher. It was also at his invitation that she joined the PCD faculty.

She also taught at The Baldwin School in Bryn Mawr, the Alliance Francaise in Manhattan and, after the Archers' move to the Philippines, the American School in Manilla and the University of the Philippines.

Two Archer sons were born, both in Princeton. Royal Macklin — and there is a story about why he has that name — is the eldest, now living in California. Neville lives in Houston.

"There is a novel by Richard Harding Davis, who was a famous war correspondent of that time, called 'Captain Macklin.' The hero of that book, Captain Royal Macklin, was modeled after my husband. So we named our son 'Royal Macklin.'"

All those schools, all those years, yet she had never studied teaching. There are adult students who have been with her for 15 years, reading and discussing French literature, and hundreds — thousands? — of adults who learned French from Mme. Archer. But she says of herself, with a shrug, "Teaching just came naturally."

World Premiere of 'Dead Giveaway' Receives Stunning Stage Production by Theatre Intime

AN EVIL CHARM: Flo, the director (Steve Washington) has an intimate little "business" talk with Jean (Elizabeth Rodgers) in a scene from "Dead Give-Away," Theatre Intime's musical now in premiere at Murray Theatre on the Princeton University campus. It will play through this Saturday.

Not for some years has a theatre intime production created as much interest before the event as Michael Ivancevich's "Dead Give Away," now playing at Murray Theatre. News of the three years that went into the writing of this musical murder mystery, the fact that it is a world premiere, the encouragement the playwright-composer received from Stephen Sondheim, the outpouring of financial backing from a variety of respected donors — all contributed to an air of excitement before last week's opening at Murray Theatre.

On the whole, the excitement is justified. Mr. Rosenfeld's work has a number of virtues, which I will deal with presently. In this reviewer's opinion, its greatest virtue is that it is the vehicle for a positively stunning stage production on the part of the director, Veronica Brady. More about that presently, too.

In regard to the book of the show, the author's happiest stroke is the two-level approach whereby we watch the events of the murder mystery taking place, and at the same time see three writers puzzling over their job, which is to complete the mystery novel its author left unfinished. The pay-off comes when the writers themselves get drawn into the thick of the drama.

Who killed the cabaret singer Jessica Franklin? There are half a dozen reasonable suspects, and the plot line becomes almost too complicated. By the time an apparent solution is reached, I had given up wondering. I was enjoying the show but didn't really care who killed whom.

Mr. Rosenfeld has been generous with his music often with driving rhythms. The chorus numbers in paticular, frequently with sophisticated arrangement of parts, have emotional impact.

After just one hearing, however, I could carry away no rememberable melodies, with the exception of "Welcome to Paradise"; but several members of the cast have disputed this opinion and tell me that they find much of the music unforgettable. Certainly the 12-piece orchestra, unseen backstage, is tremendously effective, as is most of the singing.

The prevailing atmosphere that bathes the 1940's cabaret where the action takes place is tense, with rivalries, professional jealousies, and abrasive relationships between owner, director, performers and the police. Sometimes the tension lifts as the chorus girls — lovely of face and of costume — perform two dazzling numbers, "Here Comes Love" and "Welcome to Paradise."

The early scenes in the publisher's office, where the hard-pressed writers fumblingly try to work out the next moves of the plot, have lightness and humor that counterpoise the shadier happenings on the center stage.

Such briefly is the material that has come to theatrical life under Miss Brady's direction. It is a great time in any theatre when everything comes together at once: wise casting of able and good-looking actors; costumes that help to tell the story; well designed and well executed lighting that echoes moods and leaps from scene to scene; expert choreography that makes the cabaret live (and on such a small stage!); skillful concentrating and dispersing a large cast over the whole acting area; and above all getting energetic and understanding performances from all. "Dead Give-Away" is that kind of show.

One feels that this is a great team effort, but some individuals stand out as well. Jessica (Heidi Hoffmann) and Joanne (Antonia Chiodo) are beautiful centerpieces of the intrigue, and they sing well. Lorraine Goodman, playing Marie, a girl who wants to be the star, uses her fine full voice to advantage. Celia Munro-Jones is sympathetic — and suspicious? — as the star's dresser, Annie.

Steven Washington, as Flor Weston the director, exhibits an evil charm as he calls actresses into his office to discuss "dance business, etcetera." Dane Cruz and Matthew H. Wright are breezily natural as Tom and Dick, two perplexed writers trying to steer the novel to a logical ending.

THE WORKINGMAN'S FATE: Staged in the style of the original 1937 production — with overtones of Bertold Brecht — Mark Blitzstein's musical "The Cradle Will Rock" will be given at McCarter Wednesday, May 16 by John Houseman's The Acting Company. The Company is the touring arm of the John F. Kennedy Center in Washington.

One of these days the mere announcement that Mary Martello is to be in a play will bring people flocking to see it. This versatile actress scores a comedy hit as Harriet, the third and most naive of the scriptwriters. Reincarnated later as a cabaret employee under orders to write a new song at once, she brings down the house with her despairing rendering of "No Inspiration."

Enormous credit must go to Brendan Moran, set designer; to Terry Franceschi, whose lighting design is crucial to the success of the play; to costume designer Lucille Hubbard; and to Alison Graham, the choreographer.

From several angles "Dead Give-Away" is a theatrical event. There will probably be great demand for tickets for the final performances, which are scheduled for this Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. The box office number is 452-4950.

Herbert McAneney

'CRADLE WILL ROCK'

Houseman to Introduce. John Houseman will come to McCarter Wednesday, May 16 to introduce personally his production of Marc Blitzstein's "The Cradle Will Rock," presented by The Acting Company. Curtain time is 8 p.m. Mr. Houseman is producing artistic director of the Company.

First produced in 1937 by Houseman and directed by Orson Welles, "The Cradle Will Rock" was to have been presented under the auspices of the Federal Theatre Project of that Depression year. However, word came from Washington to halt the production, and on June 17, 1937, a single performance was given with the actors obeying the letter of the ban by speaking their roles from seats in the audience.

Six months later, the play opened on Broadway. It is a satire on a town run by a corporation and has a strong pro-labor slant.

Staged last season by The Acting Company in the style of the 1937 original, this production is played on a bare stage using an on-stage piano player who delivers announcements setting the scene.

TWO PLAYS THIS YEAR

At Peddie. "The Diary of Anne Frank" and "The Mousetrap" have been chosen as the spring productions by The Peddie School Drama Club, and they will be presented on alternate nights from May 16 through 19. The theatre is in Geiger-Reeves Hall on the Hightstown campus. Curtain-time is 8 each night.

On Wednesday and Friday, the Drama Club will present "The Diary of Anne Frank," a dramatization of the diary of a young Jewish girl trying to survive the Nazi take-over of Holland. Anne will be played by Leslie Walpole. Others in the cast will be Karen Hochberg, Beth Posner, Marvin Fergus, Amy Siegel, Emil Lane, Kip Bilderback, Wendy Siegel and Matt Pasher.

For a contrasting mood, the Club has chosen Agatha Christie's "The Mousetrap." The play, which has been running in London for 32 years, is laid in an English country inn. There is a police inspector, played by Chris Acito, the owners and mysterious guests of the inn and, of course, murder.

Guests and owners will be played by Carmel Gunther, Buff Sage, Scott King, Brad Stokes, Sue Clayton, Jocelyn Williams and Aris Koustas.

The Drama Club has scheduled "The Mousetrap" for Thursday and Saturday evenings, May 17 and 19.

Both productions are directed by Jeffrey R. Holcombe and Stephen Rasi. Tom Cardea has designed the sets. Donation is $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12. Refreshments will be sold and parking is available.

'H.M.S. PINAFORE'

Periwig Crew. The spring musical for Lawrenceville School's Periwig Club will be the Gilbert and Sullivan "H.M.S. Pinafore," to be given Friday and Saturday, May 10 and 11 at 8 in Kirby Arts Center on the campus.

Included in the cast of 50 are the following residents of Lawrenceville's area: Jake White, Chris Beste, Sally Snedeker, Lona Marchetti, Walter Jean and, in the chorus, Kirsten Goida, Myra Zaharchuk, Maryann Sollami, Heather Hutchinson, Ellen Bentz, Kathy Foster, Michele Bogda, Kimberly Topper, Kathy MacDermid, Jodi Kaplan.

Kristen Bancroft, Jill DeForte, Diana Nictakis, Mara Cohen, Ellen Hughes, Lisa Troidl, Shulie Cowen, Nancy Bernard, Jeanne Lynch, Greg Zaharchuk, David Mao, Davie Schroth, Scott Aversano, Harry Heher, Andrew Naumann and Keith Smalls.

Tickets may be purchased at the Jigger Shop, Main Street, Lawrenceville, or at the Kirby door.

Shakespeare '70 Company Seeks Actors

For a July production of Noel Coward's comedy "Blithe Spirit," Shakespeare '70 will hold auditions next Tuesday and Thursday, May 15 and 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Artists Showcase Theatre, 1150 Indiana Avenue, Trenton, off Route One.

Steven Nelson will star in the production but all other roles will be cast in the open auditions. Five women and one man are required, and director Gerald Guarnieri would like actors who can handle a British accent.

For an August production of the musical, "Carnival," Shakespeare '70 is auditioning Tuesday and Thursday, May 22 and 24 at 7:30 p.m. in the same place. Singers and dancers in their teens or older are needed. Clowns, jugglers, magicians and all kinds of circus acts are also invited to audition for director Deborah Ivins. Jean Ann Stieber will be music director.

Tech. help is needed for the summer and details are available from 392-1704 after 5:30 p.m. Productions are funded by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission.

House" by Eve Merriam in the Stuart Little Theater on Friday and Saturday evening.

The one-act play with music is derived from the writings of six women in history. Some of the characters portrayed are Elizabeth Cady Stanton, founder of the Women's Suffrage movement; "Mother" Mary Jones, an early labor organizer; and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, a minister and physician.

Ann Casey, Michele Cooke, Monica Burke, Bridget Hopkins, Beth Gervasio, Barbie DeVenuto, Joane deTuro, Katie Kerney, Maggy Schmelzer, Margo Heher, and Lena Nicolai are in the cast.

Performances begin at 8. General admission is $2.

POLYNESIA, PERSIA

And Break Dancing. Deshara, the East Windsor resident and native of Iran who has performed her Middle Eastern dances in Turkey, Lebanon, Israel and various European countries as well as in the United States, will present her Eighth Annual Ethnic Dance Festival Saturday, May 19 at 8 p.m. in the Art People Place, Witherspoon Street.

Also on the program will be Princeton break dancers Lance Flenoid, Marvin Trotman Jr. and Robert Bosley. Other performers will be Charlene Gregory's Polynesian dancers and the Nagwa Said troupe from Philadelphia.

Deshara's troupe will present dances of the ancient Persian court, featuring the dancer Mahjra from Hopewell; Maya from Highland Park and Terra from Glen Gardner.

Nagwa's El Rak Said dancers will perform a 17th century sword dance and "Zar," an ancient exorcism dance. Ms. Gregory's Polynesian dancers will present two Hawaiian dances: "Moku kia Kahi," or "One-master Schooner," using the feathered gourd rattle called uli-uli; the Green Rose Hula and two Tahitian dances: "The Tahitian Blackbird" and "Papio," the butterfly, in which dancers describe a popular Bastille Day carnival ride.

Tickets, at $5 for adults and $2.50 for children under 12, may be purchased at the door.

'GODOT'

At PDS. Samuel Beckett's "Waiting for Godot" will be presented by students at Princeton Day School this Saturday and next Wednesday, May 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the school's Herbert McAneny Theatre, The Great Road.

Directed by Betsy Murdoch of the PDS faculty, the play will be performed by students Dave Carpenter, Lo Faber, Jon Leaf, Steve Kreisler and Ben Mezrich.

Tickets, at $1 each, may be bought at the door.

PLAUTUS

Then Edinburgh. A production of Plautus' farce, "Curculio" in student translation will be given this week-end in Princeton Inn College Theatre, Alexander Street, before traveling to Edinburgh in August for the Edinburgh International Festival Fringe. It will be presented Thursday at 8 p.m. and Friday and Saturday at 8 and 9:30.

Roberto Rossi, a senior at Princeton University, has done the translation as his senior thesis. The farce is being directed by freshman Robert Gleason.

This will be the fifth year that Princeton University students have been represented at Edinburgh.

Kalichstein, Laredo and Robinson Piano Trio Present Concert of Great Beauty at McCarter

For the ninth event of its 1983-84 season, Music-at-McCarter presented a trio of unsurpassed beauty and expressiveness, rivaling the performances of the best-known chamber virtuosi. Several times each year, pianist Joseph Kalichstein teams up with violinist Jaime Laredo and cellist Sharon Robinson, all of whom have active and highly acclaimed solo careers. The concert they played on Monday evening at McCarter Theatre was an indication that the praise lavished upon them as they tour the country is very well deserved.

The ensemble performed four works for this concert, the Trios in E Major by Haydn and A Minor by Ravel; the first movement of Debussy's youthful Trio in G Major; and Brahms' Trio No. 1 in B Major, Op. 8.

Kalichstein was featured predominantly in the unusual trio by Haydn. The work was intended as a showcase piece for a pianist friend of the composer's, and as such is essentially a piano solo with string accompaniment. The piece was charmingly played, as Kalichstein made the most of Haydn's inventive and sophisticated pianistic writing. His fluid technique and superb control brought a sense of grace and elegance to the work, and his tone balanced well with the supportive timbres of the strings.

According to the excellent program notes by Joseph Horowitz, the trio by Debussy surfaced at an auction in 1979, and only its first movement has received performances since 1983. Written in 1880, the work is romantic in nature, showing the composer's already considerable talents but with no hint of impressionism. It is a work of great delicacy, with pleasant imitative writing, though it is lacking in originality.

This piece is of historical importance in regard to Debussy's compositional development, and for this reason the trio is to be commended for including it on its program. Its performance gave us our first true taste of this ensemble's marvelous tonal balance and unity of musical intent.

Of all the works on this fine program, the trio by Ravel was the most dynamically played. Throughout it was infused with energy, particularly in the crystalline upper registers of the strings. Intonation and ensemble could not have been better, and the musicians' control of their instruments was most compelling in the dream-like ending of the first movement. The long, sustained melodies of the work's third movement had a haunting, chant-like character, and the Anime finale was replete with timbral variety, especially in the strings.

The work was only slightly marred by the overpowering double-fisted chords of the piano at its conclusion.

The Brahms trio which rounded out the program was played with great depth of feeling for its mature romantic fervor. A work of prodigious breadth, its sinuous melodies were exquisitely phrased, and the strength of the work's expressiveness was sustained throughout the lenghthy development sections of the first and last movements.

This moving performance by Kalichstein, Laredo and Robinson was capped off by a delightful rondo taken from Haydn's Trio in G Major.

MUSIC

IMPROVISATION FOCUS

Of Concert. Trans Museq, featuring LaDonna Smith on viola, violin and piano, and Davey Williams playing guitars, banjo and mandolin, will present a concert of improvised music on Thursday, May 17 at 8:30 at Woolworth Center on the University campus.

LaDonna Smith and Davey Williams founded Trans in 1974 and from the beginning the emphasis has been on technical proficiency, instrumental exploration and collective composition. Their aim has been to elevate free improvisations to or beyond the levels of form and subtlety existent in composed music.

Sponsored jointly by the Friends of Music and the University's Music Department, admission is free.

COMPUTER MUSIC SET

For Concert at University. A concert of recent music created entirely by computer will be presented on Saturday at 8:30 in Woolworth Center on the university campus.

Several students and faculty members of the Princeton University Music Department have been using the University's IBM Computer to create music. As one composer puts it, "The computer allows me to think of any sound I want and then create it. We are limited only by our imaginations."

The program will feature a new work, commissioned by the Koussevitsky Foundation, by Paul Lansky. A member of the Music Department at Princeton, Prof. Lansky is considered one of the pioneers of computer music and his works have been recorded and widely performed. In addition, "A la Memoire d'un Ami," composed by Ira Mowitz, a graduate student in composition at Princeton, will receive its first performance. This piece won first prize in the 1984 Bourges Electroacoustic Music Competition.

The program will also include works by Andrew Milburn, Brad Garton, Dan Warner and David Kowalski. The concert is jointly sponsored by The Friends of Music and the Music Department. The public is invited, admission free.

FOLKSINGER HERE

For Concert at YMCA. The Princeton Folk Music Society will present Martyn Wyndham-Read in a concert of traditional music on Saturday, May 18, at 8 at the YM-YWCA.

Mr. Wyndham-Read is an expressive and powerful singer, a teller of anecdotes and tales and said to be the finest singer of Australian songs still performing. He has recorded many albums, the best known of which are "Ned Kelly and that Gang," "Martyn Wyndham-Read," "Harry the Hawker is Dead," and "Emu Plains." He is also featured on an anthology of Australian traditional songs, "The Great Australian Legend," which also features Trevor Lucas and A.L. Lloyd.

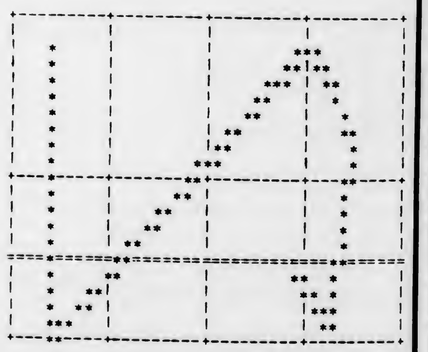
Admission is $5 for adults, $3.50 for students, $3 for Society members, $2 for children and senior citizens. There are no advanced sales. For further information call 924-9143.

ON STAGE ONLY

For Peterson. Some call him "the world's greatest jazz pianist" and in any case, he won Down Beat's "Best Jazz Pianist" award for 12 years in a row.

He'll play McCarter Theatre Saturday, May 19 at 8, and the only seats left are $18 ones on stage.

Audiences know him through his appearances with the late Count Basie and with Ella Fitzgerald, but also as a soloist. A native of Montreal, born in 1925, he began training as a classical pianist when he was six. By the time he was 14, he had his own radio spot, having won the prize in a local amateur contest.



He stayed in Canada until 1949, when he came to New York to play one of Norman Granz' "Jazz at the Philharmonic" concerts. In 1975, he won both a Grammy and a Playboy Award.

IT'S NEW To Us

TRY A NEW LOOK

From A la Mode. The air of expectancy which prevails in the springtime is evident at A la Mode, a small clothing shop for women and girls at 15 Witherspoon Street which does a big business. Bustling with students, mothers, young teenagers, and even a few 12-year-old boys looking for the "cool" sunglasses, A la Mode has a wonderful selection of the latest spring fashions.

An unstructured look, influenced by Japanese designers, earmarks this season's clothes, according to the shop's owner, Jan Olasz, who caters to the diverse and contemporary taste of her customers. Textured fabrics, terry, crinkly cottons, thin cotton batiste, dresses with alluring lace insets, gauzy skirts and dresses in delicious colors, the newest style of pants suit with an oversized men's-style jacket and the shorter pant will surely catch the eye.

LOOKING COOL: Gillian White models one of A la Mode's beguiling white cotton and lace summer dresses appropriate for graduation as well as other occasions.

Graduates come in all sizes and ages in Princeton and A la Mode has provided a fine selection of reasonably priced dresses for that memorable event and the proms which precede it. The enchanting white batiste dresses, reminiscent of the Edwardian period, are popular with the younger set and can be worn all summer. Easy to pack and care for, the Sugar and Spicer frocks sport cutouts and lace. Some have lovely Chinese handkerchief lace on the bodice. Prices begin at around $60.

Prom gowns are reasonable yet high-styled, ranging from $65 to $125, and come in a rainbow of the season's favorite colors, aqua, blue, peach, white, fuchsia, lavender, and a racy black organza. Strapless, or with a ruffle to cover one shoulder, the stunning evening gowns are available in long, short or the chic matinee length.

"These are glamorous dresses, but they are youthful and not too costly, because the girls may only wear them a few times. I hear them talking about exchanging them when they go to different schools next year. What a good idea," says Ms. Olasz. It pleases her to see young girls shopping with their mothers for something a bit dressier than the standard cropped pants, jeans, and tee shirts.

"The mothers are very positive about what their daughters are choosing this year. It is fun to see them in clothes which are so feminine. They love the tiers of organza, bows, and ruffles," she continues. Lacy gloves in white or bright colors are selling well for festive occasions.

While the southern belle look of femininity is found at A la Mode, so is the more contemporary look which allows girls and women alike more freedom of expression this spring. If our grandmothers saw what we were wearing this year they would think we were wearing it inside out! The reverse shirt and pant, with seams showing, seems to be a hit of late, providing a comfort not found in more structured clothes. Big roomy pants in fresh crisp cotton stripes, and patterns in the natural tones with jackets and vests to match, will take a girl anywhere this summer.

Hats are finally back in full force. What could be more appealing this summer than a white leghorn hat with a pert blue ribbon and flower trim worn with flowing white batiste? Sun hats from $18 to $39, in all colors, are hanging on the walls of the shop. Huge colorful hats from Ecuador are similar to the ones seen in Ralph Lauren ads. Multi-striped straw bags from Kenya, which seem to be a standard issue for young women these days, have a new feature — leather straps and a foldover pouch for valuables.

Princeton summer invites cool cotton separates seen in a variety of color combinations with an emphasis on "bigness." Ms. Olasz has a knack for choosing what her shoppers like best. The focus is on longer skirts, except for this summer's minis, jumpsuits which fall to the mid-calf, and the wider stovepipe pant which will be in evidence this fall. There is a place in every closet for a cool sun dress.

Gifts for mothers of all ages are available at A la Mode where accessories have been carefully chosen to accompany the clothes. Chunky necklaces of bone or hand-carved wooden animals from Kenya, frosted glass beads, or stainless steel and oxydized copper, are unique hand-crafted pieces of creative jewelry to complement the more casual, leisure dressing this season. Geometric earrings, pendants and bracelets glazed in soft pastels by Rick Starr, make wonderful gifts. The more adventuous mom would appreciate one of the sensational brass belt buckles on display in the case A la Mode!

ANNIVERSARY: Juliana Gambino Drong will celebrate the sixth anniversary of her shop at 16 Witherspoon Street next month. Exquisite gifts for Mother's and Father's Days and graduation await shoppers looking for a unique gift.

Contemporary clothing is just one interest of the enterprising Ms. Olasz, who also runs an antique shop in Hopewell — a charming old-fashioned place reminiscent of another era. Filled with American primitive crafts, quilts, antiques and reproductions, baskets, hand-wrought iron pieces, and country crockery, the Country House on Main Street is the first stop for many antiquers in the area.

"I have had a lifelong interest in antiques and always wanted to get into the business," explains Ms. Olasz, who opened the shop in October with her partner, Colin McBurney.

Treasures such as hand hooked and Kilim rugs, old brooms, harvest baskets, and chandeliers await the shopper. Quilts made by the Amish in their traditional designs, the double-wedding ring, tumbling block, and grandmother's fan are good values which are not easy to find.

CREATIVE JEWELRY

At Jewels by Juliana. One morning a little more than six years ago Julia Gambino Drong woke up and decided to work for herself instead of other people. She had held a variety of managerial positions and had always been interested in the creative aspect of the jewelry business. The fact that Mrs. Drong has a discriminating eye for beautiful gems, which she collects from the various international gem shows, is clear when one views the great variety of handmade necklaces, bracelets, earrings, pendants, and rings seen in the small shop.

What mother would not be delighted to receive one of Juliana's creations? A string of fresh water, Biwa pearls in a soft shade of coral or white, cultured pearl strands, bracelets, and double chokers are gifts which become family heirlooms. They will make a wonderful gift for a high school or college graduate.

Rich carnelian, jade, lapiz, coral, and agate gems, to mention a few, have been combined with pearls or gold beads by Juliana, who does all of her own work by hand with occasional help from her daughter, Sandra. Customers may order whatever they wish, allowing a bit of time. The results are glorious.

The season of engagements and anniversaries is upon us. Juliana suggests sapphires and rubies as well as the stunning traditional diamond rings she sells. The classic gold wedding band is a favorite item at the shop which features a variety of unusual gemstones too. The owner's excellent taste and personal service will assure an appropriate purchase whether it be a small gift or a treasured diamond and gold pin.

Do not fret over what to give father in June. Handsome Pulsar watches for ladies and men are well-priced, as are the quartz traveling clocks. Tie tacks, key chains, gold or gold-filled, and money clips will please him.

Whimsical pendants, a kitten, frog, clown, or a heart, are amusing gifts of gold. A gold cross for confirmation or communion will serve as a momento of those special days.

Informal jewelry is featured at Jewels by Juliana, including some silver cloisonne, and a selection of antique pieces which appeal to many of the students who are often seen browsing in the shop on a break between classes.

ART

ART MUSEUM TO GAIN

From $1 Million Gift. Princeton University has announced a commitment of $1 million from Mitchell Wolfson Jr. to be applied to the expansion of the Art Museum at Princeton in accordance with plans recommended by the Museum Advisory Council and the director of the museum, Allen Rosenbaum.

On the basis of this gift, added to others totalling $2.1 million, the trustees have decided to move ahead with plans for both the expansion and renovation of the Art Museum.

The overall expansion and renovation project, which will now be offered for construction bids, will encompass both the basic plans originally included in A Campaign for Princeton and additional improvements recommended strongly by the Museum Advisory Council and the director of the museum. These include a full climate control system for the existing museum as well as for the new wing, provision for natural light in some of the galleries, and a significant improvement of the entry court of the existing museum.

According to current estimates, the cost of the entire project will be between $5.7 million and $5.9 million.

Mr. Wolfson, a member of the Princeton Class of 1963 who resides in Miami, Fla., has established the Mitchell Wolfson Jr. Collection of Decorative and Propaganda Arts at the Mitchell Wolfson New World Center Campus of Miami-Dade Community College. He is a member of the Advisory Council of the Princeton Art Museum.

The Museum is expected to remain open and in operation during the renovation.

IT'S BEEN A DECADE

For Printmaking Council. The tenth anniversary of the Printmaking Council of New Jersey will be celebrated Sunday, May 20 with an Open House from noon to 5 in Council headquarters in the Ralph T. Reeve Cultural Center, North Branch Station, five miles west of Somerville on Route 22.

"Works of the '80s," an exhibit of prints in various techniques by the five founders of the Council and artists now on the board of directors, will be the highlight of the celebration.

Activities planned for the Open House include printmaking demonstrations, films, music and a drawing for limited-edition prints. The Council's headquarters include a studio with etching, lithograph and woodblock printing presses, facilities for silkscreen and papermaking, a darkroom, art library and gallery.

Founders of the Council are Lois Berghoff, Zelda Burdick, Peter Chapin, Florence Wender and Carol Yudin.

Details about the organization or the Open House may be obtained by calling 201-725-2110.

PAA TO MEET

To Choose Trustees. The annual meeting of the board of trustees of the Princeton Art Association will be held next Thursday, May 17, at Educational Testing Service from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The membership of the PAA is invited to attend.

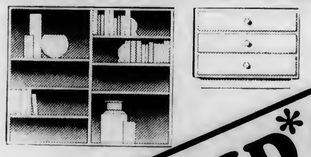
At the business meeting, which will follow a buffet supper, trustees will be elected for 1984-87. Those who will be serving their first term are Kim Hall, Susan H. Jones and Danielle Stanley and those appointed for a second term are Joan Beaton and David Walter. Other candidates may be nominated by petition.

Reservations may be made by calling the PAA at 921-9177.

EXHIBITS

Mercer County artists may enter works on May 21 and 22 for a juried show planned for a June 22 opening at Mercer County Community College funded by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission. Zoltan Buki and Stefan Martin will be jurors. All media except photography are welcome. Details are available by calling 586-4800, ext. 588.

Paintings by Lilly Steinlauf will be on view at the Hopewell Frame Shop and Gallery, Broad and Mercer Streets, Hopewell, from May 15 through June 30. A painter with a background including Ecuador, Mexico and Paris, Ms. Steinlauf has exhibited at ETS, Gallup and Robinson, The Ewing Jewish Community Center and New Jersey National Bank, among other galleries.



Sculpture by Habi Mogh and paintings by Karen Foote and David Bush will be exhibited at the Hightstown Freight, 430 Summit, Hightstown, on Saturdays and Sundays (1-6 p.m.) from May 13 to June 3. Mogh won the 1982 sculpture scholarship from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and has shown in the Jersey City Museum, Saks Fifth Avenue and the Soho Mussavi Arts Center. Foote has exhibited at the Albright-Knox Museum and the New Jersey State Museum, among others, and designed "The Magic Flute" for the Princeton University Opera Association. Bush, on the Peddie School art faculty, has exhibited at Rutgers University and the Trenton City Museum.

News of Clubs and Organizations

The National League of American Pen Women, Princeton Branch, will meet Saturday at 10 at the First National Bank of Central Jersey, Washington Street, Rocky Hill. Lynn Sims, founder and president of Jericho Productions, producer of slide shows, will be the guest speaker.

Area women artists, writers, dramatists, lecturers, composers and craftsmen are invited. For further information call Ann Pearce, 924-1938.

The West Windsor Lions Club will hold a testimonial dinner for Al Carson Saturday at the Hyatt Regency Hotel with a reception beginning at 6:30.

Mr. Carson has been involved in numerous West Windsor political, religious, recreational, civic and beautification projects for the past 40 years. Tickets are $47.50 per person and may be obtained by calling 799-1307 or 799-9182.

Peter Wood of Lawrenceville will read for the Delaware Valley Poets at their meeting on Thursday, May 17, at 8 p.m. in the new Lawrence library, Route 1 at Darrah Lane.

Mr. Wood has been a teacher of poetry in this area for more than 20 years, and is currently teaching at Trenton State College.

The group welcomes those interested in hearing Mr. Wood. It also invites those who write or take an active interest in poetry to attend the workshops scheduled for the third Thursday of every month. For information, call Rick Ryan at 989-7628 or Pat Whitaker at 259-2773.

The Soroptimist International will meet Tuesday for dinner at the Nassau Inn. Sue Rock, assistant director of the Princeton Public Library, and a Soroptimist member, will talk about the many new services the library offers and the wide spectrum of users it serves.

The American Legion Ladies Auxiliary Unit 76 will hold a Poppy Dance and Dinner Saturday, May 19, at 7 at the Post Home, 95 Washington Road.

Dancing will be from 9 to 1 to music by the Esquires. Tickets are $10 per person. Reservations should be made by calling Elmer L. McHugh, 799-1798. Proceeds go towards the Poppy Fund.

The Mercer County Stroke Club celebrated its 10th anniversary last week with presentation of awards to longtime members and a big cake made by students at the Mercer County Vo-Tech School.

A Revere Bowl was presented to Mrs. George Knaefler who founded the Princeton Area Stroke Club with 14 charter members after her husband suffered a stroke and has been a guiding presence ever since. Now known as the Mercer County Stroke Club to reflect the wider area from which members are drawn, the group has some 100 members ranging in age from 30 to the mid-70s. Mrs. Knaefler has also had a hand in helping other stroke clubs get started in other parts of the state.

"I'm often asked, what does the Stroke Club do?" Mrs. Knaefler told the group. "And I tell them it does what other clubs do.

"Through planning and participating in club activities, stroke victims become participants in society again. They overcome shyness and fear of meeting people. The Stroke Club builds confidence and promotes healing of mind and body. It promotes that very necessary ingredient of every life — independence."

Mrs. Knaefler paid tribute to the American Heart Association for its assistance over the years and to Merwick, where the group met until growth prompted a move to the Unitarian Church in 1973. She said the high point of her work with the group was "the thrilling return of members to useful life."

The African Violet Club of Trenton will hold its 33rd annual show on Friday from 2 to 9 and Saturday from 10 to 5 at Grace-St. Paul's Episcopal Church on East State Street Extension, Mercerville.

African violet plants from a commercial grower will be on sale, along with starter plants, fresh-cut leaves and rooted leaves grown by members of the club. Experienced growers of African violets will be available to answer questions about the show and about African violet culture.

Admission is free and everyone is welcome.

Princeton residents were among exhibitors who won ribbons in the New Jersey Daffodil Show held at the Short Hills Mall.

In the artistic arrangement classes, Mrs. A. Fleming Austin and Mrs. Daphne Pontius each earned a second. In the specimen daffodil classes, Mrs. Austin took a second and a third; Mrs. Alan Carrick, two firsts, two seconds, and four honorable mentions; Mrs. R. Kenneth Fairman, four firsts, three seconds, and five thirds; and Mrs. John Strasenburgh, a first, a second and two thirds.

Exhibitors from Pennsylvania, Delaware, Connecticut and Long Island entered more than 700 blooms, to make this the biggest show in the Society's 10-year history.

The Professional Roster will hold its annual meeting on Thursday, May 17, at 7:30 at 171 Broadmead.

The topic, "The World of Corporate Training," will be addressed by Judith R. Gordon, department chief of integrated planning for corporate training and education for A.T.&T., and Gerald Solomon, a partner in Paul Solomon Associates, a personnel management organization.

The public is welcome.

Prime Time Singles will meet Saturday at 8 at Nassau Presbyterian Church for a social gathering, speaker and discussion. Eric Johnson, MSW, will speak on Stress and Singleness. The group, one of the Singles Fellowship Programs, is for single adults age 45 and up.

Moving On, a support group for the recently separated or divorced person, will meet Tuesday at 7:30, also at Nassau Church. Single Adults Learning Together discussion series will meet Sunday at 7. Religion and lifestyle themes are usually under discussion.

adults, call 452-0252 weekdays from noon to 5. Singles Fellowship Programs are non-denominational but are sponsored by the Presbytery of New Brunswick.

The Princeton Branch of the English-Speaking Union will celebrate Mother's Day with a traditional English Devonshire Cream Tea Sunday at 3 in the Palmer Room of the Nassau Inn.

Marvin Rubinstein, publisher of Tea Timers and founder of a tea-lovers' association of the same name, will be on hand. The fee will be $6 for E-SU members and $7 for non-members. For more information call 924-7045.

The Princeton Music Club will meet this Wednesday at 8 at the home of the Rt. Rev. and Mrs. G.P. Melick Belshaw.

Heather McVicker, Princeton High School senior and winner of the annual Music Club scholarship award, will play the Telemann Viola Concerto No 3 in G Major, accompanied by Portia Sonnenfeld, pianist. The concert will also include the Brahms Trio in A Minor, Op. 114, played by George Jones, clarinet, Hilda Goluser, cello, and Sylvia Nichols, piano; also the Vivaldi motet, "O Qui Coeli Terraeque," sung by Anne Hoffman, soprano, accompanied by Gelinda Foon, pianist; and the allemande from a Handel suite and the suite, "Silhouettes," by Arensky, played by duo-pianists Louise and William cheadle.

Lawana Ingle is president of the group, and Robert Lohman has served as program chairman for the 1983-84 season.

The Princeton Junction Cooperative Nursery School will meet Wednesday, May 16, at 8 at the Maurice Hawk School in West Windsor.

Following a brief business meeting, Dave Todtenhagen, outgoing president of the nursery school and a law enforcement officer, will speak on "Missing Children" and a video tape featuring a speech given by John Walsh will also be seen. The public is invited.

For information call the nursery school at 799-1535.

The Central Jersey Group of the Sierra Club will hold an outings Festival at Bulls Island State Recreation Area over the May 19-20 weekend. The festival will feature biking, canoeing, nature hiking, birding and overnight camping activities. The public is invited.

Bulls Island is located on the Delaware River north of Stockton. The island serves as the beginning point of the Delaware and Raritan Canal, and the Outings Festival has been designed as the start of this year's celebration of the 150th anniversary of the canal.

For more information or to make reservations (on or before May 12) call Heinz Trebitz at (201) 832-7729. The program of each day's activities will be posted at the ranger's cabin during the weekend Bulls Island Recreation Area can be reached via a bridge off Route 29.

Princeton Creative Center will celebrate Azalea Day and Mother's Day on Sunday at 24 Woodside Lane, beginning at noon. Those who have taken part in the Center's activities throughout the year are invited to bring a blanket and a picnic lunch. Families and friends of Center participants are also welcome.

At 1:30 car pools will be formed to visit the Dilatush farm in Hamilton Township, where photographer and naturalist Donald Dilatush will lead a wildflower walk. Mr. Dilatush's lecture series, "Seeing More of Your World" was featured by Princeton Creative Center earlier this spring.

There is no charge for Azalea Day. For directions or further information, call the Center at 924-3669.

The YWCA Princeton Newcomers Club will meet on Thursday at noon at the YWCA.

Monica Cavano of the New Jersey State Museum will speak on the life of the Delaware Indians. A few museum pieces will also be on hand.

Members and newcomers living within 15 miles of Princeton are welcome. The club is an excellent way to meet people and become part of the community. Refreshments will be served and members may sign up for various club activities.

There is a nursery for children ages 1-5 and reservations may be made by calling Kathleen Robicheaux at 799-5407.

Madame Archer

Such is the personal attachment between Mme. Archer and her students that they have voluntarily increased their tuition, in her private classes. Two years ago, they gave her a birthday present: a round-trip vacation ticket to France.

She goes back every year, not only to France but to a homeopathic spa south of Munich, where she spends three curative weeks each summer. Mme. Archer discovered the spa through Neville and began going there 18 years ago. She is now a zealous missionary:

"I couldn't walk — I simply could not walk. Circulatory problems. And this doctor cured me. 'That's the place for me!' I said to myself, and I go every year. Baths, massage, mudpack and some kind of shots — I don't know what they are ...

"No. I do not exercise. It is too boring. But I walk a lot. And I drive without glasses. I need glasses only to read."

After those years of teaching in Princeton and thereabouts, she and her family set out in 1936 for the Philippines, where her husband assumed his new Army position.

"I taught equitation on the beach at Manila, to our own sons, and to the children of officers. But then, of course, the war."

Mme. Archer and her two sons were evacuated, back to the States, back to Princeton. Her husband — by now Major Archer — remained. He was captured by the Japanese and spent four years in Bilibid Viego prison.

During the war, at the request of Dean Christian Gauss, of Princeton University, Mme. Archer taught French in a session of the Army Specialized Training Program. At the end of the war, Major Archer and the others in Bilibid were freed.

"And do you know, in the Army corps that liberated the camp, was a student I had had at Princeton University when I taught in the ASTP program!"

Because the four years of imprisonment had been devastating to Major Archer's health, the family moved to Florida. He died there only two years later — in 1947.

In her fresh, youthful way, Mme. Archer is straight and factual about these private family tragedies as though they are simply what happens, if you live to be 85. She lost her granddaughter, Neville's daughter, in an automobile accident a few years ago.

Anyone who knows Madame associates her with dogs, especially toy poodles.

"The last poodle I had, Tanya, died last summer when I was in France. I've never been without a dog. When my husband was alive we had German shepherds — sometimes three at once!

"I can't afford poodles any more, but I might ask Mrs. Graves (Princeton's animal benefactress) whether she has something in the seven-pound line ..."

Not particularly a linguist, Mme. Archer is, of course, fluent in American English and speaks enough German to get along at the spa — "although I couldn't discuss Goethe, or anything like that" — and acquired some Spanish in the Philippines.

At the Adult School, most of her students were men and women who'd had French in college and wanted to brush up.

"They'd had some French, so of course it was a pleasure. But still, it's hard, and I don't like to drive at night. I want to stop while I'm still alert and capable."

There is no doubt that she is still both, as her private students will tell you. In her pert little house on Wilton Street, bought in 1949 — "I love this house! I love this Jugtown neighborhood!" — she will continue to wag a finger at the students gathered around her dining-table, begin with "Figurez-vous que ... " and continue with the story of the delightful thing that happened to her just yesterday. It's taken her 85 years to cram it all in.

Crews Head for Sprints, Track in Stadium Saturday; Winning Season for Baseball, Losing One for Lacrosse

The team with the most to be is Princeton University's lightweight crew, seeded first in the Eastern Sprints this Sunday in Worcester, Massachusetts, an event critical to the crew's aspirations of post-season competition in the United States and England.

The team with the most to gain is the heavyweight crew, seeded eighth in the Sprints after an inconsistent season plagued by two rowers leaving the team to try out for the Olympics (one American and one Canadian) and several others leaving the squad for various other reasons.

The team with the most talent to exhibit and with the greatest number of challengers is the track team, which hosts the fifth annual

Princeton-Adidas Invitational this Saturday at Palmer Stadium after scoring an impressive win in the Heptagonal meet last weekend at West Point.

For other teams the seasons are virtually complete. The baseball team [see story below] was completing its first winning season since 1980. The tennis team swept its three matches over the weekend, by 9-0 scores, to improve its record to 13-9 with only Dartmouth and Harvard remaining.

The lacrosse team, enduring its worst season in years, stayed within one goal of Dartmouth through the first half, and then collapsed, losing 14-9, with John Donovan scoring three goals for the Tigers. Now 2-9 overall, Princeton closes the book with games Wednesday at home against Delaware and at Adelphi on Saturday.

Lightweights 'Hot.' The lightweight crew, by Coach Gary Kilpatrick's standard, got "caught on the flat side" a few weeks ago against Rutgers. That loss prompted a switch to a new shell plus the promotion of two junior varsity oarsmen to the varsity. The result, says Kilpatrick, is a crew which hasn't "had a lot of pressure racing. They run hot and cold. They rowed hot in Boston [winning the Big Three race] and surprised Yale pretty extensively. I think we could pull it off in the Sprints. Boston gave these guys a lot of confidence."

These guys — Andy Card, John Denham, Jeff Peterson, Mark Michalowski, Brendan Shannon, Chris Getch, Peter Paine, captain Mark Califano, and cox Jessie Smedley — look to the Sprints as a ticket to England, to row at Henley. This year a first place finish might also yield a trip to Cincinnati for a national run-off on June 16 with the top crews from the Eastern Sprints, Western Sprints, and the small college regatta competing.

Kilpatrick would like to see his crew take a shot at the national event. In four years, he points out, "who knows — maybe then lightweight crew will be an Olympic event."

Heavyweight crew already is an Olympic event, and this spring Coach Larry Gluckman lost two oarsmen in search of that gold. Chris Penny, who would have been one of Gluckman's experienced seniors this year, has rowed well in the trials for the United States team. "He stands an excellent chance of making the team that travels to Europe," says Gluckman, after which a final cut will be made to determine the crew that heads to Los Angeles. Harold Backer, meanwhile, is fighting to make the Canadian team rather than pulling for Old Nassau.

"What should have been a relatively experienced crew turned out to be very young — only three guys from last year's eight are in the varsity boat," says Gluckman. "In a couple of races, if we had rowed a little smarter we would have done a lot better. If we can make the finals, anything after that will be gravy."

To make the finals Princeton must finish at least second in its heat with Brown, the second seed in the regatta; Penn, which lost to the Tigers by only one second; Rutgers, which fell to Princeton last week by five seconds; and Columbia. "Our season has been up and down," says Gluckman. "We had our setbacks and now we seem to be getting our pace back."

Don't Be Late. For the track team, 1984 is also an Olympic year and several Prince-

Here's a surprising baseball fact ... As successful and famous as the New York Yankees have been over the years, they've won the World Series only twice in the last 20 YEARS ... That seems hard to believe, but it's true ... The only times the Yankees won the World Series in the last 20 years were in 1977 and 1978.

ONE STRIKE AND YOU ARE OUT. That's not a new baseball rule. That's the way disaster plays the game. Is your house, car, life and income insured for a disaster?

An amazing baseball record was made last season by a minor league player in the St. Louis Cardinal system, Vince Coleman ... Coleman not only established the all-time record in pro baseball history for most stolen bases in a season, when he stole 145 for Macon of the South Atlantic League — but he was able to get all those stolen bases even though he missed over 20 percent of the season with an injury!

tonians feel that extra pressure. Not the least of them is Coach Larry Ellis, the veteran of 14 years at Princeton who now also serves as head coach of the United States Olympic track team.

Ellis doesn't pretend that his job means trying to teach the nation's finest track competitors any new tricks. "We'll help anyone if we're asked to, but they all have their own coaches and we encourage them to be there," says Ellis. For the most part, he says, the job has entailed administration, "but that's a part of coaching, too."

Ellis already has had to fight a bureaucratic battle to keep the track and field training site at Santa Barbara, California. "The job now is to get the team together and get them where they have to go — we saw that as a problem in 1972," he says, referring to the infamous moment when two American sprinters forgot the time of their event and arrived too late to compete effectively.

Ellis has made numerous forays to California already and will return there for the Olympic trials June 14-26 and again around July 20 for the actual games. "We will be working with the sprinters and the quarter milers on their baton passing," says Ellis, "and we'll provide psychological support. Some guys have certain anxieties before their event; other guys aren't bothered by anything."

In the meantime, Ellis still runs the show at Princeton. "Things have been going along pretty well, although this week is going to be pretty busy."

Remember Augie. Indeed. After the Heptagonal victory, the Tigers compete in the New Jersey state championships and then host nearly 500 athletes in the Princeton-Adidas Invitational. Twenty-two colleges, including Villanova and Penn, will compete, along with athletes from nearly 25 track clubs. The athlete with the highest name recognition will undoubtedly be Al Oerter, the venerable discus thrower.

Princetonians to watch include Steve Morgan, the freshman who won the 200-meter dash at the Heps with a 20.93 time; Rob Quinn, the steeplechase winner; Gordon Christie, who won the 5,000; Bob Igoe, long jump winner; and Geoff Seay, who won the shot put.

Princeton alumnus August Wolf will forego his alma mater's meet to compete instead in California. Wolf already has qualified for the Olympic trials in the shot put and his throw of 71 feet, 3½ inches has been equalled by only one other athlete in the world this year, John Brenner of UCLA.

Wolf is not the only Princetonian with hopes of competing on Ellis's Olympic team. Craig Masback, the 1,500 meter man, still has a "reasonable" chance to make the team. Others who have qualified for the trials include three members of the Class of '83: David Olds, competing in the marathon; Lynn Jennings, in the women's 3,000 meters; and Sally Anderson, in the women's 400 intermediate hurdles.

One current track star for the Orange and Black has an excellent chance to compete against his coach in Los Angeles. Steve Morgan likely will earn a spot on the Jamaican team in this year's Olympics. Ellis says that the freshman sprinter's times probably are still substantially below what the premier American runners accomplish. "But," the coach points out, "he's young and he's going to get better."

TIGERS HANG TOUGH

In Eastern Baseball. Princeton's baseball squad ensured itself of its first winning season since 1980 and its first .500 finish or better in the Eastern Intercollegiate Baseball League by sweeping a doubleheader against St. Francis and then coming from behind to knock off Dartmouth, 7-6.

Those wins, coming before and after a loss to St. John's, raised the team's overall record to 19-15-2. The league mark stood at 9-7, with a season-ending doubleheader against Harvard scheduled for Tuesday.

The win at Dartmouth was sparked by freshman Drew Stratton, who smacked two homers to raise his total for the season to eight. West Windsor's Dan Arendas, who had been mired in a slump in recent games, hit a double and a homer. He and Stratton each had three runs batted in.

The Tigers concluded their home schedule with the 13-5 and 15-2 defeats of St. Francis. Those games gave Princeton 10 wins in its last 13 games at Clarke Field — the second year in a row in which Coach Tom O'Connell's team has finished strongly.

Against St. John's, the Orange and Black ran into the ace of the Redmen's pitching staff, John Tanner allowed only 4 singles in the 6-1 victory.

PDS BEATS MONTCLAIR

In Girls' Lacrosse. The easy times are over for the Princeton Day girls' lacrosse team. In its only game last week, the Blue and White whipped Montclair-Kimberly, 16-4, raising its record to 6-1 in the process.

It will make up for that with four games in five days this week, at least two against stiff competition.

The Panthers would have had a tougher battle against Chatham High Friday, but afternoon rains washed the contest away, leaving the girls short on preparation for a rematch against Princeton High.

That contest was scheduled to be played this past Tuesday afternoon. The Little Tigers won the first meeting between the two, 8-6. A home contest against Dwight-Englewood this Wednesday might give PDS a little breather. On Friday, it's on to Kent Place, and then back home Saturday for highly-ranked Collingswood High from south Jersey.

After all that action, the prep playoffs may be something of a letdown later in the month. MK, who PDS might face in the first round, proved to be no match. It almost scored early on, but never mounted much of an attack again, until PDS had put the game away.

Eight players shared in the scoring for Princeton Day, led by Melinda Bowen with four goals. Lynne Faden tallied three, and Karen Callaway and Tania Schoennagel, two apiece. Birgit Enstrom, Anna Barrows and Maya Bermingham all scored once. Hilleary Thomas had nine saves in goal.

PDS BOYS GAIN SPLIT

In Lacrosse. It didn't make much sense to coach Bob Krueger. Last Wednesday, his team whipped Pingry, 11-1, which should have had his players raring to go against Hunterdon Central Saturday.

It should have, but they weren't. HC blasted PDS, 12-4.

"We just weren't motivated," Krueger commented. "The shots were even, but they had a 58-29 advantage on ground balls. That's a good indication of who's playing with hustle and intensity."

In addition, the winners got off much better shots than PDS. This allowed them to jump off to a 3-0 lead in the first period. PDS controlled the ball much of the second quarter, but gave up a bad goal near the end of the first half.

The second half was no better. HC scored eight more, while the PDS offense could manage just four. Tom Foster had a pair, plus two assists; David Haynes and Peter Gallup tallied once.

"This team is still trying to define itself," Krueger reported. "There were two totally different teams out there against Pingry and Hunterdon Central. Part of the problem is the lack of any seniors."

PDS had little trouble with Pingry, building a 3-0 lead in the first half, and adding eight more goals in the second. Goalie Chris McCabe lost his shutout midway through the second half.

HUN STILL STRUGGLING

In Lacrosse. An 11-4 loser to Dwight Englewood last week, the Hun School lacrosse team will get a chance for revenge when it plays Dwight-Englewood in the second round of the Prep School Division B state tournament. "It's not impossible that we could beat them," said Hun coach Dave Faus. The game will be played at Dwight-Englewood's field.

Before that, Hun will host North Hunterdon on Thursday at 3:45 — a game that Faus believes should end in a victory for Hun — and on Saturday it will be at Perkiomen.

Hun dropped to 2-6 after its loss to Dwight Englewood and a 10-1 setback Saturday at the hands of Blair Academy.

Ed Gallagher on an assist from Chris Goodyear scored the only Hun goal in the Blair loss. "Chris Natale was absent and we missed his speed," observed Faus. "Essentially, they were quicker than we were; they just outran us."

Against Dwight-Englewood, Faus reported that the Raiders did not play well and excessive penalties had a lot to do with Hun's performance. "We had about 20 minutes in penalties. The ref called them awfully close but not much you can do about that," said Faus.

Hun trailed by two, 5-3, at halftime but the home team scored six times when Hun had a man down in the second half. "You can't win when you're faced with that situation," said Faus.

Goodyear scored two goals to increase his season's total to 17 — high for the Raiders. Jim Lomker and Natale added single goals.

PHS VS. PDS

In Lacrosse. The current season has been just this side of a disaster for the Princeton High boys lacrosse team. But a lot of the frustration sustained by the winless Little Tigers would disappear with a victory Saturday over rival Princeton Day School.

"The big showdown," as PHS coach Pete Larsen described it, will be played on the PHS field, starting at 1:30.

PHS is 0-8 while the Panthers are 5-5. A common opponent this season, Hunterdon Central defeated PDS, 11-4, and PHS, 10-8, Larsen pointed out. "So if you go by comparison scores (which he doesn't) we have a good chance," said Larsen.

Actually, PHS may break into the win column before its meeting with PDS. This Wednesday it will oppose Pingry School at Pingry. "Pingry is 1-8; they're hurting, too," said Larsen.

More Mental Mistakes. Last week, Bridgewater East, ranked fourth in the state, according to Larsen, took the measure of the Little Tigers, 14-4. "Mental mistakes hurt us badly," offered Larsen.

Sam Chambers scored two goals for the Little Tigers and Chris Carrington and Jim Jones added one apiece.

Earlier, in a makeup game with Columbia, PHS went down, 16-9. "We gave them a scare at the end," recalled Larsen.

In the second half, PHS pulled its game together and scored six goals in about five minutes to pull within 14-9, with about two minutes to play. "Things looked up," said Larsen.

The Columbia coach quickly put his starters back in to stem the Little Tiger rush. "We made some dumb mistakes again and they scored two more goals before time ran out on us," sighed Larsen.

Chambers and Carrington, he said, led the Little Tiger comeback.

HUN SEEDED FIRST

In Prep Tourney. Hun's streaking baseball team, winner of two more last week until stopped by West Windsor Saturday, has been named the top-seeded team in the NJISAA A Division state tournament.

Hun will play Peddie, victor over Pingry in the opening round, Monday at 3:45 at the Hun diamond. At the time of the seedings, Hun was 8-3, second-seeded Blair Academy was 7-0, third-seeded Lawrenceville 8-3 and fourth-seeded Peddie, 5-4.

Hun also drew a first-round bye in the Mercer County Tournament where it was one of three teams seeded behind top-seeded Notre Dame and Ewing. It will meet the winner of the Steinert - West Windsor game next Saturday at Mercer County Park.

In regular season games this week, Hun will host Blair Wednesday afternoon and Morrisville (Pa.) Friday, both at 3:45, and Steinert High Saturday at 1:30.

The red-hot Hun team was surprised, 14-5, Saturday by visiting West Windsor, when the Pirates erupted for seven runs in the fourth inning to break open a 6-5 game. West Windsor went on to win its sixth against six losses behind winning pitcher Colin Ford (2-0). The big bat in West Windsor's attack was wielded by Keith Ender who drove in six runs on four hits. Losing pitcher Ted Bransfield (1-3) and infielders Lorenzo Mendoza and Owen Cane all drove in runs for Hun. Joe Scandariato doubled for Hun's only extra-base hit. Hun made it easier by committing four errors.

The rest of the week was all Hun. It began with a 20-hit, 18-2 pounding of Newark Academy. Rich Stout coasted to his third win as he and Brad Mumme, Bransfield and Barry Landis all lashed triples and Pete Stam and Rick Brenner homered for Hun. Stam, Mendoza and Cane each drove in three runs.

The next day, Rutgers Prep was buried, 15-2. Hun scored in every inning, going 4-3-2 in the first three. Bransfield homered during Hun's 15-hit barrage as he and Landis each drove in three runs. Stout and Mendoza doubled for the victors.

Sophomore Tom Jingoli, making his first start on the mound for Hun, was the easy winner.

Friday's scheduled contest with Wardlaw-Hartridge was postponed because of the weather.

PHS SECOND BEST

In Track Showdown. Princeton High lost its first dual meet of the season last week when it lost its battle of unbeatens to Lawrence High, 71-59. Hard hit by graduation, Princeton's young team had not been expected to come this far, but coach Marc Anderson commented, "Our kids won't quit. They've accomplished a lot more than anyone thought they would."

PHS will get another chance to prove this year's team is no fluke when it competes in the Mercer County Meet Saturday afternoon at Steinert.

Last week at the Bernards Invitational, Eric Rapp placed third in the pole vault with a vault of 12 feet. He and Dennis Gwynne of Ewing and Chris Probst of Lawrenceville all share the Mercer County best performance lead at 12-0. In the unseeded 1600 meter at Bernardsville, Nathaniel McVey-Finney came in fourth with a clocking of 10:16.4.

Lawrence relied on its greater depth to hand PHS its first track loss, capturing both hurdles events. "When they went 1-2 in the hurdles, it put the squeeze on us," admitted Anderson.

Rapp was a double winner for PHS, taking the vault (11-6) and the javelin (134-9).

PHS was limited to three firsts in the running events, as Ed Katz won the 200 and finished second in the 100 and Graham Trelsted won the 800 in 2:05.8. Trelsted, Katz, Bruce Ellerstein and Tom Haggerty combined to capture the 1600 relay, topping Lawrence, 3:36.4 to 3:47.7.

Lawrence got four firsts from Ed Wright and Gerald Truehart. Wright won the shot put and discus and Truehart the 100 and 400. Mauro Adriani won both hurdles events.

Despite the loss, Princeton's record remains a fine 4-1. "Before the season I was hoping for .500," commented Anderson. Now that he has seen how his young team has matured and progressed faster than he thought it would, he acknowledged, "Now, Im hoping for much better."

Guthrie Signs

Kevin Guthrie, Princeton's small but tenacious wide receiver who caught 193 passes in his college career, was passed over in the National Football League college draft but still managed to sign a free agent contract with the Seattle Seahawks. The contract will give Guthrie the opportunity to try out with the Seahawks at their summer camp.

"I'm too slow and too small," said the 5-feet-11, 168-pound academic all-American. "All I can do is go out there and catch passes and do my best."

If he fails in professional football, Guthrie has a fallback position: he has been offered a job in IBM's engineering department.

DiPERNA GETS A FIRST

At Bernards Invitational. Teressa DiPerna scored one for Princeton High Saturday when she came in first in the 100 meter dash in the annual, prestigious Bernards Invitational at Bernardsville. Timed in 12.9 in the 100, DiPerna also claimed a second in the 200 with a clocking of 26.8.

"We did pretty good. I can't complain," said PHS coach Tom McMorrow. "We placed in quite a few events and just about everybody up there bettered their best time."

Gail Woolston finished third in the 800 in 1:00.6, while Sarah Billington was second in the high jump with a leap of 5-0 and Barbara Halverson was fifth in the javelin a 101-10 effort.

In unseeded races, sophomore Heather Gray won the 800 meter in 2:27.2 and teammate Barbara Byrne was fourth with 2:28.9. In the 3200 Kiran Cummings of PHS was second with 11:57 and Susan Gray was fourth in the 1600 with 5:31.2.

PHS also took a third in the 4x400 relay where Dawn Gray, Heather Gray, Hillary Jones and Woolston were timed in 4:15.7. Notre Dame placed second in the event with 4:09.7.

This week the Little Tigers face a one two test. On Thursday in a key league dual meet, fourth-ranked PHS will clash with third-ranked Ewing. The meet will be held at PHS at 3:45.

Two days later, PHS will compete in the annual Mercer County meet Saturday morning at Steinert High.

McMorrow, in his first year as head coach, sees the proximity of the two meets as critical. "It will be real tough to get past Ewing just before the County Meet. It will be hard for the kids to run good races and to have to come back with one day's rest and expect times to drop. We have our work cut out for us."

In meets last week, PHS defeated Lawrence and demolished Hamilton, which had only eight girls on its squad, 62-42.

The Cardinals' freshman distance runner Beth Starr drew praise from McMorrow. "She's going to be a real standout," predicted McMorrow. "She's incredible for a freshman. If she continues like she has she is going to be a state miler."

Starr won the 3200 and the 400. First place winners for PHS were DiPerna in the 100, Dawn Grey in the 200, Sarah Doig in the 800 and Cummings in the 1600. The high jump and 400 hurdles were cancelled because of slippery conditions.

PDS SPITS A PAIR

In Baseball. The Princeton Day baseball team followed an 8-4 loss to Princeton High last Wednesday with a 6-1 victory over Montgomery Saturday to gain a split in its week's work.

Against the Little Tigers, PDS rallied from a 2-0 deficit to take a 3-2 lead after three innings. It was short-lived, however, as PHS scored five in the top of the fourth against losing pitcher Scott Roberts.

Andy Bing had the big blow for PDS a two-run triple in the third.

Bing was the main man in the Montgomery triumph, pitching a two-hitter, stroking another triple and driving in four runs. Jason Quick and Jon McConaughy also drove in one run.

Bing gained his second victory against no defeats on the mound.

PHS IS TOP-SEEDED

In County Tennis Tournament. To no one's surprise, the Princeton High School tennis team has been seeded No. 1 among the 15 teams that will compete in the Mercer County Boys Tennis Tournament at Mercer County Park.

The Little Tigers drew an opening round bye and will meet the winner of Wednesday's Ewing-West Windsor match on Friday afternoon. The semi-finals will start at 5 Friday and the championship round Saturday morning at 10.

Lawrence is seeded second and Hopewell Valley third.

PHS is also competing in the Newark Academy Invitational Tournament which will conclude this week. The Little Tigers are seeded third in the event which features the top 12 scholastic teams in the state.

In a regular season match on Monday, the 9-2 Little Tigers blanked Moorestown, 5-0.

Jacob Leschly won 6-3, 6-3 in the first singles, Mark Leschly triumphed 6-3, 6-4 and Bruce Ellis was extended to 7-6, 7-5 by Howard Snyder before winning the third singles. In the first doubles, Rob Dunham and Mike Elliot breezed 6-2, 6-2, but Princeton's other doubles pairing, Matthew Mack and Breet Van deBovenkamp were forced to struggle through the afternoon's only three-setter. They dropped the first set 1-6, but came back to win the second 6-4 and the third 7-5 in the hotly contested match.

LEADERS ARE TIED

In Junior Soccer Play. In action last week in the Princeton Soccer Association's junior division, Hulit's Shoes defeated Kopp's Cycle to tie Kopp's for the lead. H. Gross & Company and J. Brandt are tied for second.

Hulit's topped Jay's, 5-2, on thee goals by Harry Morton and one each by Alex Hammer and Louis Welnity. John Moles and Peter Knipe tallied for Jay's.

H. Gross and J. Brandt battled to a 1-1 standoff, Jason Bilanin scoring for Gross and Jordan Krane for Brandt. Kopp's earned a split for the week by blanking Princeton Nautilus, 1-0, on Steve Taber's goal.

SIGN-UP EXTENDED

For Youth Baseball Leagues. Although official Little League tryouts are over, the Princeton Youth Baseball Association is extending its registration period until May 21, the start of the season.

Those interested in playing in the minor division (ages 8-10) or major (11-12) should call Clark Lennon at 924-7242. Games are played Monday and Wednesday evenings at Community Park.

LAWRENCE NEXT

For PHS Softball Team. A long season keeps getting longer for the Princeton High girls softball team.

Winner of just two games this season, the Little Tigers were overwhelmed, 34-4, by Ewing last week in their only start. The team, which is not among the eight who will participate in the Mercer County Tournament later this month, is scheduled to meet Lawrence High Thursday at Lawrence in its next start.

TWO MORE WINS

For PHS Girls Lacrosse Team. Victories over previously unbeaten Summit Friday, and Stuart earlier last week, left the Princeton High girls lacrosse team with a fine 7-1 record. Ahead for the streaking Little Tigers is a busy week.

Following a scheduled rematch with rival Princeton Day School, PHS will be at Columbia on Wednesday, entertain Chatham Friday at 4 and play host to Morristown on Monday, also at 4. "This is a big week for us," said coach Joyce Jones.

On Saturday, Summit, described by Jones as one of the most improved teams in the state, came here with a 6-0 record. "They played with class," said Jones. "They had stickwork and speed. We decided not to be outclassed."

After the smoke of battle had cleared, PHS walked off the field with a 6-4 victory. But it was not easy. "We earned that win," said Jones.

PHS led 3-2 at intermission, but the visitors scored first in the second half to tie it and then scored again to take a 4-3 lead. Carol O'Donoghue got the key interception, reported Jones, that allowed Erika Gabrielsen to score her third goal and knot the score at 4.

PHS freshman Jessica Fraker then found herself in a free position in front of the Summit goal cage. Her one-on-one shot into the upper corner was so powerful and had so much spin on it, Jones said, that even though it hit the goalie's hands it went in to give PHS the lead again. Gabrielsen then scored her fourth goal to give the Little Tigers an insurance goal. Booie Lockwood also scored for the victors in the hard-fought game.

Commented Jones, "It was a very good win for us. I was most pleased because we were able to come back. She also cited the defensive play of Nadia Glucksberg and Myla Causing in the win. "We've been emphasizing our defensive play. Not just stick checking but gaining possession of the ball and going for the goal," said Jones.

Everyone on the Little Tiger squad got to play in last week's 16-1 victory over Stuart. "They are a very young team; they have a lot of underclassmen on their team and I am sure in the future they will have a fine team," commented Jones of Stuart.

But for this game, the future was for PHS. Eight players scored for PHS, led by Sue Lofgren and Gabrielsen with three goals each. Pam Jennings, Gail Ellis, Lockwood and Michele Book all had two goals each, while Carol O'Donoghue and Amy Kershaw added one apiece.

PRESSURE WEEK AHEAD

For PHS Baseball Team. This is the week which will determine if the Princeton High School baseball team will qualify for the annual NJSIAA state tournament. To add to the pressure, the Little Tigers will have to win three of four games to do so.

Following losses to Notre Dame and Ewing coupled with a win over Princeton Day School, the Little Tigers are currently 5-6. After a scheduled game with Hamilton to start the week, PHS will be at Lawrence High Thursday and at Montgomery Friday.

Saturday — the final cutoff day for the state tournament when a team must have a .500 record or better to qualify — PHS will travel to Trenton for a 10 a.m. game with the Tornadoes.

That game will also be one of the opening round games for the five remaining sports in the Mercer County Tournament. Three teams, Notre Dame, Ewing and Hun, have been seeded 1, 2 and 3 on the basis of their records and have drawn an opening-round bye. Ten other teams will battle for the five remaining tourney berths.

Trenton (6-6) is seeded ninth, PHS tenth. If form holds up, PHS should defeat Lawrence and Montgomery, which leaves Hamilton and THS as the key games for PHS. "The easiest way would be to defeat Hamilton Tuesday and not have to worry about Trenton," said PHS coach Ed Beacham.

The Little Tigers are in a bind because they failed to upset Notre Dame and Ewing, the top two teams in the Colonial Valley Conference.

Saturday, PHS faced Notre Dame (12-1-1) and its top pitcher, Len Navarro. The senior Irish hurler is a phenomenon: he lost his first game as a sophomore and then has come on to win 23 in a row — making the Little Tigers his 23d victim. Navarro is 5-0 this season.

"He's good," agreed Beacham. "We got six hits off him, which is about his average. He doesn't walk anybody."

The game marked Princeton's first meeting with Navarro. "We didn't see him last year," said Beacham. "He's not so fast — he's quick enough — but what makes him so good is he has a nice curve. That curve makes his fast ball that much more effective when he comes in with it. And he has great control."

Petrone Ends Slump. Two of the six hits allowed by Navarro were a pair of singles by Mike Petrone, ending a batting slump for the versatile outfielder-infielder. "We need Petrone to hit if we're going to win," commented Beacham.

Princeton's lone run in the 8-1 loss to the Irish came in the first and was driven in by a Dino D'Angelo hit. Jason Petrone had a double and Jim Opperman and Tom Foltiny also hit safely off Navarro. Gavin Hulsman took the loss for PHS, his third against three wins.

"Notre Dame has a nice sored club," allowed Beacham. "I think Ewing may be the only team better than Notre Dame in the league. Ewing is better overpowering, and has better pitching. That's the two reasons."

Two Big Innings. All the runs in Princeton's loss to Ewing came in two innings.

The Little Tigers struck first scoring all their runs in the second inning to erase a 1-0 Ewing lead. Half of those runs came off a bases-loaded triple by Mike O'Connor. Mike Petrone contributed a double and Dino D'Angelo, Jim Opperman and Gavin Hulsman singled in the uprising. The five hits, however, were all veteran hurler Rusty Mahan allowed PHS.

Ewing's turn came in the top of the fourth. After one run had scored, Ewing's beefy catcher, Scott Patterson, belted a tremendous shot to deep left center field, scoring two more runs to cut the Blue Devils' deficit to 6-4. Commented one PHS player on the bench on Patterson's 400 plus clout, "That ball was in the air for 15 minutes."

There was more to come. Mike Pasquito's line drive past O'Connor at third plated another run. Ewing tied it when the sure-fielding Mike Petrone at short made a glittering stop on a ball hit deep in the hole. His rushed throw was wild to second however, allowing the tying run to cross the plate.

When D'Angelo was sky high with his next pitch and with runners on second and third, Beacham signaled for Jim Opperman to come to the mound from first. DH hitter Mark O'Brien looped Opperman's first pitch for a bloop single to right that landed right on the line. That sent two more runs across. Ewing had an 8-6 bulge and the lead for keeps when PHS ended the rally with a double play.

Ewing scored one more run in the next inning when Patterson lashed a solid smash past Jon Sherin at third. Meantime, Mahan got stronger for the 8-5 Blue Devils as the game went on.

In its last chance and with the rain starting to come down hard, Princeton's hopes rose momentarily when Mahan walked leadoff batter Joe O'Brien on four straight pitches. Not a single one was anywhere near the plate. Mahan's wildness did not escape Ewing coach Andy Greener, who is in his 24th year of coaching the Blue Devils. Greener walked to the mound to settle Mahan down.

It appeared as if Greener's advice had little effect as Mahan's next pitch to Tom Foltiny was wild, sending O'Grady to second. The hearts of the few drenched Princeton followers beat a little faster.

It was not to be. Foltiny finally fanned, Sherin popped to shallow center and Mickey Carnevale skied to deep right to end it.

Earlier in the week, Jason Petrone drove in three runs to lead PHS to a 8-4 victory over town rival Princeton Day School. O'Connor, who tripled, scored three runs, and Carnevale drove in a pair, as the Little Tigers took control of the game with a five-run rally in the fourth.

Jon Sherin, making his first start for PHS went the distance and got the win. He limited the Panthers to six hits.

Hey, Mom, Look at Me!

The 1974 Princeton A Soccer Team, an independent soccer club comprised of 10-year-olds, has been invited to play Bloomsfield Sunday in the Meadowlands Stadium as the preliminary game to the New York Cosmos - Tampa Bay Rowdies professional game.

The game will also be televised on Cable TV, starting at 1:30, according to 1974 coach Charlie Scozzaro. Before the game is over, Scozzaro estimates his young players will be performing before 20,000 to 30,000 spectators. The Cosmos game starts at 2:30.

Tryouts for next season's 1974 team for Princeton area youths born in that year will be held May 22-23 at Rider College. For details, call Mr. Scozzaro at 924-9166 or Jim Healy at 921-1595.

LEAGUES FORMING

In Summer Lacrosse. Those interested in playing in the annual Princeton Summer Lacrosse League must register with the Princeton Recreation Department before June 1.

Entrance fees for both men's and women's leagues are $12 for residents and $24 for non-residents. Registration forms are available at the Recreation Office.

The men's league will meet Monday and Wednesday evenings from 5:30 to 8, June 13 through July 29. Those who are in high school are eligible. The women's league will meet Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the same time June 21 through August 2. Those entering ninth grade as of September, 1984 are eligible.

There is no contact allowed in summer league play. Players will receive jerseys as part of their fee and all participants must pre-register. For more information, call the Recreation Office, 921-9480.

Report Lists Alternatives Reccommended to Control Township's Deer Population

Non-hunting alternatives as well as a careful herd management program are proposed by the Ad Hoc Deer Committee in its thoroughly researched report on deer problems in Princeton Township.

The Committee was convened by Mayor Winthrop S. Pike last fall to come up with a report on, and solution to, the rising incidence of deer-car collisions on Township roads since the ban on discharge of firearms went into effect in 1972. Reports of damage to gardens, shrubbery and cash crops were also on the rise. The final report was presented by Thomas M. Poole to Township Committee Monday night with the concurrence of fellow members Thomas O. Southerland, Jr. and John E. Kuser.

Knowing of the resistance to hunting and the distaste for killing on the part of many Township residents, the Committee commissioned a modest poll on the subject. The survey found that of the 246 persons questionned, 196 or 80 percent were aware of problems with deer. A large percent could cite specific problems, such as accidents and garden damage, many had had their own experiences with deer.

However, most were reluctant to change the law forbidding discharge of firearms, although they were agreeable to farmers who suffered damage using firearms. They were also opposed to bow hunting.

"Thus we face a paradox," the report notes. "More and more deer each year are being killed in a cruel, violent and inhumane manner — by a moving vehicle — in Princeton Township, more and more citizens are complaining about the damage deer are doing to their property, and as the deer population increases there are more and more reports

EVERYONE LOVES A WEDDING: Daryl Brower was demure and pretty as the bride, and Matt Giacobbe seems suitably awed as the bridegroom in this mock Edwardian wedding that was one of the featured attractions at last Saturday's May in Montgomery country fair. The wedding took place in front of what is known as the Widow Hoagland house in Dutchtown, one of five houses on tour along the Harlingen-Dutchtown Road. The house has been restored to prime condition by owner Harold Williams, owner of the Route 206 autobody shop, who had a collection of children's cars and trucks on display in the parlor.

$250,000 Available for Home Loans For Witherspoon-Jackson Residents

Home owners in the Witherspoon-Jackson area learned this week that $250,000 in lending money is now available to them for home improvement loans.

Williamson Construction Corporation, with offices at 337 Witherspoon next to Conte's, announced that it is ready to finance ten-year loans up to $10,000 or $15,000. Interest will be at bank rates, according to William Robertshaw, general manager, who said those rates are lower than those of a finance company and lower than a general home improvement loan.

The company itself would do construction work for the borrower, Mr. Robertshaw said. He described the firm as a "banking-finance-construction-management" corporation and said it is already a lender.

Williamson is also a property-owner in the Witherspoon-Jackson neighborhood, he said, adding "we're always fixing up our own properties and are aware of the needs in the area."

In a letter to Mayor Barbara Sigmund, Mr. Robertshaw said his company did not believe the Borough's Neighborhood Preservation Grant of $80,000 would go far enough (it is actually $85,000) and that his plan "would provide additional funds for the area and also provide work for our employees, most of whom are local Princeton people."

Mayor Sigmund said "They are very, very responsible and sincere people. I am delighted by any effort made by citizens in this area, and I applaud their initiative."

The benefit to Williamson, Mr. Robertshaw said, is that "If the neighborhood is improved, everybody's property is worth more. We get work; many of our 50 employees live here. I myself and our treasurer, Alan Zar, live on Quarry Street.

He said he thought replacement of old bath-

9-Story Hotel, Offices, 85 Retail Shops Are Planned For 138-Acre Complex at Princeton Forrestal Center

A 138-acre commercial complex offering small offices, restaurants, shops and a major hotel is planned for Princeton Forrestal Center.

The $100-million complex will be located on a tract of land recently purchased by Princeton University from St. Joseph Seminary. Located on the north side of Route One, the tract is bounded by the highway, by College Road, the Seminary and Princeton Landing, the residential component of Princeton Forrestal Village. Currently planted in trees by Princeton Nurseries, which has had a long term lease on the land, the property is across Route 1 from the major office-research buildings already completed or under construction in the 1,600 acre multi-use Forrestal development on land leased from the University.

In addition to normal approvals by the Plainsboro Township Planning Board, a zoning change will be required for 108 acres of the tract that are now zoned OB-1 for office buildings. This zoning does not permit the construction of a hotel or the other retail uses that are planned. Zoning for the 30-acre parcel lying to the west between Princeton Landing and Route 1 is for Planned Mixed Use Development (PMUD). It is this designation that Forrestal officials are asking for the larger parcel as well.

But even PMUD zoning has some limits in terms of height and number of rooms for the hotel that are exceeded in the proposal. The plans call for a nine-story 300-room hotel with the possibility of building another 100 rooms in time. In addition, 85

Fast Food Outlet Off to Slow Start

Fast food, but not always so fast when it comes to contractors and architects.

Princeton's Burger King on Nassau Street was supposed to open May 1. Now it looks more like August 1 "at the earliest," according to Umberto Roberto.

Mr. Roberto owns Hinkson's and the building next door where Burger King will eventually be.

Everybody thought that since a restaurant had been there before, it would be quick and easy to open another restaurant in the same spot, but apparently not.

"They're putting in a whole new ceiling, a new floor and the equipment is all made to order," Mr. Roberto said.

"It all took longer than they thought."

HOUSING IS — WHERE?

Two Groups at Work. Two bodies — the Planning Board and Borough Council — are each working on affordable housing. Are they walking together or on divergent paths?

"The Planning Board wants to emphasize that our consultants' report is for the whole community — Borough and Township," says board chair Hans K. Sander, "and when we adopt the report, the preamble will say it is a community document."

The board is scheduled to take that action and accept the Mallach-Nolon affordable housing report next Tuesday (7:30 p.m., Valley Road building.)

So far, Council has not discussed the report of its own Affordable Housing Subcommittee nor the minority report related to it. Both may be on the agenda for the May 24 work session.

Peter Bearse, Council representative on the Planning Board and co-chair of the Council housing subcommittee, supports the concept of a community-wide Planning Board housing report. It was he who introduced the motion adopted, 7-0, by the Planning Board to emphasize the community nature of the Mallach-Nolon report.

However, Mr. Bearse sees what he calls "irredentism" on the part of Council's housing committee. Against Mr. Bearse's recommendation, its members stated that their proposed housing trust fund should be called the "Princeton Borough Housing Trust Fund" and should consist solely of Borough residents.

"The issue of whether the Fund should be a Borough fund or a community-wide fund was never fully joined by the working committee," Mr. Bearse explains. "Neither were questions like the level of capital needed by such a fund and its scale of operations. The Planning Board did explore them, in discussing a trust fund."

Mr. Bearse asked Alan Mallach and John Nolon, during hearings on their report, whether there were economic reasons for having a joint housing trust fund. They told him such a fund could be more efficiently funded and managed if it were joint.

"An overall housing strategy is more effective, if followed from the regional point of view, than if each community were to try and do its own thing," Mr. Bearse says.

"The judgment to recommend a 'Borough' Trust Fund wasn't made on the grounds of feasibility, but more on the basis of feeling," he added.

The word "divergent" to describe the two approaches is too strong, he says.

"There is some difference in the two approaches, but this is healthy because it reflects some tailoring to needs. In the Borough, specific ordinance changes would be needed.

Density Bonus. "The Planning Board is paying more attention to conditional density bonuses as a tool. This reflects a concern with larger Township projects. But both Borough and Township must change their ordinances."

Mr. Sander, a Township appointee to the board, points out that Mr. Bearse did indeed make the motion to underscore the community nature of the Mallach-Nolon report. But he says he has not seen much Borough cooperation.

After the first of this year, he reports, he asked Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund whether Council and Planning Board might not work together on housing. She told him she had decided to form a Council sub-committee.

"We sent a copy of the Mallach-Nolon report to her and to Borough attorney Walter Bliss, but we've had no response. The fusion didn't come about."

Mr. Sander remarked that Mayor Sigmund, who sits on the Planning Board as mayor of the Borough, had not attended any of the board's discussions on the Mallach-Nolon report except the first one.

In the early spring of last year, after the New Jersey Supreme Court's Mt. Laurel II ruling, Mr. Sander said the Planning Board began to study possible revisions of the housing element of the Master Plan. A first draft of a conditional high-density bonus ordinance was prepared and reworked. Mr. Mallach and Mr. Nolon were retained — hired by the Township.

"It was a strong housing start by the community, as non-political a start as could be imagined," Mr. Sander commented.

"If there has been no handshake from the Borough, at least we tried."

He commended as "fine ideas" two concepts of particular interest to Mayor Sigmund: using the existing housing stock to provide lower-cost units, and making it possible for residents of the Witherspoon-John area to buy and keep their homes.

So far, Mr. Sander points out, there is no indication from the courts as to the number of lower-cost housing units Princeton will be assigned, in light of Mt. Laurel II and no way of knowing when that number may be revealed. The board is using the figure of 800, from the Mallach-Nolon report.

"But we are moving ahead, adopting the consultants' report and working on the draft of an ordinance to make the conditional high-density bonus jibe with the recommendations in that report."

Sewer Summit Session Considers Restructuring Of Public/Private Sewer Operating Committee

At the Sewer Summit between Borough officials and Township officials last Thursday, there was less talk of a sewer connection ban and more about health hazards, sump pumps and restructuring the Sewer Operating Committee.

Both municipalities agreed, in the only vote taken all evening, to study the question of whether or not the SOC, which was set up in 1932, should remain as is or be changed. If changed, suggestions range from eliminating the University as the private party in what is presently a mixed public-private operation, to setting up a joint municipal department with a single, independent sanitary engineer.

George Olexa presently wears two hats as Borough Engineer and Sanitary Engineer for the SOC, which entails responsibility for the landfill and transfer station, garbage and trash operation as well as for the day to day operations of the Sewer Operating Committee.

Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund opened the meeting with an announcement that replacement of sewer lines in the area of Spring Street, Park Place and Vandeventer Avenue is expected to be completed at the end of the month. There is a "reasonable hope," she said, that the main source of pollution in Harry's Brook comes from this source and that replacement will reduce the high fecal coliform counts on Harrison Street and at various places along the brook.

Health Threat Cited. Borough and Township Health Officer Patrick Hanson spoke of the "imminent public health threat" to those who live in areas where there have been high coliform counts. To date there is no epidemiological evidence, he said, that any of the several possible illnesses such as hepatitis has been contracted by residents because of the surcharging sewers and high counts, but that, he said, is "sheer luck" and the "canniness of the residents" in avoiding contact with the surcharge.

Mr. Hanson said the Health Department "would support" a sewer ban on Harry's Brook and Mountain Brook sewer lines and would continue to do biological samplings in those areas. Two areas are presently posted for the risk involved: Harry's Brook and Community Park North, a public recreation area into which the surcharging manhole on Route 206 at Valley Road overflows.

Mayor Sigmund maintains that unless pollution in Harry's Brook can be brought within levels of safety, it is the duty of governing bodies to impose a sewer ban in the interests of community health. Reduction in the fecal coliform count and "no more overflows anywhere" were Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike's two stated criteria for lifting a ban, should one be imposed.

But these references to a sewer ban or moratorium on sewer connections were by and large tangential in an evening that was a work session on sewer problems and progress. J.B. Smith, chairman of the SOC, told Borough and Township elected officials that initial reports from the computer model of the system presently being undertaken by the Bets, Converse and Murdoch firm indicate that the main sewer trunklines "are probably adequate as designed, if we can get rid of the I and I (infiltration and inflow). "Except for normal repair needs, the problems to our system are caused by excessive rainwater," Mr. Smith said. "And except for that it performs adequately." A system designed to carry 2-3 million gallons per day receives some 20 to 30 million gallons per day in periods of heavy rains, he noted. The SOC is presently trying to obtain enough information about the I and I to make a decision on the proper size of the replacement for the Mountain Brook line. Replacement of that line is part of the Brokaw work promised to be completed by 1985 under the 1981 consent agreement with the Department of Environmental Protection.

According to one DEP study on the subject in a number of municipalities, more than 50 percent of this extra water comes into the system through private connections rather than through cracks and holes in the main line. This means from improper sump pump connections and holes in laterals leading from home to sewer trunk through which ground water seeps.

Inspections. Mr. Olexa reported that the extra crew hired and funded by the two municipalities specifically for I and I work "is gaining a vast knowledge of the system." Of 125 house inspections made in three weeks, 10 sump pumps were found to be improperly connected to the sewer line rather than to storm drains. There were eight other defects, such as the lid taken off the sewer trap in the basement to rid the basement of water.

This brings the total to 10 percent, which surprised many of the municipal officials, some of whom are urging that this inspection work be speeded up with the hiring of still more crew on a temporary basis. Mr. Olexa said this might cost thousands of dollars and was not possible within the present SOC budget.

Township Committeewoman Gail Firestone repeated her proposal for a grace period without fines for householders to acknowledge their faulty sump pump connections and receive some sort of subsidy to make the necessary corrections. A second thrust of the proposal is for mandated inspection at the time of house sales and very stiff fines for offenders.

Mrs. Firestone thinks there may be as many as 200 to 400 improper sump pumps in the Borough and Township. She points out that one sump pump running intermittently can put as much water in the system as 127 homes. A Township subcommittee is presently formulating an ordinance incorporating these proposals, and Mrs. Firestone hopes the Borough will adopt a similar measure.

New Proposals. There was no time allotted for public comment during the three-hour session, until almost at the end, when Mayor Pike permitted Dwight O. North to read a lengthy handwritten proposal. In it Mr. North again urged contracting a major outside firm to do the necessary field work and make the necessary repairs within a stated period of time and at whatever the necessary cost. The financing of the project should be via municipal bonds, Mr. North believes, rather than the piecemeal approach via the Sewer Trust Fund, which he says inflates real estate values and puts the burden on newcomers.

Mr. North recommended that the Sewer Trust Fund be abandoned and that what he calls a two-pronged "clamp" be imposed on new sewer connections. One prong involves overflows, the other the bacterial quality of community waterways. The clamp would remain down until both prongs are released, in satisfaction of ordinanced criteria. Similarly, if either prong were to go down, because of new conditions the clamp would go into effect again. Mr. North would exempt all those who have received final site plan approval.

"The obsolete and ineffective Sewer Operating Committee, working under a 1899 charter and only nominally responsible to three supervising bodies, should be jettisoned" in Mr. North's view. He would replace it with a "purely administrative" Joint Sewer Department under a pair of Sewer Commissioners, one from each municipality. This Department would have its own sanitary engineer. Mr. North suggests, completely distinct from the Borough Engineer and the Township Engineer.

Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike said he found much in Mr. North's suggestions on restructuring with which he would agree. He too recommended the SOC have its own engineer with Borough and Township engineers serving in an advisory capacity.

In the discussion that followed, it was clear that there are unsolved questions as to the "constitutionality" of a non-profit organization being in "joint meeting" (an organizational term under state law) with two municipal public bodies which have the power to tax. Borough Attorney Walter Bliss said that a mixed public-private entity might be "reluctant" to address policy questions, which seemed to be a veiled allusion to the SOC's reluctance to impose a sewer connection ban even though advised by Mr. Bliss that it has that power, as does each municipality.

Mr. Olexa disagreed. "There is not a reluctance to exercise authority," he said. "We never had expressed the written opinions we have today. We work under the umbrella of the governing bodies; it would be foolish to do otherwise."

In the discussion of whether the University should continue in the SOC or politely be asked to withdraw, Mr. Olexa described the University as a "positive partner" and pointed out certain practical disadvantages in its no longer continuing as such. Eugene McPartland, vice president for planning, plant and properties, said the University would like to "remain in and continue to contribute, at least until we get the problems resolved."

Mayor Sigmund said she believed in the adage about not fixing something that wasn't broken. Township Committeeman William Cherry concurred, but the other elected officials endorsed a resolution to study the matter of restructuring further.

CHOOSING A PRINCIPAL

Now Interviewing. Two essays on the Long Range plan for Princeton's schools, required of all applicants for the Community Park principal's job, served to cut the 150 who asked for applications, down to 48 who actually applied and wrote the essays.

Those 48, on the basis of their essays and other criteria, were reduced to ten finalists who are being interviewed this week. Next week, the interviewing committee will visit the schools and the communities of the two finalists and on Tuesday, May 29, the school board will do its first interviews.

So far, it has not been decided whether the board will decide that night or at the June 5 meeting.

Those who applied were required to write an essay explaining "How does your experience prepare you to implement the kind of educational program envisioned by the Long Range plan?" The subject of the second essay was "How have you involved parents in your school?"

Applicants have come from within Princeton's own school system and from the surrounding area, according to Jamieson McKenzie, assistant superintendent. The interviewing committee consists of Mr. McKenzie, members of the Community Park staff, Community Park

TO LIMIT GAS PUMPS

In CBD. Service stations in the Central Business District will be limited to three gas pumps and six hoses under an ordinance passed unanimously last week by Borough Council.

The measure had been requested by neighbors of Larry's Sunoco on Nassau and Murray Place and applies to all service stations in the Central Business District. It does not apply, therefore, to Griggs Corner Amoco which is on Hulfish and Witherspoon.

In other business, Council introduced an ordinance requiring fast food establishments to provide trash cans. Public hearing June 12.

Council also agreed to give $8,000 to the Friends of Open Space toward dredging of the canal at Turning Basin Park. An earlier request by Township Committee for $25,000 had been rejected.

FILES ON AIR RIGHTS

With Appellate Court. Gerald Boswell, who has gone to court challenging the Borough's granting of air rights over Palmer Square East to Collins Development, has filed the required brief with the Appellate Court. He lost in Superior Court which ruled for the Borough and Collins.

Mr. Boswell, an attorney with the state's Office of the Public Advocate, has two main arguments. It is his contention that under both state law and case law, as well as common law, air rights over a street may not be sold directly to a private corporation.

He says there is no case law in any state supporting such an action. Always, he contends, there is some element of public use.

His other argument is that, although the Borough refers to the arrangement as a "perpetual easement," it is actually a "perpetual lease" and the Borough did not comply with the municipal leasing law in making the agreement.

Mr. Boswell says that, since Collins will complete its payments after five years, it will be using the air rights after that time without payment. New Jersey's constitution, he says, prohibits a municipality from giving either property or credit to a private corporation without adequate compensation.

The Borough and Collins must file their own briefs by June 15; after that, the court will set a date for oral argument.

WIN CLANCY AWARD

Volunteers. Anne Bolick, who has given over 8,500 hours as a Girl Scout Troop Leader, taught Sunday School, taught English to refugees and made trails in Herrontown Woods, has received the 1984 Robert E. Clancy Award for "Outstanding Service as a Volunteer."

The Clancy Youth Award has been given to Nikolaus Habicht, Princeton High School senior, who teaches Red Cross Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation to younger students, trains other instructors, teaches advanced First Aid and emergency care and gives 20 hours a week to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

The Robert E. Clancy Award, a silver mobius strip for the adult and a watch for the youth, is sponsored by Robert E. Clancy Associates of Princeton and New York and presented by the Council of Community Services. It is designed to honor direct, one-to-one volunteerism, as contrasted to volunteer leadership.

The panel of judges, nominated by the Council's board of directors, is composed of citizen volunteers. This year's panel members were Richard Gilbert, retired officer of American Cyanamid and treasurer of the Family Service Agency who served as chair; Sally Piller, welfare director of Montgomery Township; John Sieber, vice-president of United Savings and Loan and Jeanne Silvester, WHWH radio program host.

The two winners received their awards from Mr. Gilbert at a luncheon ceremony held in the Nassau Club last Thursday.

$300 REWARD OFFERED For Information About Dead Cat. A couple who recently moved from 417A Butler Avenue are offering a $300 reward for information that will lead to the apprehension of the person they claim shot and killed their seven-year-old cat.

A resident of Butler Avenue called Township police last Tuesday to report a dead cat that was found in some bushes some 50 yards from where the owners, Stephen Dewhurst and Sarah Hewins had lived. Police said it had been dead for a few days.

The owners said that their all-white female cat Montana had been reported missing since the night of April 27. Ptl. Howard Sweeney, who investigated, found a small hole on the left side of the cat surrounded by black and blue markings and a blood spot on the opposite side. "It appeared to be a bullet wound," Capt. Jack Petrone said.

Capt. Petrone added that police wanted to have the cat examined by a veterinarian to determine the exact cause of death but the owners wanted the cat buried.

Mr. Dewhurst commented that he believed their cat was killed by some kid with a gun and he was hopeful that whoever was guilty would be found and have the gun taken away from him. "We want to make sure this doesn't continue," he said. Mr. Dewhurst and his wife moved to Bound Brook the weekend after the cat was lost.

Anyone with any information about the incident is urged to call Mr. Dewhurst at 201-271-0765 during the day or 201-522-6083 in the evening. If it leads to an arrest and conviction, the caller can claim the $300 reward.

As far as the police know, the cat is still buried and nothing new has developed, Capt. Petrone said Tuesday. He said that if anyone in the area has a rifle, police want to find out who it is. No one as yet, he concluded, has reported hearing a rifle shot.

DRIVER IS CHARGED After Motor Vehicle Stop. An East Windsor resident, Foster E. Valentine, 40, has been charged with giving false information and driving an unsafe car, after his car was stopped early Thursday morning by Borough police.

Sgt. Ronald Holliday and Ptl. Anthony Federico stopped Valentine's car at 1:57 for driving erratically on Nassau Street near Washington Road. It was later found to have a leaky gas tank and noisy muffler.

The officers wanted to make a computer check of the driver and his passenger with the National Crime Information Center, but the Borough computer terminal was not working at the time.

During their investigation, however, the officers noticed a green complaint summons on the front seat of the car. When asked about it, Valentine replied that he had been arrested earlier in East Windsor for giving false information in connection with a crime. Police asked him for his Social Security number to make a check later with the NCIC, issued Valentine a summons for driving an unsafe vehicle and released him.

Two hours later the terminal in Borough headquarters was back on line. A check of Valentine's social security number came back a hit. He was wanted on a warrant charging him with assault and bribing a witness in Suffolk County, N.Y.

On the basis of the warrant information they received, Borough police notified East Windsor police who went to Valentine's house and arrested him. A search of the house uncovered his correct social security number, leading to the false information charge.

Valentine is scheduled to appear in Borough Court May 16.

Deserter Flushed. Twenty-one-year-old Anthony A. Cohen of Plainfield was being held in Borough Jail Tuesday as an alleged deserter from the U.S. Navy.

Cohen was one of a group of men surrounding a disabled van on Murray Place when they were approached by Ptl. Federico at 1:47 Tuesday morning. They told him they were from Plainfield, had gotten lost and their van had broken down. Ptl. Federico got identification from each and ran a computer check on each name.

Cohen's name revealed that he was a deserter. Police are holding him until he is picked up by the military Shore Patrol.

Fishermen Charged. An 18-year-old resident of Route 27 and a 14-year-old Kendall Park juvenile were arrested early last week by Township police and charged with two offenses.

Tracy Salomon, 18, was charged with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana and faces a June 12 hearing in Township court; the juvenile was charged with possession of a weapon — a .177 caliber air rifle — and later released in the custody of Salomon.

Ptl. Anthony Gaylord on patrol at 1:55 in the morning had stopped to check out a car parked on the old Princeton-Kingston Road Bridge. There was no one inside but the officer noticed a rifle lying underneath the car.

A further investigation revealed that the two occupants had been fishing in the nearby Raritan Canal just over the South Brunswick Township line. Ptl. Gaylord found a metal pipe with burned vegetation believed to be marijuana in Salomon's possession and a pack of cigarette rolling papers. The youth was charged with unlawful possession of the air rifle.

FLASHER IS SOUGHT By Township Police. A driver who stopped and exposed himself last week to a woman pushing a baby cart on McCosh Circle is being sought by Township police. It was the second such incident in the area in a week.

The suspect is described as a black male who was driving a large, old, noisy car which may have had a defective muffler. It had two-tone metallic paint, possibly green, lighter on top.

The victim, a resident of the university-owned Butler housing tract off Harrison Street, told police later that she had become concerned when the same car circled her several times. She went with her baby cart into a little cove area, waited, and then crossed Harrison and walked to McCosh when the car appeared again.

The driver, she said, motioned for her to cross the street and as she did so, he exposed himself, remaining in the car. The investigation is being continued by the Township detective bureau.

WAGGING TAIL BLAMED In Couch Fire. A dog with a wagging tail is the suspect in a fire that destroyed a couch in a fire Saturday at the home of Mrs. Ann Allen, 78 Clover Lane.

Mrs. Allen told police later that she had been sitting on the couch in the family room around 7 p.m. smoking a cigarette. Her dog came by and his tail struck the lighted ash, knocking it to the couch. Mrs. Allen searched for the piece of ash but could not locate it.

Almost two hours later at 8:47 she noticed the couch was burning and called police. Sgt. Mario Musso responded and with the aid of firemen carried the couch from the house. It was a total loss.

Car Fire. While Harry M. Tinsman of Trenton was driving on Cherry Hill Road early Friday afternoon, his car ran out of gas. After getting some gas, he raised the hood of his car and tried to remove the gas filter, spilling, police said, gas on the still hot engine in the process.

The gas ignited and caused some damage to the engine compartment and hood of Mr. Tinsman's 1978 sedan. Sgt. Musso, the Township's traffic safety officer, responded and put out the blaze with his patrol car extingusisher.

SHOULDER BAG STOLEN In Front of Market. An Olden Lane resident lost $125 Monday when she left her blue Sportsac shoulder bag for ten minutes in a shopping cart in front of Davidson's Market on Nassau Street. Inside was her wallet containing the $125 plus an estimated 30 to 40 credit cards.

The locked car of a Plainsboro resident was broken into last week while it was parked for 50 minutes in the YMCA lot. The victim lost a beige handbag containing a wallet with $45, a brief case, calculator, makeup kit and tape measure. Police added that a $40 cassette player had been torn from the dashboard and a voltage regulator removed. Total loss amounted to $190. Police believe a coat hanger found in the car was used to open the inside door lock.

A 10-speed Fuji bicycle valued at $200 was stolen overnight from the front porch of a Wiggins Street home. Also taken was a combination lock and cable. Police said the cable lock had been passed through the wheels but not secured to a fixed object.

Township police report that Irene Andress, a Margate resident, discovered her wallet containing $100 was missing from her purse last week when she went to pay for a card in a Nassau Street store. Police said the victim had visited several stores before discovering the theft.

VW IS OVERTURNED

On Prospect Avenue. A 1982 Volkswagen was turned over on its side by vandals between 4:04 and 5:18 Saturday morning and left in the middle of Prospect Avenue.

Police said that oil had leaked from the engine and they called a wrecker to help right it and tow it away. There were small dents left in the door and fender on the driver's side.

Police, in checking the New York license plate and student registration, were able to determine that the car was owned by the father of a university student.

The vinyl top of a 1979 Lincoln was cut and its trunk and hood dented while it was parked between 10:30 Sunday and 8 the next morning in a Redding Circle lot. Police said the owner, identified as Romney Taylor, 28, of Hollow Road, Skillman, discovered the damage when he came out to the car in the morning. There was no estimate to the amount of the damage.

A Wiggins Street resident told Borough police last week that during the past year she has found eight to ten darts stuck in the rear porch siding of her house.

Captain John J. Bellow described the darts as having a metal shaft with a plastic bead — the same type used in a blow gun. Police, he said, have no suspects.

DRIVERS ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Ten Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough traffic court.

Fined $60 each by Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. were Ronald P. Tobia, 85 Route 206, Belle Mead; Ronald G. Cella, 2143 Princeton Pike, Lawrenceville, illegal backing or turning in street; Florence S. Hagadorn, 80 Alexander Street, stop sign; Irving F. Schuessler, 102 Main Street, Kingston, speeding, and James B. Heffern, 13 Grandview Avenue, Lawrenceville, careless driving. Mr. Heffern was also fined $40 for leaving the scene of an accident and Mr. Schuessler an additional $20 for unregistered vehicle. Neeraj Sinia, 24-10 Pheasant Hill Road, Plainsboro, paid $70 for speeding.

Others: Hugo F. Sonnenschein, 25 Campbelton Circle, $25, failure to yield to a pedestrian at an intersection; and Michael P. Byrne, 44 Vandeventer Avenue, and John Chester Johnson, 32 Wood Hollow Road, Lawrenceville, $25 and $20, failure to have inspection.

In Township Court last week, Nicole St. Juste, 216 Witherspoon Street, was fined $25 for no license or registration in possession. Charles Cherris of Princeton was also fined $25 by Judge Sydney Souter for failure to yield while entering a private driveway.

GIFT ITEMS AVAILABLE

At Lane of Shops. A Jazzy Fete '84 to benefit Princeton Medical Center will be held Saturday, June 9 from 9 to 6 on the Washington Road fields in West Windsor Township.

Sharing one of the large tents will be the Lane of Shops, three specialty areas offering a wide variety of new merchandise, much of it handcrafted and home made. Connie Frazee, chairman of the Lane, says it is "the place to go for unique Father's Day, wedding and graduation gifts."

The Louisiana Purchase Boutique, headed by Monica Pyle and Gisela Santini, offers an array of crafts from near and far, including dolls, stuffed animals and nursery decorations, Christmas tree ornaments, decorations, and the Auxiliary's own holiday greeting card. Buttons with the Fete logo will be personalized while you wait.

Robin Bonanno and Mary Ellen Solomon have stocked the Cajun Kitchen with homemade jams, relishes and breads. Once again available are pre-packaged seasoning mixes and gourmet mustard, while a new feature is a selection of choice fresh fruit.

Basin Street Bags and Baskets chairmen Iris Brenner and Linda Stone have assembled an array of baskets — some empty, some filled — including new decorator and collectible basketry. For the home, there are wastebaskets, mirrors, vanity and bath accessories. Nestled inside the baskets are candies, potpourri, baby bath items, and African violets. In addition, children's and women's pocketbooks, gift bags, and purse fittings are available.

Scattered throughout the Lane of Shops will be "Top Hat Specials," many of which are priced for children to buy as Father's Day gifts. Shopping bags are provided free with most purchases.

ABOUT ADOLESCENTS...

Parents Invited. Summer is coming, and the particular problems that can arise between parents and adolescent children during summer vacation will be explored at a meeting next Thursday, May 24 from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in the Princeton Township courtroom (above the police station), Route 206 and Valley Road.

Sharon Powell and Selden Illick, family counselors, will lead the discussion. The gathering is a follow-up to the "stress" series held in February and Dr. Powell and Ms. Illick are calling the evening "Building Healthy Parent-Adolescent Relationships: Enjoying the Summer Together." The objective, the counselors say, is to help parents develop new approaches to handling conflicts.

Sponsors are the Parents Council of the Greater Princeton Area, Corner House, the Family Service Agency and the private group of professionals, to which the two leaders belong, called Princeton Psychological Associates.

All parents of students of middle or high school age are invited to attend. There will be no charge. Parents are asked to call Corner House, 924-8018 by Monday, May 21 if they are interested in participating.

RUSSELL TO PLANNERS

Baltzer Also. Two applications familiar to the Planning Board are once again on the board's agenda. The meeting is a work session scheduled for this Thursday at 7:30 in the Valley Road Building. Applications are those of Springland Associates, Inc. to develop the Russell estate on Edgerstoune, and Russell Baltzer's plans for the Albert Salzman property on Montadale Drive. (A letter relating to the Springland application appears in "Mailbox," page 14).

Although public hearings on the Springland application have been closed, neighbors of the project are expected to ask the board to re-open the hearings, saying they have new information.

Traffic is expected once again to be a chief concern of neighbors. The state's Department of Transportation has turned down requests for a second traffic light on Route 206 at the intersection of 206 with Springland's proposed new road. DOT staff met to discuss the signal with Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund — who sits on the Planning Board as Borough mayor — and representatives of the neighbors, the developer and the Township engineer's office.

Although the board had denied Mr. Baltzer's application, it has agreed to reconsider; however, the application is far down on Thursday's long agenda and may have to be heard at another time.

MAY 25 IS DATE

For Memorial Day Parade. The annual Memorial Day Parade, sponsored by American Legion Posts 76 and 218, will be held next Friday, May 25. The parade will originate at Princeton Avenue at 7 p.m. and march up Nassau Street to Borough Hall.

There, next to the Washington Battle Monument, ceremonies will be held, including Massing of the Colors and addresses by Princeton Mayors Barbara Sigmund and Winthrop Pike and New Jersey American Legion Department Commander Michael Pastuzyn.

There will also be music by the Black Watch and Lambertville Drum and Bugle Corps. The Post 76 Firing Squad under the direction of Captain Jack Adams and a bugler Kevin Brennan will participate during the placing of a Memorial Wreath. A prayer and benediction by The Rev. John Galvin of St. Paul's Church will conclude the ceremonies.

Next Sunday, the 27th, the Post 76 firing squad will participate in a Military Mass at St. Paul's Cemetery at 9:30 a.m. Post 218 will conduct brief ceremonies at the main flag pole in the Princeton Cemetery on Witherspoon Street near the caretaker's cottage.

Members of the two Legion Posts will place more than 1,300 American flags at all veteran's graves in the Princeton area.

LOST AND FOUND

Tale of a Golf Cart. It sounds more like a 19th hole story but Borough police claim this is what happened to a $1,500 electric golf cart at the Springdale Golf Club.

Last Sunday, the cart had been submerged in water up to its seats when it plunged into a 10th hole water hazard located behind the old Princeton Inn. Capt. John Bellow commented that the cart had been driven accidentally into the lake or perhaps the driver had failed to set the handbrake. In any event the cart ended up in the water.

It remained there five days. When the groundskeepers went to retrieve it Friday morning, it was gone. Between then and 7 the previous night, some enterprising individual had pulled it from the lake, Capt. Bellow said.

Later on Friday, police received a report that the missing cart had been found -- undamaged — near the taxi stand at the "Dinky Station" on lower University Place. It was returned to the Springdale Club.

Zoo Comes to You

A talking macaw — vocabulary unknown — a lop-eared rabbit, a creepy boa constrictor, a porcupine and even a chinchilla will be in town Tuesday afternoon (2-4 p.m.) courtesy H. Gross of One Palmer Square.

It's the Zoo on Wheels from the Philadelphia Zoo, and it will be right there on Palmer Square for, as the saying goes, children of all ages.

The animals will be in cases on tables in front of the store. You can pet some of them — not sure about the porcupine, but certainly the lop-eared rabbit — and ask questions of the teacher from the Philadelphia Zoo who will be chaperone. All free, of course.

RESIDENTS TO JOIN

In Earle Demonstration. The Campaign Against Nuclear Weapons in New Jersey, a statewide coalition of peace groups, will picket outside the gates of the Earle Weapons Station in Leonardo on Saturday from 1 to 3 to call for the removal of nuclear weapons from the base. A number of Princeton area residents who are active in the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament will take part.

The Campaign charges that nuclear weapons are stored at Earle. Though Department of Defense policy is to neither confirm nor deny the presence of nuclear weapons at any military installation, Stan Norris, a weapons analyst at the Center for Defense Information in Washington, D.C., has estimated that there are about 150 nuclear weapons currently stored at Earle. Captain James T. Bush, a retired Navy officer and associate director of the Center for Defense Information, said, "There's no doubt in my mind that Earle is used for nuclear arms."

The Center asserts that the following weapons are among those stored at Earle: D-57 lightweight nuclear depth charges, D-43 medium-weight nuclear bombs, B-28 heavy nuclear bombs, B-83 medium-weight high-yield nuclear bombs, and W-81 missile warheads.

Michael Robertson of Princeton, an organizer of the May 19 demonstration, points out that storing these weapons in the midst of the New York-New Jersey metropolitan region could trigger a nuclear accident that could kill thousands of people and endanger the health of millions more for years to come. He says the purpose of the demonstration is to make the people of New Jersey "aware that our government is 'protecting' us by placing nuclear weapons in our midst."

We will call for the United States to remove nuclear weapons from New Jersey — where nuclear bombs have evidently been stored for some time — and from Europe, where the cruise and Pershing II missiles have just been installed. Both are places where nuclear missiles invite attack and contribute nothing to security.

"We also ask that the nuclear facilities that sap our economy be converted to peaceful uses that can aid human needs," he said.

REGISTER FOR CLASSES

In New PAA Studios. The former gymnasium behind Borough Hall has been re-christened "45 Stockton Street" and is now ready to be used for art classes by the Princeton Art Association.

Registration for the summer semester has begun and will continue through Friday, May 25 at the present PAA studios on Rosedale Road for those wishing to register in person. Mail registration will be accepted at any time.

There will be three sessions: June 3-29; July 8-August 3 and August 5-31. An Art Camp for children from seven to 12 will be held during July.

Young artists may also choose from Young Art (ages 4-6); Picture This (ages 6-10) or Environmental Design (9-14).

In the Art Camp, Eva Kaplan will give three hours of instruction per day for five consecutive days. From July 9-13, the focus will be on painting and drawing; from July 16-20, on sculpture and from July 23-27, on crafts. The cost is $45 per week for PAA members, $49 for non-members.

Included in the offerings for adults is a new class, "Pen and Ink: Approaches and Techniques," to be offered by Fred Kraus in the June session.

Other adult classes will be given by Elizabeth Ruggles and Stephen Kennedy (painting); Jacques Fabert and Ms. Ruggles (drawing); Linda Lombardi (beginning and advanced watercolor) and John Carbone (sculpture). In July, Elizabeth Monath will offer an off-campus workshop called "First Steps in Art."

Details are available from the PAA at 921-9173.

GOT A MUSTANG?

Show Planned. The "first annual" Mustang and Old Ford Car Show will be held this Saturday by the Central Jersey Mustang Club at Nassau Conover Motors, State Road.

The show will be from 9 to 3:30. Registration forms may be obtained in advance from Nassau Conover, or at the show on Saturday. Rain date is Sunday. For weather information, call 921-6400.

WINNERS LISTED

First prize in the color category, which was $50 in merchandise of the winner's choice, went to J. Ward Kuser of Princeton. Second and third prizes ($25 and $15) went to Paul Weiner of Princeton and Vince Walsh of Trenton. Honorable mentions in the color category were Nan Socolow of Princeton and Philip B. Taft Jr. of Pennington.

First place in the black and white category ($50 in merchandise of the winner's choice) went to Jeffery D. Peterson of Princeton University. Second and third prizes were awarded to Carol

Township Introduces New Ordinance With Intention to Regulate Jogging

Mindful of hazards to joggers from cars, particularly at dusk, Township Committee wants to regulate jogging on Township roads.

An ordinance listing five jogging regulations was introduced on first reading Monday night. The public hearing prior to final adoption will be held Monday, June 4, during a regular Committee meeting. Meetings begin at 8 p.m. and are held in the Valley Road Building at the end of Witherspoon Street.

If the ordinance is adopted, joggers in the Township must run facing traffic. They must run on the sidewalk or bikepath wherever one is provided. They must wear reflective material "during hours of darkness" — defined as any time from one half hour after sunset to one half hour before sunrise, or when there is poor visibility.

In addition, joggers must run single file, and they must not wear headphones or any other ear covering while running. Under the ordinance, police could issue summonses for non-compliance, appearance in municipal court would be required, and violators would be subject to general penalties as provided by the Township code.

Mayor Winthrop S. Pike expressed some reservation about adopting such an ordinance, saying that in his experience, "attempting to prevent people from their own foolishness is often futile." Nevertheless he voted for the measure, as did every member of Committee.

Armstrong of Princeton and Barbara S. Berger of Hopewell. Honorable mentions were Laura Goldfeld of Princeton and M. Jay Goodkind of New Hope.

Judges for the contest, which was open to all amateur photographers, were Elton Pope-Lance, Margaret Morgan Fisher, and Tobey Richards.

POPPY DAY PLANNED

By Legion Auxiliary. The Ladies Auxiliary of American Legion Unit 76 urges the public to "Buy a Poppy, Wear a Poppy" in tribute to all who died in the armed forces in past wars. The Auxiliary will be selling poppies during the week of May 20.

In the spring of 1919, amidst the devastation of World War I, poppies bloomed in abundance on the battlefields of France. A replica of this poppy has become the memorial flower of the American Legion and the Auxiliary. The red crepe poppies with the black center are made by disabled veterans in veteran homes and hospitals, and they are sold by the Auxiliary to raise money for Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation.

CRAFTS FAIR DUE

In Kingston. The Kingston Crafts Fair will be held Saturday from 9 to 4 on Main Street, Kingston.

Sponsored by the Kingston Business and Professional Association, it will offer ceramics, glass, wooden objects, fiber and other items. The rain date will be Sunday.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT

For Voter Canvass. Princeton residents who wish to take part in the East Windsor neighborhood canvass for the Freeze Voter 84 campaign on Sunday, are asked to meet at 12:45 at Christ Congregation Church on Walnut Lane, across from Westminster Choir College.

Car pools will be formed there and workers will be back in Princeton before 5. David Madole is coordinator for Princeton for the Freeze Voter Canvasses.

Freeze Voter 84 is a political action committee formed by the National Freeze Campaign. Its purpose is to sign up voters to a pledge that candidates' positions on a bilateral verifiable freeze on nuclear weapons "will be a key determining factor in how I vote in 1984." Those who sign will be kept informed of candidates' views on nuclear arms issues throughout the election campaign period.

Previous neighborhood canvasses in Princeton and East Windsor, carried out once in March and again in April, have had considerable success, Mr. Madole said. Some 77 canvassers from both communities have taken part in the efforts, and they have covered 3,644 households. Of these, they have succeeded in talking to 2,026 individuals and signed up 1,155.

The Freeze Voter 84 organization will continue to conduct canvasses monthly from now until the November election, in their effort to make a bilateral, verifiable freeze on nuclear weapons a major issue in the presidential and congressional elections.

YWCA LISTS PROGRAMS

For Summer Session. Registration for YWCA programs will begin on Monday.

Adult Department summer offerings will include programs on the home computer, decorating with art and accessories, canning and freezing, natural cooking, vacation planning, and miniature making. An herb workshop - luncheon will cover planting, harvesting, and drying herbs as well as their culinary and ornamental use. "Place in the Family" will provide the participant

Where's Your Loyalty?
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter I have sent to the Regional Planning Board of Princeton.

How is it possible for you, the Regional Planning Board of Princeton, to arrive at any decision concerning the proposed exits and entrances of the Springland Development Association of the Russell tract, unless you, each member of this board, views the concerned sites?

You should clearly understand, by now (even though our Edgerstoune Area Association has never had "the floor", on April 12th or May 1st, and who know the outcome on May 17th, to present fairly, as promised, our position) that the E.A.A. is in no way opposed to the development of the 84 acres of the Russell estate. We have endeavored to present constructive suggestions throughout these negotiations.

At a recent meeting of the Edgerstoune Area Association, it was felt that half a dozen or so houses exiting via the present Russell estate driveway to Edgerstoune Road would be acceptable.

Our existing neighborhood of 98 homes, our way of living, and our very lives should not be jeopardized by additional traffic from Springland Development Association. Edgerstoune Road is very narrow. At all hours of the day and evening, residents of this presently existing area and Hun School students walk and jog and bicycle. Will it take a fatality to bring this to your attention?

It was presumed that you, the Regional Planning Board of Princeton, were elected to further the rights of the taxpaying homeowners. It seems questionable wherein your loyalty lies!

KATHARINE B. STRONG
Member of the Edgerstoune Area Association

Borough Responsibility?
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Borough Council has voted not to contribute to the cost of defending the Township and Planning Board in the suit brought by Calton Homes.

With all due respect, how can the Borough avoid such responsibility when it was the decision of the joint body (which includes Borough appointees) that prompted the lawsuit?

Since there is still much undeveloped land in the Township, and we can anticipate many more such lawsuits, does this establish a precedent?

If the Borough separates itself from this matter financially, perhaps now is the ideal time to "de-joint" the Planning Board. Township Taxpayers will then be able to make our own decisions, determine our own destiny and create our own lawsuits.

We Shall Miss Erling Dorf.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

With the death of Erling Dorf, the Princeton Adult School has lost a devoted teacher and friend. Professor Dorf taught at the Adult School for the past 30 years.

His series of three courses in Geology were always very popular, and he encouraged many of his students to continue their study on his famous summer trips. At the time of his death, Professor Dorf was planning for another semester at the Adult School. He had already turned in his course materials for the fall term.

We shall miss him.

Women's Sports.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

As I was reading your May 2nd issue, keeping an eye out for your write-up on Princeton Women's Softball's successful defense of the Ivy League Title, I realized that there were no write-ups of Princeton University Women's sports in the entire issue.

I gather, after checking a few back issues, that although men's and boy's teams at all levels, and girl's high school teams are newsworthy, university level women's teams are not. This, inspite of the fact that, overall, the women's teams have been quite a bit more successful than the men's teams; the capture and defense of several Ivy League titles by the women's teams in the past few years has certainly been something to write about.

On the face of it, your editorial decision to omit coverage of women's sports seems to reflect not only lack of editorial acumen, but also bias against women.

I, and other women's sports fans, would appreciate an explanation regarding the basis of this editorial policy.

ELISABETH A. LLOYD

Editor's Note: Limitations imposed by time and space do not permit coverage of every athletic team in Princeton on the high school and college level. Preference is given to covering as many high school teams as possible, both boy's and girl's. At the University level, those drawing the most spectators from the town such as football, men's basketball, hockey, baseball and lacrosse are covered. This eliminates many other men's sports as well as women's. However, women's ice hockey has been written about during the past three seasons.

Thanks, from Red Cross.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

On behalf of Youth Services of the American Red Cross, Princeton Area Chapter, I want to thank the manager and the merchants of the Princeton Shopping Center for their assistance and support of the Art Poster Contest held in late March.

This contest was sponsored by the Red Cross High School Council, who are all members of Youth Services. It was held in commemoration of March as Red Cross Month as declared by President Reagan.

To all of the store owners who posted the artwork and to the merchants who contributed prizes, we thank you. Your efforts certainly made the contest a successful activity.

Needlework by Princeton Embroiderers Guild Displayed at Battlefield Park's Clarke House

Those who admire handwork, and those who take pleasure in an exhibit that is particularly suited to its setting, would do well to take in the last few days of the needlework exhibit currently on display at the Thomas Clarke House on the Princeton Battlefield Park.

Sponsored by the Princeton Chapter, Embroiderers' Guild of America, the exhibit will remain on view through Sunday. Hours are Wednesday through Saturday from 10 to 12 and 1 to 6, and on Sunday from 1 to 6. More than 100 pieces of very fine needlework in a variety of kinds by some 38 exhibitors have been tastefully arranged around and over and alongside the equally fine 17th century furnishings of Clarke House. Each enhances the other.

Although this is the 4th Biennial Needlework Exhibition of the Princeton Chapter, EGA, it is the first in Princeton. Previous exhibits have been in the art exhibition space of Rider College, which was not available to the group this year. Rider's loss is Princeton's gain.

To make the occasion all the more noteworthy, members presented a crewel work firescreen for Drumthwacket to Mrs. Thomas Kean, wife of the New Jersey governor, on the opening day of the exhibition. Designed by Muriel Bishop, Chapter founder, teacher and mentor to whom the exhibit is dedicated, the firescreen was a two-year project and the work of some 12 EGA members. It depicts the Mercer Oak with the state bird — the goldfinch — perched in its boughs and the state flower — the violet — below.

Still another special project completed in time for the exhibit is a banner made up of 24 squares alternating the Mercer Oak, the goldfinch and the violet. All are done in different forms of needlework; a goldfinch worked in shades of silk embroidery looks very different from the very same bird in cross stitch or blackwork, the viewer discovers. The result is a sampler of needlework techniques.

In fact, the whole exhibit is an education to the uninitiated in just how many different types of needlework come under the aegis of an Embroiderers' Guild. "Anything that uses a needle with an eye," is the way chapter chairman Gloria Westlake puts it. Which eliminates knitting and crochet but includes crewel and canvas (which some still refer to as needlepoint) and such imports as Hardanger (a type of white work from Norway), Mountmellick work (from Ireland), pulled work (from many countries), shadow work (India), and Brazilian embroidery. Patchwork, counted cross stitch, Bargello and mixed media are also represented.

Show Was Juried. Two jurors, one of whom is a national past president of the Embroiderers' Guild, came to jury the exhibition, and every piece was accepted. This attests to the high quality of the work, and each of the 38 exhibitors will receive a certificate.

In fact, the purpose of the Guild is to "foster the highest standards of excellence in the practice of the art of embroidery through an active program of education and study." Guild members attend workshops and take correspondence courses to learn new techniques and improve their skills. An upstairs room in the exhibit displays work underway in a correspondence course in multi-media using metallic thread, for example.

Another room is devoted soley to the work of Muriel Bishop, Chaptor mentor and teacher to whom the exhibit is dedicated. Mrs. Bishop is a Princeton resident, wife of the former Methodist bishop for this area, who learned her needlework at Art School and the Royal School of Needlework in her native England. A bedspread embroidered while she was a student at the Royal School is the centerpiece of this room.

Mrs. Bishop began teaching in this country shortly after her arrival in 1958 and was responsible for bringing over such needlework luminaries as Erica Wilson. In northern New Jersey she founded the first American chapter of the British Embroiderers' Guild, which still exists as the Garden State Chapter. When she came to Princeton in the 1970s and taught a course at the Historical Society, her students urged her to start a chapter here. The Princeton Chapter, formed in 1976, currently has some 90 to 100 members.

"Some of the women are excellent technicians," comments Mrs. Westlake. "They also sew beautifully. Others have a flair for design and color and are very creative." The group meets at All Saints' Church to hear lectures and presentations; it held a boutique and tea in November to raise money for the Drumthwacket firescreen.

The design of that piece was by Mrs. Bishop, and indeed one sees the imprint of Muriel Bishop in workshop designs and inspiration as a common thread running through the exhibit. "That lady has forgotten more than the rest of us will ever know," sighs Penny Archer, who headed the exhibit committee. Particularly skilled in whitework and in crewel, Mrs. Bishop can and does teach every form of needlework. Most EGA certified teachers only teach one specialty, Mrs. Westlake explains.

Marigolds Too. The Thomas Clarke House exhibit is also enlivened by floral arrangements by the Central Jersey Chapter of the Marigold Society of America. One thinks of marigolds as late summer bloomers, but there are a number of unusual colors and varieties spotted around the show in period containers.

But the star attractions are the wall hangings, table runners, bell pulls, pictures in crewel, footstools, patchwork quilts, pillows, blouses and handbags in more different kinds of needlework than the ordinary person would imagine. "We're not little old ladies who crochet doilies," Mrs. Westlake remarks. Indeed not; this is an exhibit of artwork.

CENTER FOR CYCLING

At Jay's Cycles. There is a flurry of activity at 249 Nassau Street this spring, where cyclists of all ages are gathering to hear about, view and test the latest models in touring, all-terrain and racing bikes now on the market. Jay's Cycles boasts the "finest selection in town" with highest standards of excellent service and sales of the Raleigh, Trek, Fuji, Univega, Shogun and Ross cycles in the area.

Jay Mironov, who took over the business seven years ago from his father, Nathan, is definitely encouraged by the response of the Princeton community to his shop and the services which it renders.

"We have more space and man and woman power than anyone around — five full-time mechanics who know all aspects of bicycles because they tour themselves, and Karen Yates, who plans tours for our customers. She is going on her second cross-country trip this summer," explains Jay, whose clientele hails from all over this state.

Because the location of Jay's Cycle is so convenient for parking and well situated for visitors to Princeton, many people simply drive by on business or pleasure and later stop in to buy a bike, according to the owner. More than 160 bicycles are on display, while over 1,000 are in stock for immediate delivery.

Great Selection. "Business is great, I can't believe how good it is this year. We sold a number of bikes for Mother's Day and look forward to graduations and Father's Day gifts," says Jay with enthusiasm, as he walks through his shop where the shining new bikes are neatly arranged on the floor and on higher racks for easy viewing. The large selection of multi-speed bicycles, BMX dirt bikes, and the smaller bikes for children from the reasonably priced models to the top of the line ones, affords customers an educated choice.

"Just give us your price range and we'll fix you up with the best bicycle for the money," says Jay, who has lowered the prices of last year's models by a substantial amount. Taking advantage of these bargains and rebates offered by companies such as Raleigh, which can be as much as $50, might make a long-awaited purchase possible.

Jay's Cycles, whose expertise in retailing bicycles in Princeton goes back to 1944, has witnessed many changes in the industry in recent years. The advanced technology of the Japanese in manufacturing bikes has resulted in better quality for less money, according to Jay, who is pleased to see better workmanship and the superior features which had previously been limited to professional racing and touring bikes available on those designed for everyday use. Now youngsters who will receive their first small ten-speed will be getting top performance from their treasured bike, thus encouraging their interest in serious touring later on.

An example of a fine Japanese product in the shop is the Shogun 400, a terrific buy at $270, with all of the standard features plus two release wheels, a 24-pound frame, and a better crank. "This bike is hot; you'll get more for your money with this one," says the shop's owner.

The 1984 Fujis, which begin at $210, are lighter and stronger this year with aluminum wheels and alloy frames similar to those made by other companies. Jay is also impressed with the American-made Trek bikes, 18-speeders for long-distance touring, beginning at $300. Trek bikes are colorful this year in a red and yellow combination that catches the eye.

Many Raleigh Models. Raleigh, still one of the most respected names in bicycle manufacturing, has models ranging from $165 to $689 in price at Jay's. This company's success dates back 100 years. Models include "wild strawberries" which often appeals to girls, and sturdy, reliable dirt bikes beginning with 16-inch wheels. There are "mini mounties" available for the budding adventurer who has already discovered the mountain all-terrain bicycles which have become so popular for city and country living. Ross makes a fine line of all-terrain models.

Jay Mironov, who stays in shape by pumping iron at Nautilus and exerdancing, does a bit of touring himself. He recently participated in New York's five-borough race and came in among the first 1000 of 25,000 participants.

For those who have to stay home for their exercise routine, the Ross exercycle is the perfect answer. At 72 pounds with a 20-pound fly wheel, the smooth, quiet cycle is a good buy and excellent gift for $250. Jay's will deliver and offers to come to the customer's house for any necessary repairs. Thus far there have been no such requests because the Ross's performance is so good.

Gear for the seasoned cyclist or the budding enthusiast is found aplenty at Jay's Cycles, which stocks clothing by Castelli, Bellweather, and other international manufacturers, BENETTON PUTS IT ALL TOGETHER: The new Palmer Square shop (at Number 7) is managed by Jay and Abby Goldfarb (left), who are showing Claudette Adams, marketing director for Collins Development, how to put an outfit together. bags, racks, helmets, gloves, and the all-important safety locks.

Two different brands of automobile bike racks, by Thule and Bic, are marvelous, easy-to-install designs, neither heavy nor cumbersome, a boon to those who pack the car for summer vacation!

A thoughtful graduation or Father's Day gift might be one of the hundreds of biking bags sold at the shop. Back and front carriers of all sizes, shapes and colors and backpacks are durable and well designed. In the clothing department, Jay recommends polypropylene tights, shorts, and shirts which will breathe and withstand rainy conditions. Bell helmets, a safety essential for all ages, begin at $37.

NEW CLOTHING SHOP

Benetton of Italy. There is good news in Palmer Square! A rainbow of strong vivid colors in sleek, contemporary, no-nonsense clothing for men and women offered by Benetton of Italy has been brought to Princeton by Mr. and Mrs. Jay Goldfarb of Yardley, Pa.

Refreshing and chic in style and texture, Benetton has taken the American sportswear scene by storm. During just a few short years the shop, which has been a favorite in Europe for a long time, has appeared in the best shopping areas throughout this country.

The Goldfarbs, who have both had considerable experience in the manufacturing of women's sportswear, own the shop here in Princeton which opened last week, and another in the Willow Grove Mall in Pennsylvania.

"We had heard great things about the company in Europe and its successful entrance into the American marketplace, and were so impressed with what they produce that we decided it woud be fun to open a shop here. Princeton has welcomed us with open arms. Everyone is so happy to see another kind of style in town," says Abby Goldfarb.

No Stranger to Town. Mrs. Goldfarb is no stranger in town. Her two daughters have been attending school here for several years. She somehow manages to keep up with their schedules, divide her time between the shops, care for her three-year-old son and still look terrific herself.

"It gets pretty hectic, but it is fun to introduce a product which is so well received. I love the quality of our clothes, the reasonable prices, and especially the fabulous colors," she explains.

Benetton's famous sweaters and tee shirts are unisex. There is something for everyone here. Husbands, babies, grandmothers, as well as clothes-conscious teenagers have been seen in the shop this week. Mrs. Goldfarb has sold the stunning sweaters, shirts, pants, and skirts to customers ranging in age from 11 to 74.

Clear vibrant colors, stripes and polka dots are trademarks of Benetton's clothes, presenting a fresh designer look which is current yet not too avant garde. The plain flat knit sweaters for which the Italians are so famous can be worn for any occasion. The unusual textures and patterns bring a breath of fresh air to Princeton, along with a contemporary line which is understated.

Comfortable Clothes. There is an emphasis here on big comfortable clothes, garments which will travel well and look chic all summer long. These are the kinds of clothes which one will reach for first in the closet, because of their easy comfort. Pull-on skirts in terrific prints, safari, Bermuda-length and short shorts, oversized tee shirts to be worn with pants or over bathing suits, fresh cotton pants in every color imaginable, and a selection of denim jeans which have a designer look to them will please the eye and the budget because the prices are fair.

Vests are important at Benetton. Linen-like ones look terrific with a straight short skirt or a full one, or with a pair of bright colored pants. The colors are meant to complement each other. What could be more attractive than a bright blue with a lemon yellow or fiery red with crisp cool white? The choices and combinations are endless at Benetton which claims to have "all the colors of the world."

The big cotton knit pullover, v-neck and cardigan sweaters are almost silky in feeling. They will look good casually tied around the shoulders or waist to ward off summer shore breezes. All-cotton Oxford button-down shirts and rugby shirts in many colorful stripes will be popular.

"This is traditional European clothing manufactured with quality and a special sense of fashion. The classic understated look is what makes Europeans so chic," says Mrs. Goldfarb, whose husband's company manufactures women's sportswear.

There is an upbeat youthful feeling about the shop in Palmer Square. The attractive sales staff are as enthusiastic about the clothes as the customers. Gift ideas here might include a handy beach bag in bright stripes which opens up into a toweled mat for sunning. Tee shirts beginning at $10, a leather wrap belt for $10 and another wrap one for only $6 are good values and handsome acessories. A brief all-cotton knit bikini in black, polka dots or stripes will fit into a small handbag for impromptu swims and sunning during the warm months.

Look for the new cotton jumpsuits, overalls, and a layered cotton skirt whose top layer can double as a bare sundress. You will like the new look for Princeton at Benetton.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

DOGWOOD DECLINE –

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Have you noticed area Dogwood trees? What may have been a happy healthy Dogwood last spring may not even be in bloom this year. Leaf spot and blight will be prevalent again this year due to excessive rainfall and cloudy skies.

Dogwood DECLINE was apparent throughout the Northeastern States again last year. Although numerous fungi have been isolated from declining trees most researchers agree that these organisms are only weak parasites. In most cases the main culprit has been environmental stress with extensive drought and severe winter weather during the past few years which is now taking its toll. For best results in the future remove dead branches and maintain optimum growing conditions to increase tree vigor through regular fertilization. Call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for all your tree care needs.

Why not take an hour out of your busy schedule to visit the flower show at Morven. Hosted by the Garden Club of Princeton and the Stony Brook Garden Club the show will be open to the public Wednesday, May 16 from 2 until 5 p.m. and Thursday May 17 from 10 til 2 p.m. There will be arrangements of fresh flowers designed by members of the Garden Club of America to grace superb early 19th century furniture from Philadelphia and England. Horticulture including topiary designs, flowering branches and scented leaf geraniums, will also be on display. The show promises to be a treat!

with the opportunity to look at how childhood experiences, attitudes and role in the family influenced their adult roles.

A trip to Philadelphia's Reading Terminal Market with Irinia Smith and Felicity Taormina, authors of "To Market To Market," a book of recipes and guide to the Market, will round out Adult Department activities.

The Health Physical Education and Recreation Department will present a full complement of dance, exercise, self defense, and aquatics classes for all ages and levels of experience. Dance classes will include ballet, jazz and break dancing for children and adults. Yoga for men and women, early morning, noon time, and aerobic exercise classes will also be offered. Aquatics programs will include an arthritis swim therapy program, and an advanced Red Cross Lifesaving review class. A free class on backyard pool safety will be presented in June.

Summer offerings for preschoolers include a Musical Morning with Marjorie, Science in the Park and Morning in the Park. Summer Fun Club for 2½ - 4 year-olds is a three day a week program featuring arts and crafts, music, games, and indoor - outdoor play.

Grade school children have the opportunity to learn basic skills and develop self-confidence in "Home Alone." For those who enjoy the arts, the YWCA is offering an Arts Workshop series and Theatre Arts workshops, as well as "Sketching Around Town," "Handcraft Summer Sampler," "The Joy of Singing," and "Writing for Fun."

The YWCA features four summer camps. The co-ed day camp features diverse activities for children in grades K-5 (as of current academic year). A variety of sports activities are offered in the sports camp for 6-12 year olds. Girls 11 -12 years have the opportunity to participate in arts and crafts, music, cooking, games, and trips in the Purple Butterfly Camp.

Summer Carousel is offered for 4-5 year olds. This diverse program is available mornings, afternoons, or all day. For 5-9 year olds looking for "just a little camp" the YWCA will offer a summer park program three mornings a week, June - August.

For further information call the YWCA, 924-5571. Brochures are available in the YWCA office. Bates Scholarship assistance is available for eligible women and children to participate in YWCA programs.

THREE SALES SET

To Boost Vienna '84. The best bargains will be at the last three Vienna '84 yard sales, set for this Saturday at 9 a.m.

To help Princeton High School's musicians enter an international competition, area residents have donated a ping pong table, a wing chair, a rocking chair, a wooden bench, snow tires, bicycles, a dressing table, mattresses in excellent condition and clothes in very good condition.

The sales will be at these Princeton locations: 559 Riverside, 439 Terhune Road and 2 Queenston Place. Prices will go down at 11:30 and from 12:30 to 1 you'll be able to "fill a bag for $1." Also on sale at the three sales will be jars of honey, donated by the Happer family.

Clothing which is not sold will be donated to the Crisis Ministry in Princeton and Trenton. There will be no rain date.

SEMINAR FOR DIABETICS

At Squibb. The Mercer County Chapter of the American Diabetes Association will present a one-day educational seminar for diabetics, their families and health care professionals Saturday, May 19.

"What's New in Living with Diabetes," a series of lectures, workshops and exhibits from a dozen pharmaceutical and medical equipment manufacturers, will be held at Squibb Corporation, route 206, from 9 to 2:45. Lectures by two prominent physicians who specialize in diabetes will highlight the program.

Dr. Leo P. Krall, director of education at the Joslin Diabetes Center in Boston, Mass. and president of the International Diabetes Association, will outline the latest advances in diabetes research. Dr. Richard A. Guthrie, professor and director of the Kansas Regional Diabetes Center and chairman of the Department

NAMED TO BOARD

Of Eden Institute. R. Norman Tottenham-Smith, former managing director, British Petroleum Medwest Ltd., has been appointed to the board of Trustees of the Eden Institute, a United Way Agency. Eden serves autistic children and young adults both educationally and residentially.

Mr. Tottenham-Smith also has held positions as president, BP Canada Limited, president, the British Petroleum Company of Canada Limited, president, BP Refinery Canada Limited; president, BP Exploration Canada Limited; and director, Triad Oil Company Limited.

LECTURE PLANNED

By Former Princetonian. "The Physics of Biological Memory" is the subject of a talk to be given at Princeton University by biophysicist John J. Hopfield Thursday at 8 in Room A-10 Jadwin Hall. The public is invited.

A former Princeton resident, Dr. Hopfield is the Roscoe Gilkey Dickinson Professor of Chemistry and Biology at the California Institute of Technology and a member of the technical staff at Bell Laboratories. He taught at the University of California at Berkeley before joining the Princeton faculty as a professor of physics in 1964 at the age of 31. In 1978 he was named to the Eugene Higgins Professorship in Physics at Princeton, where much of his early research and teaching dealt with solid state physics, also called condensed matter physics.

In 1980, Prof. Hopfield moved to Caltech. Last year he received a MacArthur Foundation Fellowship, which recognizes "exceptionally talented individuals" in a variety of fields of endeavor.

Prof. Hopfield became interested in the physics of biological systems in the early

Norman Tottenham-Smith

1970s and has made significant contributions in areas including the chemical kinetics of the oxygen carrying capacity of hemoglobin; kinetic proofreading of DNA, which involves understanding the machinery by which cells read or decode DNA and then repair errors that occur; and the theory of associative memory. The latter involves developing mathematical models that attempt to simulate the way in which memory works.

REUNION AT INSTITUTE

Two Talks Planned. A gathering of former members of the Institute for Advanced Study will be held at the Institute on May 17 and 18 to celebrate the Tenth Anniversary of the founding of the Association of Members of the Institute for Advanced Study (AMIAS).

This Association, now comprised of over 1500 members in 48 countries, was organized in 1974 to "encourage, foster, and support the scholarly work and interest of the Institute for Advanced Study and its members — past, present, and future." Major activities of AMIAS include biennial conferences at the Institute; contributions towards the support of the visiting members are made annually.

The speakers at this fifth biennial conference will be Dr. Herman H. Goldstine and Dr. Stephen Wolfram. Dr. Goldstine has been affiliated with the Schools of Historical Studies and Natural Sciences at the Institute for many years, and is presently the executive officer of the American Philosophical Society. Dr. Wolfram is a long-term member in the School of Natural Sciences at the Institute, and also a MacArthur Fellow.

Dr. Goldstine will speak on Thursday afternoon, May 17, on "The Institute for Advanced Study and the History of the Computer." Dr. Wolfram will speak on Friday morning, May 18, on "Cellular Automata: Complex Behavior from Simple Rules." The talks are open to the public.

For additional information, please call 921-2726.

CERTIFICATES AWARDED

To ESOL Students. Adult students representing a wide range of foreign countries and occupations received certificates at the close of the program in English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) at the Princeton Adult School.

There were 57 students from 23 countries on four continents. Japan led the group with 13 students, followed by West Germany with nine. Of special interest is the fact that Mrs. Vanda Pirone finished four years of studies, completing the most advanced class this spring. She came to the United States 13 years ago from Italy where she was a secretary. Wife of Antonio Pirone, a partner with CUH2A, architects, she has raised three children in Princeton.

The students and their countries of origin follow: ESOL I, Barbara Greenfeldt, teacher: Jocelyne Amaury, Genevieve Chabert, and Daniel Vannier, France; Monica Cessotto, Switzerland; Heeju Chang, Korea; Ewa Gozdz, Poland; Kyoko Hagiwara, Yoriko Iwano, and Etsuko Onuma, Japan; Norma Juarez, Mexico; Nouanchanh Phanthavong, Laos and Liliane Souza, Brazil.

ESOL II, Betty David, Teacher: Maria Rosa Baldino, Argentina; Geen-wen Cheng, Taiwan; Liliane DalPont, France; Rosa Enriquez, Guatemala; Erica Forrer and Ursula Morger, Switzerland; Katsumi Ida, Shin-ichi Ishida, Nobuko Kimura, Shizue Okamoto and Ayako Toda, Japan; Zivka Ilic, Yugoslavia; Ngoya Kasonga, Zaire; Samia Refai, Egypt, and Maria Antonietta Tomei, Italy.

ESOL Advanced, section A, Elinor Williams, teacher: Sau-Kwan Chu, Hong Kong; Christiane Henrich, Gerdi Kanzler, Daniela Krell, Anne Rogg, and Shadia Selmani, West Germany; Kazuo Iwano and Mamiko Takahashi, Japan; Malgorzata Kabala, Poland; Tilly Likumahuwa, Indonesia; Estela Meise, Mexico; Emilia Novacovici, Romania; Gloria Orellana, Guatemala; Jane Prujansky-Hak, Brazil, and Luciano Sturla, Italy.

ESOL Advanced, section B, Libby Shanefield, teacher: Pauliana Cheung, Hong Kong; Carina Erlandson-Wiklad and Margareta Hedberg, Sweden; Shlomit Galperin, Israel; Aleksandar Ilic, Yugoslavia; Junko Kawada, Michiko Nishimura, and Noriko Steiner, Japan; Irmgard Klein, Manfred Klein, Rudy Lucke, and Ingrid Steenken, West Germany; Vanda Pirone, Italy; Kulwant Singh, India, and Ilya Tyomkin, USSR.

WORKSHOP SUNDAY

On Conflict Resolution. Helene Oppenheimer of the Peace Education Project will lead a workshop on conflict resolution this Sunday from 2-5 at Nassau Presbyterian Church. She will offer strategies for resolving conflicts and share curriculum materials related to nuclear education that she has collected over the past two years. Ms. Oppenheimer's workshop will be free to members of Educators for Social Responsibility. There will be a $5 fee for non-members.

RARE BOOKS TOPIC

Of Rocky Hill Talk. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a program on rare books with Michael Druck on Thursday, May 17 at 7:30.

Mr. Druck is a professional book appraiser and bibliographer from Cranbury. The public may bring one book for a free appraisal. Registration is required.

This program is free and open to the public. For further information and to register, call the library at 924-7073.

EDUCATION DAY SET

For Diabetics, Families. Diana W. Guthrie, diabetes nurse specialist at Kansas Regional Diabetes Center, will conduct a workshop for health professionals on guidelines for patient education at the Mercer County Chapter, American Diabetes Association's education day, Saturday, May 19 at E.R. Squibb and Sons Inc.

The day-long program for diabetics and their families will also feature experts in the field of diabetes, workshops on diet and medications and exhibits from pharmaceutical companies. The seminar will be held from 9 to 2:45.

The cost per person is $8 for non-members, $6 for members and $3 for senior citizens and students. For registration forms call the Mercer County Chapter at 392-1808.

PEOPLE in the News

A new book by David P. Billington, professor of civil engineering at Princeton University, is as graceful and devoid of cumbersome ornamentation as the spare concrete bridges spanning spectacular distances in the Swiss Alps and the vaulted thin-shell roofs by European design engineers he so admires.

Prof. Billington's The Tower and the Bridge, published by Basic Books is an explication and celebration of a new art form, that of structural engineering. Structural art may be seen most clearly, he says, in bridges, tall buildings, and long-span roofs. It is the product of an engineering imagination that applies the new materials and methods of industrial technology in ways that combine efficiency, economy and elegance. It is an art form that is distinct from both architecture and machine design.

The first part of the book traces the history of structural art up to the completion of the Eiffel Tower (the tower of the title), which is the last great work of iron. The second part describes the developments springing from the use of steel and concrete and concludes with a series of the late-20th century works.

Georgeanne Gould, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gould, 102 Philip Drive, has been appointed to the position of research specialist with the State of New York Mortgage Agency. Miss Gould served as an intern to Governor Cuomo during her senior year at Barnard College.

A graduate of Princeton High School, Miss Gould will graduate Deans' list from Barnard College the end of this month. She was photographer for her college yearbook. During her junior year she served as an intern for the National Urban Coalition in Washington, D.C.

Christine P. Castaldo, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Ball of Pine Street and the late Pasquale Castaldo, completed the culinary arts program at the New York Restaurant School in New York City.

During the intensive 18-week program, she studied advanced baking, international style cooking and restaurant management. She will use these skills as breakfast cook and manager at the newly remodeled Vesuvio's Restaurant in Princeton.

Three Princeton University faculty members have been elected to the National Academy of Sciences in recognition of their distinguished and continuing achievements in original research.

Professor of Mathematical Physics Elliot H. Lieb, and Roger E. Dashen, a visiting lecturer with rank of professor in physics at Princeton and a professor of physics at the Institute for Advanced Study, were among 60 American scientists elected to membership. Polish astronomer Bohdan Paczynski, a professor of astrophysical sciences at Princeton, was among 14 scientists from nine different countries elected foreign associates.

The National Academy of Sciences is a private organization of scientists and engineers dedicated to the furtherance of science and its use for the general welfare. Election to membership in the academy is considered to be one of the highest honors that can be accorded an American scientist or engineer.

Penelope Carter, municipal clerk of the Borough of Princeton, participated in "Municipal Clerk's Week," proclaimed by President Ronald Reagan. Mrs. Carter, 201 John Street, is president of the Mercer County Municipal Clerk's Association.

Alexander H. Busch, son of Alexander D. and Maria Busch of Rural Route 1, Pennington, has been promoted in the U.S. Army to the rank of sergeant first class.

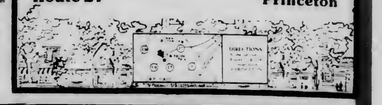
A 1975 graduate of Hopewell Valley Central High School, he is a platoon sergeant at Fort Bragg, N.C., with the 82nd Airborne Division.

Anna Toto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Toto of 162 Landen Lane, is one of 10 Ithaca College students selected to receive the annual Campus Life Award. This is an award instituted by the Student Affairs Division in 1980 to recognize graduating seniors who have made significant contributions to the college community.

Miss Toto is a speech communications major.

Alvin B. Kernan

David J. Furley



David J. Furley, an internationally known classics scholar, and Alvin B. Kernan, the Avalon Foundation University Professor of the Humanities and a former dean of the Graduate School, were honored at Princeton University Saturday night.

when they received the ninth annual Howard T. Behrman Awards for distinguished achievement in the humanities.

Each consists of a bronze medal and a check for $4,000.

The awards are designed both to recognize individuals of exceptional merit who have achieved special eminence and to direct attention to the ideas and values that are preserved, transmitted and enhanced through those who teach, study and write in the humanities at Princeton University.

Prof. Furley, chairman of Princeton's Classics Department and Charles Ewing Professor of Greek Language and Literature, has been at Princeton since 1966. His scholarly work embraces literature and philosophy and, most recently, scientific thought.

Prof. Kernan is known for his work in English drama of the 16th and 17th centuries. In 1979, he published "The Playwright as Magician," an analysis of Shakespeare's image of himself as poet, and in 1982 "The Imaginary Library," a discussion of the current state of literature and literary criticism.

Dr. Leon C. Nurock, 84 Nassau Street, attended the international contact lens conference in Atlantic City. He says that there is a great deal of new information to optometrists and ophthalmologists that make contact lens fitting more exacting than ever.

Louise Matthews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Matthews of Montadale Circle, has been a key performer this season for the women's lacrosse team at Dartmouth College, where she is a freshman. Through the first nine games of the season she had eight goals and six assists for 14 points, third best total on the Big Green team.

Miss Matthews is a graduate of Princeton Day School, where she earned four letters each in field hockey and lacrosse and was captain of both teams. At Dartmouth she was also a member of the field hockey team last fall.

John E. Sheats of Carter Road, professor of chemistry at Rider College, is the recipient of the 1984 E. Emmet Reid Award for outstanding teaching and research work in chemistry with undergraduate students. The award will be presented by the Middle Atlantic Region of the American Chemical Society at an awards luncheon on May 23 at the New Jersey Institute for Technology in Newark.

Dr. Sheats is an authority in the fields of organometallic chemistry and organometallic polymers. He has contributed some 50 publications in these areas, including journal articles, reviews and books. He has been a member of the Rider faculty since 1970, having previously taught at Bowdoin College for five years.

A Phi Beta Kappa scholar, Dr. Sheats earned his Ph.D. in 1966 from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and his B.S. degree in chemistry from Duke University in 1961.

Family Themes and Hawthorne's Fiction by Gloria C. Erlich of Littlebrook Road has been published by Rutgers University Press. It is her first full length book.

This is a biographical study which uncovers the psychological and experiential origins of Hawthorne's recurrent literary themes, plots and characters. The book returns to unpublished primary sources to reconstruct his early family life, which was both less romantic and more disturbing than previously realized.

Dr. Erlich, who holds a Ph.D. in English from Princeton University, is the author of many articles on biography and literature. She has taught at Douglass and Dickinson Colleges.

Lawrence J. Tarantino, architect, of 58 Cleveland Lane, has received a merit award for design excellence in the Newport News, Va., Cultural Arts Pavilion design competition sponsored by the National Endowment for the Arts.

Mr. Tarantino expects to open a studio in the Arts Council building at 102 Witherspoon Street.

Princeton University was awarded a patent relating to an invention by two chemists, Dr. Jeffrey Schwartz and Dr. Tai-Nang Huang for a new family of heterogeneous catalysts with a wide potential in the chemical industry.

The improved catalysts use a method by which metals are deposited within the pores of zeolite (aluminum silicate materials) supports in such a way that catalytic activity comes not only from the metal but from the zeolite structure itself. The process reduces the migration or loss of the costly metals used, such as platinum, cobalt or ruthenium.

The work of two Princeton writers has been rewarded recently. The New Yorker magazine received a National Magazine Award for public service for "Breaking the Spell" by George F. Kennan. From the Wall Street Journal, Karen Elliott House, the newspaper's foreign editor, received an award from the Overseas Press Club for the best daily newspaper interpretation for her article, "Hussein's Decision."

Ms. House has also won a Pulitzer Prize for her series on the ruling monarch of Jordan.

Edmund Keeley of the English Department and Creative Writing Program at Princeton University has been awarded a Fulbright grant to lecture in Greece. He is a resident of Littlebrook Road.

Prof. Keeley, a novelist, translator, and critic, has taught at Princeton for 30 years. Among his previous awards are two Fulbright grants to lecture in Greece, two Guggenheim fellowships, and grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities in support of his work as novelist and translator.

He has received the Rome Prize for fiction from the American Academy of Arts and Letters, the Landon Translation Award of the Academy of American Poets, and the Berman Award for distinguished achievement in the humanities. His 21st book, a novel entitled "A Wilderness Called Peace," will be published by Simon and Schuster in early 1985.

Air Force Reserve 2nd Lt. Marie D. Robbins, daughter of Marie M. and Edward J. Geisel of 7 Worchester Lane, Princeton Junction, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force flight nurse course at Brooks Air Force Base, Texas.

Now skilled in the management and nursing care of patients in flight, she is being assigned for duty at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., with the 69th Aeromedical Evacuation Squadron. Lt. Robbins is a 1982 graduate of Helene Fuld School of Nursing, Trenton.

Douglas J. Ende, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ende of 19 Longview Drive, has been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester, 1983, at The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md.

Mr. Ende is a senior majoring in psychology. He is a member of Phi Kappa Psi fraternity, the staff of WJHU radio station, and the Hopkins Tutorial Project. He is also a student advisor for incoming freshmen. He is a 1980 graduate of Princeton High School where he received a National Merit honorable mention and the German Achievement Award. He was a student council representative at PHS and a member of the cross country and track teams.

Laurie Arendas, a 5'6" guard for Carnegie-Mellon University's women's basketball team, has been named to the 1984 NCAA District II Academic All-American squad.

This is a team sponsored by the college sports Information Directors of America in cooperation with the NCAA. To be eligible, the basketball player must carry at least a 3.2 grade-point average and be a starter or valuable substitute on the squad.

Miss Arendas, daughter of Lawrence and Carole Arendas of West Windsor, is a graduate of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School, where she earned 10 varsity letters, three each in basketball, tennis and softball, and one in track. She was also a member of the National Honor Society.

Through 18 games this season as CMU's second leading scorer and rebounder, she has averaged 10.7 points a game and 9.2 rebounds a games. She leads the Tartans in assists and steals with 30 and 61, respectively.

Timothy Sullivan, a sophmore art major at Carnegie-Mellon University, has received the Douglas Wilson Award of $300 as the student who has "shown promise for a career in drawing and painting."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sullivan of Benford Drive, Princeton Junction.

Four area high school students have been selected for the annual "Chemical Caravan" sponsored by the Chemical Industry Council of New Jersey. The Caravan brings about 200 scientifically talented high school science students from all over the state to the Douglass College campus of Rutgers for a day of activities.

Students from this area are Jeff S. Taylor of Princeton High School; William C. Henderson IV of West Windsor-Plainsboro High School; Michele A. Rovnyak of Hopewell Valley Central High School; and Robert J. Akroyd of Lawrence High School.

James Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Hall Jr. of Beechtree Lane and a junior at Princeton Day School, is one of 100 New Jersey Scholars selected to attend the New Jersey Governor's School at Monmouth College June 30 to July 28.

Candidates are selected on the basis of proven academic achievement, leadership, organizational ability, eagerness to explore new ideas, fluency in written and verbal expression and strong moral and social concerns. The curriculum at the Governor's School deals with large contemporary issues and is designed to stimulate global awareness and perspectives on the future, particularly as these are relevant to citizens of New Jersey.

Another area student selected for the tuition-free program is Sara Hanak of the Pennington School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hanak of 831 Lawrence Road.

Paul T. Roberge, assistant professor in the Department of Germanic Languages and Literatures and in the Program in Linguistics at Princeton University has been awarded a summer research grant by the Committee on Humanistic Studies of the Humanities Council at Princeton University.

The grant of $2500, made possible by a gift from the Chemical Bank, will enable Prof. Roberge to travel to South Africa to gather materials for the preparation of a course on "Literary Perspectives on South Africa." This course will examine South Africa's unique plight as it is perceived by the country's most prominent contemporary writers.

Emily J. White, M.A., CCC, Director of PENTA Hearing Care, 33 State Road, was an invited panelist at a seminar session on "Electronystagmography and the Audiologist," held at Temple University, Philadelphia. Electronystagmography (ENG) is a diagnostic procedure for evaluating the balance system in the inner ear.

A resident of Lawrenceville, Miss White is also audiology consultant to the New Jersey Medicaid program. She is a vice president for the New Jersey Speech, Language, Hearing Association, and a vice president and trustee for the New Jersey Association for Children with Hearing Impairments.

Two Stuart Country Day School students took first and second place in the piano section of this year's Anna B. Stokes Competition. Mayine Yu, a tenth grader, received the first place award of $800 and Diana Nictakis, eleventh grader, received the second place award of $500. Miss Yu studies with John Ellis of the Lawrenceville School faculty, and Miss Nictakis studies with Marion Zarcezna of Westminster Choir College. The winners from each category will perform Sunday, May 20 at 3 at the Trenton State Museum.

Carl Reimers III, son of Carl Reimers of Stuart Road, has been selected to receive the O.T. and Kathryn Walter Award in biology at an honors convocation at Macalester College. He is a graduate of Princeton Day School.

Martha S. McPhee of Drakes Corner Road and Jeremy S. Wilson of 820 Kingston Road, have been named to the Dean's List at Bowdoin College for the first semester of the 1983-84 academic year.

Mrs. Graham M. Brush Jr. of Russell Road has been elected to a two-year term as a director for Zone IV of the Garden Club of America.

A past president of the Garden Club of Princeton, Mrs. Brush served this year as chairman of the publications committee for the Garden Club of America. Previously she was chairman of the nominating committee for the national organization and chairman of Zone IV.

CATARACT EXPERT SET

For Ophthalmology Group. James A. Fleischman, M.D., a board certified eye specialist with expertise in cataract surgery, has joined the Princeton Ophthalmology Group.

The Group consists of E. Frederick Laschever, M.D., Arnold I. Young, M.D., and Lloyd J. Bronson, M.D. in Princeton and Cranbury. Dr. Fleischman will perform extracapsular cataract surgery, phacoemulsification, intraocular lens implantation and laser surgery, as well as treating general eye conditions of a medical and surgical nature.

Dr. Fleischman received his pre-medical education at Princeton University, where he graduated cum laude in biology in 1973. He attended medical school at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City. Following completion of medical internship at the University of Southern California, he underwent his residency training in ophthalmology at the New York University-Bellevue Hospital Center in New York.

Dr. Fleischman recently completed a fellowship in anterior segment eye surgery at the Ernest A. Katzen Memorial Eye Research Institute in Baltimore, Md., where he had extensive experience with many of the newer techniques for surgically restoring vision impaired by cataracts, including extracapsular cataract surgery, phacoemulsification and intraocular lens implantation. He has invented and developed a new and improved lens implant to restore vision during cataract surgery, which will be available to his patients and those of his associates in the Princeton Ophthalmology Group.

MEET IN THE HANGAR

"Business Contacts." A Business Contacts Reception described by the sponsoring Chamber of Commerce as "extravagant" will be held in the Ronson Aviation Airplane Hangar, Mercer County Airport starting at 5 p.m. this Thursday.

"The event will be lavishly catered by Princeton Caterers," according to Martin Lombardo, chair of the event. "In addition, Ronson Aviation will choose six winners every 20 minutes who will be led by a miniature robot to a corporate helicopter, where they will enjoy a flight over Mercer County. It really is an event too big for words."

Over 1,000 executives are expected to attend. The purpose of Contacts Receptions is to exchange business leads.

Other sponsors are Ronson Aviation, Princeton Caterers, Tom Hopkins Sales Training Center, The Flower Market, Rainbow Golf Greens, Bohren's United Van Lines and Ask Mr. Foster Travel Service.

Reservations may be made by calling the Chamber at 921-7676.

TROUBLED EMPLOYEES

Workshop Planned. The hidden costs to business of employees with problem drinking, emotional disorders and financial, domestic or legal problems, will be explored in a workshop, "The Troubled Employee: The Hidden Cost to Business and Industry" to be held Wednesday,

James A. Fleischman

May 23 at the Carnegie Center, Route One, from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The sponsor is the Mercer Employee Assistance Service. The workshop is designed for personnel managers, first line supervisors, training and development managers and senior management personnel. Registration is $25. Details are available from the Service at 396-5877.

SERVICE AVAILABLE

Dispensing Hearing Aids. PENTA Hearing Care, 33 State Road, is open for the dispensing of hearing aids. The office is open by appointment five days a week, Saturday mornings, and Monday and Tuesday evenings.

PENTA Hearing Care provides a full range of hearing testing services by professional, university-trained audiologists. According to Emily J. White, director, PENTA is a one-stop hearing care center, offering both diagnostic and rehabilitative services. When needed, consulting medical services are also available.

PENTA Hearing Care occupies the offices of the former PENTA Audiology Consultants, now under new ownership and with expanded services. Ms. White is a certified audiologist and licensed hearing aid dispenser. She has practiced in Princeton more than ten years.

AWARDS TO HILLIER

For Conference Center. Two national design awards have been made to The Hillier Group, Alexander Road, for its Citicorp Conference Center known as Arrowwood of Westchester.

The International Association of Conference Centers named Arrowwood one of the nation's ten best conference centers and Arrowwood's specialty restaurant, "Mallards," recived a design excellence award from "Restaurants and Institutions" magazine.

Joel Spaeth was in charge of the project and Barbara Weinstein managed the interior design.

DECORATING TIPS SET

At Home Show. The Home Show planned by the Chamber of Commerce on Friday, June 1, will feature many exhibits, including exhibits by decorating professionals with experience in home and office decor.

The show will be held from 10 to 4 at the Hyatt Regency on Route 1. It is open to the public and admission is free. A partial list of exhibitors includes Park Lane Furniture, Princeton Office Interiors, Nassau Interiors, Hesco Lighting, Trenton Home Fabrics, J.C. Penney Decorating, The Country House, Norse Art Works, Doerler Landscapes, The Country Florist and the Flower Market.

HUNGRY INFANTS FOCUS

Of Executives' Run. New Jersey corporations are invited to participate in The Executives' Run Against Hunger on Sunday, June 24.

Proceeds from the 3.1 mile race will be distributed through the Jersey Infant Feeding Fund (JIFF) to provide infant food to community food pantries throughout the state. According to Terry Grove of CROP, the parent of JIFF, thousands of infants in New Jersey go to bed hungry at night, deprived of the nourishment they need to survive and develop properly.

For a donation of $500, corporations can enter a field of runners. Information and entry forms are available from CROP, PO Box 214, Rocky Hill 08553 or by calling 924-6466.

PERSONNEL NOTES

Kathleen M. Lingle of Princeton-Kingston Road has been named manager-marketing services at Gulton Industries. Previously she held the position of project coordinator in the marketing services department.

Prior to joining Gulton, Ms. Lingle worked as a research associate supervising psychological research projects at Educational Testing Service. Before that, she had served as project coordinator at Ohio State University Hospital where she designed and administered an education program for adolescent mothers and their infants.

RETAIL SHOPS AND A 300-ROOM HOTEL DUE: If Plainsboro Township officials approve, land on the north of Route 1 currently planted in trees will sprout 85 retail shops, offices, restaurants, a health club and a nine story hotel, beginning in 1985. Princeton University, which gives long-term leases to Forrestal development, has purchased 100 open acres behind St. Joseph's Seminary, leaving the Seminary campus and buildings intact and still functioning. The tract will be combined with 38 acres already in the Forrestal master plan for office/hotel/commercial use. The $100-million commercial complex is the final component in the multi-use Forrestal development that has been underway for the past 10 years. Across Route 1 and off the map are the office/research buildings. More than 1.5-million square feet has already been developed, with another 1.4 million square feet ready for leasing or under construction this year. When the entire complex of offices, research and development facilities, housing, and retail/commercial space is finished, it is expected to provide jobs for more than 20,000 employees.

rooms and kitchens, roofs and siding might be the main interests of home owners. Those interested are invited to call 921-1184, he said.

Meanwhile, the Neighborhood Preservation Program, directed by Michael Floyd, is moving ahead with its Phase II. Mr. Floyd said he has had 34 applications from people at all levels of income in the Witherspoon-John Street neighborhood. Of these, 11 homes have been inspected and cost estimates done and bids made on six.

For contractors, he continued, he has received advice from Neighborhood Housing Services in Trenton, a national non-profit housing rehabilitation program funded by a consortium of banks.

The Borough's $85,000 contract expires July 14, but both Mayor Sigmund and Mr. Floyd said they expect that it will be renewed.

One of the reasons given by the Williamson firm for its offer, is that administrative costs will use up so much of the Borough's grant, perhaps as much as $30,000, that not enough will be available for home-owners.

Mr. Floyd and Borough Clerk Penelope Carter said the figure is inaccurate. The Borough budgeted 22 percent for such costs — $18,700 — Mrs. Carter said, and Mr. Floyd reported that he had $2,500 left over from the administrative costs of Phase I.

He said his program has $35,000 budgeted for direct grants to very-low-income families — a special category defined by formula — $2,000 for families who want to do paint jobs; $1,400 for sidewalk repair; $1,500 for materials for do-it-yourselfers; $200 for a neighborhood clean-up project; $215 toward smoke alarms and $550 for a neighborhood organization, still to be formed.

Mr. Floyd added that he can arrange ten-year home-improvement loans at about 9.95 percent through the New Jersey Mortgage Finance Agency for a maximum of $15,000.

OBITUARIES

Helen T. McAllen, 73, of 360 Herrontown Road, died April 21 at her home. She was the widow of Robert G. McAllen, formerly of Battle Road.

Mrs. McAllen was born in Jacksonville, Ill., and graduated from the University of Arizona. She was a founder of the Princeton Unit, Recording for the Blind and was a former volunteer at Princeton Hospital.

She is survived by two daughters, Helen K. Hetherington of Johannesburg, South Africa, and Mary E. K. Colley of Easton, Pa.; a son, Stafford W. Keegin of Sausalito, Calif.; three stepdaughters, Gordon M. Baker of Portland, Ore., Susan M. Turner of Keene Valley, N.Y.; and Bonnie W. Reese of Collegeville, Pa.; eight grandchildren; seven stepgrandchildren; three brothers and two sisters.

A memorial in her name is being established at the Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind, 36A Hibben Road.

Alfred Zullo, 79, of Clearview Avenue, died May 11 in Princeton Medical Center.

The service and burial were private. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Bessie Blakley Young, 78, of Chestnut Street, died May 7 at Princeton Medical Center.

Born in Plainsboro, Mrs. Young had lived most of her life in the Princeton area. She was a retired attendant at the N. J. Neuro-Psychiatric Institute and a member of the Princeton United Methodist Church.

Wife of the late Robert Biakley, she is survived by a son, Charles R. Blakley of Skillman; a sister, Emily Douglas of Denver, Col.; three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

The service was held at a Hopewell memorial home, the Rev. Carol L. Brandt, assistant pastor of the Princeton United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial was in Highland Cemetery.

Ann Kuhn Drake, 84, of Route 206, Skillman, died May 10 at Foothill Acres Nursing Home in Neshanic. Born in Trenton, Mrs. Drake had lived in Skillman for the past 64 years.

Wife of the late Henry S. Drake, she is survived by a daughter, Barbara Drake, at home; a son, Henry S. Drake Jr. of Montgomery Township; a sister, Margaret DiCaprio of Reno, Nev.; and two grandchildren.

The service was held at a Hopewell memorial home with burial in Belle Mead Cemetery.

TROPHY TIME FOR PRINCETON NAUTILUS: Anne Knudson-Fitzpatrick, owner of the Princeton Nautilus Fitness Center, receives trophy from Bruce Daniels, after Princeton Nautilus won the Princeton YMCA Basketball B League championship.

Deer Problem

of illegal hunting in the Township. Yet there is a reluctance to permit more than passive steps to reduce the size of the deer herd.

The Committee recommends implementation of the passive steps — such as reflective devices and birth control salt licks — to try to reduce accidents and deer damage. However, these measures deal with the symptoms and not the problem — the size of the deer herd — itself. The Committee therefore recommends that a herd management program such as the one implemented by an arm of the New York Botanical Garden at its arboretum in Millbrook, N.Y., be undertaken but only after discussion sessions with large landowners and those who presently oppose hunting.

Mr. Poole drew a careful distinction between recreational hunting and a program of herd management. Hunters would be required to register with the Township and to attend a seminar which would spell out what kind of deer could be taken, where to park and where to hunt. Hunters would also be required to take a shooting test.

They would be permitted to hunt for a minimum number of days during the New Jersey season or kill a specified number of animals. Those who failed to meet either requirement would not be permitted to hunt the following season. The taking of large older does would be encouraged, because, as the report notes, they eat more and bear two or three fawns at a time, whereas a young doe will produce a single fawn.

Mr. Poole noted that under this program the New York Botanical Garden had been able to reduce the herd's size and age in order to reduce damage and were able to do so using about 20 percent of the hunters they formerly had on the lands. He said that the cooperation of landowners is vital to the success of this program, because it is they who will police the program to a great extent.

But Not Yet. Much as the Committee endorses a return to hunting with these modifications, it advises Princeton Township not to consider such an ordinance right now. "We feel that the Township Committee would encounter a great deal of resistance from the citizens who would interpret this as nothing more than a return to undisciplined recreational hunting."

Discussion groups chaired by Dr. James Applegate, professor of wildlife biology at Cook College, are recommended as the first step. Once several of these are held and a consensus is gained about what steps can be taken with most citizens agreeing, then Township Committee should consider an ordinance permitting farmers and landowners to hunt their properties only. Finally, "with a better understanding of the actions Township residents would tolerate," a presentation could be made on the New York Botanical Garden herd management program.

Township Committee applauded the thoroughness of the report and the idea of educational preparation for each step. Township police presently have ultrasonic whistles mounted under the rooflights, thanks to a gift from Mr. and Mrs. K.R. Kern.

and Committee will look into other passive devices to reduce the likelihood of deer-car accidents.

Mr. Poole recommended that the Environmental Commission take over the job of monitoring the deer problem and new products to keep them away from cars and gardens. Peggy McNeil, chairman of the Environmental Commission, said she would confer with other members. Mrs. Edwin C. Hutter, a Township Committee member during the 1970s when similar proposals were made, recommended that the Township Police "whom we all trust" be given the responsibility for shooting deer in a herd management program.

RELIGION

ASSISTANT STEPS DOWN

At Methodist Church. The Rev. Carol Brandt has notified Princeton United Methodist Church of her decision to resign as assistant minister as of June 15. She cites "increasing feelings of pressure in her attempt to be a wife, mother and minister."

Mrs. Brandt has served on the staff of Princeton United Methodist for 10 years, initially as director of religious education and, after seminary studies leading to a master of divinity degree, as assistant minister, the post to which she was appointed in 1976. She says the past 10 years "have been the happiest and most meaningful of my life" and that it was "a real honor and privilege to serve as one of the pastors of this church."

Her decision is based on several factors. "I really love being a wife and mother," she explains, "and I had been feeling increasing pressure in my attempt to be wife, mother and minister." With the election of her husband, Hugh Brandt, a New York commuter, to the Princeton Regional School Board, she feels it is his time to give his talents to the community and be gone at evening meetings and her time to be home with their three children.

The Brandt children are Alyson, a senior at Princeton High School who will attend Boston University in the fall, Dan, a freshman at the high school, and Jody, a fifth grader. Mrs. Brandt wants to make the most of the next seven years before all have left home.

"I certainly do intend to continue to do ministry," Mrs. Brandt says, "and I feel I will have more time to do the aspect of the ministry I love best — pastoral care — without having to be involved in meetings and administration." She feels that she has shared her "gifts and grace" with the Methodist congregation for 10 years, and it is time for the gifts and grace of another individual. She has the happy sense that she has achieved certain goals in building the youth program from seven participants to 46, in strengthening the church school classes and starting an adult education program.

One of the things Mrs. Brandt shared with the congregation was the ups and downs of her seven-year struggle with cancer. "My health is stable right now, and the prognosis is good, though you never know with cancer. That is not an issue, although because of it, I get a lot of calls from others with cancer, and I haven't had time to be as helpful as I would like," she says.

"Basically, I feel now is the time to do something else with my life, and I think one of the best things about ministry is that, unlike being an engineer, for instance, you don't have to do it professionally."

—Barbara L. Johnson

FORUM PLANNED

On Christianity, Psychology. Dr. Craig Ellison, professor of urban studies and counseling at Alliance Theological Seminary, Nyack, N.Y., will be the guest speaker at a public forum to be held Sunday, May 27, at 3 at Christ Congregation, opposite Princeton High School.

Dr. Ellison will present a paper on the relationship between the Christian faith and psychology. A panel of profesionals in the counseling field will respond to his presentation, and questions from the audience will be encouraged.

The meeting is sponsored by the Princeton Alliance church as part of its ongoing educational program, and will be chaired by the Rev. Kenn Iskov, Christian education director at the church, and a Ph.D. candidate at Princeton Seminary.

Dr. Ellison is the author of several popular and professional books, and he is host on the weekly nationwide broadcast, "Perspectives on Better Living," on the Family Radio Network. For ten years he was western regional director of the Christian Association for Psychological Studies, and he is a founding board member of the Family Research Council of America, a body of Christian psychologists attempting to influence public policy on the family.

Dr. Ellison will also preach at the 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. services of the church. The Forum is open to all at no charge.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Religious Science Center in Belle Mead will mark its 28th anniversary Sunday with a special lecture by Pastor John T. Cannizaro on the "birthing of the Christ in Jesus." All are invited.

Sunday services are held at 11 at the Montgomery Township First Aid Squad building. For information call (201) 974-3222.

Michael Jimenez, who teaches in the history department at Princeton University, will speak on "Dependency, Underdevelopment and the Bomb" Thursday, May 24, at 8 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street. His talk is sponsored by the Peace Education of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament.

Dr. Jiminez will consider the indirect influences the nuclear arms race exerts in Central America.

Cross Culture, the program for newly assimilating refugee and foreign families at the Christ the King Lutheran Church, Route 27, Kendall Park, will meet this Thursday from 6 to 8 for movies and outdoor games. Participants are asked to bring a favorite food dish to share. Coffee, tea, juice and table service will be provided.

Princeton Jewish Singles will have a picnic at the Plainsboro Municipal Park, Plainsboro, on Sunday at 2. Rain date is Sunday, June 3. For more information call 448-0512.

The National Council of Jewish Women will meet Thursday, May 24, at 7:45 at Congregation Beth Chaim, Village Road, West Windsor. Janice Mironov, East Windsor Township Attorney, will discuss "Women and the Law." Refreshments will be served.

Individuals interested in learning more about NCJW, a community service-oriented organization, may call Ellen Botwin at 924-3800.

HUN ROAD
New Listing

A gently sloping hillside in Edgerstoune allows this attractive one floor house to have a lower level above ground. On street level the foyer opens to a spacious 30 foot living/dining room with fireplace, a wall of bookshelves and a windowed wall overlooking the wooded rear yard which is bordered by historic Stony Brook. Two corner bedrooms, two baths and the kitchen complete the main floor. Three bedrooms and bath and family room on the lower level. $288,000

NEWLIN ROAD

On one of the wide tree-lined streets near the prestigious Institute for Advanced Study there is now available a very attractive house. The perfect condition of this delightful daffodil yellow Dutch Colonial belies its fifty years. Entry, gracious living room with fireplace and adjoining music room, formal dining room opening to deck, dream kitchen with windowed dining area, four bedrooms, 2½ baths, full basement. Studio over two car detached garage. $360,000

BALCORT DRIVE

So near - it's just a few minutes from town. So far - it enjoys the serenity of the countryside. This sparkling white colonial, big and beautiful, is perfect for a growing family. Inviting center hall with flagstone floor, powder room, gracious living room with fireplace, formal dining room, modern eat-in kitchen, den or office, family room with second fireplace opening to deck overlooking nature's landscaping of tall trees and boulders. Four bedrooms and two baths on second floor. Full basement and two car garage. $290,000

CLEVELAND LANE
New Listing

A novelty on this western Princeton street when it was built, this handsome contemporary was soon accepted as a compatible neighbor by the nearby colonials. The exterior of redwood and stone is enhanced by professional landscaping. A circular driveway leads to the large foyer, spacious living room with a glass wall overlooking a beautiful formal garden, dining room, kitchen, two master suites each with bath, bedroom and bath and computer room. $355,000

CONSTITUTION HILL

Better than new, this handsome brick townhouse, two years young, has many extras to offer its fortunate new owner. The location is near the formal gardens of the Mansion as well as the swimming pool and tennis court. The floors of both the foyer and kitchen are ceramic tile. The first floor includes the dramatic living/dining room with cathedral ceiling, study with bookshelves, master bedroom and bath. Each of the two spacious bedrooms on second floor has a vanity with basin in addition to the hall bath. $335,000

ROLLING HILL ROAD

A special house on a special road and at a special price! The rolling countryside and the nearby Bedens Brook Club are two of the attractions of this unusual contemporary. The important third attraction is that it is priced well below its handsome neighbors. With three plus acres of Greenacres behind it, it offers: gracious living areas with two fireplaces, four bedrooms and three baths. $325,000

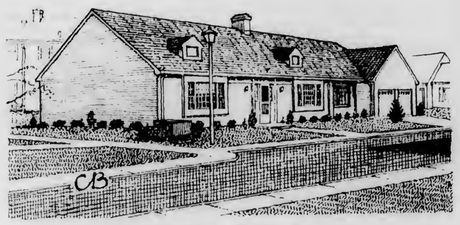
SURPRISE, SURPRISE!

That's what you'll have when you walk into this seemingly modest split-level. Four bedrooms, 2 tiled baths, a recreation room - all make for easy family living - but the really exciting feature is the stunning new Great Room added at the rear. Cathedral ceilinged, with Mexican tiled floor and second fireplace, it opens to a state of the arts gourmet kitchen and adjacent wet bar area - and then to a formal "parlor" or dining room. A most flexible plan to fit your needs or living style!

All set high on a hillside "in the Village" of Lawrenceville on a peaceful third acre - but within a block of New York and local buses. Absolutely heaven for a mother who's tired of car-pooling everywhere! $155,000

PRIME HAMILTON LOCATION



A lovely colonial featuring 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, living room, formal dining room, eat-in kitchen and adjacent family room with full width brick fireplace. Many nice extras include two fully finished basement rooms, oversize 2 car garage, central air conditioning and a partially wooded yard. Offered at $124,900

NORTHWEST PRINCETON

This triple award winning contemporary — architect J. Robert Hillier's own house — is a testament to architectural excellence. Its unusual mirrored and glass exterior blends with and reflects the dramatic three plus acre site - forrest trees, boulders, streams and beautifully shrubbed and landscaped garden areas. A brick circular drive-around and courtyard with fountain leads to the raised covered walkway surrounding the house. Inside, entry way with closets looks into a dramatic dining atrium with multiple skylights; a living room with a unique circular fireplace; an adjoining study; a family room or separate dining room adjoins a fully equipped center island kitchen with an enclosed inlaid wood breakfast nook plus a laundry corner; master bedroom suite with adjoining bath; two other bedrooms and bath. All rooms have sliding doors to the outside. Among the many features are marble floors, mahogany trim, oversized doors, extensive lighting system indoors and out, burglar alarm, and central air. IT MUST BE SEEN!!! $459,000

WESTERN SECTION - PRINCETON TOWNSHIP

Surprisingly located on a quiet lot just off Mountain Avenue, this rustic Cape Cod is a perfect pied a terre or starter house. Two front sitting rooms, kitchen, bedroom and full bath on first floor; two more bedrooms upstairs. Full basement, garage, lovely mature trees. $115,000

BEDENS BROOK

Stewardson-Dougherty is pleased to offer the most important property in the Bedens Brook area. Maintained and improved by a prominent owner this 18th Century New Jersey farmhouse retains much of the charm of yesteryear including wide pine floors, three fireplaces, beamed ceilings, panelling, and antique built-in corner cupboard, etc. Overall, it has a manageable twelve rooms and four and one half baths. Plus a most attractive garage apartment complex with a spacious and very rentable three bedroom apartment and eleven garage spaces. All of this is surrounded by fourteen beautiful acres traversed by Bedens Brook which is controlled and enhanced by handsome stone bridges and stone retaining walls. Meadows, flowering trees, and gardens complete the scene. More land available. $690,000

A FINE GEORGIAN MANOR HOME

2 Elm Road, Princeton

We are pleased to present for your personal consideration one of Princeton's finest Georgian Manor Homes situated on expansive, beautifully maintained grounds within walking distance of the Town and University.

Built of the finest materials, this elegant home features a spacious sunken living room with double French doors, a dramatic curved staircase, a library with hand-rubbed cherry cabinets and bookcases, and a graciously proportioned formal dining room with hand-carved marble fireplace from France. The floor plan is classic Georgian with spacious rooms off a central foyer, worthy of a statesman's penchant for formal entertaining.

The property includes a lovely circular swimming pool and a guest or pool house in the same Georgian style as the main house.

There are 3.50 beautifully landscaped acres with terraces and formal gardens, brick garden walls and iron gates. A 1.35 acre sub-divided building lot lies to the right of the main house.

All in all, a beautifully maintained, tastefully decorated estate in an incomparable Princeton location.

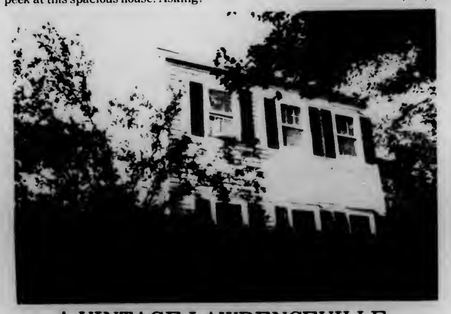
HAVE IT YOUR WAY...

There's a wonderful Henderson house in every area of Princeton and its environs. In every price range, in every style. Call one of our offices today to see these ... and more!

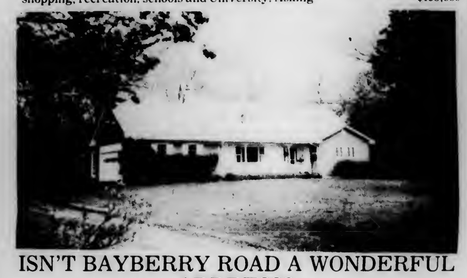


WHAT'S THAT? THE WESTERN SECTION?

YES...AN INTERESTING CONTEMPORARY EXISTS THERE ON A PRETTY LOT AT AN AFFORDABLE PRICE! A great family house with three-zone heat, large living/dining room with fireplace, good kitchen, full bath and library on the first floor. Then 5 more bedrooms and another bath all off the second floor library! Needs some sprucing up, but the mature lot in the neighborhood is well worth the investment. Call Florence Dawes for the scoop. Asking: $175,000

WANT TO WALK TO THE STORE?

And more...want a really convenient location in the heart of Princeton Township...on a wide street, not far from the shopping center and the community park? Then this super four bedroom, two bath house with a 31' living/dining expanse is perfect for you...lots of room to grow, too. Call Gilda Aronovic for a peek at this spacious house. Asking: $174,500



A VINTAGE LAWRENCEVILLE OPPORTUNITY!

THIS SPACIOUS OLD COLONIAL offers lots of space for a fun-loving family. Almost an acre of land with a wonderful pool and lots of trees for privacy with 4/5 bedrooms, 2½ baths, living room/fpl. & dining room and architect's wing make this an exciting floor plan with contemporary features. Come see it with Gilda Aronovic. ASKING ONLY $130,000

HOW ABOUT AN OFFICE AT HOME?

An extraordinary situation in Princeton Township...Built 22 years before its time by architects for home-office complex. Exceptional construction, durable, comfortable, inside area opens to flagstone patio. Contemporary design - a free flow of rooms on both levels, two fantastic brick fireplaces, full-glassed and awning windows throughout, kitchen with Glochar range a gourmet's delight. Four bedrooms plus huge studio upstairs, family room with fireplace plus two other spacious rooms for office or flat. Presently occupied as 3 bedroom apartment plus one bedroom flat with office, study/fp, and storage room. Walk to shopping, recreation, schools and University. Asking $195,000

ISN'T BAYBERRY ROAD A WONDERFUL ADDRESS?

And this country cape only minutes from Princeton, built by Balestrieri only a few years ago, is wonderful, too! Dreamy floor plan with a large country kitchen, neat living room with brick fireplace in cherry wall, three large bedrooms, den and screened porch. All on 1½ acres with a Princeton address. $195,000

OH! YES...THERE IS A PRINCETON HOUSE PERFECT FOR A FAMILY WITH A POOL AND SIMPLY EXQUISITE GROUNDS!

Located on FAIRWAY DRIVE...just a stone's throw from town with a bike path all the way...this custom Williamsburg cape offers more living space for an active family than almost anything else available. And it combines a wonderful floor plan with a private setting, fenced for the children and their pets, with brick patios and a fun pool. Asking: $420,000. Come see how this would fit your gang!

RELO: World Leader In Relocation

HENDERSON, OF COURSE!

THE GOLDEN EGG ON ROLLING HILL!

No play on words, but the name and location, of this extraordinary contemporary, Oriental in design, expertly executed, peaceful as a result! Built in 1972, young enough to be modern, and just old enough to have withstood the test of time, this extraordinary plan for our area captures the mood of another world and offers a restful oasis from daily living. All the windows open to the woods behind which form the artistic background for this open floor plan. A deck around half the house is actually another living room! For discerning people who appreciate nature and the opportunity it offers. $475,000

THIS "SIOUX" MIGHT BE PERFECT FOR YOU!

In a great neighborhood of Hopewell Township, with almost everything in it NEW! The decorating, the walks, the roof, the kitchen...and even a whole new MASTER SUITE wing! All appliances are included in this four bedroom, 2½ bath sensational family house. Asking: $110,000! Call Patty Davis before this goes! Please.

ANY TRANSFEREES IN TOWN?

If so, this beautiful colonial in Princeton Woods in nearby South Brunswick could be just what you're looking for! Only 5 years old with 4 bedrooms, and 2½ baths, it backs up to Green Acres for lots of privacy. A large family room with fireplace, eat-in kitchen and finished playroom in the basement enhances family living. Better than new bonuses like central air, built-in bookcases, dark-stained floors, heatalator, added insulation, two-car garage and then some. $149,500

TWO OR MORE GENERATIONS NEED APPLY!

PRINCETON'S Pristine Split Level with in-law arrangement. Large, pretty eat-in kitchen, pretty formal dining room, Tennessee stone fireplace in formal living room, den, three bedrooms and full bath for the main house. Downstairs a large living-playroom, kitchenette, and another full bath for in-laws or kids. Everything in mint shape inside and out. Quality construction, beautifully kept private yard, wonderful neighborhood. $170,000

A SENSATIONAL CONTEMPORARY

On a honey of a lot with a Princeton address in nearby Hopewell Township! Splendid wing by Pierre Coutin in which to entertain hordes of friends or simply to enjoy the glass-walled view. Perfect for a couple or small family ... wonderful bedroom wing, divine kitchen/family room and spectacular living/dining rooms with lots of brick, natural woods, cathedral ceilings, and fireplace. The price is right, too. $242,500

ARE YOU A DO-IT-YOURSELFER?

Then try this older Princeton Borough colonial! It has four bedrooms, an attractive setting, is close to schools and shopping and needs someone who can mix it up, move it around, paint, spruce, and make a terrific investment all at the same time. $175,500

RELO: World Leader In Relocation

Several Area Programs Are Treating Bulimia, Anorexia, Problems Resulting from "Relentless Pursuit of Thinness"

"You can never be too rich or too thin."

Rich may be out of your reach, if you're a young girl, but thin isn't. The desire, the obsession, for thinness can result in a pair of serious afflictions, bulimia and anorexia nervosa, affecting — in the case of bulimia — about 20 percent of all college women.

"We see a lot of Princeton University students," says Dr. Robert Lynn Horne, psychiatrist who directs the Eating Disorders program at The Carrier Foundation in Belle Mead, but he declines to reveal the number. Carrier has a 16-bed inpatient treatment program. The average length of stay is three months.

In Princeton, the Family Service Agency regards the problem as severe enough to warrant a bulimic support group, which will start in September. (Interviews in early September, call 924-2098.)

Although anorexia has received more publicity, doctors say they are seeing more bulimia, and Dr. Horne has remarked that it's "more contagious." That means girls will say, "Well, my roomie told me about it, so now I'm doing it, too."

Binge Eating. Bulimia is binge eating, then purging. Bulimics stuff themselves — 10,000 calories in less than two hours, in cases Dr. Horne knows of — and then they purge.

Finger down the throat, is the usual way, although laxatives and even enemas are sometimes used. Bulimics may induce vomiting three or four times a day. Doctors and therapists see swollen neck glands from the strain, enamel worn away from teeth and fingers discolored from the acids in the digestive tract.

———

"Often, they are closet bulimics," says Connie Myslik, therapist with the Family Service Agency. "They say, 'I never knew what my problem was.' "

Although 95 percent of all bulimics are girls, wrestlers often have bulimic-like symptoms, Ms. Myslik has found, because they need to remain in a certain weight class.

Anorexia, described by one authority quoted by Ms. Myslik as "the relentless pursuit of thinness," is dieting gone over the brink.

"A normal, or slightly overweight adolescent may need to lose a few pounds and goes on a diet," Ms. Myslik explains. "At some point, the diet becomes an obsession and the girl loses perception of what she's doing to her body.

"She does not realize how thin she's getting. Her body image is distorted and she really believes she is heavier than she is. Ask her to draw a circle the size of her waist, and she'll draw an enormous circle. She won't believe a scale or a tape measure."

The criterion, Ms. Myslik says, is loss of 20 to 25 percent of normal body weight. "If you're 50 pounds overweight and lose 25 percent of your weight, that's not anorexia."

Even before anorexia is recognized, a classic sign is amenorrhea — near or complete cessation of menstruation. Ballet dancers and long-distance runners are familiar with this, but they do not necessarily have anorexia, Ms. Myslik explains.

Over-Exercising. "Compulsive runners may be the same kind of personality," she continues. "In fact, girls with anorexia often take up running or exercise to lose even more, and never think they're exercising too much."

It's a physical, as well as psychological disorder, and Dr. Horne points out that the hypothalamus gland is not working properly in girls with anorexia.

Incidentally, he says the term "anorexia" isn't quite accurate because its root meaning is "loss of appetite." He thinks German doctors are more accurate when they call it "the adolescent pursuit of thinness."

A study made over 30 years ago, in 1950, found that one in 100 girls in private schools and 1 in 250 girls in public schools older than 17, had anorexia. The peak year of onset is 18. He says those figures are still accurate today.

Anorexia and bulimia are found especially in high-achievers from upper socio-economic groups.

"It's the model child in the family," Ms. Myslik has found. "Often, she's been 'good', a perfectionist, at the expense of being an individual in her own right. Always, she has been pleasing others.

"Then, suddenly — adolescence. She transfers her desire for perfection to being thin: the most gorgeous models are underweight, everything she reads says 'to be thin, is to be perfect.' It is a fact that Playboy centerfolds are 15 to 20 pounds lighter than they were 15 years ago

Control of Own Life. "Also, she has always done what her parents wanted. She had no sense of control over herself. But this is a way to have control. Her parents try forcing her to eat, which they really cannot do. This means she's winning a battle for the first time.

"But at some point, she is no longer in control. Physiological changes affect her perceptions. She denies hunger when she's starving. She may find it hard to eat because of nausea.

"It's a progressive disease. If left alone, she will starve to death. Ten to 20 percent will die. This means someone else must intervene and help."

Dr. Horne thinks there may be more sociological factors associated with bulimia than with anorexia — "can't be too rich or too thin"

"At some point, the diet becomes an obsession and the girl loses perception of what she's doing to her body."

"Anorexia and bulimia are found especially in high-achievers from upper socio-economic groups."

The typical bulimic, Ms. Myslik suspects, may wish she could be anorexic but doesn't have the control. She tries to resist food, gives in and binges, then tries to eliminate the consequences. She is also, Ms. Myslik adds, more gregarious than the more solitary anorexic.

Resistant to Treatment. Anorexia, Ms. Myslik says, is very resistant to therapy.

The therapist must realize the girl could die. Careful medical care is required, and the patient must be seen by a doctor while she is undergoing therapy. The treatment combines psychoanalysis, behavior modification, family therapy and, Ms. Myslik says, in some cases drugs.

Many therapists treat it as a family problem, and parents do play an important role in recovery.

Ms. Myslik sees treatment as a kind of "re-parenting": being a loving, nurturing but understanding disciplinarian.

———

"You must let her know you understand her disease and are going to take charge, because they are in terror of losing control. You establish a nurturing alliance but at the same time, say 'YOU MUST EAT.' "

At Carrier, the patient is told she must gain weight. She may have arrived at Carrier, for example, weighing only 52 pounds.

She is told she can gain weight any way she likes. She may choose her own food ("wide discretion is permitted," says an explanatory leaflet), she may decide on an all-liquid diet, she may choose a combination.

She is not required to return to normal body weight — she can stay thin — but she must gain a minimum amount of weight to insure complete medical recovery.

Dr. Horne has found that 70 percent will gain weight just by being told to. The remaining 30 sign a "behavioral contract," in which the doctor agrees to help the patient overcome her fear of gaining weight. Only one percent must be fed with a tube.

"Control is the big issue in psychotherapy," Dr. Horne says. "We want the patients to feel THEY are in control. This isn't a power struggle, or we would win the battle and lose the war."

The average length of stay is three months; 25 percent will have to be re-admitted in two years, usually from depression. In fact, half of the anorexia patients suffer from depression and that's the most difficult aspect of treatment.

For bulimics, the treatment is shorter. They learn that eating isn't the only way to control stress. They also learn how to bring themselves safely to normal weight and how to maintain weight within a narrow range, usually two pounds, without purging.

Counselling at University. At Princeton University, there are counsellors, student groups, an emphasis on education, nutrition and prevention. Seminars are held on eating disorders, under the sponsorship of the Health Services Office, and in the 1982-83 academic year, the office published a pamphlet for students, describing these problems.

CENTER STAGE — THE NEW MCCARTER: With more than $1 million already pledged toward $2.5 million for Phase I, McCarter Theatre's $4 million major improvement project is well along toward opening night. This model shows the new glass-enclosed lobby addition on the University Place side, incorporated in Phase II of the design. A matching lobby on the west will have a concession stand and a covered area to shelter those waiting for cars after a performance. Phase I covers new seats, new heating and ventilating systems, air-conditioning, improved acoustics and lighting. James R. Grieves of Baltimore is the architect.

LEARN TO DANCE

In Eight Weeks. An eight-week summer session in ballet, modern dance and jazz will be offered starting June 4 by the Princeton Ballet's School of Ballet, under the direction of Judith Leviton. Classes will be held in Princeton, Cranbury and New Brunswick.

In Princeton, ballet will be given at all levels for everyone from fifth grade and up — including adults — and in modern dance and jazz for high school students and adults starting with beginning levels and continuing through advanced intermediate.

In Cranbury, ballet will be offered for second-graders and above, and for high school students and adults, starting with beginners' levels. In New Brunswick, there will be ballet for intermediate students in grades five through eight, modern and jazz classes for high school and adults, starting with beginners.

Morning dance exercise classes will be available in Princeton and Cranbury. Summer classes are given late in the day and early in the evening, Mondays through Thursdays. Students may register for less than the full eight weeks.

Information is available by calling 921-7758 or 201-249-1254.

MOMIX

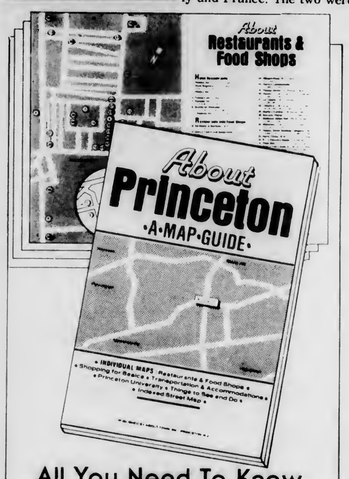
In Single Performance. Momix, the multi-media dance company founded by one of the originators of Pilobolus Dance Theatre, will give a single performance at McCarter this Thursday at 8. Moses Pendleton, founder of the troupe, will be at McCarter for this presentation.

The group began as a solo danced by Pendleton at the 1980 Winter Olympic Games at Lake Placid. Alison Chase, also a Pilobolus graduate, joined Pendleton at Lake Placid and Momix thereupon became a duet, touring in Italy and France. The two were later joined by Daniel Ezralow of the Paul Taylor Company.

BOO!

"The Tingler" Is Here. Or will be. Stop by the Art People Place Friday, May 25 at 9 p.m. and watch Princeton Cult Film Festival's screening — no, not screaming — of "The Tingler."

It stars Vincent Price in a mad scientist's search for the essence of fear. Festival sponsors promise The Tingler "will break loose while YOU are in the audience, so be prepared."



Tickets, at $3, will be on sale at the door.

RENAISSANCE DANCES

Focus of Workshop. Dances of the Renaissance will be performed and taught at a workshop sponsored by the Princeton Country Dancers on Saturday from 1 to 5 at the First Reformed Church of Rocky Hill.

The workshop will be taught by Dorothy Rubin who has had extensive training in Renaissance and Baroque dance and who performs with the early music groups Pandolpho and the Minstrel Tapestry. Music will be provided by Aaron Smith, a member of the New York Renaissance Band, who plays cornetto, recorder and Renaissance winds. The workshop will focus on the pevanes, galliards, branles and alimans of 16th and 17th century France and England as well as Renaissance style in English country dancing.

Experience is not necessary, and period dress would be welcome. The cost of the workshop is $7. Because the workshop size is limited, advance registration is required. For more information or to register, call Sue Dupre at 466-3896.

...AND RAZZLE-DAZZLE

In "Chicago." Described by the Villagers Barn promotion office as "a carnival-circus-vaudeville of clowns and dolls," the musical "Chicago" is laid in the scar-faced city of the 1920s. It will be given by Franklin Villagers Barn Theatre on Fridays and Saturdays (8:30 p.m.) from May 18 through June 23; Sundays at 7:30 and a Sunday matinee June 3 at 3.

The theatre is in Somerset on DeMott Lane between Easton Avenue and Amwell Road. It is on the Franklin Township municipal building grounds.

"Chicago" is the musical with "Mr. Cellophane" in the score, a silver-tongued shyster lawyer, a lot of chorus-girls who moonlight as hired killers and a tough jail matron who deplores the lack of class among her clientele.

Box-office at 201-873-2710 has additional information and reservations.

DANCES AT MCCC

Including New Ones. At least two new dances, one that's been revised and one you may have seen before, will be performed by the Mercer Dance Ensemble Friday and Saturday, May 18 and 19 at 8 in Kelsey Theatre on Mercer County Community College's West Windsor campus.

New works will be John Watson Stewart's "Tegenstelling No. 2" and "Ella," choreographed by Nancy Thiel — a director of the Ensemble and faculty member at MCCC — to a selection of songs sung by Ella Fitzgerald.

"Chutes and Ladders," choreographed by Janell Byrne, the Ensemble's other director and also an MCCC faculty member, has been expanded from its 1982 premiere. It is set to music by Haydn and is described as depicting "the lighter side of construction."

Byrne and Mary Pat Robertson will perform their "Fait Comme Si," three duets to music of Edith Piaf.

John Schenck is lighting designer and Laura Clark has designed the set for "Fait Comme Si."

SHAKESPEARE, '84

At Madison. Plays chosen to represent a broad range of theatrical styles have been chosen for the new season of the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival on the campus of Drew University, Madison.

The season will open with Shakespeare's "Othello," which will play in nightly rotating repertory with "The Merchant of Venice" and Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "The School for Scandal."

Three other plays, chosen from contemporary works, will play three weeks each. They are Tad Mosel's "All the Way Home," playing from September 26 to October 14; Neil Simon's "The Sunshine Boys," from October 17 to November 4 and Arthur Miller's "The Crucible," booked for November 7-25.

Subscription information is available by calling 201-377-4487 or writing Shakespeare Festival, Madison, N.J., 07940. Single tickets go on sale June 11.

MUSIC

CELLIST, PIANIST

At University. Cellist Kristine Bogyo and pianist Michael Oelbaum will give a concert on Sunday at 3 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the University campus.

Their program will be: J.S. Bach, Suite II in D Minor for Unaccompanied Cello; Beethoven, Sonata in C Major, Opus 111, for piano solo and Sonata in A Major, Opus 69, for cello and piano. Sponsored by the Friends of Music, the concert is free.

Kristine Bogyo was born in Budapest, Hungary and grew up in Montreal where she studied at the Conservatoire. She continued her studies with Janos Starker at Indiana University and later with Bernard Greenhouse in New York. Ms. Bogyo has performed as soloist with several orchestras, including the Montreal Symphony, and has made recital and chamber music appearances in Canada and the United States. She has been a member of the Canadian Opera Company and the National Ballet orchestras and principal cellist of the New Chamber Orchestra.

Kristine Bogyo

Michael Oelbaum attended the Mannes College of Music where he studied with Nadia Reisenberg. He has been guest soloist with the San Jose Symphony, the New Jersey and Baltimore Symphony Orchestras and has toured the United States and Mexico with the Vienna Chamber Orchestra. He has given recitals in New York, Washington, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Boston and, as a chamber music player, has participated in the Marlboro Music Festival in Vermont. Mr. Oelbaum made his European debut in London in 1980, and the following season, in Finlandia Hall in Helsinki.

MUSICAL POTPOURRI

At Choir College. The Westminster Conservatory "Spring Musicale!" will be presented on Saturday, June 2. It will feature members of the Conservatory faculty performing for the benefit of the newly founded Conservatory Scholarship Fund.

The performance will begin at 7:30 in Bristol Chapel, and will be followed by a reception in Williamson Hall Lounge. Tickets are $5 for students and $10 for adults. Contributions may also be made in the categories of friend, $25 - $49, sponsor, $50 - $99, or benefactor, $100 - $500. Donations are tax deductible.

Heading the roster of performers will be Laurie Altman, jazz pianist and composer, who will perform an original composition for the piano. Jill Crawford, who teaches flute and a children's theory class called "Musical Explorations," will perform her own arrangements of traditional Irish folk music with Claire Holland, 'cello, Margaret Montanye, violin, and Jeanine Roberts, clarinet.

Helene Friedlander and Victoria Griswold join for a group of dances written for piano duet, including works by Brahms, Debussy, Dvorak, and Bizet. Kathleen Grammer, mezzo-soprano, will be joined by Mary Anne Walker, viola and Martha Davidson, piano, in a performance of the Brahms songs for alto and viola "Zwei Gesange," opus 91.

George Gray, tenor, and Tracey Richards, soprano, will sing the duet, "Vicino a te," from the opera "Andrea Chenier" by Umberto Giordano.

The "Romanian Dances" by Bartok will be presented by Margaret Montanye, violin; a trio sonata by Bach will be performed by Junko Ota, violin, Lynne Cooksey, flute, and John Ferguson, harpsichord; and Lauren Sarno, soprano, will be accompanied by Marianne Lauffer, piano, in Kurt Weill's "Surabaya Johnny" from "Happy End."

The finale for the program will bring together an unusual combination of instruments. The "allegro con brio" from Hummel's "Military Septet" will be performed by Janice Holms, flute, Jeanine Roberts, clarinet, Roy Engler, trumpet, Junko Ota, violin, Claire Holland, 'cello, Victoria Griswold, piano, and Rogers Woolston, bass violin.

Tickets may be obtained through the Westminster Conservatory office in Taylor Hall on the Westminster Choir College campus. For further information call 921-7104, or 924-6359.

SUMMER WEEK SET

For Young String Players. The Westminster Conservatory has opened registration for the Summer String Festival '84, an intensive week of instruction for young string players, with emphasis on the ensemble experience.

Cellists, violists or violinists through high school age who have attained at least the equivalent of the Suzuki method Book One are eligible for the Festival, which runs from June 25 through June 29. The cost is $90, and students of any private teacher or school are welcome, upon their teachers' recommendation. Enrollment is limited to 100 students.

For further information, or to receive a registration packet, call the Westminster Conservatory office at 921-7104 or 924-6359.

RECITAL PLANNED

By Piano Students. Piano students from the studio of Naomi J. Chandler will be presented in two recitals at the Present Day Club, Stockton Street, on Saturday afternoon. The programs at 2 and 4 are open to the public.

Those appearing on the programs include Timothy Johnston, Mae Lee, Holly Doulon, Elizabeth Robinson, Tiana Lee, Alison Abrams, Keith Tietjen, Leslie Powell, Stephan Connor, Heather Doulon, Serenn Fong, Laurie Alexander, Mark Gajewski, Emma Shears, Cherry Lee, James Weatherill, Gretchen Rawden, Kristina Wellman, Andrew Lee, Phoebe Reed, Serena Volpp, Rachel Bawden, Sebastian Hill and Rebecca Poage.

At 4 p.m. Serena Volpp, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gert P. Volpp of Poe Road, and Rebecca Poage, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Poage of Province Line Road, will play a joint recital. Miss Poage was a Gindhart prize winner last year and also appeared in the master class of Karl Ulrich Schnabel at Trenton State College in March. Compositions by Bach, Brahms, Beethoven, Mozart and Schubert will be played.

SPRING CONCERT SET

By Youth Orchestra. The Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra will give its spring concert Sunday at 2 in the Kirby Arts Center at the Lawrenceville School. Admission is free.

Two young members of the Orchestra will be featured as soloists. Bonnie Huang will perform Liszt's Hungarian Fantasy, and Becka Dyson will be featured on the English horn in Sibelius' The Swan of Tuonela. The final work will be Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4.

The Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra is a 70-piece community youth orchestra. Currently in its 22nd season, it was founded in 1961 as a training ensemble for the Greater Symphony. Under the baton of Matteo Giammario, the orchestra performs three concerts a year, as well as chamber music. MCSO has appeared on national and state television shows.

For information concerning auditions for membership in the orchestra, the soloist competition or the spring concert program, call Evelyn Krosnick at 683-0777.

CONCERT AT HIGH SCHOOL

By Choruses, Handbells. The Princeton High School choral groups and the Handbell Choir will present their annual Spring Concert Wednesday, May 23, at 8 in the High School auditorium. All choirs will be under the direction of William Trego and Nancianne Parrella.

The Freshman Women's Chorus will begin the program with Come Let us Start a Joyful Song by Hassler, Sweet Kate by Jones, and Ye Fields of Light by Frank. The Men's Choir will then follow with Landlord Fill the Flowing Bowl, the spiritual Little Innocent Lamb and Brothers Sing On! by Grieg. These two choirs will then combine to sing excerpts from Die Fledermaus by Strauss.

The Handbell Choir will perform Three Short Pieces arranged by Stephens, Oriental Blossoms by Callahan, and Matins by Dobrinski.

As in the past the Princeton High School winner of the Anna B. Stokes music competition will perform. This year, senior Marna Seltzer won first place in the violin competition and will perform the first movement of the Bruch Violin Concerto in G minor.

Following her performance, the High School Women's Chorous will sing Ich Jauchze from Cantata No. 15 by Bach, Aure Volanti by Caccini, Laudate Pueri by Mendelssohn and Fallen Leaves by Persichetti.

A group of girls from the choir, called The Cat's Meow, will sing several popular songs. The Choir will complete the program with excerpts from Persichetti's Celebrations, Polly Wolly Doodle by Kubik, and two spirituals, Elijah Rock and Soon ah will be Done.

TO PLAY NEW MUSIC

At Woolworth Concert. A concert of new music will be presented on Saturday at 8:30 in the McAlpin Rehearsal Room at Woolworth Center, on the university campus. Sponsored jointly by the Friends of Music and the Department of Music, admission is free.

Composers will include Phoebe Myhill, a graduate of the Class of 1983 and winner of the Sudler Prize for Princeton; John Gibson, second year graduate student; Stephen Peles, a former graduate student; and Joseph Dubiel, a member of the music faculty at Princeton. Assisting in the presentation of the new music will be pianists Jeffrey Farrington and Marjorie Hess, soprano Mimmi Fulmer and string quartet members Dean Franke and John McGrosso, violinists, Susan Chan, violist and Kathe Jarka, cellist.

BOUDINOTES TO SING

In Flemington. The Boudinotes, an a capella singing group composed of all women, will make an appearance at the "10 Romantic Days in May" celebration at Liberty Village/Turntable Junction, Fleming.

The group will sing a selection of romantic songs Saturday at 3, the opening day of the promotion, which will also feature fashion parades, cooking and leather-working demonstrations, wine tastings, strolling musicians and dance performances.

CELEBRATION OF NATURE: Monumental neo-impressionist paintings by Joseph DiGiorgio, on display at the gallery at Squibb, celebrate the vast spaces and almost voluptuous rhythms of the American landscape.

ART

'DRAWN TO LANDSCAPE'

Painter Joseph DiGiorgio. The collection of heroically scaled paintings by Joseph DiGiorgio on display at the Squibb Gallery celebrates the vastness and the opulence of the American landscape. Eight enormous oils on canvas — diptychs and triptychs, including some that are more than 20 feet long — nicely capture the iridescent effects of color and light along with the lyrical rhythms that are characteristic of our open countryside.

These essentially neo-impressionist works are best described as pretty pictures. Although monumental in size, they are both gentle and sentimental. Romantic views evoke feelings of tranquility and a sense of intimacy as they capture the essence of quiet communion with nature. They have been described as "showing the land at its most essential," and compared with the Hudson River School because of the artist's mystical celebration of the land.

"It is a special feeling for me," says DiGiorgio, adding, "I am drawn to the ... landscape and to mists and shadows."

Despite the fact that the subject is often traditional — idealized views of moonlight on a lake, the hot mixture of color in an autumn wood, or the pastel tinted surfaces of a rain washed mountain range — the paintings present these familiar subjects from a fresh point of view.

The artist states that "...My paintings are never about specific sites; they are the mood and the spirit of our beautiful country."

Di Giorgio's feelings about his subject are easily shared by the viewer as a result of the effective combination of his expert handling of light, expressive use of color, and a virtuoso display of painterly technique.

An expanded version of pointillism is employed to capture the entire spectrum of color that is always present, but seldom noted, in nature painting. The viewer is made aware of the many hues that the eye combines but doesn't acknowledge — the hidden reds and blues that lurk within the varied greens, and the rich blends of pure color that ultimately join to produce the ubiquitous browns and greys that are a permanent part of the landscape.

Although the technique is reminiscent of the mechanical color relationships used by Seurat and his contemporaries, the technical effect is tempered by softer stylistic allusions — painterly references to the work of Ryder, Monet and Turner. In addition, the size of the paintings alters the scale and expands the pointillist's dots into patches of color that form patterns as well as creating optically dynamic surfaces.

At the University Art Museum. A pair of graphics displays by two well known contemporary artists dispenses with tradition and, in part, makes intellectual rather than visual demands upon the viewer.

Robert Rauschenberg's Razorback Bunch, a series of seven intaglio prints, challenge the observer. A puzzling multi-plate mix of photographic and made images is combined using different sized papers. The series is muted in color and affect and relies heavily on the combination of silhouettes to make its rather obscure artistic statement.

The collection of modestly scaled prints by Helen Frankenthaler has much the same visual impact as the well known artist's enormous paintings. Although the spaces are small, the balances created by the contrasts between large, open areas and smaller, scattered shapes serve to make these color prints dramatic in their understatement. And, even though the forms are restrained by the more

ENGAGEMENTS

Rome-Shea. Alice N. Rome, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rome of Linwood Circle, to Dennis G. Shea, son of Mrs. Lois T. Shea of Falls Church, Va., and the late Charles Shea.

Miss Rome, who graduated from Tufts University and Rutgers University School of Law, is an attorney with the federal government in Washington.

Mr. Shea is a graduate of the College of William and Mary and received an MBA degree from American University. He is an assistant director of the Division of Market Regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

A late summer wedding is planned.

Genetta-Wadley. Ann H. Genetta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony L. Genetta of 3 Spruce Lane, Kingston, to Lawrence J. Wadley of Annandale, Va., son of Curtis T. Wadley of Myrtle Beach, S.C., and the late Mrs. Wadley.

Miss Genetta is a graduate of St. Christopher School, Letchworth, England, and Rutgers University. Mr. Wadley, a veteran of the U.S. Air Force, was graduated from the University of South Carolina and currently attends the University of Virginia.

They plan to be married in October.

Russell-Butcher. Lynn F. Russell, daughter of Mrs. Walter S. Russell of Dover, Del., and the late Mr. Russell, to Robert M. Butcher, son of Dr. and Mrs. Earl O. Butcher of Laurel Road.

Miss Russell is director of public relations, Chemical Group for Uniroyal, Inc. in New York City. She graduated from Vassar College with a degree in economics.

Mr. Butcher is deputy to the chief financial officer of Citicorp in New York. He graduated from Phillips Exeter Academy, Harvard College and the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration. His previous marriage ended in divorce.

The wedding will be this Saturday.

Lessing-LaVoie. Susan Lessing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lessing of Marion Road East, to Fred M. LaVoie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. LaVoie of Belle Mead.

Miss Lessing is a graduate of Princeton High School, Mercer County Community College and Trenton State College. She is employed by the Foolish Fox Restaurant in Princeton. Her fiance is an alumnus of Montgomery High School and is a self-employed farmer in Belle Mead.

They are planning an October wedding at All Saints' Church.

Crowell-Begrowicz. Patricia Crowell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin P. Crowell of Blackfoot Road, Pennington, to Alan N. Begrowicz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Begrowicz Jr. of Wheeling, Ill.

Miss Crowell, a graduate of Stuart Country Day School, received a B.S. degree in chemical engineering from the University of Notre Dame and an M.S. from the Institute of Paper Chemistry in Appleton, Wisc. She is employed as a process engineer at Union Camp Corp. in Franklin, Va.

Her fiance, an alumnus of St. Mary College in Winona, Minn., where he earned a B.A. in mathematics and chemistry, currently attends DePaul University.

A July wedding is planned.

Smaller the Better

"Miniatures," a multi-media show booked for late fall, needs original works of art with an image size no larger than 8 by 10 inches.

It will be hung at the Hopewell Frame Shop and Gallery, and Abigail L. Frantz, owner of the shop, would like firm commitments from artists by August 3. She hopes to begin assembling on November 1 and exhibit dates are November 13 to December 29.

There is no minimum size, and no restriction on media or subject matter. The piece must be ready to hang and, if it is paper, under glass or plexiglass.

Interested artists should call Ms. Frantz at 466-0817.

Art in Princeton

disciplined printmaker's techniques, there is still a strong sense of movement — one that is smiliar to the painterly affect of Frankenthaler's much larger works.

At ETS. John Reeves, whose tropical landscapes are currently on display in the Henry Chauncey Conference Center, explains his work by noting that "...as a child of the bland suburban fifties it is not surprising that I should be obsessed with exotic settings and extreme environments."

He also makes it easy for us to share his obsession by presenting artistically skilful versions of hot light, sparkling Caribbean waters, and sun-baked architecture. The collection, which spans a decade, follows the artist's progression from hard edge and near-abstraction into a pleasing realism that nicely captures the subject. Precise brushwork is competently combined with line and wash using an agreeable, realistic style.

EXHIBITS

Among the 14 artists from New Jersey displaying works in the office of U.S. Senator Frank Lautenberg starting May 21 is Walter Darby Bannard of Rocky Hill. The exhibit will be in Senator Lautenberg's office for three weeks.

Photographer David G. Ritchey will be the featured artist at the Montgomery National Bank, Rocky Hill branch, June 5 through July 5. A finalist in the World Photographic Competition, he has been in solo and group exhibits throughout the northeast. He will be represented in Rocky Hill by 18 pieces, previewing an August show at Art Masters of Princeton.

Art Masters Gallery, Spring Street, will open an exhibit of oils and watercolors by Yvonne Mahru Saturday, May 26 with a reception from 6 to 8. The exhibit will run through June 16. She has shown at McCarter Theatre, Nassau Gallery, and in the Garden State Watercolor Society exhibit. Her landscapes and marines evoke her travels in the Alps and the countries of the Mediterranean.

TIGERS FALL SHORT

In Final Spring Events. For almost all of Princeton University's spring sports athletes, the season has ended on disappointing notes.

The baseball team, faced with a golden opportunity to win more than 20 games this season, lost a doubleheader to a mediocre Rutgers team to conclude with a 19-19-2 record for the year. The lacrosse team, mired in one of its worst seasons ever, continued its losing ways in the season finale against Adelphi, 17-12.

The heavyweight crew, hoping to qualify for the finals in the Eastern Sprints, did not achieve that goal Sunday at Worcester, Massachusetts, and faded to fourth place in the consolation race. Brown won the main event. The lightweights, seeded first in the Sprints and hoping for a victory that would assure a trip to Henley in June, lost by a quarter-length and 1.4 seconds to Yale. The Tiger lightweight junior varsity and freshmen won their races and Princeton won the Jope Cup for overall points but that was not the big cigar.

Princeton may still have a chance to avenge the loss to Yale, if the Orange and Black are invited to a national lightweight rowing regatta in Cincinnati on June 16.

Otherwise the only Princetonians competing in any national post-season tournaments this year may be the No. 1 seeds of the men's and women's tennis teams, Ted Farnsworth and Joy Cummings, who begin play later this week.

Tiger Runners Miss. The Princeton track team had hoped to place several competitors in the NCAA championships later this month in Eugene, Oregon. But the week turned out to be a bleak one for the team and its coach, Larry Ellis, who is also coach of the United States Olympic team.

Ellis first had to face the reality of the Eastern Bloc boycott of the games. Then he and the Tigers discovered that the annual Princeton-Adidas Invitational track meet had a few no-shows of its own. Among them: venerable discus thrower Al Oerter and the entire Villanova team.

Princeton's own competitors then fell flat in their efforts to produce national qualifying times. Freshman sprint star Steve Morgan aggravated an old hamstring injury in the 100 meter dash and his second place time of 10.46 was just .13 too slow for the NCAA. He finished third in the 200 meters and held out hope that he might qualify for the nationals in the IC4A meet scheduled this weekend at Villanova.

In the 1,500 meters, Jack Fonss ran a 3:43.8, the second fastest time in Princeton's record book, but still fell short of the NCAA qualifying mark. Steeplechaser Rob Quinn finished second in his event, four seconds off the individual mark he set at the Penn Relays two weeks before.

The baseball team concluded its weather-delayed trip to New England, defeating Dartmouth on the strength of two home runs by Drew Stratton and a game-winning homer by Dan Arendas. After another day lost to rain the Tigers were defeated by Harvard, but still had an overall winning record within grasp.

The doubleheader at Rutgers (11-19 at the time) could have been a sweet ending note. It turned sour in the first game, as the Tigers committed seven errors and collected only five singles in the 4-0 loss. In the second game the Orange and Black took a 3-2 lead in the third innning, with Arendas singling in two runs and Todd Tuckner driving in the third. Freshman pitcher Joe Pape left the game with the score at 3-3. Then, in the eighth inning, Scott LaForest gave up a grand slam home run that ended the game — and the season — in an ignominious fashion, 7-3.

For Hun Baseball Nine. It was one tournament down, one tournament left for the Hun School baseball team, after the Raiders were eliminated Monday by Peddie from the NJISAA Class A State Tournament.

That leaves the Mercer County Tournament, where third-seeded Hun will oppose West Windsor Saturday at noon at Mercer County Park.

Hun had been seeded first in the Prep School state tournament but was ousted by one swing of the bat when Peddie's Don Eytel connected for a grand slam in the sixth to highlight a five-run Falcon rally and break a 4-4 deadlock. Wasted were a pair of doubles by Hun infielder Lorenzo Mendoza, as Hun was limited to six hits by winning pitcher Chris Squire. With the win Squire raised his record to 7-2. Rich Stout (3-2) was charged with the loss.

Peddie will face Lawrenceville who blanked Blair Academy, 2-0, in the other semi-final matchup, for the Class A title on Monday.

The unexpected loss to Peddie reflected the up and down season that Hun has been experiencing this year. The 10-6 record has coach Bill McQuade groping for answers.

"Some days we look like world-beaters," insisted McQuade. "We can beat anybody. Some days we're not catching the ball, not hitting. It's frustrating. Like a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. I think it's due," offered McQuade, "to inexperience of some of the players."

Two Makeup Games. This week Hun will play two makeup games. It will host

Poll Picks Tiger 11 Third

The fortunes of the Princeton football team are on the rise, at least in the minds of the Ivy League sports information directors.

In their annual poll to pick the favorite for the league title, the directors have chosen the Tigers to finish third, behind Harvard and Penn. The Crimson, who shared the crown with the Quakers in 1983, was picked first for the second consecutive year.

Following the Orange and Black in order were Dartmouth, Brown, Cornell, Yale and Columbia. A year ago Princeton was picked seventh in the poll and finished sixth after a promising start.

Of all the current big league baseball players, which one has hit the most career home runs? ... Answer is Reggie Jackson — and no other active player is close to him ... Jackson started 1984 with 478 career homers ... Next comes Mike Schmidt who started 1984 with 389 career homes runs.

Here's a believe-it-or-not about one of the greatest baseball pitchers of all-time, Warren Spahn ... As a pitcher, Spahn won exactly 363 games in his major league career — and as a batter in his major league career, he totaled exactly 363 hits! ... What are the odds on that?

ONE STRIKE AND YOU ARE OUT. That's not a new baseball rule. That's the way disaster plays the game. Is your house, car, life and income insured for a disaster?

Did you know that, oddly enough, the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race was not always a 500-mile event ... Back in 1916, five years after the 500 was started, officials cut the distance to 300 miles because they felt a 500-mile race was too long to hold spectator interest! ... It went back to 500 miles in 1919.

Hopewell Valley High this Wednesday and travel to Ewing on Friday. Both contests will start at 3:45.

In games last week, Hun edged Steinert, 3-2, blanked Morrisville, 3-0, on a three-hitter by Ted Bransfield and lost a 9-5 slugfest to Blair Academy.

Pete Stam pitched six innings and gave up three hits to get the win over Steinert before tiring and giving way to Rich Stout in the seventh. Stam had two doubles and drove in a run and Bransfield drove in another run with a double.

Hun scored one in the first when Joe Scandariato and Bransfield were each hit by a pitched ball and Stout singled. In all, five Hun batters were hit during the game.

Hun scored the winning runs in the second, combining doubles by Stam and Bransfield for one run. Another came when Spartan pitcher Jim Acolia hit Stout, Barry Landis and Rick Brenner forcing in a run.

In throwing out two base runners trying to steal and picking another off third, Hun catcher Landis played his best game of the year, McQuade felt.

A Pair of 3-Hitters. Hits were scarce in Hun's 3-0 win over Morrisville, as both sides were limited to three hits. But Hun played errorless ball in the field while the Pennsylvania team committed four bobbles and allowed two unearned runs. Owen Cane singled home one run and Brenner's sacrifice fly plated another as Hun scored two in the third.

Meanwhile, Bransfield was in complete control, striking out nine and walking three. "We didn't hit the ball well either but his team (Morrisville pitcher Dwayne Johnson) let him down in the field," said McQuade.

Blair Academy, unbeaten at the time in nine games, ganged up on Pete Stam for six runs in the first two innings and then held on to outlast Hun,9-5. "That's probably the hardest Stam has been hit in two years," commented McQuade.

Hun fought back, scoring four runs in the first two innings and ultimately outhitting Blair, 10-9. But it couldn't close the gap after Blair scored three more runs in the sixth. The loss was Stam's first after three wins.

FIRST SEASON ENDING

For PHS Girls Lacrosse. "The way I look at it," observed Joyce Jones, the Princeton High girls lacrosse coach who had guided her second-ranked team to a 9-2 record, "after we finish the regular season, we still have four games to play in the state tournament. Only this time there are no tomorrows; we have to take each game as it comes."

The deadline for seedings in the state tournament is Friday and Jones would like to win as many games as she can to warrant as high a seeding as possible. Up until the semi-final round, Jones reported, teams play at the home site of the higher-seeded team in the state tournament.

Last year, PHS came within one step of the mountain top, losing 10-7 to Moorestown in the state final. It marked the first time in the eight years of the state tourney, Jones pointed out, that a Central Jersey team had reached the finals. This time, the Little Tigers would like to take that final step.

They will sharpen their skills in this final week of regular season play by traveling to Montclair this Wednesday and to town rival Stuart Country Day on Friday at 3:30. Tuesday, PHS will end its season by entertaining Montville. Montville has become a nemesis for the Little Tigers, defeating them twice last year and again in April this season.

Last week, PHS needed a little time to break through Chatham's defensive triangle but came on to defeat the visitors for the second time this spring, 9-2. Sue Lofgren and Cassie Vogt led the Little Tigers with three and two goals while sophomore Amy Kershaw, Alison Fraker, Erika Gabrielsen and Carol O'Donoghue added single goals.

2 Players, 10 Goals. Earlier, Pam Jennings and Lofgren each rammed home five goals to pace PHS to a 14-6 win over Columbia -- again for the second time this year. Gabrielsen contributed two goals and Kim Perna and Carol O'Donoghue one each.

The score was 7-4 at the half. "We felt we needed a bigger cushion because momentum can change so quickly," recalled Jones. "At halftime we talked about the fact that Columbia could tie it up."

Jones credited defensive player Myla Causing, who had three blocks and several interceptions, with "one of her better games, a super game," and also cited junior defensive wing Martha Waltman for her defensive play.

PHS outshot Columbia, 41-12, as goalie Liz O'Donoghue had seven saves.

Last week's scheduled rematch with Princeton Day School was cancelled because of a wet, slippery playing field and will probably not be rescheduled.

"I had to make a decision at one o'clock and the field was wet at the time," said Jones. The sun came out later in the afternoon but, noted Jones, "when you have to make a decision, you have to make a decision."

KATZ IS FIRST

In 400 in County Meet. In Saturday's Mercer County Meet dominated by Trenton High, Ed Katz of Princeton High was a surprise victor in the 400 meter. Running in the outside lane, Katz was clocked in 50.4 to nip Gerald Truehart of Lawrence who posted a 50.9. The County record for the 400 is 46.8 set by Darrell Jeffress of Trenton in 1978.

Tim O'Gorman of PHS placed sixth in the pole vault with a leap of 11-0. The event was won by Dennis Gwynn of Ewing who cleared 12-6. Trenton won the team title with 151 points, followed by Lawrence, the current Colonial Valley Conference leader with 91 and Ewing with 68. PHS earned 17 points.

Three new meet records were set, two by Trenton High's Mike Glenn in the 800 and 1600 events. Evins Tobler of THS extended the long jump mark another quarter-inch by leaping 21-9½. He had set the previous record of 21-9¼ last year.

The Little Tigers will next oppose Hopewell Valley at home Tuesday in a league dual meet starting at 3:45. They were scheduled to oppose Nottingham this Tuesday.

Field Events Decide. It wasn't hard to figure out how Ewing managed to hand the Little Tigers their second loss in six outings. The Blue Devils, in posting an impressive 83-48 victory, won every field event, sweeping both the shot put and discus and finishing 1-2 in the javelin. In the pole vault, Princeton standout Eric Rapp was topped by Ewing's Dennis Gwynn who cleared 12-6. Rapp was second at 11-6, while teammate Tim O'Gorman was another foot lower at 10-6.

Ed Katz was the lone double winner for PHS, taking the 100 and 200 meter sprints in 11.2 and 22.6, edging Ewing's Ernesto Gibson in both races. Tom Haggerty won the 400 for PHS and Graham Trelstad the 800. Their winning times were 52.1 and 2:06.0.

Ewing retaliated when James Phillips won both hurdle events, only a third by Tim O'Gorman in the 400 IH preventing a Ewing sweep in both. Ewing's Paul Jones then bested Princeton's Ben Eiref in the 1600, 4:38.9 to 4:43.0 and Darrin Middlebrooks topped Nathaniel McVey-Finney of PHS in the 3200 by 9.9 seconds.

Phillips, Wasim Baig, Kevin Lee and Gibson combined to bring Ewing a victory in the 1600 relay, as they posted a 3:38.0 to Princeton's 3:46.0. Bruce Ellerstein finished second to Haggerty in the 400 for PHS, while Baig was second to Phillips in both hurdle events for the Blue Devils.

PHS OVERSHADOWED

In County Track Meet. "You always hope for the best but I anticipated they would not be at their best," commented Princeton High girls track coach Tom McMorrow, after Saturday's County Meet at Steinert High School. Considering it was the Little Tigers' third hard track meet in eight days, McMorrow added that it was unrealistic to expect times to drop.

PHS finished with 23 points to tie Lawrence for sixth place; as expected Notre Dame won the team title with 107 points followed by Hightstown with 83.

Ahead for PHS is a dual meet with Nottingham this Wednesday — its last home meet — and a Tuesday meeting with Hopewell Valley in Pennington.

Currently, PHS and Notre Dame are tied in the CVC league standings with one loss each. "We might get lucky if Notre Dame beats Hightstown," said McMorrow. "It could end in up in a three-way tie for first."

In the County Meet, PHS could do no better than a fourth in any event. Teressa DiPerna finished fourth in the 200, Gail Woolston fourth in the 400, Kiran Cummings fourth in the 3200 with a time of 11:59.1 — two seconds off her best — and Sarah Billington was part of a three-way tie for fourth (4-8) in the high jump.

Capturing fifths for PHS were Hilary Jones in the 400, Heather Gray in the 800 and Dawn Gray in the 400 hurdles. Dawn Gray and twin sisters Susan and Heather Gray and Woolston combined for a fifth for PHS in the 1400 relay.

Earlier in the week, PHS entertained Ewing in a dual meet.

"It was one of the nicest meets I've ever been at," McMorrow stated. "When the competition was going on between the schools, when they were on the track, they ran hard. When they were off the track, they talked, chatted and enjoyed each other. It was very nice."

Two Point Victory. In any two-point track victory such as Princeton's stirring 62-60 victory over third-ranked Ewing last week, every second and third place finish is vital. PHS captured first in eight of 14 events, including the decisive 1600 relay, where Dawn Gray, Heather Gray, Hilary Jones and Gail Woolston combined for a 4:19.0 clocking to Ewing's 4:22.2.

Ewing won both hurdle events, the 100 and 1600 meter, but PHS countered with four firsts of its own in the running events. Teressa DiPerna won the 200 in 27.3, Woolston the 400 in 1:01.7, Heather Gray the 800 in 2:41.0 and Kiran Cummings the 3200 in 13:00.7.

Fourth-ranked PHS enjoyed a 3-2 advantage in the field events where Barbara Halvorsen captured the shot and the javelin and Sarah Billington won the high jump over Ewing's Sophia Ponder on the basis of fewer misses. Both cleared five feet. Halvorsen's margin over teammate Carine Touissant in the javelin was 15 feet — 99-8 to 84-2.

Susan Gray finished second in the 1600 and 3200 distance races, while Dawn Gray was second in the 400 intermediate hurdles. Teammate Barbara Byrne was second to Heather Gray in the 800.

FOUR MORE VICTORIES

For PDS Girls' Lacrosse. It was a banner week for the Princeton Day girls' lacrosse team, which won four more games, one against a strong Collingswood High team. The four triumphs raised the team's record to 11-1.

That one loss came at the hands of Princeton High, and last Tuesday weather intervened to deny the Panthers a chance for revenge. A rainy morning convinced PHS to call the game, even though the sun was shining brightly by game time.

From the looks of things, that one loss may be the only blemish on the Blue and White's record for the rest of the season. The regular season was scheduled to end this past Tuesday against Hun, and following that, PDS is favored to sweep through the prep playoffs. Seeded first, the Panthers have already beaten every other team in the tournament.

They finished off that accomplishment last week with victories over Dwight-Englewood, 18-2, last Wednesday, and Kent Place, 11-7, Friday. Saturday morning in a light rain, the Panthers achieved their most significant victory to date, a 12-11 thriller over highly-touted Collingswood High.

After its controversial 1-0 victory over PDS last year in the playoffs (the game was called at halftime because of rain), Dwight-Englewood never stood a chance on Wednesday. PDS jumped out to a huge lead, and coasted to an easy victory. Melinda Bowen had five goals, Birgit Enstrom, four, Karen Callaway, three and Lynne Faden, two. Several players had one apiece. Once in a while Hilleary Thomas was called upon to make a save; she had six for the entire game.

On Friday, PDS traveled to Kent Place and again got off to a big early lead, going up 9-3 at the half. KP proved a little tougher, however, and rallied somewhat in the second half to make the final score more respectable. Faden, Bowen and Enstrom all scored three times, Callaway tallied a pair.

But the real action was reserved for Saturday morning in a see-saw battle against Collingswood. Although it had a chance, PDS could never get more than one goal ahead of the visitors. The score was often tied, including a 6-6 deadlock at the half. It was just as close after the intermission, but a move by coach Kim Bedesem paid off.

She moved the team's best player, Callaway, from third home to second home, a position nearer the opposing goal. Callaway responded by scoring five of PDS's six goals in the second half, including the winning tally from a free position in front of the Collingswood net with about a minute left.

"She's our best offensive player, and she was not in the play that much in the first half," Bedesem commented. "She's the person you want to go to when you need a goal."

Other scoring came from Bowen with three, Faden with two, and Tania Schoennagel and Enstrom, one apiece.

Overall, Bedesem was pleased with her team's performance, but she thought her girls could have played better. "We don't play very many tough teams, so we're not always as ready as we should be when one comes along."

PDS outshot the visitors 36 to 26.

Finally, this past Monday, PDS had another embarrassing win over Stuart, 19-2, using jayvee players to help keep the score down. Callaway pumped in six goals, Faden had five, Bowen, three, and Tonya Elmore, two.

CALLAWAY ON THE ATTACK: Despite the efforts of two defenders, PDS junior Karen Callaway keeps control of the ball in Friday's game against Kent Place, won by the Panthers, 11-7. Callaway's real heroics came in the game against Collingswood the next day. See story below.

High School Gains Entry to State Tournament, Advances to Mercer County Final Eight Round

The stakes were very high for both teams. As Princeton High and Trenton faced each other Saturday, both one game below .500, the winner would clinch a berth in the NJSIAA state tournament and advance to the final eight round in the Mercer County Tournament. For the loser, elimination from both tournaments.

When the last pitch had been fired, PHS walked off the field a 3-0 victor, the result of a superb three-hit pitching performance by Dino D'Angelo and three glittering defensive plays in the field. In winning, PHS raised its record to 7-7, while Trenton dipped to 7-9.

Rain threatened the game, which was also a first-round contest for one of the remaining five spots in the Mercer County Tournament. PHS coach Ed Beacham reported that, although it rained "fairly hard" in the third and fourth innings, "I knew unless it really poured, Tony Racine (THS coach) would want to play. We both needed it."

In winning, PHS finds itself faced with more games than it can play this week. It will entertain Nottingham on Thursday and travel to Hamilton the following day. It was scheduled to meet McCorristin earlier in the week and also play top-seeded Notre Dame Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Mercer Park in the semi-final round in the County Tourney. That conflicts with the PHS senior prom and Beacham believes the game will be moved up — probably to around 3:30.

Also, Beacham reports that Saturday is the last day for the first round of the state tournament and PHS will have to play its first NJSIAA Group 3 opponent "sometime this week."

Since McCorristin, Nottingham and Hamilton are all league games and must be played, one of the three will probably be postponed, Beacham believes.

As for who that first state opponent will be, seedings have not been released, but Beacham believes PHS will play a team from Somerset or Middlesex County. Ewing, Nottingham and PHS are the only three Group 3 teams from the County to qualify for the state tournament and Beacham reported that the NJSIAA committee usually does not pit county teams against each other in the opening rounds because they have already played each other. "We're 7-7, so we are not going to be seeded," he said.

D'Angelo Man of the Hour. For D'Angelo, who had won only one other game this season, the win over Trenton was a masterpiece — of ability and determination. "He's a gutsy kid," agreed Beacham. "He was determined he was going to win that game."

Trenton coach Racine agreed, saying, "That pitcher was the most pumped up pitcher we faced all season."

PHS found itself in a must-win situation with Trenton because the day before it had blown a 6-0 lead against Montgomery High and sustained a stunning loss when Montgomery rallied for four runs in the final inning for a 7-6 upset.

Jason Petrone had two hits and drove in a run and D'Angelo's single off losing pitcher Donald McKinnis gave PHS a 2-0 lead in the fourth. PHS added another single run in the fifth on Mike Petrone's sacrifice fly. In all, the Little Tigers collected eight hits.

But it was three defensive plays that saved the Little Tigers. In the fourth, with a Trenton runner on base, PHS left fielder Tom Foltiny "dove" to make a spectacular grab of a drive off the bat of Lorenzo Square just short of the fence deep in the corner and right on the line.

In the sixth, right fielder Jason Petrone came up with what Racine called the key play of the game and Beacham labeled "a very difficult catch." With runners on second and third, Trenton's Mike Miller lifted a pop to short right. "When I saw the ball, I said, 'Oh, oh, we have a 3-2 ball game,' no way Jason is going to catch that ball," recalled Beacham. But Petrone charged the ball relentlessly and made the grab.

In the seventh, third baseman Jon Sherin made a diving stop of a hard smash to throw out THS pitcher McKinnis. "Once he came up with it, it was an easy toss to first but it was a great play," said Beacham.

In contrast to Princeton's standout defensive play, the Tornadoes were guility of four errors and allowed six out of eight stolen base attempts by the Little Tigers. "We had no business winning this game," agreed Racine.

Home Run Victim. The previous day, PHS was coasting along in its game with Montgomery, taking a 6-0 lead after two innings. D'Angelo had a double, and second baseman Mickey Carenvale rapped two hits to pace the Little Tigers.

But the Cougars chipped away, getting one run back in the third and two more in the fifth on solo homers by Cris Clough and pitcher Leon Taylor.

After PHS hurler Sherin opened the final inning by walking Karl Conrad, Taylor followed with his second homer to make it 6-5. Bill O'Connor then greeted reliefer Jim Opperman with a single, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and was sacrificed to third. A two-base error sent the tying run home and then Art Downs stunned the visitors when he singled home the winning run with his second hit of the game.

PHS began the week with an 11-4 triumph over visiting Lawrence, scoring four runs in the fifth on a double by Jason Petrone and singles by Foltiny, Sherin, Gavin Hulsman and Mike Petrone.

PHS pushed five more runs across in the next inning, combining three walks, two Cardinal errors and two RBI singles by Petrone and Sherin.

Mike Petrone batted 3-for-3 and stole second and third base in the fifth inning and later scored on a throwing error. Jason Petrone, Foltiny and Sherin had two hits each for PHS. Both of Petrone's were doubles and Foltiny had a two-bagger.

PHS turned two double plays, one with the bases loaded, to keep Lawrence at bay. Gavin Hulsman got the win, as Opperman pitched the last inning for PHS.

Beacham on a Roll

On Sunday, the next morning after his Little Tigers had defeated Trenton High in a must game to qualify for the NJSIAA state tournament and advance to the second round in the Mercer County Tourney, the veteran coach was playing the Princeton Meadows golf course with Angelo DiMeglio. On the 146-yard second hole, Beacham's eight iron shot hit on the green, bounced once, took another little bounce and rolled into the cup. It was Beacham's first ace ever.

His reaction: "I think I'll go out and buy a lottery ticket this weekend.

COURTS AVAILABLE

At Indoor Tennis Center. The Mercer County Park Commisssion has announced that season courts are still available at the County's indoor tennis center.

Prime time court time is available Saturday at 1:30 and Sunday at 3. Courts are also available for regular time for both one and three years during weekdays at various times.

All seasonal courts are available for a 30-week period, starting the first week in October and ending in early May. For additional information on court time and fees, call the Park Commission Office, 989-6531.

FRAKER PACES PHS

In 10-6 Lacrosse Win. Co-captain Alison Fraker scored three goals and added three assists to lead Princeton High to a 10-6 victory Monday over visiting Morristown.

Erika Ghantelsen and Sue Lofgren each added two goals and Pam Jennings, Kim Perna and Carol O'Donoghue one each for the Little Tigers, who won their tenth game. Morristown evened its record at 3-3-1 with the loss.

TWO TIED FOR LEAD

In Junior Soccer. In action last week in the Princeton Soccer Association's Junior Division, Kopp's and Hulit's battled to a 2-2 tie to remain tied for first place. John Brandt defeated Princeton Nautilus, 1-0, to move into second place, while Gross & Co. is third.

Goals for Kopp's were scored by Jon Medlinsky and Steve Taber, and Alexander Hammer scored twice for Hulit's. John Brandt's only goal was scored by Jason Kirby. Jay's Cycles received goals from Peter Knipe and Danny Levin, and good goalkeeping by Mark Trowbridge, while Gross's two goals were scored by Adlai Small and Matt Curran.

The last game of the regular season will be Saturday at 10. Tournament play follows a week later.

PHS NETMEN HALTED

By Weather. Princeton High's inexorable march to the championship of the fourth Mercer County Tennis Tournament was halted — temporarily — by rain on Saturday. The Little Tigers were comfortably ahead when rain stopped the championship round between PHS and Hopewell Valley.

Jacob Leschly held a 6-1, 1-1 lead over John Aris in the number one singles and Bruce Ellis led Chris Dunham of HV, 3-0, when play was stopped. Mark Leschly and Quentin Kelly were tied at 3-3 in the second singles.

In doubles play, where the Little Tigers are not as strong, Princeton's Mark Elliott and Rob Dunham came from behind to hold a 5-4 lead in the first set over Tim McDougald and Dave Bovenizer of Hopewell. The second doubles between Matthew Mack and Brett VandeBovenkamp and the Bulldogs' Jim Hines and Jim Aris was knotted at 4 all.

The match was scheduled to be finished on Tuesday.

After drawing an opening-round bye, top-seeded PHS blanked West Windsor in the quarterfinals and then edged PDS, 3-2, in the semis to advance to the final round. Hopewell advanced by stopping Peddie, 3-0, in the quarters and Lawrence, 4-1, in its semi-final match. In other quarterfinal matches, PDS had shut out Steinert, 5-0, and Lawrence had blanked Hightstown.

PHS relied on its superior singles play to slip past rival PDS. Jacob Leschly handled the Panthers' Lyle Menendez, 6-3, 6-1, and sophomore Mark Leschly defeated Jason Shaplen, 6-2, 6-1. Ellis then breezed past Fred Haitch, 6-0, 6-0, to seal the win.

The Panthers won both doubles matches. Jared Stark and Jim Hall outlasted Dunham and Elliott, 2-6, 7-5, 7-6, in the most contested match in the contest, and Jaime McLaughlin and David Supple took the measure of Mack and VandeBovenkamp, 6-3, 6-4.

In three league matches in the Colonial Valley Conference, defending champions PHS will oppose Lawrence this Wednesday, Nottingham on Thursday and Hopewell Valley on Monday. The Nottingham match will be played at PHS at 3:45.

NAUTILUS IS FAVORITE

In Men's Softball League. Defending champion Princeton Nautilus is favored to repeat in the Princeton Recreation Men's Softball League this season.

The potent Nautilus lineup is anchored by two sets of brothers — Jack, Judd, James and Jeff Petrone and Mike and Davé Shillaber. Other veterans include Jeff Grover, Pat Kahny, Scott Porreca, Kevin Phox, Dave Sweeney, Jim Lennon and Ken Bruvik. Three newcomers promise to make Nautilus an even more formidable foe. They are Steve Simcox and Al Kandell from the old Conte's team and Ron Kane, a former standout on the Princeton Post 76 American Legion team.

There are two new teams in the 11-team league this season. They are Skirm's Smoke Shop (formerly Army-Navy) and Conte's-Staats (formerly Conte's). The rest of the league lineup includes Mike's Tavern, C.Sq.C., Hinkson's, Princeton Italian-American Sportsmen Club, Princeton Medical Center, Marita's Cantina, Buffalo Wings, Stefanelli's and Nautilus.

Games are played every Tuesday and Thursday evenings at Community Park and Marquand Park.

FINAL GAME FRIDAY

For PHS Stickmen. The final game in a season that Princeton High lacrosse coach Pete Larsen would just as soon forget will be held Thursday when the Little Tigers travel to Boonton.

Last week, it was more of the same for the struggling Little Tigers. More losses. This time against rival Princeton Day School on Saturday and Pingry earlier.

A 14-8 loss to Princeton Day was Princeton High's eighth without a win this season.

"All I know is we outscored them 7 to 6 in the second half, but the first half hurt as bad," commented Larsen. "We made some mental mistakes. I really can't say anything more if we didn't win."

Actually, the record shows that PDS outscored the Little Tigers in every period, combining a 6-3 first-half advantage with an 8-5 margin in the second half to record its sixth win of the season against seven setbacks.

Keith Green and Jim Jones paced PHS with two goals each, while Jim Sharp, Troy Norris, sophomore Charlie Reeves and Chris Carrington also scored for the losers. The Panthers were led by Bill Noonan's four goals.

PHS traveled to Bernardsville last Wednesday for a game against Pingry, a team which had won only one game previously this season. Through three periods, PHS led 5-4. In the final period, Pingry scored three times while blanking PHS, to frustrate the Little Tigers once again, 7-5.

"Once again, mental mistakes," moaned Larsen. "We were ahead until the last couple of minutes when we missed a couple of open nets. It hurts."

Scoring from PHS were Reeves, Carrington, Green and Jones. PHS goalie Eric McCune had five saves while his Pingry counterpart stopped 15 PHS shots.

WINNER! Holding high the silver victory bowl, William Gaston proclaims his victory in the Hilltop Park Road Race which brought in $2,800 for development of Hilltop. The bowl will be engraved with his name and that of Fairfax Hutter, women's winner, and will be on display in the window of Footworks. (Jose Alcantara Photo)

HUN BEATEN TWICE

In Lacrosse. A disappointing season for the Hun School lacrosse team, which suffered two more losses last week, will come to an end Tueday when Hun opposes Rutgers Prep in a make-up contest at Hun. The annual Hun-Alumni game will be played Saturday at 2.

Playing without four starters and forced to go with a freshman goalie, Hun was routed, 17-2, by Perkiomen Saturday. Two days earlier, it lost a 6-4 decision to North Hunterdon after leading earlier in the game.

Hun coach Dave Faus admitted that the Hunterdon loss was disappointing because his team had been ahead at one point. "They scored twice in the last three minutes to win it," he said.

"But it was a good game. It was so competitive. We were in it the entire game but we were never able to put it together."

High scoring Chris Goodyear scored twice for Hun, and Greg Savidge and Chris Natale each added single goals. "Savidge is looking good and he's only a freshman. That's encouraging," commented Faus, who will also welcome back Goodyear next year.

Goodyear and Savidge each scored in the loss to Perkiomen, Goodyear assisting on Savidge's goal. Hun was also scheduled to play George School on Tuesday in a rematch. George won the first meeting, 8-1.

TEST DRIVE A VOLVO THAT FLIES IN THE FACE OF TRADITION.

Traditionally, Volvo has built solid, dependable, long-lasting cars.

But our DLs and GLs have never been mistaken for SST's on the road.

Now there's a Volvo that blows away that image: the Volvo Turbo.

To be sure, the Turbo provides all the comfort and luxury you'd expect: standard plush velour or optional leather interior, sunroof, power windows and door locks, air conditioning and much more.

But what makes it so special is its power to hurtle you from 0-55 in just 8½ seconds.

Think how comforting that can be when you want to enter a highway or pass an 18-wheeler.

The Turbo is the performance car Volvo admirers have been waiting for.

Test drive it today and watch tradition turn into a thing of the past. THE TURBO by Volvo.

WINNERS NAMED

In Junior Olympics. More than 200 Princeton area boys and girls, ages 8 through 13, competed in the 13th annual AAU Junior Olympics Track and Field Meet held this month at the Princeton High School track.

Winners here will represent Princeton in the Junior Olympic District Championships to be held Saturday at Princeton University's Palmer Stadium. The Princeton Recreation Department will host the district competiton and needs experienced track persons to assist in the meet. Interested volunteers should call Kathy Clarkson at 921-9480.

At the PHS track two weeks ago, Gail Hughes, Karen Swartz and John Thompson each won three gold medals in the junior (ages 12-13) division. Hughes won the 100 meter dash and running long jump, while Swartz captured the 400 and mile. Both were members of the winning relay team which also included Vanessa Thomas and Cartasia Merrill.

Thompson won the running long jump, high jump and was a member of a winning relay team that included John Burnett, who also won the triple jump, Doug Gibson, who also captured the 100 meter dash, and Scott Fletcher. Other double winners were

Services, hasn't seen a large increase in numbers, but she says students know more than they did five years ago, so more are coming forward and asking for help. At Brown University, according to Dr. Horne, 40 percent of undergraduate women have one or the other of the two eating disorders. Ms. Gordon says she has seen nowhere near that number at Princeton.

Two groups on campus focus on eating disorder problems. One, under Health Services, is a student group whose members have learned about nutrition and have learned to recognize some of the symptoms of anorexia and bulimia. Their primary purpose is to educate other students.

Another, not affiliated with Health Services, is a student self-help group for those who think they might have problems and want support. It has drawn some high school students, Ms. Gordon says.

She is particularly concerned about labeling.

"You might say to someone 'I'm concerned about your eating,' but don't say 'Three people in my dorm have bulimia, and I think you ....' "

Incidentally, although most of those afflicted are young, Dr. Horne has seen patients as old as 38 and, in the case of bulimia, up to 50.

The cliche is wrong: maybe you can't be too rich, but you can indeed be too thin.

Saskia Weber (shot put and high jump) and Aaron Burt (400 meter and mile). John Abernathy won the eight-pound shot put title.

In the Midget divsion (10-11), Anthony White broke the 50 meter record when he was timed in the dash in 6.7. White also won a gold in the running long jump.

Taking home three firsts was Erin Irving in the 100 meter, 800 and running long jump. Nine-year-old Shane Kinney won the six-pound shot put. Other gold medalists were Bernard Simpson in the 100, Shane Keve in the 800 and the relay team of Ernest Louise, Reed Lamberty, Brian Williams and Sean Miller.

Kesti Ringland won the girls 50 dash and was a member of the winning relay team comprised of Lynn Livingston, Ashante Thompson, and Lia Moore. Najwa Smith won the girls' gold medal in the shot put. The best performances in the high jump were by Tracy Jefferson and Ivar Raphael.

Boughers Strike Gold. In the Bantam division (8-9) brothers Doug and Justin Bougher combined to win four gold and two silver medals. Doug won the 50 with Justin finishing second; they reversed positions in the 100 meter, Justin finishing first ahead of Doug. Both were on the winning 400 relay team that also included Judd O'Sullivan and Brian Perone. Perone also doubled by winning the 800 meter while his sister, Brooke, won medals in the long jump and 800.

Ashley Dixon and Ailey Penningroth won golds in the 50 and 100 sprints and then combined with Michele Kornhauser and Stephanie Glover to win the girls Bantam relay. Damion Tucker held his 1983 running long jump record with a leap of 12-2.

Volunteers Needed

The Princeton Unit of Recording for the Blind seeks volunteers to run the Recording for the Blind studio during the upcoming vacation months.

During the summer months, the studio is in special need of people who are able to contribute a few hours of their time each week. Those interested may call Ann Young, director, at 921-6534 weekdays.

The Opperman Award, given to the athlete who best exemplifies the spirit and enthusiasm of the late Tony Opperman, was presented to Gail Hughes by the Recreation Department.

WINS ARE ELUSIVE

For PHS Softball Team. The number in the win column for the Princeton High School girls softball team remains stuck at two.

Twice last week coach Doug Snyder's Little Tigers tried to gain that elusive third win and twice they were denied, first by Hamilton and then again by Lawrence.

Not a participant in the Mercer County Tournament, PHS will next entertain Nottingham Thursday and then travel to Pennington for a Monday game with Hopewell Valley High. The finale will be next Thursday against West Windsor. Currently, the Little Tigers are 2-10.

Thursday, Lawrence broke open a 4-4 game with PHS when it scored six runs in the fifth inning and then turned it into a rout the next frame by sending nine more runs across. The Cardinals' offense was highlighted by Kristie Von Vorys' grand slam, while Monica Greenland connected for a double and drove in three runs for PHS. Tracey Hemmingway was charged with the loss.

Two days earlier, Hamilton defeated PHS, 7-2, as Fran DiFlippo limited the Little Tigers to one hit, a double by Greenwood. The losers made it easy for the Hornets to win their fifth by committing eight errors.

LOSING SEASON NEARS

For PDS Boys' Lacrosse. It's been a long time since the Princeton Day boys' lacrosse team has suffered through a losing season — so long, in fact, that coach Bob Krueger can't remember when the last one was.

Krueger has never experienced one as coach of the Panther team, but unless his players perform a minor miracle this week, a losing record seems assured for this spring.

The Blue and White split a pair of contests last week, losing to West Morris, 13-11, last Wednesday after leading by as much as 6-1 in the first half. Saturday, the Panthers managed to whip a winless Princeton High team, 14-8. This past Monday, they lost, 5-3, to Montclair-Kimberly in the opening round of the Prep A playoffs.

That left the Blue and White with a 6-8 mark with at just two games left to play, and it must win both to finish at the .500 mark. It will meet Montville away on Wednesday, and Delbarton at home Friday to close out the season. Krueger expects both to be difficult opponents.

Against West Morris, PDS built its lead in the first period, as the visitors seemed to have left their legs on the bus. But they turned things around in the second, and trailed by only two goals, 7-5, at the half. After the intermission, West Morris tallied four in a row to lead, 9-7, but the Panthers rallied for four of their own and an 11-9 advantage.

Unfortunately, WM matched that with four more, and walked away with a 13-11 triumph. "They were too good a team to allow us to get that far ahead in the beginning," Krueger commented. "I knew they would come back, but I didn't think they would come all the way. We seemed to panic defensively."

Tom Foster scored three for PDS; David Haynes, Eric Bylin and John Derochi each scored twice. Goalie Chris McCabe made 19 saves.

The going was much easier against the Little Tigers (0-8). PDS outscored the home team in every quarter, building a 6-3 halftime lead. Bill Noonan had four goals, Foster and Gallup three apiece, Jack Cook, two; and Eric Hovanec and Bylin, one each.

Both Borough and Collins Are Defendants In Suit Filed by Witherspoon-Jackson Corp.

The Witherspoon-Jackson Development Corporation has announced that it will sue the Borough and Collins Development, basing the suit on the Mt. Laurel II housing decision of the New Jersey State Supreme Court.

Gary Green, Collins vice-president, said this week that he had offered "a very responsible cash contribution" last Wednesday to the WJDC for housing purposes, but it had been rejected.

"They wanted more money. In effect, they said 'Your pocket is deeper than that.' But they have a lack of perception as to our capabilities."

The WJDC was one of the four individuals and organizations that appealed to Borough Council last month protesting Planning Board approval of Collins' Hulfish North project.

After Council voted in favor of all four appellants, Collins took the case to Superior Court. The court is scheduled to decide this Friday whether Council had jurisdiction in the matter. Collins claims it did not.

In a statement last week, Glenn R. Cochran, attorney retained by the WJDC, said the corporation would "ask for leave to seek judicial intervention in (WJDC's) struggle to secure a fixed number of new low and moderate income housing units in the proposed Palmer Square development."

Details about the suit against Borough and Collins were not available nor has Mr. Cochran been available for comment.

Walter Bliss, Borough attorney, characterized the suit as "major litigation," adding that he had not yet been served with papers.

Three key questions must be addressed in the suit, he explained. First, he said, is "the extent of the Borough's

Calton Homes Files Second Suit Against Township, And Others

Calton Homes has filed a second suit against Princeton Township. This time, the developer also includes the Planning Board, the Dravo Corporation, Princeton Ridge, Inc. (a Dravo subsidiary), Township attorney Edwin Schmierer and all members of the Planning Board and Township Committee.

Calton, which filed a "builder's remedy" lawsuit against the Township last month in an attempt to force Mt. Laurel lower-income housing ordinances, charges that the Township used "malicious interference" to keep Calton from buying 230 acres of land from Dravo.

The first suit was filed after a letter, written February 23, warned of legal action unless ordinances were enacted by March 31.

Meanwhile, Princeton Ridge (and Dravo) has dropped the 1980 suit against the Township and the Planning Board for zoning changes on its land. Company spokespersons said, however, that the Ridge may file a Mt. Laurel suit against the Township.

The second Calton suit, filed Monday in U.S. District Court, Newark, is in Federal court because Calton charges violation of the Federal civil rights statutes. The complaint alleges that Calton lost more than $5 million in profit because the agreement to buy Dravo's land never materialized.

The developer has asked for determination by a judge rather than a jury and will request that determination from Judge Anne S. Thompson.

Mr. Schmierer said he first learned of the suit from reporters' questions and

Housing Plan Introduced By Township Committee

Given the alternative of a voluntary or a mandatory affordable housing plan, Township Committee has opted for the voluntary measure.

By a 3-2 vote at its meeting Monday night, Committee introduced a proposed ordinance with a number of options designed to increase the stock of low and moderate income housing. Committeewoman Gail Firestone voted against the proposal because of her concern the ordinance would result in greatly increased density all over the town with few units of affordable housing actually built. Committteman William Cherry also voted against the measure, because he is also concerned about densi-

Closing of Garbage Transfer Station on River Road By June 1 Recommended by Borough's George Olexa

The transfer station, where much of Princeton's trash and garbage is collected and compacted before being sent on to a landfill site in Bordentown, should be shut down. That's the recommendation of George Olexa, sanitary engineer for the Sewer Operating Committee that operates the transfer station as well as the sewer collection system.

Mr. Olexa makes his recommendation in a report dated May 1, which was distributed to members of the Sewer Operating Committee on May 9. Copies were also distributed to Borough and Township elected officials and to the two municipal administrators. The report is the sixth in a series of memos by Mr. Olexa on solid waste handling problems and costs for Borough and Township, dating back to early 1980. The present report makes clear his reasons why private sector costs are less than SOC costs and why disposal of solid waste should be turned over to private enterprise.

June 1 is the date by which he recommends closing the SOC-operated, municipally funded transfer station to all users except residents in private cars and pick-up trucks and municipal vehicles. All other users would be notified that the station will be closed permanently September 1, the report continues.

June 1 is almost here, and yet there has been no discussion of the report by either municipality. Borough Council has it as an agenda item for this Thursday's meeting at 8 in Borough Hall, but Township Committee has let all its May meetings go by without so much as a work session discussion. Township Administrator James Pascale says he and Mayor Winthrop S. Pike are waiting for additional information on the possible establishment of a country transfer station and he "wants to do the best thing for the Township."

Transfer Station

Mr. Olexa points out that when the Sewer Operating Committee operated an incinerator on River Road into which garbage and trash could be dumped and burned, it was "logical" for all garbage collectors, whether they were municipal, private, or individuals, to use the facility equally. The incinerator was closed for air pollution violations in 1971 and the transfer station installed in its place.

As long as the solid waste volume matched the transfer station capacity, and as long as the disposal site was far off in Mt. Holly, it was "probably" most cost effective to compact and transport garbage under the SOC umbrella, the report continues. As volume exceeded capacity, however, the SOC was forced to impose limits on the size of trucks permitted to use the transfer station.

When that happened, the disposal system became fragmented and the cost to the property owner began to vary greatly depending on the disposal mechanism used: municipal collector, private collector with disposal at SOC, private collector who is not permitted to use the transfer station and the individual who takes his own garbage on Saturdays.

Mr. Olexa maintains that today the private collector can transport solid waste more cheaply directly to the landfill without the intermediary step of dumping and reloading at the SOC transfer station. Equity can be returned to the system, he says, if all property owners use the same system.

Moreover, the transfer station was constructed in 1971 with a five-year life. It has been repaired ever since. In order for the SOC to provide full service to the community, Mr. Olexa says, the transfer station would have to be rebuilt and its capacity increased to the tune of an estimated capital expenditure of $200,000 and an increased annual cost of $78,000.

One alternative is to charge a user fee which would recover the annual operating cost ($252,000 for Borough, Township and university) but also recovers the debt and capital improvement costs. The proposed user fee is in the neighborhood of $7 to $8.40 per cubic yard to which an additional 60 cents per cubic yard would be added to recover the cost of rebuilding the transfer station.

But Mr. Olexa questions whether the community and the SOC should stay in the solid waste transport business. The second alternative, he suggests, is to turn over this operation to private enterprise.

He estimates the cost per cubic yard for private collection and disposal not using the transfer station at from $3.27 to $5.81, and contrasts these figures with the proposed $7 to $8.40 SOC cost recovery user fee to drive home his point for private rather than municipal collection in both Borough and Township.

He recommends that municipal buildings and the Library should participate in recycling and reduce their solid waste by one-half. They should also investigate on-premises compactor units, he suggests.

If the transfer station is closed permanently on September 1, as he recommends, Mr. Olexa suggests assigning the two full time garbage handling employees to maintaining sewerage facilities. He believes the net annual cost reduction will be $115,000. Brush would still be accepted on Saturdays (until the landfill is completely full), and bulky items like discarded refrigerators could be left in a special receptacle.

—Barbara L. Johnson

"They are claiming they weren't aware of that time frame, but we think that is a weak argument.

"We don't disagree with Witherspoon-Jackson's concerns," he added, "but Collins can't solve all the Borough's problems: Collins didn't create this one, and Collins isn't the solution. I'm tempted to say 'Why me?' " obligation to provide low- and moderate-price housing beyond what is in the municipality today;" second is the Borough's "unique" situation: the impact of a high-income development like Collins' on lower-income neighborhoods; third, to the extent that Collins would be affected, the need to make sure an ordinance protected Collins on constitutional grounds.

Mr. Bliss added that the Borough could not be compelled to provide such housing without a Mt. Laurel ordinance.

"Council will have to evaluate to what extent they are being asked to do what they already plan to do."

Council members have been discussing a possible housing ordinance all spring. An affordable housing committee, appointed by Mayor Barbara Sigmund, has just made a report.

Mayor Sigmund, as mayor, sits on the advisory board of the WJDC and was, before her election as mayor, a member of the board as a private citizen.

Mr. Green said he doubted whether the WJDC would make it to court.

"The time frame has gone by," he remarked. "If they're appealing the preliminary approval, that was in January of '83. They may claim they're appealing the final approval, but they had 45 days and that has passed.

FRIDAY IS THE DAY

For Memorial Day Parade. The annual Memorial Day Parade, sponsored by American Legion Posts 76 and 218, will be held Friday. The parade will originate at Princeton Avenue at 7 p.m. and march up Nassau Street to Borough Hall.

There, next to the Washington Battle Monument, ceremonies will be held, including Massing of the Colors and addresses by Princeton Mayors Barbara Sigmund and Winthrop Pike and New Jersey American Legion Department Commander Michael Pastuzyn.

There will also be music by the Black Watch and Lambertville Drum and Bugle Corps. The Post 76 Firing Squad under the direction of Captain Jack Adams and bugler Kevin Brennan will participate during the placing of a Memorial Wreath. A prayer and benediction by The Rev. John Galvin of St. Paul's Church will conclude the ceremonies.

On Sunday, the Post 76 firing squad will participate in a Military Mass at St. Paul's Cemetery at 9:30 a.m. Post 218 will conduct brief ceremonies at the main flag pole in the Princeton Cemetery on Witherspoon Street near the caretaker's cottage.

Members of the two Legion Posts will place more than 1,300 American flags at all veterans' graves in the Princeton area.

APPEAL IS PROBABLE

From Springland Approval. Neighbors of the Russell estate, organized as the Edgerstoune Area Association, will appeal last Thursday's Planning Board approval of plans to develop the estate as "Springland." The tentative decision, reached by members of the group's steering committee who were present at a meeting Monday, will be discussed at another meeting later this week.

The appeal, under law, will be to Township Committee. The Planning Board approved preliminary subdivision and site plans, subject to conditions, by an 8-2 vote. John vanPlantinga and Michael Floyd voted against.

"Traffic is at the core of the problem," commented Planning Board member Richard Schoch. "As this project develops, we must try to improve the problems we already have, although that may not be pleasant."

Mr. Schoch added that, under present land use laws, Edgerstoune could not have been developed nor Edgerstoune Road put through.

"It's a lousy situation over there," remarked board member William H. Walker II. "We should do all we can to help."

Adopting conditions suggested by Township engineer Robert Kiser, the board voted to require Springland to widen Edgerstoune to make a left-turn lane onto Route 206, and to make a left-turn lane from Route 206 into Edgerstoune. Also, the existing traffic light is to be re-timed.

Unanimously, the board moved that parking be permitted at all times on public streets in the development. The board defeated, 6-4, a motion by Mr. vanPlantinga to insist that the Sewer Operating Committee make no sewer allocation until the actual capacity in the exact line serving this development was determined by the Betz, Converse, Murdoch study now under way.

Earlier, acting board chair Richard Henkel pointed out to Dwight O. North that the Planning Board does not pass approval on sewer hook-ups.

'100 PERCENT FOR HART'

Martindell. Anne Martindell, Princeton resident, former Ambassador to New Zealand and member of the New Jersey State Senate, announced this week that she is "one hundred percent" for Senator Gary Hart in the June 5 New Jersey primary.

Vice-President Walter Mondale, contesting with Senator Hart, made a stop in Princeton Tuesday afternoon at Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School.

An early backer of Vice-President Mondale, Mrs. Martindell said in a statement this week that Mondale's "collection of old-style political supporters, his coalition from the past, has shown it cannot attract those elements of the American electorate which can defeat this disastrous President."

Senator Hart, she continued, "represents the best tradition of the Democratic party combined with an orientation to the living future."

She said that, as a recent co-chair of New Jersey's Nuclear Freeze campaign, she found Senator Hart's position "superior" to Vice-President Mondale's. Commenting on protectionism, she added that New Jersey, "with its great store of scientists, and research and development, is the national leader in international trade and "need not fear competition."

GRANT TO UNIVERSITY

From Mellon. A $1.2 million grant from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation has been given to Princeton University as part of a new program to stimulate more effective approaches to teaching and to research in the arts and sciences.

The program will provide for experiments in curriculum, encouraging fresh combinations across the arts and sciences, enabling the University, according to its announcement, "to counterbalance some of the over-specialization that has occurred.

The University will use the grant to develop new courses; make "highly selective" faculty appointments and support interdisciplinary projects at the graduate level. The money will be spent over a period of about seven years.

BALTZER APPROVED

Also Pump Ordinance. "It's approval with fingers crossed," remarked Planning Board member Thomas Poole Thursday night as the board granted approval to Russell Baltzer for construction of 13 houses on an extension of Montadale Drive. The property formerly belonged to Albert Salzman.

It was the second time the board had heard the application. It was denied April 3 because board members said they did not have enough information about sewage flow. Mr. Baltzer asked for and was granted, a re-hearing.

He has already paid $32,000 into the sewer trust fund for his allocation and now needs a sewer extension permit from the state's Department of Enviromental Protection.

Mr. Poole's comment came after he pointed out that the Sewer Operating Committee says the exact capacity of sewer lines cannot be determined until the Betz, Converse, Murdoch capacity study is finished. The Baltzer project will put an estimated 3,900 gallons a day into the sewer lines.

"It will go into the Mountain Brook line, and that's the one that surcharges on Valley Road on rainy days," Mr. Poole remarked, after suggesting the crossed fingers.

The Board also approved revised plans for Larry's Sunoco, Nassau and Murray Place, thereby confirming the Borough's new ordinance limiting to three the number of gasoline pumps allowed for service stations in the Central Business District. The three pumps may have a maximum of six hoses.

A new island for the station will be re-located in the same position as in the earlier application; that is, behind the legal setback line. It will remain 24 feet long and five feet wide.

Ben Jenson, 5 Murray Place, who has led neighborhood concern about Sunoco's plans, said he accepted the new design. Ilene Cohen, 46 Murray, agreed.

ENTRY ATTEMPT FAILS

At Quadrangle Club. An attempt to gain entry to the Quadrangle Club Tuesday morning failed when a student who was studying around 3 a.m. heard a noise.

Investigating, he observed a suspect cutting a screen in a ground-floor window in an attempt to enter the building. Upon being confronted, the suspect replied that he was looking for someone and walked away.

A subsequent search of the area by university proctors and Borough police failed to uncover the suspect who is

And Air Rights?

The parking lot on Palmer Square East across from the Nassau Inn was closed Monday because construction has begun "officially" — the word is Collins' — on the new wing of the Inn that Collins hopes to build across Palmer Square East from the present hotel.

Collins' plans call for a connecting bridge between wing and parent building, but Borough resident Gerald Boswell, protesting Borough Council's granting of air-rights to Collins to build that bridge, filed his case last week with the Appellate Court. He lost in Superior Court.

No comment, was the comment from Collins' vice-president Gary Green when asked about moving ahead with construction in light of the air-rights suit.

TO RUSSIA WITH LOVE: Mayor Barbara Sigmund and Hinda Winawer stand in front of an exhibit at Borough Hall of material from and about Princeton that will be sent to our sister city Shchekino in the Soviet Union. The exchange program calls for Shchekino to send similar information about itself to Princeton, and when it arrives, that material will be on display in Township Committee headquarters in the Valley Road building. The purpose of the exercise has to do with peace and the future — as the two youngsters, Sondra Nelson, left, and Isobel Floyd-Allen, attest.

GREETINGS, PHOTOS SET

For Soviet City. Mayor Barbara Sigmund was at Borough Hall last Sunday to open an exhibit of chidlren's art and written work on the theme of world peace and a future without the danger of nuclear war.

The show will close Friday, after which one part will be sent to the Soviet town of Shchekino, Princeton's sister city in a U.S.-U.S.S.R. community pairing program. Another part of the exhibit, having to do with student responses to the book, The Butter Battle, by Dr. Seuss, will be sent to the Democratic and Republican conventions this summer.

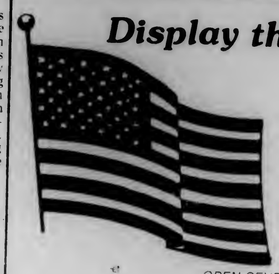
The package going to Shchekino includes statements of friendship from Borough Mayor and Council and Township Mayor and Committee — statements translated into Russian. There is also a community portrait as provided by the Chamber of Commerce and photographs of Princeton residents playing basketball, collecting books at the Bryn Mawr book sale, chasing a puck on the ice Nassau Hall in black and white and the annual Fire Parade down Nassau Street are included in the packet which will be presented to the mayor of Shchekino by Jim Firestone of Firestone Realtors.

Mr. Firestone will accompany a Bucknell University tour of the Soviet Union. He is leaving Monday, accompanied by his son, Jim. He has asked for an interview with Foreign Minister Dobrynin, but as of press time did not know whether the request had been granted.

STRUCK BY CAR

School Professor Dies. A Lawrenceville School French professor, H. Carty Lynch died Monday from injuries he received when he was struck by a car.

Professor Lynch, 56, was crossing Main Street near the school's main gate at 2:45 in the afternoon when he was struck by a car operated by Timothy Dilton, 28, of Burning Tree Lane. He died at 5:22 in Helene Fuld Medical Center in Trenton of head and leg injuries and multiple trauma. The accident is still being investigated by Lawrence Township police.



A lifelong bachelor, Professor Lynch joined the Lawrenceville School faculty in 1952 shortly after graduating from Harvard University. He lived in Upper House,a residential suite for seniors.

Car Strikes House. A car struck a Henry Avenue house Saturday when the driver claimed its gas pedal stuck, fully depressed, causing her to lose control.

The driver, Essie Wilhams, 53, of Trenton, told Ptl. William Potts that she was emerging from a garage when the pedal stuck. Her car jumped a curb, traveled across 30 feet of lawn and through a brick walled flower garden before striking the house of Frank Delneso, 22 Henry Avenue. She told the officer that she had applied her brakes to no avail.

Mrs. Williams was treated at Princeton Medical Center for multiple abrasions and contusions. Myra Williams, 11, was treated at the Center for minor injuries.

There were no charges by Ptl. Potts. The front end and undercarriage of the Williams car were damaged in the 8:13 p.m. mishap.

Driver Falls Asleep. Prince A. Taylor Jr., 193 Laurel Circle, was charged with careless driving last week after he ran into a car waiting to turn left onto Cherry Hill Road from Route 206.

The other driver, Carla H. Danziger of 17 Chestnut Street, told police she had stopped in the south lane of traffic waiting to make her turn when she was struck from behind. Mr. Taylor, 77, told Sgt. Mario Musso that he had fallen asleep while driving.

Mr. Taylor was treated at the Medical Center for lacerations of the face; Mrs. Danziger complained of neck pains but refused medical treatment. The accident took place at 2:44 p.m.

WHERE'S GEORGE?

Painting Is Stolen. An oval-shaped painting of George Washington in a three- by four-foot gold plaster frame was stolen last week from a first-floor wall in the Ivy Club, 43 Prospect Avenue.

Police report that the 50- to 70-pound portrait was removed between 8 in the evening and 2 the next morning. They received no value on the painting which they reported had been repaired last fall by the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Township police report that a large American flag hanging above the main basketball court in Jadwin Gym on the Princeton University campus was stolen overnight last week. It is valued at $350.

A pair of fog lights worth $225 were removed last week from a student's BMW while it was parked in the lot of the Terrace Club, 62 Washington Road. Also taken, police said, was a car cover valued at $75.

A student employee in the student center pub on the university campus lost $45 when someone stole her purse which she had kept behind the bar. It was taken between 9:30 p.m. Thursday and 2:15 the next morning.

A Westminster Choir College student reported the theft of her AM-FM cassette radio from a picnic bench in the picnic area of Community Park North. She had left it on the table to go for a walk, police said, and it was missing when she returned 15 minutes later.

A Hillside Avenue resident complained to police that someone had siphoned gasoline from his 1975 station wagon tank which he had filled up the night before for $16. The car had been parked in his driveway.

Police added that a large party was held in the area that night. It is the second time within the month that the victim's car tank was siphoned.

4 Bikes Stolen, 2 Arrests. Four bicycles were stolen last week and in two of the thefts an arrest was made.

Around 6:20 Monday morning, 26-year-old John Sanford of Trenton was caught in the act of stealing an unlocked student's bicycle near Little Hall by university proctors. He was taken to police headquarters by Sgt. Peter Hanley and Ptl. Mark Stillitano, charged with theft and later released after being issued a complaint summons.

Irven Higginbotham, 18, of Trenton, was charged with

Pool Ready to Open

And now, summer! The Princeton Community Pool will begin the season this weekend, opening Saturday and continuing Sunday and Memorial Day, with swims from 11 to 8 each day.

The pool will also be open the following weekend, June 2-3. Seven-day-a-week operation will not start until Monday, June 11.

Fees are the same as last year. Season tickets at $90 for a family, $40 for adults over 16, $20 for seniors over 60 and $25 for children under 15, are available from the Recreation Department office in the Township Hall Annex, on the driveway leading to the pool from Valley Road. The office is open from 9 to 5 Mondays through Fridays.

Season tickets may also be bought at the pool on the first three weekends of operation. These tickets must be paid for by check.

Daily admissions are $3.50 for an adult who lives in Borough or Township; $4.50 for a non-resident adult; $1.25 for a resident child and $3.50 for a non-resident child.

In addition to public swims, the pool offers classes and recreational swim programs for all ages. Information on specific programs may be obtained by calling the Recreation Department at 921-9480, or picking up a brochure at the public library or either municipal building.

stealing a student's bicycle early Saturday morning from in front of the Engineering Quad on Olden Street.

Higginbotham had been stopped on Stockton Street at 2:15, after Ptl. Stillitano and Ptl. Charles Davall had observed him riding on Nassau Street without a headlight. Their investigation revealed that Higginbotham was not the owner of the bicycle and he was later charged with theft when, shortly after, a university student reported his bicycle stolen from in front of the Engineering Quad.

A locked men's 12-speed bike valued at $180 was reported stolen this week from Little Hall on campus and a locked, 10-speed bike in poor condition was taken Thursday from the Princeton High grounds. It is valued at $100.

In a lone bicycle theft in the Township last week, an unlocked, blue Raleigh 10-speed was taken from the intersection of Locust Lane and Route 27. The bike is valued by its Princeton-Kingston Road owner at $150.

Trousers Shoplifted. Four pairs of trousers worth $159 were shoplifted last week from the H. Gross & Co. store, One Palmer Square.

Police said that a Palmer Square maintenance employee had observed a man carrying a bag enter the One Palmer Square building and ask for a lawyer's office. It seemed suspicious to the employee when the man walked past the elevator into a stairwell and a check of the stairwell revealed three discarded hangers bearing the H. Gross name. They were returned to the store where the theft of the trousers was then discovered.

Further investigation by the police revealed that the suspect had boarded a Trenton bus. Lawrence and Trenton police departments were notified but it was later ascertained that the suspect had left the bus at the Hudson-Greenwood stop in Trenton.

Blue Jeans Taken. A box containing blue jeans worth $150 was shoplifted last week from a Princeton Shopping Center store.

Police report that the box, left near a rear door, had been grabbed by a couple who had browsed in the store but had not purchased anything.

An employee chased the pair when she saw them grab the box as they exited the store. She pursued the couple to their car, after they had dropped the box, "What do you want? you got your box back," the one suspect shouted.

The suspects were described as a black male and female both in their late 20s or early 30s. The woman was wearing a blue raincoat and red shoes, the man a leather jacket. The incident is still under investigation.

DRIVER IS CHARGED

Passenger, Too. A driver and his passenger have both been charged by Borough police, following a May 12 incident.

The driver, Leslie Spruill, 50, of Mulberry Row, was charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol. Ptl. Anthony Federico and Ptl. David Dudeck had stopped Spruill's car at 1:34 in the morning on Nassau Street near Riverside after they had observed it going excessively slowly, crossing the center line and traveling extremely close to the curb.

When the officers asked Spruill to get out of the car to conduct some on-site sobriety tests, Spruill complied, leaving his wallet on the front seat.

Later, at police headquarters, where he was given a Breathalyzer test and processed, Spruill discovered $400 was missing from his wallet. "He immediately accused the police of taking it," Chief Michael Carnevale said.

The passenger in the car, Donald Teague, 49, of Leigh Avenue, came to headquarters at 3:15. He was questioned by police about a bulge in his pocket and a subsequent investigation revealed that he had taken the $400. Teague was charged with possession of stolen property.

Charged with DWI. John Davies, 66, 288 Jefferson Road, was charged last week by Township police with driving while intoxicated. He was later released after a breath test and issued a summons calling for his appearance June 6 in Township court.

Ptl. Peter Savalli responded after someone in an office building on Herrontown Road called at 9:58 Friday morning, reporting a man sitting in a car and talking to people in the car lot. The driver claimed he was looking for a dog.

In talking to Mr. Davies, Ptl. Savalli allegedly detected an odor of alcohol and then noticed a bottle of whiskey protruding from under the front seat of the Davies' car.

TRENTON MAN BURNED

In Paving Mishap. Richard T. Barrett, 58, of Trenton was burned last week when the gas can he was using to refuel a paving machine caught fire.

According to police, Barrett of the Barrett Paving Company of Trenton was attempting to refuel a roller on Alexander Street early Thursday afternoon when the gas came in contact with the roller's hot engine and ignited. He was taken to Princeton Medical Center, treated for burns of the hands and face, and released.

There was a small electric fire in a Gallup Road home early Monday evening when a ceiling fan in a bathroom next to the garage overheated and caused burning pieces of wire to fall on a rug.

The pieces of hot wire burned a 12- to 14-inch hole in the rug, but the fire was extinguished by the owner before police could arrive. One piece of fire apparatus arrived and removed smoke from inside the house with a smoke fan.

Field Fire. In a third fire in the Township last week, an area approximately 150 by 50 feet was burned when a wooded area northeast of Riverside School caught fire.

A resident of 495 Princeton-Kingston Road called police at 3:33 Thursday afternoon when he noticed the fire in the woods behind his home. One piece of fire equipment responded and put out the fire. There was no damage reported.

Drive Carefully!

With the long Memorial Day holiday ahead, the Mercer Council on Alcoholism is once again using the acronym SOBER – Slow on the Bottle, Enjoy the Road – to remind Mercer County residents of the dangers of drinking and driving.

"Fifty percent of the county's highway deaths are caused by drunk drivers," reminds Council director Kay McGrath. "The new legal penalties for drunken driving in New Jersey reinforce the message that drinking and driving don't work – for anyone."

The Council will be broadcasting messages over local radio stations, distributing cards with blood alcohol content information and working with community groups. Billboards with the SOBER message are courtesy of the R.C. Maxwell Co., Trenton.

PELLET GUN TARGETS

Sliding Glass Door. A sliding glass door of a Riverside Drive home was struck and cracked last week by some type of pellet projectile.

Ptl. Robert Nielsen who investigated found a pellet embedded in the clapboard siding next to the window. There was no estimate of the damage.

A right rear window was broken and a door of a a 1982 Plymouth was dented while it was parked last week between 7:25 and 9:35 p.m. in the Princeton Shopping Center. The Rosedale Road owner told police that her car had not been entered.

A car parked last week in the owner's driveway on Hodge Road had its right rear tire slashed, causing $100 in damage.

SPEEDERS ARE FINED

In Borough Court. Five Princton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. in Borough court for speeding.

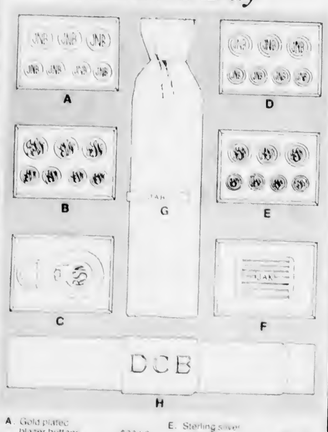
Fined $60 each were Sarah J. Locanfore, 6 Lawnside Drive, Lawrenceville; Janet R. Grace, 47 Gordon Way; Thomas A. McHale, 222 Linden Lane, and Nicholas Rossi Jr., 169 Marlboro Road, Lawrenceville. Virginia R. DiMeglio, 47 Windwood Road, Lawrenceville, paid $75 and Edward J. Whittle 405, Pheasant Hollow Road, Plainsboro, $65.

Barbara A. Bell, 107 Jamieson Drive, Pennington, was fined $265 plus a mandatory $100 surcharge for driving while intoxicated. She also had her license revoked for six months.

Three paid fines for red light violations. They are Mary F. Edsall, Apt.3E, Holly House, $60; Selcuk Altay, Hibben-Magie Apartaments, $75, and Ann D. Reeves, 28 Olden Lane. Ms. Reeves paid a second fine of $20 for no license or registration in possession.

Others: Ajit Dayal, 302 Quail Ridge, Plainsboro, $60, illegal U-turn; Laura B. Stevens, Ridge Road, Kingston, $70, failure to yield right of way; Gooitzen S. Vanderwal, 270 Hamilton Avenue, $60, stop sign; Lynn M. Faden, 51 Edgerstoune Road, $20, failure to display inspection sticker; Bruce A. Ellerstein, 38 Terhune Road, $20, no license or registration in possession, and Curtis Hsiang, 6 Tyson Lane, $20, improper skateboarding.

In Borough criminal court last week, Jill Savitt, 223 Ewing Street, and Linda J. Bell, 108 Palmer Road, Pennington, were each fined a total of $120 on two separate charges of issuing bad checks. Included was $50 each was ordered to pay to the Violent Crime Compensation Board.



Rosanna Mitchell, 7 Maple Terrace, was fined $50 ($25 to the VCCB) for disorderly conduct and Amy G. Evans, 23 Greenwood Avenue, paid $25 for violating the Borough's snow removal ordinance.

Township Court. In Township court last week, George W. Cumberbatch of Leigh Avenue was fined $215 for driving with an open container of alcohol in his car. Judge Sydney Souter also levied $65 fines against Ruth I. Cohn, Journey's End Lane, for a stop sign violation, and Lillian T. Rost, Princeton-Kingston Road, speeding.

BRING ON THE TIGERS

To Landau's Window. Kittens at Christmas become tigers in June, when Princeton University alumni return to town.

Landau's will hold its 4th annual Fred Fox '39 Memorial Reunions Window and its 2nd Tiger Window for Reunion Weekend. Tigers in any form, of any material, and of any size are sought to fill the windows at 114 Nassau Street. The objective, according to Robert Landau, is to gather more tigers together in one spot than ever before — "to beat the Guiness record for tigers in a window."

In 1981 Landau's held its first tiger window. People brought metal, ceramic, plastic tigers; tigers on clothing, in pictures, as puppets, even a stained glass tiger and a water pistol tiger. The one-person record that year was 93 tigers. "Bring us your tired, your poor, your hungry tigers — your tarnished and cherished tigers," Mr. Landau pleads.

Tigers are strictly on loan. Tiger owners can call the special tiger hot-line to schedule a drop-off time. They will be given a receipt and may pick up their tiger items after Princeton University

'NO HANDS'! (BUT WHICH FIGURES ARE REAL?): 'No Hands,' a life-size sculpture by J. Seward Johnson Jr., is one of eight Johnson works now on The Hun School campus (through June 10). Four new sculptures including this one, are on view as well as more familiar works like "Skateboarder", formerly at the United Jersey Bank branch on Nassau at Harrison. With "No Hands" in this picture are Hun faculty children Danielle Barnhart and Billy Quirk. At Hun, sculpture is an upper school elective, taught by Andrea Sweeny, and part of a Saturday enrichment program taught by Clifton Sheely, a member of the J. Seward Johnson Atelier.

MARCH AND RALLY SET

By Freeze Voter Effort. The mayors of both Princetons will address a voter registration rally on Thursday, May 31, when the New Jersey Nuclear Freeze March moves through town on its journey from north Jersey across the state to Philadelphia. Folk singers, mimes and other entertainers will also be on the program.

The purpose of the March is to register new voters and to build support for Freeze Voter '84, a project designed to help elect candidates to Congress and the presidency who support immediate steps to halt the nuclear arms race. The official name of the event is the "March for Freedom from the Threat of Nuclear War."

The marchers, who will start from Fort Lee, near the George Washington Bridge on Memorial Day will reach Princeton on Thursday, May 31. Residents of the Princeton area who wish to join the March at that time are asked to assemble at 7 p.m. near the intersection of Harrison and Nassau Streets in the parking lot of the Whole Earth Center.

The group will walk into the center of Princeton for a rally on the steps of the Nassau Presbyterian Church at 7:30 where they will be greeted by Township Mayor Winthrop Pike and Borough Mayor Barbara Sigmund.

Out-of-town marchers will spend the night at private homes here, and resume the March the next morning, Friday, June 1, when they will walk to Trenton. A rally has been scheduled for noon on the steps of the State House. A variety of groups which support the nuclear weapons freeze are expected to gather there, among them the League of Women Voters and environmental, labor, religious and senior citizens' organizations.

The March will arrive in Camden on June 2 to join a "human chain" on the Ben Franklin Bridge linking Camden and Philadelphia.

For further information, call the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament, 924-5022.

SCOUTS PUBLISH RECIPES

Give Proceeds to Agency. The Girl Scouts of Troop 635 Stuart Country Day School have written and published a cookbook called "Our Troop Favorites ... and more."

The book begins with a handwritten section featuring the favorite recipes of each girl. The remainder is a collection of recipes from relatives and friends that covers the spectrum of cooking from appetizers to desserts. Originally conceived by these fifth and sixth grade scouts as an extended project for the Junior Scout's Business Wise badge. publication of the book required learning how businesses operate from initial identification of a product through production, financial planning, and marketing.

During the project, the troop became interested in programs associated with the 25th World Conference of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts which will be held at Camp Edith Macy in New York this summer. These programs are aimed at fostering an understanding of global problems.

Troop 635 decided to study the problems of world hunger; the girls also talked with the Rev. Carol A. Kerbel of the Community Crisis Ministry about the hungry in their own community and the work of the Crisis Ministry in meeting the acute needs of people in the Princeton and Trenton areas. As a result, the troop has decided to contribute a major portion of the proceeds from the sale of the cookbook to the Crisis Ministry for use in its work.

The cost of the cookbook is $8 and the girls will be offering them for sale at various locations around Princeton. Copies will also be available at the Crisis Ministry office, Nassau Presbyterian Church, 61 Nassau Street, 921-2135.

SUMMER CAMP SET

In Blairstown. The Princeton Summer Camp, a program of the Princeton Education Center at Blairstown now in its 75th year, will operate several sessions of its modified Outward Bound program between June 20 and August 19.

Staff members are trained professionals, assisted by experienced undergraduate outdoor leaders from Princeton University. Campers aged 10 to 16 participate in six- or 12-day adventure-based programs that offer boys and girls outdoor experiences, including backpacking trips on the Delaware River, camping out, rock climbing and rappelling.

Less intensive activities for younger campers provide gradual exposure to the natural environment.

Scholarship assistance for low-income Princeton families may be available from the Princeton Youth Fund. For low-income families from other areas, scholarship assistance may be available from Big Brothers-Big Sisters or other similar agencies.

For applications or further information, write the Princeton Education Center at Blairstown, Maclean House, Princeton University, 08544, or call 452-3840.

COLLEGE FAIR SET

For High School Students. The Mercer County Personnel and Guidance Association will sponsor the 8th annual College Fair Thursday, May 24, from 6-9 in the Mercer County Community College Student Center.

More than 150 colleges, vocational schools and military establishments will be represented. The title is "Directions Toward Decisions." High school students are invited.

They will have an opportunity to ask question of representatives, and high school guidance counselors will be available for additional assistance. For additional information, students should inquire at their high school guidance office.

Home Improvement Loans Available From State Program at 9.95% Rate

Michael Floyd, co-ordinator of the Borough's Neighborhood Preservation Program, emphasized this week in a formal statement that the Williamson Construction Corp., 337 Witherspoon, is a private company "not affiliated with nor endorsed by the Neighborhood Preservation Program."

He also said that Williamson was absent from all three lists of contractors he had obtained in order to advise homeowners interested in the Borough's program. Lists came, he said, from Neighborhood Housing Services in Trenton, the Borough's sub-code official and Princeton tradespeople he had contacted.

Last week, Williamson announced that it was making $250,000 available to lend John-Witherspoon home-owners at bank rates or slightly lower.

Mr. Floyd pointed out at the time, and repeated this week, that any home-owner whose income is eligible, can apply under New Jersey's Home Improvement Loan Program (HILP) for a loan at 9.95 percent, "far better than the 16 percent Williamson is reported to be offering."

Home-owners should call him, Mr. Floyd said (924-3119) or confer with the Princeton branch of New Jersey National Bank, Security Savings and Loan or United Jersey Bank (First National Bank) about HILP.

"Any home-owner of modest income can apply for this home improvement loan at a low interest rate," Mr. Floyd said. "The home-owner does not have to be part of the Neighborhood Preservation Program or live in the John-Witherspoon area."

Maximum allowed income for a single person is $25,000; for a family of two or three, $27,000; four or more, $30,000. Home-owners may borrow up to $15,000 on a ten-year term. Mr. Floyd said he has suggested to participants in the Borough's program that they consider a loan to make up the difference between the Borough's partial grant, and the cost of the project.

Shoot 'em Down!
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am giddy with relief that the Township is finally cracking down hard on the vicious hands of joggers who terrorize Princeton. The proposed $500 fines and jail terms are a bit lily-livered for my taste (I'm a capital punishment man, myself), but we have to start somewhere to control hardened menaces like these.

Few of us recognized our peril before the Township's bold move to criminalize joggers' behavior. I have witnessed these people with my own eyes and never actually realized the threat they pose. Watching them chatting amiably side-by-side or listening to Mozart or The Beach Boys as they ran, I frankly mistook them for honest, intelligent, healthful adults out to do a good thing. As for their occasional carelessness, I'd have naively figured that a modest campaign of public information and encouragement about safer jogging procedures would have worked wonders in a town like this.

But apparently not, so let's sock it to them. Forget about civility, reasonableness, and friendly persuasion. If the fines and imprisonment don't work, then I say we mace all joggers by helicopter as soon as they hit the streets — you remember, "protective reaction strikes," don't you?

If that doesn't work, get back to me and we'll take it the next step. We simply must create a tough law-and-order reputation for Princeton before it's too late.

Who Gets the Flowers?
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The flowers at the French Market are lovely. It should be a joy to buy them. But instead of "first come, first served" their sales policy is a mystery. Flowers I chose were, alas, "reserved," so I reserved some too. Alas, again, the reservation is lost.

I thought of it as a community service. It seems to be a private club!

From Murray Place: Thanks.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am taking this means to complete your coverage (see "Topics of the Town") of the proposed expansion of the Sun Oil Refining and Marketing Company's station at the Murray Place and Nassau Street corner and to inform interested residents of the Murray Place area of its resolution.

Through the good offices of Mayor Sigmund and the cooperation of the Borough Council, several limitations, through ordinance, were put on gasoline stations in the Pine Street service district (where four stations are now located): one island per station, three pumps (or towers) and six dispensers (hoses). These are in addition to existing set-back requirements and lighting standards.

In the matter of the Sun Oil application, the cashier's booth and size of island remained as issues, both of which neighbors objected to. I am pleased to report that the matter was settled amicably last Thursday at the Planning Board meeting: there will be no cashier's booth, the island will remain the same size and two towers with three hoses each will be installed.

The informal steering committee worked long and hard to get this result which they believe is more appropriate to the neighborhood and wish to development near the Canal, the two remaining Township Ridge lawsuits — all compete with national and world issues for public attention in Princeton.

Hence the lively conference, sponsored by the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association in Princeton this past week, on ways to preserve open space in the face of this certain growth and on ways to improve our urban public and living spaces. Regional planning for effective planning opened the program. And, in timely fashion, the new excellent recommendations and results of a comparative study of municipal ordinances in the region bearing on land use and environmental problems were highlighted by Jim Gaffney, the Association's Executive Director.

As a first step in regional planning, Princeton's Regional Planning Board was established in 1972 by responsible public officials with a vision of the need for joint planning for the inevitable growth and change to come in Borough and Township. The Board's function as a joint agency for planning is now on a tightrope. It needs quiet, daily tending and nurturing and patient cooperation. It needs responsible action and public education and persuasion by every official of both municipalities from the mayors down.

As a third step in regional planning, after the Board's early comprehensive effort to meet joint housing needs, the Township adopted several ordinances designed also with our neighboring townships in mind, since flooding streams and eroding soils, like deer and traffic, have little respect for county and municipal boundaries.

On the whole, in the light of the Association's recommended techniques, Princeton Township's ordinances appear to come off rather well. (So did the Planning Board's past flexible policy of waivers, where appropriate, for certain stringent engineering ordinance requirements.) Nevertheless, some have long needed broadening, refining, and culling, as well as some new companions, to make the whole corpus more effective. Past and present officials of both political parties may take some pride, however, and citizens some relief, in these legitimate instruments for protection.

Through wide coverage by local newspapers, most people in Princeton know that the Regional Planning Board and Township Committee have been beset by expensive lawsuits brought by four large landowners on the diabase ridge of the Township against the larger lot zoning of 1980, and now by a Mt. Laurel suit as well. (The lower densities of the larger lots on the Ridge were balanced with the anticipated higher densities of the Master Plan to meet housing needs on lands better suited environmentally off the Ridge.)

Many people including the press may not remember, however, that the same landholders also filed suit challenging several other critical Township protective ordinances: the steep slopes, the F.A.R. (ratio of floor area of office buildings to ground area of the site), and the new cluster ordinance, with its specific protections for stream corridors, wetlands, woodlands, and the like. These ordinances are still under attack by money and lawyers and are in peril. If they fall, the steep slopes, woodlands and wetlands of the Stony Brook region and the Ridge area, from east to west, will be vulnerable.

You are the elected and appointed champions in the lists. I urge you to uphold them loudly and staunchly, and quietly and steadfastly, in reviewing development applications, negotiating privately with plaintiffs in pending or threatened litigation, and in wrestling with the complexities of affordable housing to fulfill our own obligations and to comply with Mt. Laurel. The ordinances are among our most solid underpinnings for protection of the remaining beauty, purity, and fertility of Princeton's soils, woodlands, and watercourses.

Theft Is "Dastardly."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Not only staff members at the Princeton Public Library are devastated by the theft of computers from the library, but the community must feel just as violated!

What a dastardly crime against one of the most loved, most used, and most appreciated institutions in Princeton! Our Library is the very heart — the vital center of life — for countless members, and, increasingly, computers are of supreme importance.

It is to be hoped that the thieves, if not apprehended, will, in some way, suffer dire consequences for their unforgivable robbery!

Stuart School to Celebrate 20th Anniversary Friday in Princeton University Chapel

Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart will formally celebrate its 20th anniversary Friday with a Liturgy of Thanksgiving at Princeton University Chapel.

Many former faculty and past board members will return for the event, including three former headmistresses. Many Catholic priests and clergy of other denominations are expected, as well as independent school heads from throughout the state and two former New Jersey governors. The student body, faculty and staff will enter the chapel in procession at 1 p.m.

The dream of a handful of parents, Stuart opened in the fall of 1963 with 94 students in as many grades from kindergarten to high school as there were students to fill.

There were two seniors in the original graduating class of 1965. Today's enrollment includes 430 students from 48 different communities in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and there are 28 in this year's senior class.

Stuart is small in comparison even to most other independent schools. Its size, unusual architecture, and special setting amid the dogwoods, beech and boulders of the ridge running through northern Princeton combine with its faith-centered philosophy and single-sex approach to education to make it unique.

"Unique" is one of those adjectives whose meaning has been diminished by overuse, but over and over again, in conversations with parents, students, faculty and staff similar words occur. "Stuart is a special place — more than a school, it's an anchorage on this troubled planet," says a former parent and faculty member. "A very caring place," says another parent.

The distinctive quality is in large measure due to the five goals to which all schools run by the Sacred Heart must adhere. In addition to periodic evaluation as an independent school by the N.J. Association of Independent Schools, Stuart as one of 19 schools of the Sacred Heart in this country has been undergoing an evaluation this year of how well it has been implementing these goals.

Religious Values. The first is a respect for religious values, or educating to "faith which is relevant in a secularized world," as the 20th anniversary brochure notes. "We want religious values to mean something," says Sister Joan Magnetti, Stuart's headmistress for the past seven years. "We want to help girls learn to pray and reflect. We gyp our children if we don't give them an opportunity to reflect."

And yet Stuart is not solely a school for Roman Catholic students taught by Roman Catholic nuns. Half the student body is Catholic, the other half is largely Christian, but there are some Jewish girls, even an occasional Buddhist, Hindu or Moslem. Twenty years ago there were 15 nuns and six lay teachers on the faculty; today there are 10 nuns out of a total faculty and staff of 90, but lay teachers are expected to take seriously their own faith and the faith of the students.

Morning Prayer. The girls help plan the prayer service/assembly which opens each day, and religious instruction in the broadest, ecumenical sense is a part of the curriculum from pre-kindergarten on up. Each school division has its own "retreat," a time for further prayer and reflection. For upper school students religious instruction takes the form of many electives in topics such as "relationship," "quest for morality," "world religions," along with Bible study.

The second goal is educating "to a deep respect for intellectual values," so that learning is not just for the sake of getting into colleges but to "risk and be flexible thinkers," as Sister Magnetti describes it. Turning learning and faith into action leads to the third goal, a social awareness "which impels to action."

Stuart is perhaps especially known for its wide range of outreach activities. Lower schoolers decorate placemats for Meals on Wheels, sixth graders spend time learning about the needs and concerns of the elderly, and upper school students are required to do community service projects each of the four high school years.

This community service, undertaken because it is "so central to being a human being," takes the form of renovating homes in Trenton and Appalachia during summer vacation as well as working for organizations such as the Red Cross, Merwick, Princeton Nursery School and Martin House, a diocesan ministry to the poor in Trenton.

Sense of Community. The building of community as a Christian value, the fourth goal, is enhanced by Stuart's size. "Everyone knows everyone else," says senior Kathy McCormick, president of the student government, "everyone helps each other out, and the teachers really care and try every way they can to help you if you are having a problem." "Stuart is so small everyone can participate and excel in something," adds junior Fidelma Callery, vice president of student government.

Finally, not unlike other schools, Stuart strives to promote "personal growth in an atmosphere of wise freedom," which Sister Magnetti translates as fostering an inner freedom and inner discipline to make wise choices." The headmistress speaks of the "sense of empowerment" and self-confidence that girls experience in an all-girls school.

Jennifer Harford, Class of 1977 and daughter of one of the founders of Stuart, also remarks on the advantages of an all-girls' school. "You never had the sense you couldn't do something because you were a woman," she says. "It wasn't a feminist approach; it just didn't occur to you."

The lack of boys did not bother her, she says. There were boys in her family and dances at Lawrenceville. "So much is going on at that age, it's OK for certain things to be delayed. I could concentrate on my studies and avoid a lot of the pain and anguish that a lot of other people I knew were going through."

Sister Magnetti acknowledges that single-sex education is "not for everyone," and adds: "We're not trying to protect girls from boys. Rather we want to deepen the power of being your own person, the sense you are loved and lovable. If people know that, they reach out more lovingly to others. It's a human issue."

LET'S TALK ABOUT GARDENING TIPS –
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates
BOXWOOD -- Extensive DIEBACK is present on many boxwoods throughout the state at this time. In most cases the plants were damaged by rapid temperature changes in January and February. To prevent the entrance of wood decaying organisms, prune out and spray the plant 3-4 times with copper at 10 day intervals.
IVY – To stimulate vigorous growth and limit fungal LEAFSPOTS this year remove dead tissue and spray plants. For best results, pick off spotted leaves and spray at 7-10 day intervals.
MARCH FLIES – are appearing in home lawns at this time. They do not bite and are not harmful to pets. Immature stages or larvae of March flies are found in several different types of habitats, including decaying matter or on the plant root including grass. Control measures are not successful at this time.
For any information or concerns we might have, please call WOODWINDS 924-3500. We are glad to be of service.

Stuart Country Day

Jennifer Harford also remembers Stuart as stressing the importance of the individual and promoting a tolerance for what other people think. Certain teachers come instantly to mind: Nancy Light, "inspiring" as an English teacher; Hella McVay, who had "utmost patience" as a math teacher; Eileen Rebman, "a great history teacher," Mme. Ronel, French, Sister Carmody, guidance counselor....the list goes on.

Beginnings. Stuart was the first Sacred Heart school to purchase its own land and erect its own building. Other Sacred Heart schools found homes in large estates that had been willed to the Order. Milly Harford, Mary Murray and Peggy McNeil, all convent-educated, all mothers of girls, were the three who made a trip to Washington to persuade Rev. Mother Agnes Barry, vicar of the Provincial Order, that Princeton would be a good location for a new school of the Sacred Heart.

Mrs. Harford remembers the nuns coming up by train in their habits to inspect the land. Fifty wooded acres were purchased at $1,000 an acre from Lady Catherine Maria Monck, whose mother had been educated in a Sacred Heart convent. Jean Labatut was engaged as architect, and he visited Sacred Heart schools in several countries before making his designs.

The architecture blends religious symbols into the very structure of the building, specific examples being the Mater Window before which prayer is held and Mass is said, and the head and feet of Christ incorporated into a front hall pillar. Labatut also sought to bring the outdoors inside, and gave each classroom a large window wall facing onto the woods. This makes it sometimes difficult to concentrate on assignments when the deer are going by, but it also contributes to the sense of peaceful, at-one-with-nature quality of the building.

If the building is a monument to the goals and tenets of a Sacred Heart education, there is a single individual who exemplifies its caring attention to the individual. She is Madame Margherita Condell who occupies a unique position as the only lay person to live within the religious Sacred Heart community.

In 1963 Mme. Condell, a divorced mother of a grown son, accepted an offer from Mother Barry to teach French and manners at the new school. Those were the days when the students were expected to curtsy to the nuns as they passed in the halls in their long black dresses and black veils over starched white bonnets with pleated edges. After Vatican II, modern dress and modern ways replaced the cloistered habit.

Mme. Condell herself could not continue teaching French because of problems with her eyes, but she has stayed on at the Portry, Stuart's name for the reception hall, where she answers the phone and is the first contact for an outsider coming to the school. A deeply religious person who this week celebrated her 83rd birthday by attending the christening of her great-grandson, she says she has endeavored to make her part time position at Stuart "a real apostleship." Former students tell her that it is like "coming home" to hear her gentle English voice answering the Stuart phone.

Future Outlook. Stuart celebrates its Liturgy of Thanksgiving this week with the enormous relief of having achieved its $2.5 million 20th anniversary challenge goal and becoming in the process debt-free. The next step, according to Sister Magnetti, is an update of the 1979 long range plan and a determination of the maximum school size. Wait lists are beginning to occur for certain grades, and yet the school wants to retain its smallness and its racial, religious and intellectual diversity.

There are some parts of the program that need to be strengthened, Sister Magnetti says, and there is always the hope that someday Stuart will have the Chapel that had to be lopped off the original building because of cost overrun. But most importantly, says Sister Magnetti, "we have to reinforce the uniqueness of Stuart." —Barbara L. Johnson

Former Borough Council Member Barbara Hill Says Goodbye And Recalls Some Highs and Lows of Two Terms on Council

Because she moved so quickly out of her Hawthorne Avenue house and into her Brooklyn Heights mews, former Council member Barbara Hill "never really had a chance to say goodbye."

So on a visit to Princeton last weekend, she made her farewells, talking at length about politics, government and the press, her joys and frustrations on Council and about the colleague she calls "a watershed person in my life, a real, true mentor in every respect," Council member and fellow Democrat Richard Macgill.

Ms. Hill, elected twice to Council, resigned April 11 because she and her husband, Raymond, had decided to move to New York. She has been replaced on Council by Jane Terpstra.

Barbara Hill

Of Mr. Macgill, Ms. Hill said "When you meet someone like that, from such a different background, of such a different temperament and way of looking at things, you stop to think what that person stands for. We have had so many good, deep conversations — what role should government play in a town? How do you make something happen in government? What is the nature of government?

"And I don't think there is a generation gap, although we are a generation apart."

Being a Council member, Ms. Comments, gave her the chance to meet people she would never have known otherwise.

"I came from the other side of Nassau" (she and Mr. Hill were Masters of the Graduate College at Princeton University) "and I found it's not so, that there are only two elements in Princeton: town and gown.

"There are so many resource groups, of people who care enough to give of themselves. I was in a position to get people on boards and agencies whom I'd known through the University — Barry Royce on the Zoning Board, is an example, and I'm delighted that I could do that."

"The Borough has a first-rate staff," she continues, "especially the department heads: administrator Mark Gordon, clerk Penelope Carter, engineer George Olexa, police chief Michael Carnevale. The Borough is so fortunate to have them."

Her work with the police force, as Police Commissioner meant the most.

"It gave me such a different attitude about the police because I came out of the '60s — you couldn't trust police! And I don't think people realize what a superb department we have, of trained, caring people who do more than just put in an eight-hour shift."

Each of the three summers she ran the Landau Senior Citizen picnic, she reports, members of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association came around after they went off duty to set up tables and chairs.

And Det. John Reading, she revealed, plays a kind of constitutional game with himself or his partner as he rides the patrol car: if such-and-such a crime were committed, and such-and-such happened, what would be the constitutional impact?

"They are a very, very sharp group."

She used to needle the officers sometimes about male chauvinism, and she likes to laugh about what might have happened late one night, due to an unnamed officer's gallantry.

As Commissioner, Ms. Hill rode the squad cars often on the late shift. One night, while she was in a car, a call came through — a watchman in a store might be in trouble. They drove up silently. The officer driver opened the car door for her. Then, drawing his gun, he moved toward the store, Ms. Hill at his side.

When they reached the door, he opened it — and stood aside to let her enter first.

"'Hey!' I said. 'You're the one with the gun — you don't think I'm going in first, do you!' "

The first two years on Council were the best — 1980 to 1982. It was a mix of Democrats and Republicans and Ms. Hill speaks with warmth and enthusiasm of them all: Republican mayor Robert Cawley; Democrats Nelson van den Blink, Robert McChesney, Richard Macgill; Republicans Richard Woodbridge and Charles Cornforth.

"Different viewpoints, but a spirit of like-mindedness about what we wanted to do. Arguments were fun and the give and take well meant. There was no sense of voting along party lines."

The relationship of politics to government — "I can't think of a better system, although it certainly has fascinating flaws."

According to Ms. Hill, during the public hearings on cable television, members of the Mercer County Democratic organization decided which company they wanted to receive the franchise and assigned a local Democrat to talk with all Democrats on Council "and give us the county's thoughts on who to vote for.

"It was unwarranted pressure."

"If you're elected," she continued, "do you vote your conscience, or the way the majority of your constituents want you to vote? There is no clear answer to that question.

"One time, (Borough Mayor) Barbara Sigmund and her husband were at our house for dinner, and I said I opposed rent control. Barbara favored it, and she said to me 'You have to give the voters what they want.'

"But who is it we are representing? An elected official is a referee among all opposing viewpoints, so where do you draw the line?

"There are several things I've thought of saying publicly because I was very unhappy with a number of things that occurred during the mayoral race but in a small town, people have to live with each other — or return for visits, like me — and it wouldn't be useful."

She also referred to attempts by R. William Potter, Collins opponent who appealed to Council, to have her removed from Council because, he charged, she had already moved out of Princeton and into New York. Walter Bliss, Borough attorney, ruled that she was eligible to serve.

"I felt like someone accused of a crime. I had no means at my disposal to deal with his allegations that didn't sound defensive and I had no way to stop him, even when he must have known his charges were false; after all, his wife saw me commuting from Princeton to New York. We met on the train and I spoke to her."

"In public life, people feel they have the right to take potshots at you, and when you respond, you're in a position of either not being believed, or being on the defensive."

Covered by reporters during her public years, Ms. Hill ruefully quotes Wendell Phillips: "Our lives are ruled by politics and the morning papers" and she offers advice for the press. Its essence: more follow-up.

"About sewers. The final agreement to pay back, because of faulty meter-reading, wound up close to the original agreement. So what was the point of printing the screaming and hollering? Where is the follow-up pointing this out?"

But then she adds: "I'm not sure most readers care.

"Politicians feel the need to manipulate the press; the press seems to invite manipulation; after all, they have pages to fill up and the politicians are right there."

She would also like reporters to find out whether candidates really did all the things their press releases claim.

She wishes more people would vote, come to Council meetings and care what happens to municipal budgets.

And yes, she would like to talk about the Collins appeal hearings; after all, it was her expected pro-Collins vote that Mr. Potter admitted was his reason for wanting her off Council.

"It took a great deal of courage for Dick Woodbridge to stand up and say what he did: he tried to work something out with the Greenholm residents, he made points for the record on who should or should not vote and this took courage.

"What should have been an orderly quasi-judicial hearing descended to a circus atmosphere. We often could not be heard because of comments called out from the audience. I asked the chair to gavel for quiet, but that was not done.

"Such hearings must be a very orderly process. The law supplies you with rules and that is why the Borough attorney is there. The law is very clear on what you can hear, and I think it extremely unfortunate we didn't stick to those rules to protect the evidentiary record.

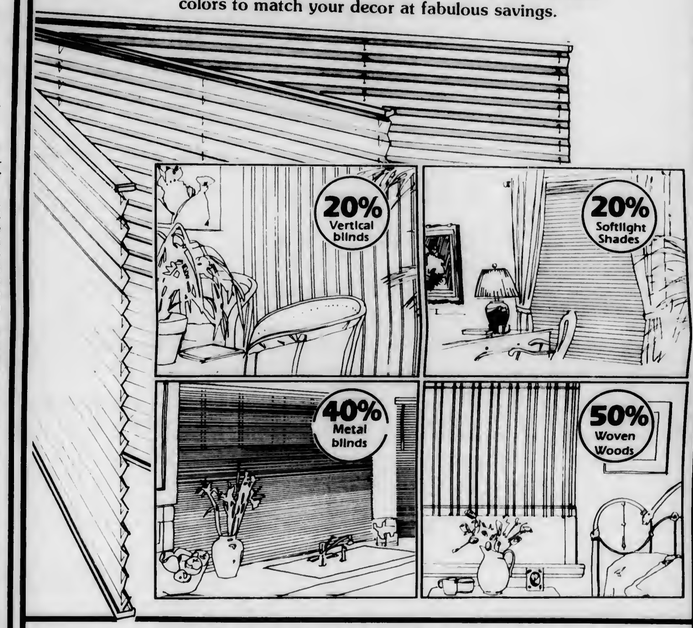
"Whether you agree with Collins or not, you can't turn around and change the rules that people have already followed."

"What should have been an orderly quasi-judicial hearing descended to a circus atmosphere. We often could not be heard because of comments called out from the audience. I asked the chair to gavel for quiet, but that was not done."

But she wouldn't have missed her years on Council "for anything.

"I regret that when I left, the level of discussion was not as high as it had been and the spirit of camaraderie not there, but I wouldn't have missed those first four years for anything. You change the way you view things, and with experience you find you can work together."

What Ms. Hill remembers most warmly is the comment of a 12-year-old girl at a 1979 League of Women Voters meeting when candidate Hill had a bad case of knee-shaking stage fright, although the girl couldn't know anything about that.



"She came up afterwards and said how pleased and proud she had been to see a woman up there, and to know a woman could do what I'd done. She lives on Snowden Lane, and whenever I drive down that street or face some kind of fracas, I remember what she said. It gives me something to think about when the going gets tough."

TO BROADEN CURRICULUM

With Foundation Gift. The Alfred P. Sloan Foundation has given $250,000 to Princeton University, to support the development of engineering curriculum materials for liberal arts students. The Sloan gift is part of a larger effort by the New York based foundation to encourage the teaching of technology and applied mathematics in liberal arts colleges.

The gift will enable four members of the Princeton faculty to develop studies in the nature and history of technology that can be used in college-level courses for students without technical backgrounds. The faculty members are David P. Billington, Michael S. Mahoney, Robert Mark and John M. Mulvey, are noted for their research about technology as it relates to the humanities.

The research of all four Princeton faculty associated with the project links engineering with diverse fields such as art history, architecture, history and environmental planning. David Billington, a professor of civil engineering, is a noted authority on thin shell concrete structures as well as the esthetics and history of bridges and other structures. He is author of the prizewinning book "Robert Maillart's Bridges," and more recently "The Tower and the Bridge." He has been working closely with Robert Mark, who is director of the interdepartmental Program in Architecture and Engineering, and has pioneered in the use of modern stress analysis for studying Gothic cathedrals, Renaissance domes and urban structures in Imperial Rome.

John Mulvey, an associate professor of civil engineering and chairman of the Program in Engineering and Management Systems, brings to the project his expertise in the use of computer modelling to analyze complex environmental and social problems. He is studying the impact of the Tennessee Valley Authority's water projects on society and the environment.

Michael Mahoney, a professor of history and acting director of the Program in Science in Human Affairs, has been studying the Model T Ford as the first car designed for mass production and mass consumption, and is currently at work on a history of the computer industry. He is the author of several books and articles on the history of mathematics, including "The Mathematical Career of Pierre de Fermat."

SCULPTURE, SCULPTOR: Wendy White, Princeton Day School senior, with her sculpture of mother and baby seal now on view in the Anne Reid Art Gallery at the school. Works by students from kindergarten through 12th grade will be on view in the Gallery until June 8. The Gallery is open daily from 8 to 4, weekends by appointment through Arlene Smith, 924-6700.

10 RECEIVE AWARDS

From College Club. Ten girls who are graduating from Princeton secondary schools have been named winners of the 1984 Scholarship Awards presented by the Women's College Club.

They include Christine Sampson of Princeton Day School who will attend Bryn Mawr College and Melissa Robinson of Stuart Country Day School who will attend American University in Washington, D.C.

Princeton high School winners and the college they plan to attend are Denise Calaprice, Harvard; Sandra Corsaver, Oberlin College; Kathryn Crafton, Philadelphia College of Art; Sydni Craig, Hampton Institute; Alexis Hagadorn, Barnard College; Julia Kopp, Douglass College; Inger Larsen, Swarthmore College; and Carme Toussaint, Boston University.

The amount raised by College Club members this year from all sources, particularly from the Dessert Bridge party held in March, amounted to $7000. Scholarship committee members include Mrs. Frank Updike, chairman; Mrs. Albert Chenicek, Mrs. James Floyd, Mrs. Thomas Hartmann, Mrs. David Ludlum, Mrs. Lawrence Stifel.

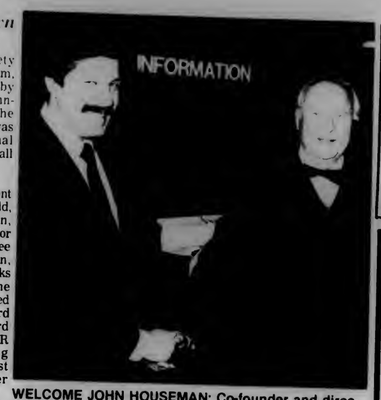
College Club officers elected at the annual meeting are president, Gerry Bowers; vice president, Anne Frazier; recording secretary, Ruth Shoemaker; corresponding secretary, Kate Nicoll; treasurer, Mary Ann Leahy; assistant treasurer, Evelyn Hemstock; and members-at-large, Barbara Grazel and Betty Irish.

TO OFFER PROGRAM

In Water Safety. The Princeton area chapter of the American Red Cross will for the first time sponsor the Garden State Safety School June 14 to 21 at Camp Matoltionequay, Medford Lakes.

The Garden State Safety School, a 30-year-old program, was formerly sponsored by the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross and was then called the National Aquatic First Aid and Small Craft School.

To participate the student must be at least 17 years old, in good physical condition, and meet the prerequisites for the program selected. The fee is $200 and includes tuition, room, board, insurance, books and supplies. Some of the courses offered are, Advanced Lifesaving, the new Lifeguard Training Program, Standard First Aid Instructor, CPR Instructor, Canoeing Instructor, Advanced First Aid Instructor and Water Safety Instructor.



For more information, write to American Red Cross, Princeton Area Chapter, 182 North Harrison Street, or call 924-2404.

GRANT IS RECEIVED

To Encourage Teaching. The General Electric Foundation has awarded a $50,000 grant to Princeton University for the establishment of a "forgivable loan program" to encourage graduate students in engineering and computer sciences to pursue academic careers.

Under terms of the program, 25 percent of a loan will be forgiven each year that the recipient teaches at a college or university after earning a doctoral degree. The loan is interest-free while the recipient remains in graduate school or in an academic position.

Princeton is one of 12 universities selected to participate in the Forgivable Loan Program since it was initiated by the foundation in 1982.

WELCOME JOHN HOUSEMAN: Co-founder and director of The Acting Company, John Houseman, right, is welcomed to Scanticon by Andrew HeLal, the hotel's general manager. Houseman was in Princeton for his company's performance of "The Cradle Will Rock" at McCarter. A reception at Scanticon followed.

E.T. DAY IS PLANNED

As Salute to E.T. Nurses. The International Association for Enterostomal Therapy (IAET) will observe Wednesday, May 23, at E.T. Day.

This date marks the second anniversary of E.T. Day, which was initiated in 1983 by the IAET as a means of making the public more aware of the work of enterostomal therapy nurses. The day is being held in conjunction with National Digestive Disease Week to emphasize the important role that E.T. nurses play in the rehabilitation and care of those suffering from digestive diseases and related illnesses.

The field of E.T. nursing was developed formally in 1968 to meet the special needs of people who must undergo ostomy surgery. It is a growing specialty in which new developments are constantly occurring.

In Princeton, Jani Fox Msur, B.S. R.N. is the E.T. working out of the Department of Community Health Services of Princeton Medical Center. She sees patients on a one-to-one basis at the hospital as well as at their home. She is also available for ostomy groups and public teaching.

For further information call her at 734-4626.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT

By Phone Service. Reassurance Contact, an outreach arm of Contact of Mercer County, seeks volunteers to expand its telephone safety service to senior citizens and to people of all ages who have serious health concerns.

Four two-hour training sessions will begin on Monday, June 4, from 7:30 to 9:30 at Trinity United Methodist Church on Pennington Road opposite Trenton State College. Reassurance Contact, partially funded through the Mercer County Office on Aging, has served more than 140 people in the last 3½ years. At present the program is helping some 74 people to feel the security of knowing that if they become helplessly ill or injured in their homes, days will not elapse before help comes.

A brief phone call is made by a trained volunteer from home each day at an agreed time. If the ring goes unanswered, a designated nearby person will visit to check on the client's well-being.

Interested volunteers may call 896-2120 or 585-2244 for registration or a brochure.

GRANT TO UNIVERSITY

For Hazardous Waste Research. Princeton University has received a $25,000 grant from the Champion International Foundation to support research in hazardous waste management.

Princeton's Hazardous Waste Management Research Program is investigating ways of dealing with existing problem sites while also working on more effective disposal practices. Studies are being carried out by faculty, research staff and students associated with the Department of Chemical Engineering, the Center for Energy and Environmental Studies, and the Water Resources Program in the Department of Civil Engineering.

Topics currently under study include: air pollution from landfills, indoor air quality, the subsurface movement of chemicals, emerging technologies for waste treatment and disposal, and ways of assessing injuries from chemical exposure.

GIFT FROM DRUG CO.

For Molecular Biology. Hoffmann-La Roche Inc. has given $250,000 to Princeton University for its program in molecular biology.

The funds provided by the pharmaceutical and health care firm will be used in support of faculty in Princeton's Department of Molecular Biology, the science dealing with the function and development of cells as regulated by their vastly complex genetic codes.

Princeton launched a major initiative in molecular biology a year ago and to date has raised more than $11 million of the total $36 million it seeks for the program. When fully staffed the department will have a 19-member faculty

CHILDREN'S PROGRAMS

At Public Library. The Summer Programs for Children will begin on Wednesday, June 27, with a performance by Craig Collis, The Silent Sorcerer. He will perform at 10:30 a.m. for children ages 3½ to 5 and again at 3:30 p.m. for school-age children. Free tickets will be available at the Children's Desk starting June 13.

Beginning June 25, parents may register their pre-school age children for a five-week series of stories which start on Tuesday, July 3, at 2.

Pre-school films will be shown on Thursdays from July 5 through August 9 at 3:30. Six Wednesday programs for children ages six and up are also planned. Listings for these programs will appear in the TOWN TOPICS' Youth Calendar.

Brochures giving details about the programs are now available at the library.

VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT

For Zen-Biofeedback. A formal Zen "Sesshin" will take place this weekend at the Princeton Behavioral Medicine and Biofeedback Research Institute, 317 Mount Lucas Road. It begins at 5 a.m. Friday and concludes noon on Sunday with an informal luncheon.

During the session, volunteers will be sought for an exploratory long-term study of the synergistic relationship between Zen meditation and biofeedback-assisted attention training. Interested members of the public are invited at 2 p.m. Sunday to hear Institute Director Dr. Lester G. Fehmi outline the planned study.

Cost is $40 per day or $85 for the full two-and-a-half days. Vegetarian meals are provided and sleeping bag space is available. For further information call 924-0782.

YARD SALE PLANNED

For Scholarship Fund. The Business and Professional Women's Club (BPW) will sponsor a yard sale at 516 Kingston Road Saturday, June 2. Rain date is June 3.

The event will benefit the BPW Scholarship Program, which currently provides three separate awards: one to a graduating student at Princeton High School who is planning additional training in business or the professions; the second to a Princeton High School graduate planning a teaching career; and the third to assist women who wish additional education or training.

Items for sale will include books, games, puzzles, jewelry, sporting goods, plants, small appliances and household items. For further information call Ella Geddes at 882-8961.

SQUAD LISTS CALLS

For First Quarter '84. The Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad responded to a total of 319 calls for the first three months of 1984.

This total is down ten percent from the first quarter of 1983. Some 304 of these calls were emergency dispatches, 14 were routine transportation calls, and two were miscellaneous. Eighty-two of the calls were handled by the paramedics as mobile intensive care unit (MICU) calls, 15 percent fewer than in 1983.

Of the 82 MICU calls, 12 were for people in cardiac arrest of whom two were successfully resuscitated, 26 were markedly improved or had dangerous heart arrhythmias suppressed, and 44 were categorized as precautionary.

One hundred nineteen of the calls were in Princeton Borough, 117 were in the Township, and 83 were mutual aid dispatches. Members put in a total of 1110 hours on the calls and about 40 percent were handled by the paid day crew. Total mileage for the quarter was just under 3000 miles.

Marion Katz is the recipient of a full scholarship from the Congress-Bundestag Program. This award will enable Marion to live in Germany for one year during which time she will attend a German school and participate in seminars on comparative government.

At the 44th Annual Temple University Press Tournament, four students were recognized for achievement. Jacob Farmer won first place in newspaper lay-out. Shira Olszewski took first place for editorial writing, Karen Williams, second place for critical reviewing, Lisa Schmidtke received first place in portfolio layout in feature writing. Julie Kyle won second place for a hundred dollars for her essay on the Death of Bach.

In the statewide debate tournament held at Hanover Park High School on April 7, the team of Dan Young and Ben Reed, Shira Olszewski and Tony Curtis placed first and the team of Devin Hasira Gretchen Rotsch, David Goldfeld and Sam Bagenstos placed second.

On March 24 Simon Miller, Jacob Farmer, Deborah Marchand and Steve Olszewski won the N.J. Junior Varsity Debate State Championship at Hanover Park High School.

Herbert Highfield, chairman of the Communications Department presented a demonstration of online database searching at a symposium sponsored by the Lynchburg, Virginia schools on April 6. Mr. Highfield explained how online database searching has been integrated into the Social Studies curriculum at PHS.

Dr. Ethel Thomas, retired counselor of PHS was recently honored by the National Association for Women Deans, Administrators and Counselors at the 68th Anniversary Conference held in Boston. Mrs. Gloria Seitz presented the citation to Dr. Thomas at the luncheon.

Gloria Seitz and Margaret Migliore, teachers of Business Education, attended a workshop at the headquarters of the New Jersey National Bank. The teachers toured the word processing division and were given a presentation about the equipment, qualifications needed, and salary potential.

Dr. Robert Rouse of Monmouth College addressed the Accelerated Chemistry classes of Linda Kruegel on April 9. Dr. Rouse demonstrated the differences between primary, secondary and tertiary alcohols.

Beth Sonnenschein, a doctoral candidate in epidemiology at the University of Pennsylvania, spoke to the Biology Forum class of Mrs. Cherry Sprague. Miss Sonnenschein clarified the role and methods of an epidemiologist and explained her area of research which seeks to study the relationship between diet and breast cancer.

As part of the mini-concert series, Mr. Kovacs presented a violin recital. "Careers in Demand for the Information Age," a program presented by Bell and Howell, was offered as an assembly program for juniors and seniors. German students of Dr. Victoria Ellis visited Lancaster and the Amish Village on April 6.

Carmen Diaz, Ivo Manuel Morales, Jorge Hylton, Hugo Ross and Jon Sloan Sasses attended a performance of the Boston Ballet at Town Hall, New York, on April 5.

'PAA GOES TO TOWN'

Art Group Moves. They're calling it "A Farewell to Barns," or "The PAA Goes to Town."

The Princeton Art Association will move this Saturday from the Ettl Farm barn on Rosedale Road, to the cinder-block building behind Borough Hall that was the gym of the old Miss Fine's School and is now 45 Stockton. It will take, says assistant to the director Billie Jo Hance, only four hours: 9 to 1.

Anybody who would like to buy 30 old easels — "best offer" — is invited to buy now, before the move. New easels are being made, especially for the PAA.

In the big gym, the PAA's $30,000 in renovation money has created three studios, plus office-lounge-gallery-studio space on what used to be the stage. Studio A-B is the big one (could be divided into two). Studio C is on stage. Down in the basement, running the whole width of the building, is the print-making studio.

Print-making teachers and former students will spend the summer designing the big new space.

Much of the equipment to be moved is big — the print-making press, tables, sculpture stands to hold the clay and of course, office equipment.

How do you move paints and brushes? You don't. Students provide and then take home, their own materials.

Trucks, a horse-trailer belonging to a teacher, station wagons, big cars — all will be used on Saturday and Ms. Hance adds, hopefully, "We'll feed anyone who comes."

More than 1,000 students a year and about 900 members keep the PAA going. The organization teaches painting, drawing, sculpture, paper-making, graphics and sponsors a pottery class at Mercer County Community College.

The PAA has been at the Ettl Farm since 1975, and before that, in the former Benson Building and at 14 Nassau. It is now the tenant of the Borough, sharing the building eventually with senior citizens.

PAA students will park in the 25 spaces provided at "Morven" by the New Jersey Historical Society at 50 cents per class. There are also municipal lots nearby.

Residents accustomed to calling the big building the "Borough Hall gym" have been startled by the PAA's new address: Why 45 Stockton?

Ms. Hance shrugs: "The Borough told us we needed an address, gave us some numbers in the low 40s and said 'pick one.' We thought '45' sounded nice.

Affordable Housing

the Valley Road Building meeting room; the next a week later on June 11, same time and place.

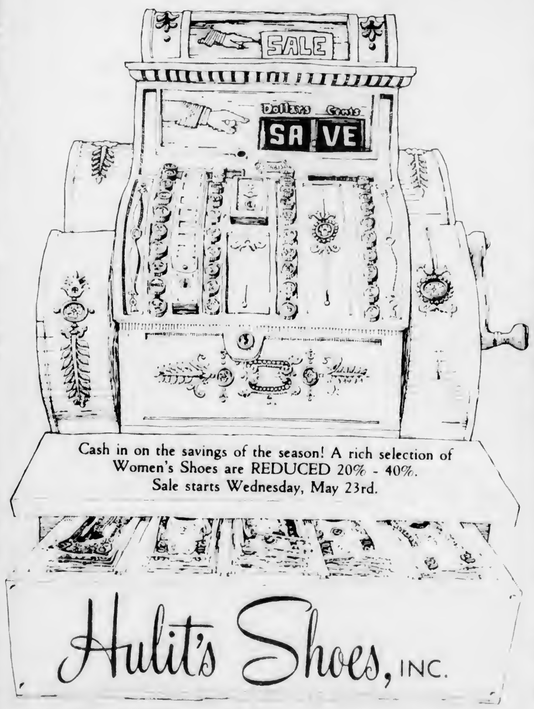
One purpose in introducing an ordinance on Monday, even one that might be greatly modified before final adoption, was to give Township Attorney Edwin Schmierer and Planning Board Attorney Gerald Mueller proof in hand of the Township's good intentions in regard to the type of housing mandated by the Mount Laurel decision when they meet next week with the judge who will hear preliminary arguments in regard to the Calton Homes suit against the Township.

The ordinance under consideration would incorporate into Township law the affordable housing program that has been endorsed by the Planning Board after careful study of recommendations made by housing consultants John R. Nolon and Alan Mallach. The Planning Board recommends that the program be jointly enacted by the Borough and Township and that the housing trust element of the program be a joint entity of Borough and Township.

Elements of the program include:

• Creating an affordable housing district, excluding only limited growth areas, institutional and non-residential sites and environmentally sensitive areas;

• Permitting lower cost housing of any type anywhere in the Affordable Housing District as long as it meets municipal standards;



• Giving developers on five acres or larger the option of building under the "as of right" zoning, or building one low and moderate income unit for every three market-rate bonus units, or contributing a certain amount to the Affordable Housing Fund;

• Permitting owners of sites that are less than five acres to build housing at two times the underlying density, provided that one-third of the bonus units were lower cost units, or at three times the underlying density, provided that one-half of the bonus units were lower cost. The options would obtain even on parcels that are fully developed under existing zoning. All proposals would be subject to environmental reviews, and financial assistance from the Affordable Housing Fund would be made available as an incentive to owners to build high quality design and construction.

• Providing a special bonus density of eight units per gross acre, subject to site plan approval by the Planning Board, to development initiated by the Princeton Housing Trust. A minimum of 20 percent of the units would have to be lower income housing.

In order to spread the cost of providing low and moderate housing, any application for a building permit for new residential or nonresidential construction would be subject to a Development Permit Fee. The proceeds from this fee, plus developers' contributions under the large lot bonus density option, municipal appropriations and funds from other revenue sources would all be paid into the Affordable Housing Fund. The Fund would be held by a municipal entity and administered by the Princeton Housing Trust, a non-profit organization established by the municipalities.

PEOPLE in the News

Robert Johansen and Ruth Ann Johansen, 22 Benford Drive, Princeton Junction, are co-recipients of an alumni honor award from Manchester College, North Manchester, Ind.

Mr Johansen, former president of the Institute of World Order and current senior fellow for research, education and policy analysts with that organization has done extensive academic and personal work in the field of international relations and world order. A member of the Manchester College faculty for nine years, he completed master's and doctoral work at Columbia University.

He visited both Moscow and Washington, D.C., with the transnational delegation of former heads of state in 1982, and remains active with national and international groups in the causes of peace, social justice, ecology and world order.

Mrs. Johansen, an instructor in English literature and composition at Rutgers University, is involved in women's and Third World issues, as well as the plight of those who "remain unseen, unmet and unheard." In 1981 she joined a Church of the Brethren delegation to Cuba to study the current relations of the Christian church to the state, and the effects of the 1959 Cuban revolution on women.

Mrs. Johansen is the author of "Coming Together: Male and Female in a Renamed Garden." She received her master's degree from Columbia University Teachers College and her doctorate from Drew University.

Max Holmes, son of Archie and Ute Holmes of Griggstown, has received his J.D. degree from Columbia Law School. He is a graduate of the Lawrenceville School and Harvard University.

After taking the bar exams for New York state and Texas, he will be employed by the law firm of Vinson & Elkins in Houston, Tex.

Lee T. Barclay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barclay, 77 Adams Drive, has graduated with a B.A. degree from Claremont McKenna College. She majored in economics, accounting and literature.

While at Claremont McKenna, Miss Barclay was freshman dorm president and a member of the lacrosse team. She has accepted employment as an accountant and member of the audit staff with Touche Ross and Company, Philadelphia.

Rebecca L. Gurk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gurk of 26 Howe Circle, is one of 98 Penn State students initiated into Phi Beta Kappa at a recent banquet.

She was also named student marshal for the commencement exercises for the College of Liberal Arts. One student from each of Penn State's colleges is selected as marshal based on academic achievement. Ms. Gurk achieved a 3.95 grade-point average as a student majoring in sociology.

With a minor in Middle Eastern studies, she served as a teaching instructor for an introductory course on the Middle East. In addition she studied 18 weeks last year at Tel Aviv University in Israel. While at Penn State, she sang in the choir and the Penn State Singers and was a member of Hillel Foundation.

Martin C. Butler, 66 Wiggins Street, has won an award to student composers from Broadcast Music Inc.

One of 22 winners in the 1983-84 competition, Mr. Butler's composition was "The Flights of Col" for orchestra.

Julie Yoo, daughter of In Sok and Sung Chon Yoo of 254 Dodds Lane, won an honorable mention in visual arts from the National Foundation for Advancement in the Arts as a result of the 1984 Arts Recognition and Talent Search (ARTS).

Because of the award, she will be honored at the New Jersey Governor's Awards in Arts Education ceremony on June 12 at the State Museum Auditorium. She also received a personal letter of congratulations on White House stationery signed by Nancy Reagan.

Miss Yoo is a senior at Princeton Day School who plans to attend Bryn Mawr College in the fall. As an artist, she entered examples of painting, drawing and sculpture in the national ARTS competition, but she is also a pianist who took first place last year in the Gindhart piano competition.

Five area residents have received diplomas from Glassboro State College.

The graduates from this area and their major fields of study are, Monique Karnoff of Pennington, sociology; Sharon A. Minschwaner of Hopewell, English; Sheila A. Murphy of Lawrenceville, teacher of the handicapped; Raul Tofrens of Lawrenceville, business administration, and Laura Waldron of Lawrenceville, elementary education.

Cintra H. Huber, daughter of Cintra C. Huber of Constitution Drive, has been appointed vice president of communications and development for the American Horse Shows Association. Currently a New York City resident, she was formerly vice president of marketing at Phillips Son & Neale, a fine arts auction house.

Miss Huber began her riding career by winning the leadline class at Devon. She won many ribbons as a junior, and rode both English and western. She studied at Columbia University and received her degree from the Georgetown University School of Business Administration.

Three area high school students have been selected for the first class of The Governor's School in the Sciences to be held this summer at Drew University. Selection was based on academic records, standardized test scores, teacher recommendations and interest in science both in and out of the academic setting.

They are Kevin Volpp of Poe Road, a student at the Lawrenceville School; Michele Cooke of Clover Lane, Stuart Country Day School; and Carmen Hsu, Greene Drive, Lawrenceville, West Windsor-Plainsboro High School.

Paolo M. Cucchi, assistant dean of the College at Princeton University and lecturer in French and Italian, has been named dean of the College of Liberal Arts at Drew University effective August 1.

Dr. Cucchi, who has held his present post at Princeton since 1975, will succeed Robert K. Ackerman, who leaves Drew next month after nine years to become president of Wesleyan College in Macon, Ga.

Dr. Cucchi, a native of Italy, received a B.A. in classics and romance languages from Fordham University in 1963, graduating summa cum laude and a member of Phi Beta Kappa. He earned his M.A. and Ph.D. in romance languages from Princeton University in 1966 and 1972, respectively.

He began his career in education as a teaching assistant in French and Italian at Princeton from 1966-67. For the next three years, he was an instructor in French and Italian at Princeton and, in 1970, he became an assistant professor. He assumed the assistant deanship at Princeton in 1975.

In addition to his work at Princeton, Dr. Cucchi has been a consultant to Berlitz, Inc., and a member of the board of trustees of the Dorothea Van Dyke Association. He is a reader for the Recording for the Blind, Inc., and an active member of the Modern Language Association.

Navy Seaman Recruit Lamont A. Fletcher II, son of Lamont A. Fletcher Sr. of 21 Red Oak Row, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Fla.

Dorane Subjack, daughter of Francis and Eleanor Subjack of Journey's End Lane, gave a senior piano recital at Westminster Choir College, performing works by Bach, Haydn, Debussy and Bartok. This recital was presented in partial fulfillment of a bachelor of music degree in music education.

In addition to her studies, Ms. Subjack has been very active in student government at Westminster. She was recently elected president of the Student Association for the 1984-85 school year and is currently editor of the college

Eiko Kahn, 17 Cleveland Lane, South Brunswick Township, was one of two New Jersey residents recently selected for membership in the New Jersey Water Color Society for 1984. The jury selected Ms. Kahn's watercolor painting "Silk Scarf" for an award. The award will entitle Ms. Kahn to exhibit her paintings at the new Automatic Data Processing corporate headquarters building, Roseland, in February 1985.

James Stewart III, president and chief executive officer of the Princeton Bank, has been named to the Trenton State College Foundation, Inc. The Foundation board of directors is comprised of corporate leaders from New Jersey who plan and coordinate fund raising activities in the private sector to enhance the academic program at Trenton State College.

Mr. Stewart has been president and CEO of the Princeton Bank since 1976. Previously, he served as senior vice president in the Corporate and Commercial Banking Department at the Girard Trust Bank in Philadelphia, capping a 20-year career of diversified banking experience there. He is currently an officer on the board of trustees of Princeton Medical Center. In recent years he has served as general chairman of the Princeton area United Way and as president of the Princeton Chamber of Commerce.

Clifford Geertz, 5 Newlin Road, an anthropologist on the faculty of the Institute for Advanced Study, is among nine people who will receive honorary degrees at Brandeis University's commencement May 20.

Dr. Geertz, who is fluent in Dutch, Indonesian, Javanese, French and Moroccan Arabic, has concentrated his research and writing on the comparative study of civilizations. He is a member of the American Philosophical Society and the National Academy of Science.

Judith L. Hayes of Princeton has been inducted into the Sigma Sigma Chpater of Phi Sigma Iota, the national foreign language honor society. She is a senior at Douglass College.

Clarence D. Chang, a research scientist at Mobil's Research and Development Corp. in Hopewell Township, has received the 1984 Award for Excellence from the Catalysis Society of Metropolitan New York.

Sponsored by Exxon Research and Engineering Corp., the award is being given Mr. Chang for his role in the discovery and characterization of the chemical reaction which is the basis of Mobil's methanol-to-gasoline process. Mr. Chang holds 60 U.S. patents and is the author of a recently published book, "Hydrocarbons from Methanol," as well as many scientific papers.

In recognition of his contributions to catalytic chemistry, he spent six weeks in China last year at the invitation of the Chinese government, presenting a series of lectures.

Attorney William J. Brennan III, of Gallup Road, will become president of the New Jersey State Bar Association at its annual meeting in Atlantic City, May 17-19.

Mr. Brennan is a partner in the Princeton and Trenton law firms of Smith, Stratton, Wise, Heher & Brennan. The son of U.S. Supreme Court Associate Justice Brennan, the new State Bar president, will preside over the 12,500 member organization until May, 1985.

Mr Brennan serves as a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation, associate editor of the New Jersey Law Journal, and a member of the State Supreme Court's board on trial attorney certification. He was a tank officer in the U.S. Marine Corps for three years before attending and graduating from Yale Law School. He practiced law in a Wall Street firm for five years before becoming New Jersey Assistant Attorney General in charge of litigation.

Speakers during the State Bar Association's meetings will include Arthur Meisel of Princeton as part of a panel on "What Every N.J. Lawyer should Know About Antitrust Law" and Alexander P. Waugh Jr., also of Princeton, part of a panel on "Anatomy of a Federal Case in the District of New Jersey."

Stephen F. Kreisler, 15 Mason Drive, has been awarded a four-year college sponsored Merit scholarship to the University of Chicago. The announcement of the award is the last of three scholarship announcements being made this spring by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Mr Kreisler is a senior at Princeton Day School where he has been on the Headmaster's List for seven terms, played the cello in the orchestra, and was photographer for the school newspaper and yearbook.

C.A. Lippincott of Westerly Road has received a distinguished service award from the Chemical Marketing Research Association (CMRA). The award is given in recognition of outstanding service to CMRA and to acknowledge exceptional performance in marketing research.

Mr Lippincott, who is with Arco Chemical Corporation, joined CMRA in 1964 and was elected president in 1980. He served as chairman and as a member of several committees. At Arco, he has been involved in international market research.

Area students have been selected for membership in the Open Door of the Lawrenceville School. The Open Door is an honorary society of boys selected in the 11 grade year on recommendation of faculty members. Boys are chosen on the basis of character, personality and achievement to represent the best qualities of the student body on public occasions.

From Princeton, they are Harry T. Heher, Jason Mraz, Joseph G. Speciale, Andrew C. Spicer, Kevin G. Volpp and John F. Zahner. Other members, from Lawrenceville, are James G. Duffy, Peter D. Graham, Walter C. Jean, and Eric J. Reilly, and from Pennington, Brent H. Davis.

Diana E. Arcovio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sanford M. Arcovio of 351 Franklin Avenue, has been awarded a bachelor of arts degree from Duke University.

Ann Martin, 28-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Martin of 100 Dodds Lane, has written a book for teenagers about what it is like to live in a family with an autistic child.

Called Inside Out and published by Holiday House, the book grew out of Miss Martin's experiences working with autistic children at Eden Institute for three summers while she was at college. The book is dedicated to certain of her charges at the school "and to all the other children who tried as hard as they could." The author will be at an autograph-signing party this Thursday at 7:30 at the school on Logan Drive.

The protagonist of Inside Out is a uniquely nice 11-year-old boy named Jonno (nicer to his younger sister, and nicer about doing household chores than most 11-year olds that come to mind) who wants to be accepted by the other kids in school. But leading a normal life is almost impossible with a little brother like James around. James is disturbed — autistic, the doctors say — won't eat, keeps the family awake at night with his screaming, and embarrasses Jonno with his public temper tantrums.

Eventually James is accepted at a school for autistic children, and the whole family learns how each member must also be a part of the painfully slow, often discouraging process of teaching him the most rudimentary behavior. The book is as much about a young person's finding acceptance in unexpected ways as it is about adjusting to autism and about the cruelty in children and adults.

Inside Out follows Bammer Summer, Miss Martin's earlier book for teenagers, which is about the experiences and feelings of a 12-year-old girl who is sent to camp the summer her widower father remarries. Stage Fright, her third novel for this age group, will be published in the fall.

Miss Martin is a graduate of Princeton High School who majored in education and psychology at Smith College, intending to become a teacher. After teaching 4th and 5th grades at a small private school in Connecticut, she decided against pursuing that course and turned instead to her other interest in writing and in children's literature. She is presently senior editor of books for young readers at Bantam Books.

It was an interest in working with retarded children that led her to Eden Institute, where she became fascinated with autism. "I think about the kids all the time," she says.

Her editor at Holiday House, publisher of Inside Out, was Margery Cuyler, who also grew up in Princeton and who had a much older brother who was autistic. He was not fortunate enough to have been born in the present era when much more is known about autism and when schools like Eden and the Child Development Institute described in Miss Martin's book came into being.

Randi Scott of Princeton and Walter Varan of Hopewell are among seven students inducted into the Mercer County Community College chapter of Psi Beta, a national psychology honor society for two-year colleges.

Eva B. Gibson, 47 Castle Howard Court, was among the new members of the Mercer County College Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa honorary fraternity who have received membership certificates.

A sales agent with John Houghton Realtors, Mrs. Gibson is studying towards a degree in business administration.

Andrea Rutherford, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Rutherford of Bertrand Drive, is a finalist in the 1984 Presidential Scholars Program. She is a senior at Princeton High School.

Tech Sgt John A. Robbins, son of Henry M. and Betty Robbins of 44 Edgemere Avenue, Plainsboro, has participated in Global Shield 84, an exercise involving U.S. Air Force, Air Force Reserve, Air National Guard, Navy and Marine Corps units, and elements of the Canadian forces.

Sgt. Robbins is a security police flight chief with the 305th Air Refueling Wing at Grissom Air Force Base, Ind. He is a 1971 graduate of Princeton High School.

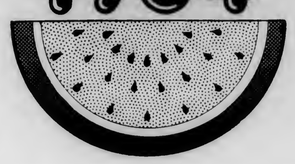
Prize at the annual Honors Day convocation. The prize, a book, is given anonymously for outstanding achievement in German studies.

Nancy Goldner of Leavitt Lane was scheduled to give a paper at the meetings of the National Association of Rehabilitation Research and Training Centers in Chicago on the effects of sex discrimination on disabled women receiving vocational rehabilitation services.

Dr. Goldner is director of the Office of Policy, Planning and Advocacy at the N.J. Commission for the Blind and Visually Impaired.

Four Princeton University professors and an alumnus are among 73 scholars, scientists, public figures and artists recently elected to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

The honored faculty members are Professor of Mathematics William Browder, a specialist in topology; Professor of Economics Hugo F. Sonnenschein, a mathematical economist; Professor of Physics David T. Wilkinson, whose interests include gravitation, relativity and cosmology; and Professor of Physics Edward Witten, who works in several areas of theoretical physics concerned with the ultimate nature of matter and energy.



The alumnus elected to membership is Philadelphia architect Robert Venturi, who graduated from Princeton in 1947 and earned a master of fine arts degree in 1950.

The Small Business Foundation of America has invited 12th District Democratic Congressional Candidate Peter Bearse to speak at its upcoming conference to be held at the Small Business Resource Development Center of Bentley College. Mr. Bearse, an economic consultant, will speak on "How Old Industries in New Jersey Can Adopt New Technologies."

Affordable Housing

The Trust would provide technical and financial assistance to small lot owners. It would also develop lower cost housing itself and it would provide assistance to the Borough and Township to carry out the provisions of the Affordable Housing Program.

Fix Those Pumps. In other business Monday night, Township Committee introduced an ordinance giving homeowners a six months grace period in which to fix improper sump pump connections. The measure would also give homeowners a maximum $200 credit on the sewer tax bill to help pay for the correction, but in an amendment proposed by Mayor Pike would require payback of this credit in three installments over three years. It was not clear to Administrator James Pascale just how this credit-payback proviso would be administered.

The amendment disappointed Mrs. Firestone who proposed the ordinance and felt the carrot incentive had been damaged. The six-month grace period would extend from July 1 to December 31, after that the general township fine of $500 would apply.

In other business Committee adopted a measure making the entire length of Cherry Hill Road in the Township a no-passing zone. It also adopted new parking regulations for Birch Avenue and Pace Street and established new fees for development applications.

Calton Homes Suit

stated that it was not proper to notify the press before serving papers on defendants.

Melvyn Bergstein, of the law firm representing Calton, said he filed the suit Monday at 12:30, called Mr. Schmierer at 2 and offered to give it to him if he sent a messenger to the firm's Newark office or to send it to Princeton by Express Mail. Mr. Schmierer refused, he said.

The 230-acre parcel, on the Township's northwestern ridge, is owned by Dravo and had been zoned for one and one-half to two acres. Believing this zoning impracticable, Dravo sued the Township. Dravo then entered into a contract with Calton, according to the suit, to buy the land for $3,425,000. Calton agreed to help Dravo with zoning problems.

By January of this year, Mr. Bergstein explained, a zoning formula had been agreed on between Dravo and the Township, although a specific number of lots was still to be agreed on. He said that a meeting was scheduled for February.

He charges that, when Calton attorney Henry Hill wrote the Township on February 23, threatening suit unless the municipality enacted certain Mt. Laurel zoning ordinances, the Township cancelled the scheduled February meeting.

Township officials told Dravo they would not continue to talk about settling the suit unless Dravo severed its contract with Calton. Dravo did so, and returned a $50,000 deposit to Calton.

According to Mr. Bergstein, "The Township said 'that's not good enough: we want to be assured that Calton won't sue,' although Henry Hill had told Ed Schmierer he ought to know this was against civil rights statutes."

Mr. Schmierer says the Township wanted to "stay out of the middle."

"The suit seems to say we were punishing Dravo," he continued. "But we said we wouldn't talk with Dravo about the settlement until they got rid of Calton first. We felt that Calton had showed bad faith with its unrealistic deadline in the earlier suit and we didn't want Calton Homes to be the beneficiary of any settlement we made with Dravo.

"It wasn't Calton's Mt. Laurel suit that upset us," he added. "It was the manner in which they behaved."

Mr. Schmierer said the Township "was not even close" to a settlement with Dravo. The Dravo suit went to pre-trial conference May 11, Mr. Schmierer said. At that time, Dravo voluntarily withdrew.

"Now, Calton thinks the Township was required to settle with Dravo," Mr. Schmierer said, "and they allege a violation of their civil rights."

Need Student Directors

If you're in fifth grade or older and would like to direct your own movie, you're invited to help the public library and Creative Theatre Unlimited produce a series of "Book Previews" this summer.

What's a director? A director, explains the library, is the brains behind a videotape: the person who develops the idea, decides what the actors should do and works with the producer on how the tape should look when it's finished.

"Book Previews" will be short, videotaped previews of books. They will be shown on local television to give readers an idea of books they might like to read.

Interested? If so, register at the children's desk in the public library for a workshop to be held Wednesday, June 6 at 3:30, or call the library at 924-9529.

Videotapes will be planned in July and made in August. The Princeton Youth Fund is the financial sponsor.

PLANNING STUDY SET

Citizens Invited. Concerned about the development of Route One and other areas near Princeton, the League of Women Voters will begin a study of the ways various governments can coordinate their planning.

Residents of the area who would like to take part in the study are invited to meet next Wednesday, May 30, at 8 in the Art People Place, Witherspoon Street. Those who are interested but cannot attend, may call Anne-Marie Sant'Angelo at 921-8120.

The study will consider such matters as consultation with neighboring municipalities when a community is drawing up its own master plan, consultation among planners in neighboring counties and ways to enforce master plans.

In the course of the study, the League will sponsor public meetings and workshops for public officials, and hopes to work in consultation with other Leagues in the Mercer-Somerset-Middlesex area.

At the League's annual meeting, Letitia Ufford was elected president, Mimi Moore, vice-president for national issues, Rita Ludlum, vice-president for state issues, Anne-Marie Sant'Angelo, vice-president for local issues and Barbara Trelstad, secretary-treasurer.

Moving?

The Post Office has free change-of-address kits for people on the move.

The kit's postcards can be used to notify the post office, friends, business correspondents and magazines of a new address so mail can find you in your new home. Last year, the Postal Service forwarded some 45 million pieces of mail.

Princeton Postmaster Victor M. Zuczek recommends avoiding paying forwarding charges, and possible delays in receiving mail, by telling everyone of your new address a month before you move.

IF YOU LIVE outside of Princeton and are regularly buying TOWN TOPICS at a newsstand, a mail subscription can save you time and money. Call 924-2200 today.

Happy Swimtime?

Yes, but...

Shocking .... he was standing in his swimming pool, cleaning it with a broom. His arm, they said when they found him later, accidentally made contact with an electrical filter.

Shocking ... a 15-year-old was electrocuted when the old power drill shorted out.

Shocking ... plugging in an extension cord in the yard of his house, he happened to step into a puddle of water.

Shocking ... the grass was still pretty wet, but he decided to get out the electric mower and cut it, anyway.

Water and electricity aren't friendly.

Underwriters Laboratories has counted about 23,000 people who die each year as a result of accidents in the home. With warm spring weather here and hot summer weather ahead, a lot of people will be outdoors with power tools. And then comes a sudden thundershower ...

Power tools should have been properly stored last fall. Check to see:

- Is the cord cracked or cut?
- Has water (or cold) gotten into the motor?
- How's the insulation?
- Are the cutting edges of saws and lawnmowers sharp and clean?
- Did you follow instructions for oiling and for changing the accessories.

Have ground fault circuit interruptors (GFCI) installed on all outdoor electrical outlets, and outlets near water, Underwriters Laboratories says. If there is any dangerous leakage of electrical current, the GFCI will cut off the electricity coming from the outlet before a potentially fatal shock can occur. Get a qualified electrician to install.

Don't use any extension cord outdoors unless it has been approved for outdoors.

- See whether packaging or cord says it can be used outdoors.
- Be sure cord is rated high enough for the device plugged into it. (Look on the cord: it will give you this information.)
- Read the instruction manual that came with the appliance to be sure it can be used with the cord you bought.

Don't allow children to use power tools unless you are there to supervise. If a power saw can cut down a tree, a drill can bore through sheet metal and a circular saw split a two-by-four — what do you think they can do to a human body?

If you're using a power tool, make sure it's turned off before you plug it in. Sudden starts can be dangerous.

Never, never, carry a power tool by its cord. Never, never, yank the cord from the electrical outlet.

Changing the blade? Disconnect the appliance. Doing minor repair work, won't take a minute? Disconnect the appliance.

Above all — read the instructions.

Above all — read the warning labels

All set? Dive into Summer Fun!

UNITED JERSEY RECEIVES AWARD: Vice President George Bush, right, congratulates John F. Hoff, chairman, United Jersey Bank, as recipient of this year's National Private Sector Initiative Award presented by the National Council for Urban Economic Development. A subsidiary of United Jersey Banks, the firm was recognized for its role in the revitalization of downtown Elizabeth by rebuilding its local headquarters there.

BUSINESS

GOETZ MADE PRESIDENT OF ADR. Martin A. Goetz, a principal founder of Applied Data Research, has been promoted to president and chief operating officer of the software firm. John R. Bennett will continue as chairman and chief executive officer.

Mr. Goetz, who holds the first patent ever awarded for computer software, has been senior vice-president of ADR and director of its software products division since 1974. A graduate of City College of New York, with a master's in business statistics, he handled technical coordination of ADR's early software systems, including Autoflow, which in 1965 was the first software product ever sold nationally by an independent company. He received a patent for it in 1970.

Earlier — in 1968 — he had received the first software patent for a sorting system. He has been president of the Software Industry Association of the Association of Data Processing Service Organizations and has been head of that organization's software protection committee.

CONSULTANT SET For About Town. About Town, Inc., a Princeton-based information services company, has announced that the Center for Information Age Technology (CIAT), a division of the New Jersey Institute of Technology, will act as consultant to the company for its projected computer hardware and software needs.

About Town specializes in providing information about communities as a whole or selected aspects of them, such as business services, social services or cultural resources. Recently it published "About Princeton," a 14-page map guide of the Princeton region. It is currently developing a computerized system of information about businesses in the rapidly expanding New Brunswick-Princeton-Trenton corporate corridor.

CIAT, whose executive director is Pat Brannigan, was established as a non-profit center in December, 1983 to provide expertise and technical support to industry, small business, education and non-profit agencies in the design of computer applications to improve productivity and manage information age technology.

IT'S A HOME SHOW Admission Free. Decorating and finance, maintenance and electronics, landscaping and energy. Even entertainment. These are some of the features of The Home Show, to be held in the Hyatt Regency on Route One Saturday, June 2 under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce. It's a first for the Chamber, and is open free to the public.

Hours are 10 to 4. There will be demonstrations, information and answers to questions.

Door prizes will be awarded during the day and registration forms are available from the Chamber's office, 32 Nassau. Completed forms may be left in the main ballroom of the Hyatt the day of the show.

'MORVEN' RECEPTION For Chamber Members. The annual reception of the Chamber of Commerce will be held this Thursday at "Morven," the former mansion for New Jersey governors, on Stockton Street.

Richard T. Pratt, president of Merrill Lynch Mortgage Capital, Inc., will speak on "American Free Enterprise: Believe In It."

PERSONNEL NOTES

Alfonse M. Mattia, partner of Amper, Politziner & Mattia of Woodbridge, Flemington and Princeton, has completed a nine-week executive education program at the Harvard Business School in Boston, Mass.

Mr. Mattia was one of 81 men and women who this year completed the Smaller Company Management Program for owner-presidents of firms with at least 30 employees and annual sales ranging from $3 million to $75 million. The program consists of three sessions, three weeks each, usually taken a year apart. Mr. Mattia began the Harvard Program in 1982.

Susan Halligan has been named advertising and promotion manager of the Princeton University Press and Mary Mellow has been appointed sales manager. Ms. Halligan, who has been with the Press since 1982, will be responsible for space and direct-mail advertising, exhibits and publicity. Ms. Mellow, on the Press staff since 1978, will be responsible for sales to bookstores, wholesalers, bulk purchasers and book clubs. She will also be in charge of translation rights. Both will report to the director of the Press.

Willard E. Rapp of Griggstown, senior member of the research staff at AT&T's Engineering Research Center on Carter Road, has been awarded his 13th U.S. patent. The patent relates to a tool for cutting contacts from wire spring relays and, more particularly, to a power-operated tool for simultaneously cutting and collecting a multitude of contacts from wire spring relays.

Mr. Rapp holds a master of science degree in mechanical engineering from Stevens Institute of Technology and is a registered professional engineer in New York State.

Commodities Corporation has announced several promotions of its executive staff. Princeton area residents who have been promoted include Thomas F. Dailey, 26 Herrontown Circle, legal counsel for Commodities Corp. U.S.A., and Alexander J. Sloane, 604 Princeton Kingston Road, assistant treasurer, both of whom were promoted to vice president.

Also, M. Elaine Crocker, 55 Sayre Drive, manager of trader staffing and training, and Michael P. Tusay, 17 Meadow Lane, Pennington, manager of the personal investment department, both of whom were promoted to associate vice president.

OBITUARIES

John P. Moran

John P. Moran, 54, died of cancer May 19 at his home. A resident of Princeton since 1959, Mr. Moran was president of Lewis C. Bowers and Sons Inc. and a former vice president for facilities at Princeton University.

Born in Scranton, Pa., he received his B.S.E. degree from Princeton University in 1951. He was an officer in the Civil Engineer Corps of the U.S. Navy from 1951 to 1955. From 1955 to 1959 he worked as an architect and chief designer in the offices of his late father, Robert P. Moran Associates of West Orange.

In 1959 he was hired as assistant superintendent of Grounds and Buildings at Princeton University. He served as director of the office of Physical Planning from 1963 to 1966, general manager of Planning, Plant and Properties until 1972, and general manager of facilities and an officer of the corporation from 1972 through 1973.

He was promoted to vice president for facilities in 1974, a title he retained until his departure in 1979 to join Bowers Development Company as president. While at the University, he was responsible for the planning and implementation of a several hundred million dollar expansion program. He managed the University's commercial real estate holdings and had oversight of food services and housing.

Mr. Moran was instrumental in the conception and development of the University's Forrestal Center. As a result of his efforts, he was chosen by the editors of the Environmental Planning Guide to receive an award for distinguished service in environmental planning.

He served as chairman of Palmer Square, Inc., and was founding president of the Middlesex-Somerset-Mercer Regional Study Council. He was past chairman of the Mercer County Planning Board. A licensed architect, engineer and planner, he was also a member of the American Institute of Architects and the Urban Land Institute. He was a former member of the Hopewell Valley Board of Education, the YWCA Executive Club and a director of the Blairstown Camp.

Mr. Moran joined Bowers Development Company in 1979 as president. In 1980 he became president of the parent company, Lewis C. Bowers and Sons Inc. As President, he conceived and developed the Carnegie Center, a hotel and office complex.

He is survived by his wife, Jewel G. Moran; three daughters, Rebecca Marcheret of Flushing, N.Y., Elizabeth Strauss of Princeton, and Victoria O'Connell of Sitka, Alaska; a son, Christopher, Moran of Starksboro, Vt.; his mother, Cecelia Moran of West Orange; two sisters, Martha Moran of West Orange and Sister Mary Louise Moran of Trenton; and a brother, Robert Moran of Glastonbury, Conn.

A memorial service was scheduled to be held this Wednesday at 10 a.m. in the Princeton University Chapel. Burial will follow in Princeton Cemetery. Arrangements are under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to either Memorial Hospital, Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center for Lung Cancer Research, 1275 York Avenue, New York, N.Y., or to Princeton University, Princeton, N.J. 08544.

Edith B. Margerum, head of the art department in the Princeton schools for many years, died May 17 in Helene Fuld Medical Center. She lived on the Lawrenceville-Pennington Road, Lawrenceville.

Miss Margerum was born in Princeton and was a lifelong area resident. She retired in 1958 as head of the art department of the Princeton Regional Schools where she had been employed since 1920. She received her B.A. degree from Trenton State College and a Master of Fine Arts from Columbia Uuniversity.

She was a member of Nassau Presbyterian Church; the Huguenot Society of New Jersey; the Historical Society of Princeton; and the Daughters of Colonial Wars. She was past state senior president of the New Jersey Children of the American Revolution and was a member of the Princeton chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution for more than 44 years. She served as treasurer and recording secretary for the Princeton D.A.R. and was an associate member of the General David Forman Chapter of the Trenton Chapter of the D.A.R.

Surviving are five cousins, Mrs. C. Thomas Chianese of Trenton, Mrs. Arthur Gravatt of Jamesburg, Mrs. Joseph Hayes of Somerset, Shirley Johnson of Princeton and Mrs. Richard Stump of Westfield.

The service was held at the Mather-Hodge Funeral Home, the Rev. Stephen Williams of Nassau Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association, 3490 Route 1.

Helen J. Hurley, 76, died May 20 in the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center.

Miss Hurley was born in Princeton and was a lifelong resident. She was graduated from St. Paul's Grammar School and Princeton High School. She also attended both Rutgers and Cornell Universities. She retired in 1967 from RCA, where she had been a secretary for 16 years. Previously she was a secretary for the Geology Department at Princeton University.

She was a member of the Golden Agers Senior Citizens Club at St. Paul's Church and the Princeton Senior Citizens Club.

Daughter of the late William J. and Mary C. Hurley, she is survived by a sister, Mary H. Anderson of Princeton, and several nieces and nephews.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church with burial in the parish cemetery. Arrangements were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, PO Box 529, Princeton 08542.

Christina A. Finley, 33, of Harrison Street, died May 20 at Princeton Medical Center after a brief illness.

Mrs. Finley had lived in Princeton since 1975. She had worked at United Jersey Bank in Princeton for 13 years as a mortgage processor.

She is survived by her husband, Martin W. Finley; a son Christopher, and a daughter, Donna, both at home; her parents, Michael and Angela Klapansky of Hillsborough; and a brother, John Inglot of Lakehurst.

Mass of Christian Burial will be held this Thursday at 11 at St. Paul's Church with burial in St. Paul's Cemetery. Memorial contributions may be made to St. Paul's School or to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad.

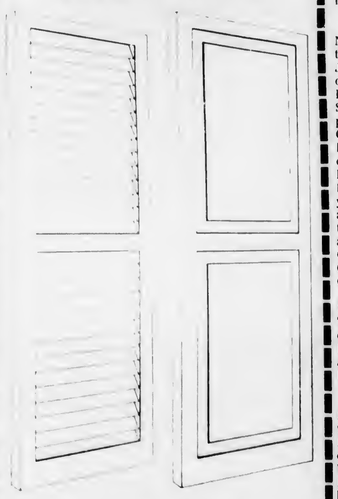
Elizabeth A. Packer, 76, of Princeton, died May 17 at Franklin Convalescent Center, Franklin Township. Born in Princeton, Mrs. Packer lived here all her life.

Wife of the late Alfred W. Packer, she is survived by a daughter, Elizabeth P. Kleiber of Mercerville; four sisters, Margaret Barlogio of Greenfield, Calif., and Jane Hosfelt, Helen P. Finley and Emily M. Finley, all of Princeton, three grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Mass of Christian Burial was celebrated in St. Paul's Church with burial in St. Paul's Cemetery.

Floresa S. Stoutamire, 87, of Princeton, died May 16 at Princeton Medical Center.

Mrs. Stoutamire was born in Putnam Hall, Fla., and had lived most of her life in Gainesville, Fla. She moved to Princeton two years ago. She was a member of the Women's Club and All Saints' Episcopal Church.



Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Betty F. Maitlen, and two grandsons, Steven and Mark Maitlen, with whom she lived.

A graveside service was held in Gainesvile, Fla. Arrangements here were under the direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

Three Students from Nassau Presbyterian Church Return From a 17-Day "Peace and Education" Visit to Soviet Union

RETURNEES FROM THE U.S.S.R.: Speaking last Sunday at Nassau Presbyterian Church were three members of the Senior High Fellowship who recently returned from a 17-day trip to the Soviet Union which the church helped support. Allison Wray, left, Janice Dowell, center, and Lisa Elmes returned full of praise for the warmth and friendliness of the Soviet people and wiser as to the contradictions and conflicts in Soviet life.

Three members of the Senior High Fellowship at Nassau Presbyterian Church have returned from a 17-day trip to the Soviet Union surprised by the intense interest Soviet people seem to have in Americans and sober about the contradictions and complexities of Soviet life.

Lisa Elmes, Janice Dowell and Allison Wray each had differing experiences in a group trip that evidently permitted its members a good deal of individual freedom. As a consequence they feel they were able to penetrate through the layers of Soviet society to make close friendships with several young people of their own age.

Under the title "Peace and Education," sponsored by a California-based organization called Visions for Peace, the trip was arranged by the Citizens Exchange Council in New York City. The group numbered 27, half adult, half youth, from all over the United States, each with his or her own particular agenda.

Lenore Duensing of Visions of Peace spoke to the Senior High Fellowship at Nassau Church this winter on her project for the exchange of student art and writing about peace between the U.S. and U.S.S.R. Her talk provided the impetus for these three young women to leap at the chance for a trip to the Soviet Union.

First Trip Abroad. Lisa and Janice are students at Princeton High School, Allison is a Princeton Junction resident who attends West Windsor-Plainsboro High School. For each it was the first trip abroad, and they did not know before they arrived where they would be going or what the itinerary would be. As Allison said in the narrative she gave to accompany the slides they showed at Nassau Church last Sunday, "the trip began in Moscow, a dark and gloomy and depressing city, but as it went on and we began meeting people, the city became colorful."

In addition to visiting Moscow, they travelled to Leningrad, Tbilsi, the capital of Georgian Republic on the Black Sea, and Yurevan, near the Turkish border in Armenia. They had three different perspectives on Soviet life. There was the official view as spoken by the Intourist guides and the Soviet professionals at "Houses of Friendship," Communist Party centers, where as Lisa puts it, "They could talk circles around us and justify everything."

Then there were the Soviet students themselves with whom they chatted about the things all teenagers talk about — what they do on weekends, boy-girl relationships. But they sensed that their Soviet counterparts were restricted in what they were permitted to say.

In addition to spending time in many classrooms, particularly at the lower level, the group visited "Pioneer Palaces," emporiums of after-school activities, somewhat comparable to YM-YWCA's or Boy Scouts-Girl Scouts in this country. The Moscow Pioneer Palace, for example, is a very elaborate structure which offers a variety of classes from cooking to sculpture to some 6,000 youth.

The girls were impressed by the evident care and attention given to the upbringing of children. Children were given bright and colorful clothing to wear when the parents often times dressed themselves in drab and shabby apparel.

Making Friends. On the third level of their experience with Soviet society were the friends they met. Lisa and Janice were "picked up" shortly after their arrival in Moscow by two Soviet young men who took them on a tour of Moscow night life, pressed gifts and flowers upon them, and followed them all the way to Leningrad for one more rendezvous. One of these young men was working as an electrician, but he really yearned to go into the theatre.

As Janice tells it, he was facing the dilemma of the draft. His friend, the other young man, had earlier made it appear that he had slashed his wrist and had been sent to a mental institution, thereby avoiding the draft but precluding any opportunity to attend college or a voc-tech school. The electrician faced the choice of avoiding the army and being sent to Afghanistan by pulling some similar maneuver or entering the army, hoping to survive and then trying for acting school.

The encounter made Janice realize that the biggest decision she had to face in her life was which college to attend. Only 30 percent of Soviet youth get to go to college, she says. She also returned with a real "thirst" to know more about the Soviet Union.

"They know so much more about us than we know about them," she says. She is distressed that Princeton High School is dropping first-Russian this fall. Another encounter with two girls in the elite English-speaking school in Moscow who professed certain things about the school which she later learned were untrue has made her wonder about a lot of the things they were shown and told.

Contrasts. The three also had a glimpse behind the facade of the "gorgeous" public places, such as the sumptuous chandeliered Moscow subway, to life for three or four families living in eight or nine rooms in a Leningrad apartment house, sharing one kitchen and one bath. And yet everywhere, they say, there was an incredible warmth and friendliness, hospitality and outright helpfulness, despite the language barrier.

"They love the American people," Lisa says. "They think we are so courageous and adventurous and brave." At the same time, everyone knows and talks about exactly how many minutes the American missiles deployed in Europe are from his or her home. They are as clear in their dislike of President Reagan and the American government as they are in their warmth toward American people, Janice adds.

"Russians are incredibly into the peace movement and peace propaganda," Lisa says. "Peace is very acceptable there." At the same time the Soviet people have very little awareness of the depth of the peace movement in this country, Janice points out, adding, "Our country is spending a phenomenal amount of money based on distrust of this nation, and we know just about zip about the country."

Janice feels "if enough people made personal contacts there wouldn't be so many problems" between the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. She urges anyone who has the opportunity to visit the Soviet Union to do so, and says she hopes to go again herself. Lisa and Allison agree, enthusiastically.

Annual Event? Nassau Church also agrees that such visits and personal contacts cast beneficial ripples. The Rev. Cynthia Jarvis, adviser to the Senior High Fellowship at Nassau Church, says she would like to see the church support one or two students making a trip to the Soviet Union on an annual basis for the next several years.

NAMED ASS'T PASTOR

At Prince of Peace. The Rev. Margaret Payne of Lawrenceville Road has been named assistant pastor of the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Princeton Junction. A 1983 graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary, she was ordained last week in Ocean City during the annual convention of the New Jersey Synod of the Lutheran Church in America.

Mrs. Payne is a native of Philadelphia who went to India to teach on a Fulbright grant after graduating from Muhlenberg College. While there she met her husband, John, who was working for a New York bank.

Upon their return to the United States and move to Princeton, Mrs. Payne enrolled at Princeton Seminary. She did some of her field work at Prince of Peace and this past year has served as vicar of the church.

The position of assistant pastor is a new one for Prince of Peace, where the Rev. G. Frederick Schott is pastor. Mrs. Payne will have responsibilities for Christian education, social ministry and youth ministry. She recently led a dozen women of the church on a camping trip-retreat.

ORDAINED AND PROMOTED: The Rev. Margaret Payne has been ordained by the New Jersey Synod of the Lutheran Church of America and elected assistant pastor of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Princeton Junction where she has been serving as vicar. With her are Milton Teske, left, president of the church council, and the Rev. G. Frederick Schott, pastor.

BULLETIN NOTES

The Men's Association of Witherspoon Presbyterian Church will celebrate its annual Men's Day this Sunday.

The festivities will begin with the traditional "Old Fashioned Sunday Morning Breakfast" between 8 and 10 in the parish house. The Rev. David McAlpin, former assistant pastor of the church, will speak on "The Criminal Justice System and the Ex-Offenders" at 9.

The guest speaker for the 11 a.m. worship service will be the Rev. Shelby Rooks, executive vice president, United Church of Christ Board for Homeland Ministries, based in New York City. Mr. Rooks is a former Princeton resident who served for many years as director of the Fund for Theological Education in Princeton. After eight years in Chicago as president of Chicago Theological Seminary, he has returned to this area to live.

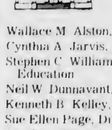
A reception is planned after the workshop service, and all are welcome.

Seventh graders of The Jewish Center's Religious School will graduate on Friday at 8:15 p.m.

The students will lead the Sabbath services and will give a presentation in their own words about Jewish ethics. Directing the program are teachers Ilene Cohen and Nira Lavid. Rabbi Melvin Glatt will give a charge to the graduates, and principal Dr. Shoshana Silberman will greet the graduates and their families. A reception will follow, coordinated by Jane Silverman.



The Rev. Gibson Winter, professor of Christianity and society at Princeton Theological Seminary, and Lee Crawford, an active member of the Episcopal Church at Princeton University, will speak Wednesday, May 30, at 8 p.m. at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street. The occasion is the meeting of Trinity's Christian Action Board in the Goerge Thomas Room.

Mr. Winter and Ms. Crawford will speak on their trip to Nicaragua, where they met with church leaders, base communities and church organizations. They will be joined in the discussion by the Rev. Richard A. Bower, associate rector, who has made recent trips to Nicaragua and to Guatemala on behalf of the Episcopal Church.

All are welcome to this discussion on the current situation in Central America and the role the churches are playing there.

SURPRISE, SURPRISE!

That's what you'll have when you walk into this seemingly modest split-level. Four bedrooms, 2 tiled baths, a recreation room - all make for easy family living - but the really exciting feature is the stunning new Great Room added at the rear. Cathedral ceilinged, with Mexican tiled floor and second fireplace, it opens to a state of the arts gourmet kitchen and adjacent wet bar area - and then to a formal "parlor" or dining room. A most flexible plan to fit your needs or living style!

All set high on a hillside "in the Village" of Lawrenceville on a large, deep lot - but within a block of New York and local buses. Absolutely heaven for a mother who's tired of car-pooling everywhere! $155,000

PRIME HAMILTON LOCATION

A lovely colonial featuring 4 bedrooms, 2½ baths, living room, formal dining room, eat-in kitchen and adjacent family room with full width brick fireplace. Many nice extras include two fully finished basement rooms, oversize 2 car garage, central air conditioning and a partially wooded yard. Offered at $124,900

ONE OF A KIND - Post modernist architect designed residence, 6 plus wooded acres. Light, airy, air conditioned and energy conserving. 4 bedrooms, 3 baths, separate office or guest house. $450,000 and a pretty one, too! Situated on about ¾ acres near the Province Hill area of Lawrence Township, it's just minutes from downtown Princeton. Attractive living room with fireplace, dining room with pine wainscotting, cozy panelled study or den. Four bedrooms, 1½ baths, screened porch overlooking flagstone terrace and pretty grounds. Solidly built by Houghton, with plaster walls, and of course, oak floors.

Come look - Make offer! $159,500

CHARMING OLD/NEW FARMHOUSE

On Cherry Valley Road, just ten minutes to Palmer Square! The original section dates back to pre-Revolutionary times, 1765, the restoration and new addition to 1977. Brick floored entry hall and modernized country kitchen with corner fireplace, lovely new living room and master bedroom, formal dining room, library, all with fireplaces! Three other bedrooms, 2 family baths. Beamed ceilings, wide floor boards - and a walled brick terrace opening to both living room and kitchen.

Two serenely private acres, with eminently rentable 2 bedroom apartment above a 4 car garage, and other outbuildings. This is just the property you have been looking for - and so rarely find - at only $365,000 and all of downtown Princeton, we offer an expansive frame house with large living and entertaining areas and numerous bedrooms and baths. Set on almost an acre, this new listing on Bayard Lane has a location well worth exploring for its many future potentials and present possibilities. Call for further information.

BLENDED WITH TASTE

to make a happy mixture of contemporary and traditional in Princeton's lovely Edgerstoune! Wonderful new glass enclosed, Jerry Ford designed kitchen – breakfast room and deck overlooking private grounds made even more so by "The Mall." Modernized living room, large dining room, both with track lighting, opening to cozy sitting room. Master suite with dressing room-study, and state of the arts bath, 3 other bedrooms and 2½ baths, plus an oversized recreation room for all kinds of activities. Everywhere there is imaginative use of built-ins, fabulous closets and storage areas. In fact, too much to describe in a small ad - so come see for yourself!

Word Processors Will Revolutionize Way Pupils Write Predicts Assistant Superintendent, Jamieson McKenzie

By 1989 — five years from now — most writing will be done with word processors. Portable models will be about $200, instead of the $800 they cost today. Kids will carry around a four-pound portable the way they now carry a notebook, and do all their writing on it.

The prediction comes from Jamieson McKenzie, assistant superintendent of Princeton's schools, who wants to make sure students will be ready for that day.

The schools now have 117 computers, in offices as well as classrooms, that can be used as word processors. Plans call for acquiring 65 more for a total of 182. Of those, 150 will be for instructional purposes.

Computer labs have been opened two nights a week for student (and community) use. There is a computer in every third and fourth-grade classroom, where students are learning to program with LOGO as a way of gaining a sense of control over the machine. Some teachers are doing word processing with their students.

One of the goals under consideration for next year, is to have every student in grades five through 12 use a processor for writing, or at least be trained to do so.

"Writing with a word processor is a different thinking process," Mr. McKenzie begins.

"It connects the way your mind works, with the way you express yourself in writing. Our minds tend to jump and leap around, but it's hard, with pen or typewriter, to write a coherent composition that way. With a word processor, you can"

Mr. McKenzie calls it "accordion writing."

"Let's say you have made a list of ten ideas. Your mind hops from one idea to another, because that's the way a mind works. With a word processor, you can take your outline and work on it from within, jumping from this idea to that, expanding or compressing through editing, like an accordion.

"A processor allows you to do 10 or 20 revisions in very little time. You can relax about your initial outpouring, because you can simply dump out your thoughts, re-shaping them later, like a lump of clay. The quality, therefore, is improved and the end product is far more than 'typewritten, with good editing.'"

Although third and fourth-graders are developing a sense of mastery through learning to program with LOGO, the school system is moving cautiously with younger children, kindergarten through second grade.

Not for Lower Grades. "Many school systems are doing computers in grades K-1-2, but we don't think it's necessarily a good thing." Mr. McKenzie cautions. "It's something of a fad for those grades and we've held the brakes because we want to test the various possiblities."

In spite of LOGO, the schools aren't pushing word processing in grades three and four because teachers report problems with typing speed. After all, the whole concept of free-flowing ideas is cramped if you have to hunt over the entire keyboard to find where the "d" is.

So it's possible that some kind of typing instruction — "not a heavy dose" — may be given along with instruction in word processing. Mr. McKenzie adds that he and his colleagues have learned these things by listening to teachers and constantly revising after they've listened.

In the John Witherspoon Middle School, there is one machine on a mobile platform in each of the school's ten "houses." Some are in classrooms, others are out in the wide hall spaces that characterize this building.

"Nobody else in the country has ever done it like this," Mr. McKenzie says with a proud grin. "We have no models! It's been a whole year of learning and we've taken a lot of ideas and tried 'em all. We're like scouting parties, feeding back what we learn."

In the high school, eight new machines are in the big room that is the English-Social Studies Interest Center. Here, after the machines had been in place only a week, a student was taking an English exam on a word processor. One other student had also elected to use a processor. The remaining five were taking the test with pencil and paper.

The machines here are available for any student. The one rule: NO COMPUTER GAMES.

In the high school's Computer Center, all 17 machines are in use. A compensatory math class is working quietly here, shoring up a shaky foundation of knowledge. Other students are studying the computer language called Pascal.

In the Business Department, working and living in a simulated office environment, students advance from typewriter to computer as they improve in knowledge and skill.

"Our goal," Mr. McKenzie says, as he looks at busy machines and busy students, "is to have computers in use 80 to 90 percent of the day. We're not sure, now, what percentage of the day they are in use, but nationally, two-thirds of the school systems use them less than one-half the time."

---

20 Second Retrieval. In the high school library, a student is occupied with the Dow Jones Retrieval Service (given to PHS without charge), calling up information about current news events, stocks, financial developments. Using the word-searching feature, a student can obtain in 20 seconds a list of all the articles in the Wall Street Journal over the past three years that use whatever word the student has supplied — Thatcher, deficit, nuclear. And later obtain a print-out of a whole article.

All this means a major shift in teaching techniques and teaching philosophy. Not only that —

"It is a major change in the culture of the school," Mr.McKenzie believes. "It's a major thing for English teachers, especially, to understand in terms of their own experience.

"Kids will be writing differently. Teachers must do their own writing to test this out."

Last summer, the schools ran a staff program. Principals, guidance counselors, science teachers, elementary classroom teachers, gym teachers, writing teachers — 50 of them set out to explore this new territory. Teachers were allowed to take Apple computers home — with such success that there weren't enough to go around.

"For some, it was a radical

'GIN GAME' HOME

For June 3 Performance. McCarter's touring production of "The Gin Game" will come home to McCarter for a single performance Sunday, June 3 at 2:30. Robert Lanchester, associate artistic director of the theatre, and Penelope Reed, resident member of the company, play in D.L. Coburn's Pulitzer winner.

It's about a few weeks in the lives of two old people, playing gin on the back porch of an old folks' home. As they play endlessly, their games become the metaphor for the games we play with our own lives and the work becomes an examination of winning and losing, luck and responsibility. Club of Cranbury. The June 3 matinee will be the only area performance of "The Gin Game" and McCarter says it has priced the tickets "substantially lower" than most to broaden audience participation. Tickets are $7 and $9.

"The Gin Game" is available for touring this year and next, and opened this spring in Cranbury under the sponsorship of the Women's Sing? Dance?

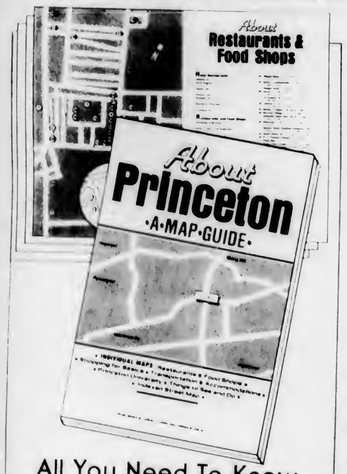
Singers and dancers are invited by Somerset County College to audition for The Penguin Players' summer theatre season. Auditions for six male and six female singer-dancers needed for a production of "Cole," a musical based on Cole Porter, will be held Wednesday, May 30 at 7 p.m. in the College cafe, Somerville.

"Cole," to be directed by Roger Briscoe, professor of music at the college, will be given July 26-28 and August 2-4. Additional information may be obtained by calling Dr. Briscoe at 201-526-1200, ext. 312.

STUDY THEATRE



Slapstick! Mime! Creative Theatre's idea of summer classes is an "idea" workshop for people four to six years old; a "drama" workshop for those in grades two through four, and a "theatre" workshop for grades five through eight. Classes will be July 2-27. Tuition for each is $100.

In the Idea workshop, you explore a different theme every day, learning about movement, art and music, creating a jungle out of string and streamers and pretending you're on an overnight camping trip. Classes: Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, 9:30 to noon.

Moving on to the Drama workshop, students create a play around a children's story, developing characters and dialogue, constructing set and props and designing costumes. (The play will be given in McCarter Theatre's back yard the evening of July 25.) Sessions Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays 1-3:30.

In the Theatre workshop, students will explore slapstick and vaudeville humor — things like pie-throwing and prat-falls — and will make their own comedy for presentation on McCarter's stage the afternoon and evening of July 27. Acting, playwriting, costume design, set and prop construction will all be involved. Mondays and Fridays, 1-5.

Workshops will be held at CTU's studio in Trinity Church, 33 Mercer. Registration will be held through June 1. Additional information is available by calling 924-3489.

SUMMER WITH WILL

Shakespeare Classes. Since all the world's a stage and one man in his time plays many parts (and the women, too) it seems only right for McCarter to hold summer classes in Shakespeare for teens as well as adults.

For the third summer, young people may participate in A Shakespeare Summer, a four-week program concluding with four outdoor peformances in Battlefield Park. Auditions will be held next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 4 to 7 at McCarter, and if those times are inconvenient, individual appointments may be arranged. "A Shakespeare Summer '84" is supported by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission.

The program, starting June 25 (performances July 21-22) will run Monday-Friday, 9-1. The play this year will be either "As You Like It" or "Twelfth Night."

Nagle Jackson, artistic director of the theatre, will teach scansion — Shakespearean verse — and actors Penelope Reed and Mary Martello will coach in acting, voice and music. Tuition is $250 and some scholarships are available. Details from 452-6619.

For adults, there will be Penelope Reed's "Shakespeare: An Exploration of Acting using the Bard's Recorded Observations." The class, for adults at an intermediate level of acting experience, will be given June 19-July 26 meeting Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8-10 p.m.

Auditions will be held June 5, and an appointment is necessary. Times may be arranged by calling 452-6619. Tuition is $150.

Ms. Reed has also invited students who have worked with her this year in Training Wing classes to sign up for "Shakespeare Study," Mondays and Wednesdays from 8-10 p.m., June 18-July 25. At the end, there will be an evening of Shakespeare scenes.

FROM THEATRE GUILD

"What I Did Last Summer." The comedy by A.R. Gurney Jr. about a teenager who comes of age during World War II, the play called "What I Did Last Summer" will be the final offering of the season

Dance Auditions

Auditions for male and female dancers for Princeton Ballet II, the training wing of the Princeton Ballet Company, will be held Sunday, June 3 in the Ballet Society studios, 262 Alexander. Students from all dance studios in the area are invited to audition.

Dancers age 12 — by December 31, 1984 — through 14 may audition at 3 p.m. for the Junior Company. Dancers 15 and up are eligible to try out for the Senior Company at 1. Candidates for the Senior Company should take pointe shoes.

Dancers should not prepare special material because auditions will take the form of a ballet class, with both barre and center work.

Applications are available at the studio and registration should be made by June 1. Details may be obtained by calling 921-7758 between 10 and 5 week-days.

by the Trenton Theatre Guild. It will open Friday, May 25 and play again May 26, June 1-3, 8-9, all at 8 p.m., at the Mill Hill Playhouse, Front and Montgomery Streets, Trenton. There will be a holiday matinee Sunday, May 27 at 2.

Directed by Nick Procaccino, the play has a cast including Paul Liberti Carol MacBride, Betty Beltz, N. Charles Leeder, Vikki Mason and Cheryl Kurtz.

In the play — which had its premiere at the Circle Repertory Company in New York in February, 1983 — a 14-year-old believes he must fulfill many of the provider roles formerly filled by his father, who is away at war. Guild publicity describes the play as "sentimental and rollickingly funny."

Tickets, at $6 for evening performances and $5 for the matinee, may be reserved by calling 989-3038. "What I Did Last Summer" is funded in part by the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission.

TOMATO PATCH TIME

Teens! Sign Up. Junior and senior high-school students are invited to the 12th summer in the Tomato Patch — that's the series of workshops in the arts given each year by Mercer County Community College.

Theatre students will work in Kelsey Theatre on the MCCC campus and dance students in two new dance studios. Art students will use special studios for ceramics, silkscreening and graphic design, and musicians will rehearse in individual and group rehearsal rooms.

Younger students, those who will enter grades seven or eight in September, will start their workshops July 16 and conclude with a Week-end Festival of the Arts August 3-4.

Students entering grades nine through 12 in September, will start June 25, holding their Week-end Festival of the Arts July 13-14.

All students will choose a major field of interest in music, visual art, theatre or dance, and will take morning courses in that area. In the afternoon, they will take three courses in one or more additional subject areas.

Tomato Patch tuition is $140, plus a $10 non-refundable application fee. Detailed information is available by calling MCCC at 586-4800, ext. 581.

MUSIC VIDEO ON CABLE

By PHS Students. "Every Breath You Take," a music video presentation by Sebastian Hill, Ken d'Oronzio, Debbie Rosenfeld and Leonie Wortman of Princeton High School, will be shown on Home Link's channel 32 at 7 p.m. on Friday.

MUSIC

CONCERT PLANNED

By New Ensemble. The Chamber Soloists of Princeton, a new professional chamber vocal ensemble with accompanying instrumentalists, will present their first concert Tuesday at 8 at All Saints' Church.

Directed by Janice Hamer, the concert will be a pre-400th birthday celebration of the vocal chamber music of Heinrich Schuetz, on the theme "Schuetz in Italy." Singers will be Janet Stewart, Sandra West, Paula Mueller-Farris, Thomas Faracco and Robert Freedman.

Janice Hamer

Janice Hamer, founder of the ensemble, is a graduate of Harvard who earned a master's degree from Westminster Choir College and lived abroad for a number of years, conducting, composing and teaching in London and Tel Aviv. She is also the founder and director of the Princeton Jewish Choir. With a grant from the New Jersey State Council for the Arts, she is presently writing a work for the Chamber Soloists of Princeton.

Heinrich Schuetz dominated the German musical establishment of the 17th century, but drew his major inspiration from Italy, from studies in Venice with Gabrielli and Monteverdi. In this concert and subsequent ones, the Chamber Soloists will focus on one composer's work, not only through music but also through letters and other documents read aloud during the concert, to give the audience a glimpse of the composer's life and creative process.

The donation is $8, or $3 for students and senior citizens.

PREMIERE PLANNED

During Opera Festival. The June Opera Festival will present the world premiere of a scene from Peter Westergaard's "The Tempest," a new opera based on the Shakespeare play, on June 29.

The 20 minute scene will be offered as part of a program of excerpts from 19th and 20th-century pieces inspired by Shakespeare. The concert will begin at 8 in the Kirby Arts Center at The Lawrenceville School. Michael Pratt will conduct the festival orchestra, which is made up of members of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, and the festival singers.

Mr. Westergaard, a chairman of the Princeton University Music Department, is best known for his 1966 chamber opera, "Mr. & Mrs. Discobboles," based on the poem by Edward Lear, "The Tempest," on which he has been working for more than a decade, is his third opera.

In addition to Mr. Westergaard's new piece, the June 29 concert will include the Overture, Nocturne, and Scherzo from Mendelssohn's "A Midsummer Night's Dream"; duets from Berlioz's "Beatrice et Benedict," based on "Much Ado about Nothing"; the Ford-Falstaff duet from Nicolai's "Die lustige Weiber von Windsor"; and the final scene from Rossini's "Otello."

On Wednesday, June 20, at 8 the festival will offer an evening of Romantic vocal music featuring pianists Martin Butler and Mordechai Sheinkman with eight festival singers. They will perform Schumann's "Spanisches Liebeslieder" and "Spanisches Liederspiel," and Brahms's "Liebeslieder" and "Neue Liebeslieder" waltzes.

On Saturday, June 23, at 8 Michael Pratt will again conduct the festival orchestra and festival singers in a concert of orchestral music inspired by opera. The program includes the overture to "La scala di seta" by Rossini; two concert arias by Mozart, one for soprano and one for baritone; Wagner's "Siegfried-Idyll"; and Mozart's Symphony No. 33 in B-flat.

The June Opera Festival, which opens on June 15, was founded by Mr. Pratt and Mr. Westergaard to present, in English, the many operatic masterpieces conceived for intimate theaters. In addition to the three concerts, the two-week festival will feature a new production of Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro," to be given on June 15, 17, 22, 24, 27 and 30.

The festival, which is made possible in part by a founding grant from Merrill Lynch & Co. invites ticket holders to picnic on the grounds of The Lawrenceville School before all performances or during the 90-minute intermissions scheduled for June 17, 24, and 30. Patrons may order picnics with their tickets or bring their own. Beverages will be sold.

TEACHER TO RETIRE

From Westminster. Dorothy Kovacs, associate professor of music theory, will retire after 37 years as a member of the Westminster Choir College faculty.

Mrs. Kovacs was born in Wisconsin and completed a Bachelor of Music degree at the University of Wisconsin at Madison where she studied with John Finley Williamson, the founder of Westminster Choir College at a summer workshop. Williamson's magnetism and choral expertise sparked her interest in choral music and she came to Princeton for graduate work at Westminster. In 1947 she completed a Master of Musicology degree and joined the faculty as a teacher of theory.

In addition to teaching, Mrs. Kovacs plays the flute and chamber music. She directed a madrigal group at the Deerwood Adirondack Music Center, studied flute with Harry Moskovitz of the NBC Symphony Orchestra, and later with William Kincaid, for many years the first-chair flute with the Philadelphia Orchestra.

Mrs. Kovacs has been an active performer during her teaching years. She was a member of the Princeton Symphony and was a soloist with the Westminster Orchestra and the Collegium Musicum, which was conducted by her husband, Joseph Kovacs.

Mrs. Kovacs will continue to live in Princeton and to pursue her musical interests.

PREVIEW CONCERT SET

By PHS Choir, Orchestra. Princeton High School's orchestra and choir will present a Vienna Preview concert on Thursday, May 31, at 8 p.m. in the High School auditorium.

The joint concert will feature symphonic and choral repertoire that the two groups have prepared for an international competition, a European tour and a live, one-hour radio broadcast from Austria.

The school has received word that the combined orchestra-choir program has been chosen to be aired from the Thirteenth International Youth and Music Festival over the Austrian Radio Network. Each of the invited organizations submitted audition tapes for the broadcasts, and Princeton was one of only eight selected.

By July 11, their date of departure, the student musicians will have mastered four hours of demanding music. This includes orchestral works by Beethoven, Brahms, Strauss, Haydn, Vivaldi, Britten, Hovhanness and Cowell, conducted by Portia Sonnenfeld, and choral works by Brahms, Persichetti, Byrd, Bruckner, Offenbach and folk song arrangements under the direction of William R. Trego and Nancianne B. Parrella. The choir and orchestra will join to perform works by Handel and Haydn.

The public is invited to the concert. Donations will be gratefully accepted at the door, as the goal of $186,000 has not yet been reached. Those who have previously contributed to the Vienna '84 fund are invited to a concert Wednesday, May 30 which will feature a different tour repertoire.

Following the week in Vienna, students will tour parts of Germany, Austria and France, stopping in Salzburg, Mainz, Frankfurt and Strasbourg, and giving extra concerts along the way.

To raise funds for the trip, students are playing and singing in chamber groups for private parties, weddings and corporations. Families have pledged more than $100,000 and Vienna '84 has sponsored such fundraisers as a marathon dance, a series of nine yard sales, a chrysanthemum sale, a cabaret and a work month.

IT'S NEW TO US

FITNESS IS FUN

At Nautilus. Princetonians who are committed to good health and fitness, and those who would like to improve in this area, are fortunate indeed. The dynamic Anne Knudson-Fitzpatrick, president and founder of the Princeton Nautilus Fitness Center, has created a very special club which continues to expand its services while retaining its high standards of quality.

The fitness center, located in the Princeton Shopping Center, now boasts of 1026 full-time members and 500 more who have subscribed to the increasingly popular Exerdance program which takes place all day long in a terrific new studio. The upbeat atmosphere of Princeton Nautilus is attributable to Mrs. Knudson-Fitzpatrick's electric personality which inspires her most able staff of 43 young people, all of whom have excellent training and competence in their respective fields. The owner defers to her five managers when discussing the club's meteoric success, while they in turn agree that she inspires the positive spirit of the place.

"It all starts with her. She is an empowering leader, she helps us work together and that's what makes it fun to be here. It's fabulous," says Diane Strano, who heads the massage therapy department.

Lorrie Hones, general manager of Princeton Nautilus, who is in charge of all mailings, hiring of staff, and coordinating sales and promotions, is impressed by the quality of staff which they have been able to put together.

"The key thing is the core of people working here together. We are all good friends now. Interestingly, each of us has been in a service-oriented business before coming here, whether it be in rehabilitation work, food service, volunteer work in hospitals, whatever. It is a group of people committed to good health and well being," she explains. The lovely Ms. Hones is a good example of the breadth of talent which has found its way to Princeton Nautilus. A concert pianist, Ms. Hones also has a financial background. According to her boss, "She can do anything." Mrs. Knudson-Fitzpatrick feels the same way about the rest of her staff.

There is nothing autocratic about the way Princeton Nautilus is managed. Careful planning and organization make the place work smoothly, with the greatest emphasis on service and watchful training of its members. Each manager takes full charge of his or her department so that instead of large staff meetings every month the group gets together in the club and has a party just for fun!

"We have the best time together. We dance in the studio or just sit around and chat. It's really like a big family," says the hard-working owner, who began her business only four years ago. It has become a permanent fixture in Princeton by now with a diverse membership of people who are convinced about the value of making time three times a week to stay in shape.

"Once we get the commitment to good health from someone, we'll stay with them, even gently remind them to come back if they haven't been in regularly, because we do care. Positive encouragement is our philosophy, which is why our club is a bit different from others in the area," says Mrs. Knudson-Fitzpatrick, who does not believe in the "hard sell" but feels that the quality of the club speaks for itself. The fact that Brooke Shields, who is in "fabulous shape" according to the trainers, found Nautilus on her own attests to its reputation.

Good Value. Members seeking total fitness get their money's worth at Princeton Nautilus, beginning with a complete physical fitness analysis by Dr. Gunther Rooda. Mrs. Knudson-Fitzpatrick plans to fully computerize her club in the near future. Members will be analyzed with monthly updates of blood pressure, heart rate, percentage of body fat, as well as weight increase or reduction.

The fitness evaluation includes in-depth history, vital statistics, neurological and orthopedic tests, postural analysis, kinesiological evaluation (tests major muscle groups), and a sub-maximal stress test. The result is an individualized exercise regimen with follow-up examinations to evaluate aerobic and anaerobic progress.

Options for exercise abound at Princeton Nautilus which now has two complete circuits of exercise equipment (24 stations in all), four exercise bikes and five air-dyne ergometric exercisers, a nordic cross country ski track, weights, small trampolines, and exerdance classes. Members are given their own charts and taken through their program with trainers initially. Weights are gradually increased and professional assistance is always available while exercising. It is recommended that members come in three times a week.

The trainers keep a watchful eye on members to make sure they do the exercise correctly. Paul Romaine is in charge of the exercise program, purchasing the latest machines, and teaching the trainers how to use them properly. He recently bought a Nautilus lower back machine which will be the focus of a new program at Princeton Nautilus. The machine features a hyper-extension apparatus, a high chair for the lower abdominals while protecting the back, and an inversion orthopod which aids spinal decompression.
